Brains, Brawn and Beauty

"Miss Australia," otherwise Miss Beryl Mills of Sydney, Australia, en route through Chicago to take part in the annual beauty pageant at Atlantic City. In Australia, according to Claude McKay, editor of the Syney Guardian, who is a member of Miss Mills' party, "brains, brawn and beauty" are considered in picking a representative girl, and it's NO easy matter to win a beauty contest there. Miss Mills already has violated the etiquette of bathing beauties by indulging in swims whenever possible.

Three Violent Deaths Reported In Mercer County

Truck, Mine Car And Shotgun Figure As The Instruments Of Death In Tragedies

ONE ACCIDENT NEAR COUNTY LINE

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 3.—Three sudden and tragic deaths in Mercer county were investigated at a triple inquest held here by Coroner W. J. Grath today.

The first case was that of Harold C. Heglin, aged 17, who was killed in No. 2 coal mine near the Mercer-Lawrence county line late yesterday. Heglin was struck by a car on a slope in the mine and instantly killed. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Heglin of Springfield township. He is survived by his parents, and six brothers and sisters.

Killed by Truck

The second case was that of George King, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. King of Fredonia, who died last night from injuries received when he was run over by his father's truck. He had been riding on the truck and when it

HUNTING FOR TWO FLYERS

Allegheny Mountains Are Being Searched For Trace Of Missing Men

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3. — Walter Beech, captain of the "Travelair" team scheduled to compete at the national air races here beginning tomorrow, was scouring the Allegheny Mountains today for traces of Lloyd Spearman and George Weis, who left Pittsburgh Wednesday to fly here for the air derby.

The two men, each in a single-seat plane, should have arrived at the Models Farm Flying Field early yesterday, race officials said. Hope was expressed by Beech that the men are safe, though lost.

"The Alleghenies are one of the hardest stretches of country for air pilots," he said, "especially be'ween Pittsburgh and Ph.ade'phia."

Beech asked, before he took off to seek the lost fliers, that two planes be kept in readiness here in case the men were found injured. Several other fliers were forced to make landings because of rough weather yesterday. However, they telephoned to race officials here that they were safe.

Washington, Pa., Man Surrenders To Authorities

William Borchers Held In $65,000 Bail As Result Of Death And Suicide

GIRL DIES AFTER ILLEGAL OPERATION

Doctor Arrested In Case Ends Own Life In Cell Of Jail

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 3. — William Borchers, 26, surrendered to county authorities here today and was held in $65,000 bail on charges of being an accessory to abortion and homicide in connection with the death of Margaret Foley, 20, pretty society girl. Dr. Roger S. Parry, prominent local physician, committed suicide in his cell here after his arrest in connection with the case.

Borchers appeared before Alderman J. S. Carmichael with Richard G. Miller, his attorney, and county officials, and waived preliminary hearing. Taken before Judge James Brownson, Borchers was ordered held in $65,000 bail.

To Furnish Bail

Relatives of Borchers, prominent in oil circles here, were expected to furnish bail for him.

Funeral services for Miss Foley, whose death followed an alleged illegal operation, will be held tomorrow at the church of the Immaculate Conception, with burial in the church cemetery.

The body of Dr. Parry was to be returned to Waynesburg, his former home, late today.

Borchers, son of W. F. Borchers, widely known oil operator, named in the case as a friend of Dr. Parry and Miss Foley, and wanted for questioning in connection with the death of the latter following an alleged illegal operation, was on tour with an orchestra for which he is manager when the death of Miss Foley and its sequel, Dr. Parry's arrest and suicide, occurred.

Excitement Prevails

Washington was agog with excitement today. With two members of its most exclusive social set dead, and arrest of a third, details of the double tragedy were being brought to light.

Robert E. Burnside, Dr. Parry's attorney, told of the physician's last words before he was found dead in his cell, "I am innocent of this awful charge," 'Dr. Parry was quoted as saying.

"The illegal operation was performed in Pittsburgh, and I merely consented to treat the girl in an effort to restore her to health."

The widow and a small daughter survive the physician.

Miss Foley's body was found at Mrs. Medrella's' home after the lat-

VOTERS DELAY REGISTERING

Few Go To Polls To Register On Thursday In New Castle

Registration on the first day provided for that purpose, September 2, was woefully light, according to the reports of various registrars in the city. Few people availed themselves of the opportunity, a general apathy seeming to grip the entire voting population.

Two more days are provided for registration, the second on September 14, and the third and last on October 2. Voters failing to register on these dates will be denied the privilege of voting on Novem ber 2.

New Castle has approximately 15,000 votes if every one eligible, would register. Usually the registration falls far below this figure, and unless more interest is shown in the second and third voting days, the figure this year will fall below even that of other years.

Plan Steps To Secure State Convention For New Castle In 1927

The first executive committee meeting of this fiscal year of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association was held at the parlor of the Y. W. C. A. Thursday evening at 7:30.

The chief matter of business was a discussion of the coming state convention to be held at Reading, Oct. 13, 14 and 15, and plans for the publicity to be given the securing of the 1927 state convention for New Castle.

To Send Large Delegation

In order to work up a good delegation for the Reading convention, the following committee was appointed to arrange for a tour of the county so that every Sabbath School would be visited in the interest of the convention. The committee appointed was, H. L. Marvin, Miss Cassie Brothers, C. A. Martin, Mrs. J. L. Stratton, Rev. H. L. Johnson, the county president, Robt. M. Strickler, Jr., and the county secretary, Mrs. Wm. J. Marshall.

It was pointed out, that those planning to attend the Sesqui-Centennial at Philadelphia from this county could first attend the State Convention and then go on to Philadelphia which is only a distance of about sixty miles.

To Get Convention

In regard to plans for bringing the State Convention to New Castle next year, the president stated that the Chamber of Commerce of New Castle was furnishing a descriptive New Castle booklet, 2,500 copies of which will go to Reading and be placed on every seat at the opening general session of the convention. Letters of invitation will also be secured from the various civic or-

BANDIT WOUNDS POLICE OFFICER

Billiard Hall Proprietor Is Shot Dead By Bandit During Robbery

(International News Service)

GARY, Ind., Sept. 3. — A bandit and his victim are dead, and a police officer is fighting valiantly for his life in a hospital here today following a fierce five-minute battle between crime and the law.

Harry Bolds, a lake seaman, is the dead highwayman. He was killed in a revolver duel with police officer Michael Flynn, who himself received wounds that may prove fatal.

The bandit had entered the billiard hall operated by Chester Gostenborder. When Gostenborder was slow in opening the safe, Bolds shot him dead. He was backing out of the hall when met by Officer Flynn. The duel followed in which Bolds was killed and Flynn wounded.

A few minutes before he killed Gostenborder, Bolds held up the Broadway Hotel and took $37 from T. O. Wells, night clerk.

Mysterious Death In 1923 Of Nurse For Carpender Being Investigated

DISCOVER GIRL'S BODY IN STREAM

Henry Stevens Seeks Vindication By Bringing Out Authentic Witnesses

(International News Service)

SOMERVILLE N. J. Sept. 3.—A possibility that the mysterious death of Miss Agnes Brezeale, a student nurse in 1923, might have some connection with the murders of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills was being run down by investigators today.

Miss Brezeale whose death was described to suicide at the time was nurse for Henry B. Carpender while the latter was a patient in the Middlesex county hospital during the sessions of the Somerset county grand jury which refused to indict Mrs. Frances S. Hall, Carpender's cousin.

Both Mrs. Hall and Carpender, together with her brother "Willie" Stevens are now held for the murders.

The girl's body was discovered in the shallow water of a creek a

DR. SNAPE IS VISITOR HERE

Returning From Vacation—Plays Golf With John D. Rockefeller, 87

Dr. John R. Snape, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, but now pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church of Cleveland, Ohio, was in New Castle today for a short time, on his way back from an extended vacation in the East with Mrs. Snape.

At the present time, the Euclid Avenue church in Cleveland is engaged in a building project which they expect to finish by January 1, 1927. The total cost of the new building is $1,400,000.00 and when Dr. Snape assumed charge on January 1, of this year, there was a debt of $700,000.00 on the edifice.

Large Donations By Rockefeller

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., is a member of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, although living in Tarrytown, N. Y., at the present time. Recently he announced that he would give $100,000.00 to the new church in his own name, $100,000.00 in memory of his wife, and that his son would put in $50,000.00. In addition, the oil magnate said that he would give another $100,000.00 providing the people of the church raised $350,000.00. One of the first duties of Dr. Snape upon his return to Cleveland, O., will be to raise the $350,000.00 and of this he feels confident.

While in Tarrytown, N. Y., Rev. Snape had the pleasure of playing nine holes of golf with Mr. Rockefeller. Although 87 years of age, Mr. Rockefeller played the nine holes in 50.

NEW PASTOR COMES SOON

Dr. Chas. B. Wingard Here On Thursday Making Arrangements

DR. CHAS. B. WINGARD.

Dr. Chas B. Wingard wife and daughter of Martins Ferry O. were visitors in New Castle on Thursday afternoon enroute from Chautaqua Lake to the Ohio city.

Dr. Wingard has accepted a call to become pastor of the Central Presbyterian church in this city, taking up his work here on September 19. The visit yesterday was made with a view to having some preparation made at the church parsonage on Park avenue prior to removing to this city. The new pastor and his family will come to this city during the next week or ten days to reside.

At the meeting of the Shenango Presbytery on September 14 the call will be presented, and arrangements be made for the formal installation services at the Central Presbyterian church.

Dr. Wingard has been most successful in his pastorate at Martins Ferry and in Pittsburgh, previously and Central members feel they are fortunate in securing such a capable and able minister to assume charge of the congregation at the outset of the winter's work.

Massillon Man Is Arrested On Murder Charge

Ben Rudner Taken Into Custody Today In Mellet Assassination

GRAND JURY WILL INDICT THREE MEN

Last Of 86 Witnesses Is Heard By Grand Jury At Canton

By PAUL E. BROKAW
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CANTON, O., Sept. 3.—Ben Rudner, Massillon, O., hardware merchant, today was arrested on a first degree murder charge in connection with the seven-weeks-old Don R. Mellett assassination.

The former bootlegger and inmate of Atlanta penitentiary was taken into custody in Massillon, O., seven miles from here, where he operates a retail hardware business.

County authorities made the arrest upon the request of County Prosecutor C. B. McClintock.

Brought to Canton

Rudner was to be brought to Canton immediately.

It was the second arrest in the long-drawn-out murder inquiry. Louis Mazer, friend of Rudner's, was arrested about three weeks ago in Cleveland on a first degree murder charge. Mazer is also charged with violation of the national prohibition act.

Patrick E. McDermott, alleged hired triggerman and "key witness" for whom a nation-wide search has been instigated, is still at large.

To Indict Three

It has been semi-officially announced that the grand jury today will indict three men, jointly, for first degree murder.

The porch swing sighs as it surveys the cool and chilly nights, the porch swing feels the weather man is taking all his rights. For soon it will be bundled up and promptly stored away, and for six months the porch swing will not see the light of day. For months its hung out on the porch, in daytime idle, quite, but what a lot of tales it heard told on a summer night. Those soft sweet nothings whispered in a maiden's shell pink ear, when Pa and Ma were gone to bed, and there was none to hear. Those whispered words at midnight's hour, and oftimes a caress, and now and then the porch swing heard the maiden whisper yes. But soon that sport will be inside, the porch swing will be through, and davenports will take its place, the weather's sixty two.

Arrest Soldier For Attack On New Castle Girl

Sixteen-Year-Old Girl, Visiting In Virginia, Tells Police Of Attack

HEARING IN CASE ON SEPTEMBER 7

Soldier Arrested Yesterday On Warrant Charging Criminal Assault

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Weeping convulsively, her body scratched and her clothing torn, Lillian Davis, 16-year-old girl of New Castle, Pa., staggered into the house of her sister, Mrs. Nellie Davis, Virginia Highlands, Va., Tuesday night and told Mrs. Davis that she had been criminally assaulted by a soldier in a woods near the Davis home.

Louis Whitaker, a private in the Sixteenth field artillery regiment at Fort Myer, a friend of the Davis girl since she came to visit her sister in Arlington county, was arrested at Mrs. Davis' home yesterday when he came to visit Lillian. He is held without bail in the Arlington county, Va., jail, charged with the assault. Conviction on the charge lodged against him permits the death penalty.

Mrs. Davis told police she was unable to get a coherent story from Lillian, Tuesday night. The girl lay awake all night, she said, sobbing most of the time. Yesterday morning the girl described in greater detail the alleged assault, accused Whittaker, and said he had promised to call for her late in the afternoon.

Mrs. Davis got in touch with the police, a warrant was sworn out against Whittaker, and Pauline A. Smith, woman deputy sheriff, and Raymond Clark, policeman, were at Mrs. Davis' home when Whittaker arrived. He was placed under arrest and taken to jail immediately. A hearing was set for September 7 to give Whittaker a chance to procure counsel.

The girl's story, according to her sister, was that she took a walk with Whittaker Tuesday afternoon, as she had done a number of times before. When they approached a clump of woods near the old Hilltop clubhouse, off the Mount Vernon boulevard, the girl said the assault took place while she was struggling to free herself.

The girl's father is dead. She came to visit Mrs. Davis for the summer after close of school in New Castle last June.

Whittaker is serving his second enlistment in the army. He joined the service in December, 1921, and re-enlisted in 1924. He was at one time an acting sergeant, but was reduced to the rank of a private for infraction of army rules.

Address of Lillian Davis in New Castle is not given.

ter notified Deputy Coroner T. C. Bebout that the body had lain all night in her home while she, frightened because Dr. Parry did not return with an undertaker, as she had believed he was to have done, went to the home of a neighbor for the night.

To Give Self Up

Dr. Parry was arrested after officials questioned Mrs. Medrella, and was taken to the police station, where he was to have been held until Borchers could be located for questioning.

Borchers, police said today, called the police station over long distance telephone and assured them that he was en route to Washington to give himself up.

Police planned to question him on charges that he had visited the Foley girl with Dr. Parry on several occasions.

Relatives of Dr. Parry today were notified of his death. His mother, at Waynesburg, Pa., a brother, Burdette Parry, of Bristoria, Pa., and three sisters, Mrs. Frank Feals of Tennessee, and Mrs. Albert Scott and Mrs. Jessica Lehman of West Virginia, were told of his suicide.

The program includes the following; horseshoe contest, 100-yard dash for boys 12 to 15 years of age, 50-yard dash for girls 12-15 years of age, 50-yard dash for fat men, 190 pounds and over; 100-yard dash for card men, ball-throwing contest for ladies, sack race for boys up to 15 years of age, watermelon-eating contest for boys up to 15 years of age; nail-driving contest for ladies, horseshoe pitching contest for card men, peanut race for girls up to 18 years.

There will, of course, be the usual opportunity of dancing and taking in the amusements of the park, and present indications are that a record crowd will be in attendance, providing the weather conditions are good.

In Charge of Celebration

Featuring the evening will be the five hundred dollar display of fireworks, which will conclude the day's program. This display will be one of the best seen in years at the park.

Those in active charge of the celebration are as follows: General chairman, T. J. McMichael; secretary and treasurer, R. C. Jones; members of the general committee, N. C. Patton, Alvin Glitch, Victor Gassey, Hugh Spence, Apollo Smith, James Casey, John McKibben, E. A. Erbs, H. P. Callihan, James P. Merrilees, Lew McKnight, John Swan, Robert Hutchison and Willis Campbell.

There will be a meeting of the committee at nine a. m. on Monday at which time the official Labor Day badges will be distributed.

The local organization of the Electrical Workers will have a special committee to meet and entertain President Noonan while he is in the city.

HOLD YOUTH IN AUTO THEFT

Police Bring Youth Back From Youngstown With Stolen Car

Rudolph Nemcovsky, aged 19, who claims Star City, W. Va., as his home, is now in the county jail charged with the theft of the automobile of H. A. Moore of the Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday evening from the vicinity of the Y. M. C. A.

He was found asleep in the Moore car on the outskirts of Youngstown Thursday by officers of that city and when he was unable to produce evidence of ownership he was arrested and the authorities here notified.

Officers John Moore and M. J. Young went to Youngstown last night and brought him back and placed him in the city jail until this morning. This morning Nemcovsky was taken before Alderman O. H. P. Green where an information made by Chief of Police Henry Dysart charges him with the theft of the Moore car between 9 and 11 p. m. Wednesday night.

When the information was read to him Nemcovsky entered a plea of guilty and was held for the September term of court. He was placed in the county jail pending the completion of the case.

Nemcovsky claims he arrived here some time Wednesday from Pittsburgh in company with another man. In the evening he took the car, he claims and went for a ride to Youngstown intending to return the car later. He was picked up there while sleeping in the car. His companion, he asserts, made his escape while the officers were questioning him.

The car was run only 20 miles and was in good shape.

RAILROADER DIES FROM INJURIES

Simon J. Molk Succumbs To Injuries In Beaver Falls Hospital

Simon J. Molk, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie brakeman, who was struck by a train at West Ellwood Junction, died last night in the Providence hospital at Beaver Falls. His left leg was almost severed and he sustained other injuries.

He had finished his run and was making his way to New Castle when the accident occurred. A sad feature of the case was that he was returning to his home in Buffalo to be with his wife on her birthday. Mrs. Molk who was notified of the accident, arrived at the hospital too late to see her husband alive.

Molk is survived by his wife and two children.

Hearing On Charge Of Throwing Acid

Mary Crawford, colored, had a hearing before Alderman Mantz last night on a charge of having thrown acid on Thomas Lee, colored. After hearing the stories of the two, the alderman adjourned the case until the premises from which the acid was thrown can be inspected by himself and the attorneys. Lee said that he was going to his garage across the alley from Mrs. Crawford, when the acid was thrown on him. It burned the side of his face and ruined his clothing. Mrs. Crawford denies that she threw the acid. Attorney Robert White represented Lee and Edwin K. Logan, Mrs. Crawford.

month after she disappeared. The discovery followed a telephone call to the New Brunswick police by a man who said a girl's body was lying in the water. This man's identity was never learned.

Seek Possible Link.

Inspector John Underwood, chief of the detectives, characterized any possible link between the suicide and the murders as "bunk." He said, that the affair would be investigated, due to the coincidence of Miss Brezeale having nursed Carpender at the time of the previous investigation.

Meanwhile, the authorities continued their efforts to batter down the alibi of Henry Stevens, another brother of Mrs. Hall who was drawn into the case again a few days ago.

Stevens claims to have been fishing 50 miles away from New Brunswick on the night the murders were committed. Today a group of women from his home town, Lavallette, N. J., joined the corps of 23 men witnesses who have declared themselves ready to swear to the authenticity of Stevens' alibi.

Upon the outcome of the questioning of seven witnesses at Toms River today by Prosecutor Simpson depends the validity of Henry Stevens' alibi in the eyes of the prosecution, it was said. A squad of deputy sheriffs have been assigned to watch the Stevens home.

TRAFFIC COP HAS GREETING

Unusual Treatment Accorded Local Motorist At Cumberland, Md.

There are different ways of treating the motorists, otherwise known as tourists, who happen to pass through a community enroute to some other section of the country, who, naturally, become a source of revenue in many instances, as they travel about the country.

Indications are that, generally speaking, they are considered a benefit to any district and are treated accordingly, when it comes to the matter of showing them courtesy.

About the most pleasing demonstration of appreciation of what the tourist really means to a community is that reported by Harry Carlson of this city and well known member of the composing room force of The News, on a recent visit in Cumberland, Md.

On his arrival there, a traffic officer was one of the first persons with whom he came in contact. His experience in other communities led him to believe that possibly he was about to receive some instructions as to what he could not do.

Instead the officer handed him a neatly printed card on which was conveyed to him the greeting and courtesy extended him by that city. The words on the card will best express just what that community believes in doing for the tourist and what could be used with good results in every other city of the country.

They read as follows: "Cumberland Maryland." We are glad you came this way. We greet you. Our parking laws do not apply to tourists. Park where you can and as long as you want. We request that you don't park near fire hydrants and don't speed through our streets. If any one in our city overcharges you, please report to the authorities. "We want you to come again."

From the Elementary group, Miss Grace Reed, Ewing Park, Mrs. Albert Brenner of Shenango township.

Ball to National Convention

To represent the Lawrence county schools at the national convention in Dallas, Texas, in February, Charles F. Ball, assistant county superintendent was chosen, with H. J. Colton of Bessemer as alternate.

Officers of the Lawrence county chapter of the State Educational association were elected as follows, President, C. B. Book of Shenango township; secretary, Miss Grace Reed of Ewing Park.

The speakers of this morning's session were Dr. J. Linwood Eisenberg, principal of Slippery Rock State Normal school and Dr. E. L. Craik, president of Juniata college, Huntingdon, Pa. Dr. Eisenberg spoke on the "Spirit of the School" and Dr. Craik on "The Days That Lie Ahead". W. H. Helle, president of the Directors' association also spoke on the correlation of the directors to the work of the teachers.

A patriotism period was held in which Agnes McClelland of West Pittsburgh was heard in a recitation and Mrs. Gula Hess sang, with Miss Allurah Leslie at the piano. Fred Warner blew a number of calls on the bugle.

The institute was a success, and County Superintendent John C. Syling and his associates are to be congratulated. Inspired by the speakers of the institute, the teachers are now ready to assume their duties in the many schools in Lawrence county outside the city of New Castle.

Valentino's Body Passes Through Cleveland, Ohio

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 3.—Bearing the body of Rudolph Valentino, the Lake Shore Limited arrived here at 8:20 this morning and departed fifteen minutes later for Chicago.

A crowd of several hundred persons was gathered at the Union station and a mad but unsuccessful scramble ensued for a glimpse of the casket containing the remains of the screen idol, when the train arrived.

MASSILLON MAN IS ARRESTED ON MURDER CHARGE

testify in the startling murder case completed their presentation of evidence this morning.

The grand jury was then reported to have gone into immediate deliberation on the expected indictment.

Their report was predicted to come some time this morning or early this afternoon.

ADD MASSILLON MAN

Rudner, the son of a wealthy Canton junk dealer, was first brought under suspicion by the testimony of Steve Kascholk, Nanty Glo, Pennsylvania miner, and informer, and star witness in the circumstantial case that has been brought against the two alleged murders.

Kascholk has testified and made sworn affidavits, now a matter of record, that he went to Massillon with McDermott where they were "hired to slug an editor."

Kascholk in all of his statements declared that Rudner hired them.

Later in the alleged plot, Kascholk refused to carry out his part and left Canton for Cleveland.

The evidence in the possession of investigators shows that McDermott motored to Massillon about ten days after the murder and stopped near the Rudner place of business.

According to testimony offered by Peggy Cavanaugh, Cleveland waitress, who accompanied him on the trip, McDermott returned to the automobile with a large roll of bills.

That was two days before the elusive McDermott was last seen.

Miss Cavanaugh is now being held as a material witness in the county jail here under $10,000 bond. Many other material witnesses are being closely guarded to prevent attempts of intimidation.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday, September 4, at 2:30 p. m., from her late home in charge of Rev. A. J. Randles. Burial will be made in Mahoning cemetery.

SMALL FIRE IN MERCER PLANT

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 3.—Firemen were called to the Reznor Manufacturing company plant last night by a small fire. No serious damage was done. The fire developed in a motor.

RACE FOR LIFE

Miss Dottie Long, daughter of George W. Long, was sick for a long time and her parents, who reside on Route No. 3, were told by doctors in the neighborhood that they could do nothing more for her. Being advised to take the child for treatment, her loving father put the child in his car and drove to the Free Minstrel Show, B. & O. Grounds, South Mill street, this city, to see if they could promise any relief.

He did so and Mr. Ross Dyar, the health evangelist in charge of the demonstration, gave little Dottie a free dose of medicine that had been so successful in relieving the sufferings of thousands of other people all over the country.

The poor weak little one then lay down on the seat of the car, sick and miserable.

Twenty minutes later the child complained of a peculiar sensation, and before she could be removed from the car had passed a horrible and repulsive monster tape worm—the cause of all the trouble.

Mr. Long was too excited and delighted to talk much, his one thought being to get little Dottie home and inform her anxious mother of their good fortune. He did say, however, that "I certainly thank Heaven for sending this great medicine within my reach, for I had fear of her life if that terrible parasite had been permitted to live inside her body and sap away her vitality much longer."

Commenting upon it afterwards the health evangelist said: "Now you see why it is we offer $1,000 for any tape worm that we fail to remove. We know what our medicine will do, even when the doctors and all other medicines have failed. We have seen it work dozens, yes hundreds of times when people had given up all hope of getting well, many of them refusing to believe they had a tape worm. Not only that, we have seen it bring back health and strength in thousands of cases—where there was no tape worm, but merely lowered vitality and general weakness that caused the whole system to run down and produce distressing symptoms that led to the belief that there was some serious trouble.

"My company has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to discover herbal ingredients that would combine into the best possible preparation for the stomach, liver and kidney disorders, relief of such common complaints as had blood, constipation, rheumatism and child bedwetting, and we have gloriously succeeded as you have seen demonstrated here numerous times."

World's Tonic is sold at Smith's Drug Store, South Mill street; also Paisley's, corner of Washington St. and Croton avenue and at all good drug stores at only $1.00 a bottle. Also is demonstrated at the Big Free Minstrel Show every night at the B. & O. Grounds, South Mill St.

McKINNEY CLASS HAS ANNUAL CORN ROAST

Members, their wives, families and friends to the number of 120 attended the annual corn roast of the McKinney class of the First Presbyterian Sunday school at the church Thursday evening, September 2. At 6:30 a dinner of corn, weiners, sandwiches and the seasonable garnishment for such a spread was served in the dining room.

After dinner a program in charge of retiring President L. B. Round and lasting about an hour, consisting of singing and several impromptu speeches, was given.

The class did some of its voluminous chorus singing. Two added features of the singing was a song by the kitchen committee and also one by Mr. McKinney, John C. Offutt, Joe Boyd, H. O. Rugh, Ed McGoun, J. C. Glenn, H. A. J. Brown and several other of the older members of the class. Miss Foster sang several gospel songs, accompanied on the harp by Miss Holquist. A. J. Koonce, who is leaving soon for Chicago to enter the Moody Bible institute, spoke briefly and Rev. McClure told a story to close the festivities.

The new president, Harry L. Elder, and new vice president, William Porter, were introduced and took active charge of the class affairs for the ensuing year.

Class To Meet

Mrs. E. N. Baer's Sunday school class of the First Methodist Bible school will meet Tuesday evening, September 7 to 8 o'clock instead of Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. Ernest Greiner of 37 Winter avenue.

HER HONOR THE GOVERNOR SCORES TREMENDOUS HIT

Seldom has a movie play scored such a tremendous hit as "Her Honor the Governor" which opened at the Penn theatre on Thursday night for a three day showing. Pauline Frederick probably the greatest emotional actress in America playing the leading role and she is supported by a cast that measures up well with Miss Frederick.

While not based on the hectic life of the first Woman Governor of Texas, there is much in "Her Honor the Governor" that is similar in theme to the politics in that state. Politically in aspect but very strong in theme and action "Her Honor the Governor" is one of those plays that have a wonderful appeal to everyone. It will show for two more days.

Neal Burns in "Mister Wife" provides a good laugh for everyone. This comedy is of the unusual type and adds a wholesome touch to the program.

Few Women

Still use old hygienic methods. Charming freshness, true protection, this new way ... discards like tissue

TO help women meet every day unhandicapped is the object of a new hygiene. A way that ends the hazards of the old-time "sanitary pad," that ends the embarrassment of disposal.

Eight in 10 better-class women today employ "KOTEX."

Wear lightest gowns and frocks without a second thought, any day, anywhere.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

Deodorizes. Ends ALL fear of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying, "KOTEX." No embarrassment.

In fairness to yourself, try this new way. Costs only a few cents. Twelve in a package.

KOTEX

No laundry—discard like tissue

ENTERING HIGH SCHOOL

THOUSANDS of young men and young women (they aren't boys and girls after they get out of the grades) are entering high school this year, and if they are the right kind of young people they will get the right kind of a thrill from this experience.

Entering high school is an epochal event in the life of anyone who is blessed with the opportunity. Most students never get beyond the graduation period in the high schools. After that they either go to work or loaf or do a little of each.

A great many young people who enter high school never graduate, and that is a very sad mistake for them to make, and a still graver mistake on the part of the parents, providing the latter deliberately give their consent to a child leaving high school without graduating, when it is not necessary.

The first day in high school marks the beginning of an important event in the life of the young man or young woman who enjoys the privilege of acquiring this important education.

There will come a time in the history of this country (and it is approaching rapidly nowadays), when a young person without a high school diploma is going to find things pretty hard in this life. For education is the stepping stone to success and independence and without it all is slavish labor and interminable discouragement. Those who entered upon high school life soon are to be congratulated. They are marching over a royal road and paving their own life's highway so that progress will be sure.

THE NEW STYLES

THAT the United States as a whole has been enjoying better than average good health this summer has been observed in lay and medical circles.

It has been popularly believed that the summer has been unusually healthy because it has been unusually cool, with the exception of short-lived spells of torridity, but Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the United States public health service, attributes the country's general good health to the fact that the changes in temperature have been less sudden than in other years. He attributes many summer ills to nature's plunging man without notice from a cool draught into the heat of a steam bath and then back again into the chill of the draught.

The nation's chief health officer has also observed with personal satisfaction that the public takes better care of its health than formerly by exercising care and common sense in matters of diet, physical exertion and apparel.

Even if a few women still smother themselves with summer furs, they are not chargeable with otherwise wearing too many clothes. More and more are fashion and common sense going hand in hand during the hot weather period, even among men. There is a suspicion that milady's complete summer costume can be weighed in apothecaries' scales. And does not conventional man descard his vest and "heavies" and don linens, summer worsteds and soft collars when the sun stands high?

GO TO WORK

GO TO work! Knowledge does not come from impressive books, but from the principle of working out these theoretical truths in actual practice.

The world is overpopulated with people who work harder killing time than they would have to work if they used time intelligently. The efforts of such people are reminiscent of the old horse once used in the brickyards to mill the clay. Round and round the circle he went, getting nowhere. A merry-go-round is a rollicking sport for children, but when adults do a lot of traveling they like to feel that they have been somewhere.

Do not wait for something to turn up and happen. Make things happen. The precious gifts of the gods is initiative—the ability to start something and keep it going. In the business world this gift commands the highest wage. In all of life the initiator of new outlets for the bubbling spirit of man is a benefactor.

Everywhere today the call is for the man who can make himself busy in new ways to reach old ends. The burden of civilzation is he who means well, but means well feebly.

We can't have universal peace and cigar ashes on rugs.

Nobody can see a man who is all wrapped up in himself.

It disappoints a man to return from his vacation and find that his long rest has done his creditors no good.

The distinction is this: A realist believes what he sees. A visionary is convinced he will eventually see what he believes.

There are fewer self-made men now than formerly, observes an educator. Also, they've stopped putting boot-straps on boots.

Maybe it's convention, but is there any particular reason why promoters feel obliged to hold bathing beauty contests at beaches?

It is observed by a speaker that the age seldom sees the man with a patch on his trousers. Maybe it is because we no longer have the variety of colors that never matched.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:30. Sun rises tomorrow 5:30.

Big department stores in large cities have found it necessary for some reason or other to make patrons to park their umbrellas when they enter the stores. We do not know the reason but it must be a good one and a saving on the store.

A college president and one of the biggest ever known can die and be buried in this country and not one in a thousand will even know who he is, while a movie star will die and an ocean of tears and mourning will be the result. Humans are queer animals.

Yesterday C. R. Baldwin brought us a basket of peaches that were about as fine as peaches usually grow. Mr. Baldwin is associated with J. F. Bovard in a new fruit growing venture on the Harlansburg road near McCaslin. This year they will harvest about one thousand bushels of fine peaches. The variety given us was the "Carman". Extensive apple and grape plantings are also coming along, but not yet bearing. Bovard & Baldwin also have a hardware store on East Washington street. We enjoyed the peaches immensely and are also glad to note the enterprise of these men in the fruit raising game. California has nothing on Lawrence county in the fruit raising—also in many other things.

Some ladies think that woman's suffrage was brought about just as an excuse for finding out the ages of women.

We have made a visit to the Sesqui Centennial at Philadelphia and after looking it over carefully, have come to the conclusion that it is a great show and well worth visiting. It is about finished and in good shape. What we admired about it is the human effort involved in its wonderful construction. Pennsylvanians should support this show in every way. It means nothing to us personally, but it means a lot to Pennsylvania. The foreign nations and other states having exhibits, made at great expense have something coming to them and it is the duty of the people to show their appreciation by at least attending the great show. The navy yard is right next to the exposition ground and the war ships and subs there are alone worth a visit to Philadelphia, that is if you are an American. Be sure and go if you possibly can and take all the little folks along. It is a great educational feature.

We have reached the conclusion after seeing thousands of ladies in bathing suits that every man should see his future wife in a bathing suit before he marries her. There are no restrictions on bathing suits any more and there is very little cloth in any of them either.

In the old days the girls used to have what they called a "Hope Chest." Some of them call it a "Struggle Chest" now.

As one travels over the wonderful highways of the great state of Pennsylvania and you cross it three ways without going over a foot of earth road on every hand the eye is greeted with signs reading "Tea Room." These places are all a delusion and a snare and are not what one would think a tea room should be. The roadside eating factory has a long way to go before it will be popular with anything but the flies.

It was our pleasure during the past ten days to stop in quite a few hotels of the type New Castle is building just now. We are more convinced than ever that the new hotel here is going to make a new era in this city and it is going to be a great boon. A good hotel is a great civic center. What is in other cities surely can be in grand old New Castle. And by the way we think better of New Castle than we ever did if such a thing is possible.

Atlantic City is still a popular place. Last week one high class hotel that had rooms got $14 a day for a room and other hotels of less pretentions got $26 per day for one room and board. When one man steps away from the desk refusing to pay the price three or four rush up and offer to pay more. There is going to be a crash some day.

A man reaches the prime of life at 27 years. But even then his hearing is on the down grade as that sense is more acute at 7 or 8 years. Such is the belief of Karl Pearson distinguished scientist. A few years ago Dr. Eugene Lyman Fiske expressed his opinion that our bodies begin wearing out at the age of 12. So authorities disagree. But the average man undoubtedly reaches the pinnacle of his physical powers before he is 30. Thereafter he slowly deteriorates. His health may be good. But the endurance of youth is on the wane. Old age really begins in the cradle.

Goethe said the best way to Germanize territory taken from Poland was to send German plays and players to inspire respect for the German idea and language.

What would Goethe think of these, chosen from titles of plays now advertised in New York?

"Liars," "Loose Ankles," "One Man's Woman," "Cradle Snatchers," "Laff That Off," "If I Was Rich," 'Sex," "She Couldn't Say No," "The Adorable Liar."

Another title, "My Country," strikes your eye, and your mind turns to patriotism. Then you read "it is the nation's laugh hit."

They say Euripides' "Bacchue" was played in Athens for 500 years. It wouldn't play twice in New York unless George Cohan rewrote it, and Schubert or Ziegfeld organized such a chorus of Bacchue as Dionysus never dreamed of.

Harry K. Thaw, who killed Stanford White, and has since attracted attention, writes an autoblography that "cost him $25,000," a large price.

Mr. Thaw says his lawyer was a traitor, but doesn't name the lawyer. He had several. He says the lawyer was worse than Stanford White. And the night after he killed White he prayed that the latter might go to heaven. It would be interesting to know what memoranda the angel Gabriel wrote on the margin of that prayer.

On one farm in the new South African diamond fields prospectors found $180,000 worth of diamonds.

A community of a few hundred, almost overnight, grows into a crowd of 50,000. Thousands pour in, on foot, some in bathing suits, to make running easier.

A few, perhaps a dozen, will find diamonds and get rich. Half a dozen may keep the money and leave it to spoil their children. The thousands will complain that they had no luck.

And in starting for the diamond fields they left behind them open libraries, opportunities without limit, and the certainty of independence, if they cared to work for it, without the hardship of a "diamond rush".

You know about Krishnamurti, the young Hindu who receives messages from "beyond". Another Hindu, worth ten million Krishnamurtis, is Assam Dina—enormously rich, married to an American girl. He inherited recently the astronomical observatory on Mt. Blanc, highest mountain in Europe, is bringing it up to date, and next year will build on a nearby mountain a better observatory, equipped with the world's most powerful telescope.

This gentleman from India sends up his scientific materials by airplane and plans regular airplane service between the lower regions and Mt. Blanc by the eagle's route.

That's the kind of Hindu the world needs, one that with his telescope will look out into space, find what is really happening there; not somebody to sit down and imagine that his poor, feeble little brain can be made a receiving station for Divine wisdom.

There is great mental power among the people of India, dwarfed and held down by a hot climate, vicious laws and the degrading caste system. Set free in a better climate it might produce many Assam Dinas and a surprise for Britain, that inhabits and Rules India now, as a semi-benevolent ferret might rule a rabbit Warren.

Hamilton Fyfe, successful editor of the London Daily Herald, British labor organ, leaves his job to devote his life "to vagabondage, seeing the world."

Many men do that, thinking it rather noble. In reality they do what every man does as he roams the woods. Usefulness in this world depends not on how much you see of it, but how much you do in it.

Mr. Fyfe predicts that 20 years hence there will be only two political parties, "one consisting of Laborites and Liberals, the other of Communists."

Everything is possible, but at present there is only one really powerful party in Britain, France, Germany or America, the party of well organized capital, which runs the world, with plenty of advice and criticism to which it pays little attention.

Another joyous Wall street closing, plenty of cheap money at 4½, the "general price level" higher, railroad stocks going up. Why shouldn't they go up, when government says to the public "you've got to pay the poor railroads enough to keep them going and give them a fair return on money invested." Government doesn't say that about farmers, for to say it would be bolshevism, or at the least, Socialism.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

THE AMERICAN PRUNE

A number of references have been made of late in the newspaper to the place and importance of the lowly prune.

When the Southern Pacific Railroad recently added a new locomotive of the latest type to its passenger service the fact to light that per pound a prune is more valuable than a locomotive.

Locomotives cost 17.3 cents a pound. Prunes cost 19 cents a pound in California.

As an industry the raising of prunes has assumed importance with a suddenness that places it almost on a parallel with the phenomenal growth of the automobile and the moving picuture industries.

The first scion planted in this country was brought from France in 1856.

It was planted in California as an experiment from which little was expected.

Only in 1870 was the first serious attempt made to cultivate prunes on a large scale in the United States. The first real prune orchard was planted then.

Ten years later the crop in the United States was 200,000 pounds and in 1900 it had reached a total of nearly 130,000,000 pounds and has been growing steadily ever since.

Its popularity in this country as a table delicacy has grown by leaps and bounds. Doctors speak kind words in referring to it and it made a host of friends because of its health giving properties.

The American prune is also holding its own in foreign markets.

Large quantities are now being exported, some even being sent to the land from which the first scion came.

The grade of prunes is determined by the number to the pound. They range from 30 to 40 in the highest grade to 120 to 130 in the lowest.

American prunes in the foreign markets are said to rank with the finest brands of France.

The American output is still supplied principally by three western states: California, Oregon and Washington.

As an industry the producing of the American prune has attained a place of lasting importance.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE BUNK REFORMERS

All Governments, especially that of the United States of America, are entirely dependent upon three Arms, Legislative, Executive, and Judicial. Weakness in any one of these Arms spells poor Government. The choice of the Legislator, the Executive, and the Judge in this country is dependent upon the votes of the people, directly, or indirectly. In order that the people might have some clear-cut method of using their votes, the Founders of the Nation designed a "Party System", and with it fixed party responsibility. The purpose of all this was to enable the Party in Opposition to show to the voter any weakness that might be developed by the officers of the Party in Power. Very clearly, such a method would tend to make all Parties very careful in the choice of a man whom they nominated for office.

This System should work very well, but the Nation has drifted away from the Idea. There are many Reformers. Usually these Reformers under the Direct Primary System ran for office upon a Party Ticket of their own choice. They say they are Republicans, or Democrats, and this does not mean a single thing. Some of these Reformers are elected, and they find themselves in the Legislatures, as Executives and as Judges, powerless to reform anything. They are very completely out of harmony with the other branches of the Government, or too many weak spots are found among the holders of offices in this or that Department of Government.

A soldier, with a most excellent military record for doing things was chosen by the Mayor of Philadelphia to "clean up the city", and enforce Law and Order. Whatever has happened to General Butler since that time is another story, but the story of his work in Philadelphia shows how impossible it is for any man, no matter how purposeful and determined he may be, to accomplish anything without the aid of all branches of Government. Recently, in San Diego, California, General Butler told this story, illustrating the conditions under which he worked. It was not of bootlegging, or of the usual sort, but in fact, a startling story. I quote the General:

"A burglary was committed in Philadelphia, the criminal was apprehended, tried and sentenced to the penitentiary. He was eventually taken to the penitentiary and there imprisoned. About two weeks after his imprisonment the police picked him up on the streets of Philadelphia. The warden of the penitentiary was called on the telephone and was asked where his prisoner Blank was. He promptly answered 'Right here in the penitentiary'. He was told instead of being right there, he was in my office. The man was sent back to the penitentiary, and in the course of ten days the police picked him up again on the streets of Philadelphia. The same conversation was had with the warden of the penitentiary. The criminal was afterwards sent to another penitentiary and he is still there."

Government, like a chain, can not be stronger than its weakest link. The penitentiary where the criminal was originally lodged is only a part of the Judicial system of the Government of Pennsylvania, and unless there is a political system whereby there is a direct responsibility for that weakness brought home to a particular Party, and fixed there, such weakness will always exist. No Reformer can accomplish anything; he must belong to a Party, pledged to reform not only one Office, not only one Department, but all offices and all Departments of Government.

The Direct Primary System will never bring about any true Reform. Parties in Conventions can not be held accountable, but officers chosen as Party Candidates at Direct Primaries can never be held responsible for the System.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

A MAN'S VIEW

I'm glad I'm not a wife,
The way man growls and squeals,
I'd hate to spend my life
Just thinking up his meals.

I'm glad I'm not a wife!
How horrible 'twould be
To have to spend a life
Just looking after me!

I'm sure I couldn't stand
Day in and out the sight
Of one so wise and bland,
And so superbly right.

How can a woman prize
And cherish all life long
A man, so sure, so wise,
Who's never in the wrong?

I'm glad I'm not a wife,
Shoes I would rather shine,
A man—and live my life
With such a wife as mine!

POEMS I LOVE

By CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"A SERENADE"

By Sir Walter Scott

This simple song, with its everlasting lover's question, loses nothing ,placed beside other serenades. It has the lilt and beauty such verses should possess; and if one finds it almost too simple, he should remember that this kind of amiable loveliness is not easy of accomplishment.

Ah! County Guy, the hour is nigh,
The sun has left the lea,
The orange flower perfumes the bower,
The breeze is on the sea,
The lark, his lay who trilled all day,
Sits hushed his partner nigh;
Breeze, bird and flower confess the hour,
But where is County Guy?

The village maid steals through the shade
Her shepherd's suit to hear;
To beauty shy, by lattice high,
Sings high-born Cavalier.
The star of Love, all stars above,
Now reigns o'er earth and sky,
And high and low the influence know—
But where is County Guy?

Kiddies Have Great Day At Cascade At Annual Outing

(By KATE MOORHEAD)

Gee, me and Ted Jones had a swell time at the big picnic they give us at Cascade yesterday. I got up awful early, about 7:00 o'clock and wuz all ready to go when I come down to breakfast in the morning, but Mom, she thought I better eat a lot, then I wouldn't be hungry agin so soon. Well, enyhows, she seemed glad to have me go about 9:00 o'clock, because you see I wuz so worried about mebby some of the races bein over before I got there—and so wuz Ted.

We seen some girls coming towards us, and not wantin to be bothered with girls hangin around, me and Ted juked behind the picture building where you enter the park, there we found some of our friends playin ball. We watched them awhile, but not bein polite and asking us would we like to play, we walked to the place where our friends Jimmy and Albert had jest got a set of silver cause they got a fish hooked.

Gosh, now imagine Jimmy with a lotta silver. He got awful mad when we called him a sissy, and he said he got em for his brother anyhows. Well they are pretty good kids, so we walked over to the penny house with them, and I showed how strong I wuz when I punched the bag so hard, my fist pritnear made a hole in it, honest.

John Dennis he came up and started showin off how strong he wuz and punched for a long time. He's from the south side, and me and Ted admire the way he wears his red tie and the grandest long pants you ever seen. We wuz all standin there and punchin the bag when Charles Cameron come up lookin awful glum. When we asked him about his headache, or maybe a pain some wheres, he said the only pain he got wuz in his big toe, and it wuz because his Mom thought he wuz a sissy girl and made him carry a blue umbrella, when no selfrespecting boy is afraid of a little rain.

"Gee, that's tough, I sed, But I'll give you half my chewing gum, if you wanta come with us. Mebby we kin ditch the rain dodger someplace." More cheerful he seemed to enjoy hisself. I admired his sweater and he sed I could have it if I wanted it, cause he didn't need it enyhows. Shucks, beleeve me, he's a good friend of mine and Teds.

We heard Wallace Jones braggin because he hit that punch bag for 300, and George Budar who lives on Miller avenue, jest laughed and laughed. I sed to George, would he care to eat some of my cracker jack, but he sed, no, he wuz savin his money to get hot dog, and he wuz hungry enough to eat it all hisself. Gess hes goin to be a business man someday. Now me, I beleeve in bein generous. Why I even give my sister the core of an apple the other day, then I splained to her she could plant the seeds and have a tree of apples all for herself.

"Ted, look at them girls tryin' to rock that boat over there in the Kiddy playground," I sez givin my boy friend a nudge, which nearly knocked him over. I wanted to go over and have some fun but Ted jest laughed and sed, "them wuz jest things for babies over there."

I seen a man wearin a policemans uniform feeding the monkeys an apple and while me and Ted wuz standin there and watchin the fun, I herd a woman in back of me, tellin how once upon a time a long time ago, a woman went to a zoo, wearin a big rat pompadore in her hair. The monkey didn't like her cause she got fresh, and he pulled down her hair. I dunno what he did with the rat.

There wuz a nice kind man sittin on a bench, and he had some crutches beside him. I sat down next to him and give him some popcorn, and talked to him alot, until Ted yelled at me from the penny house, where I had left him gazin at his funny face in one of them wobbly mirrors. 'Cmere," he sed, "looky what I got, a pitcher." And sure enoughtwas the grandest pitcher of a lady and there wuz a verse what told his fortune on it. He put it in his pocket and is goin to keep it for evermore.

Gosh, wisht I saved more money. I had 20 cents, and now I only gotta nickel, not even enough to buy a pitcher of a lady. We wuz standin there talkin about not having much money when Edward and Waldo Westrich come up with their sister Katherine. She's an awful nice girl and interduced us to her girl friend Margaret Smith and her brother Frank. They didn't stick around long when they found out we wuz so poor. They sed they wuz goin to get some ice cream. Huh, we don't like ice cream enyhow.

It seemed awful hard for Helen Marshall to get Constance and Jimmy Borovilos away from the monkeys. I seen them when me and Ted strolled over and watched the man with the blue raincoat help the kids into the ferris wheel. Meyby we could get a ride fer nuthin if we'd ask that man "could we come in and rock the boat," Ted said. (He had changed his mind about it being for babies.)

There wuz a little girl named Zena who cried like anything, because her mamma didn't let her ride all the time. Her hair wuz curly and my she wuz pretty, jest like my sister, who doesn't bawl. He walked over and looked at Jack Rhinhart ridin the horse on the merry go round, and gee, he looked swell in that sailor outfit. Raymond Winters and Paul Workman helped him get his feet in the stirrups before the tall black haired man come up. Harold and Clarence Workman wuz there too and sed they had been havin a swell time too. Then they wanted to know, "wuz we goin to be in the penny scramble?"

"Penny scramble?" what music that wuz to us poor boys who didn't have much cash. Marie and Maybelle, girl friends of Ted's, came up jest then and sed they wuz plannin to be in the races in the afternoon. "That is somethin like it," I sez, "bring us kids here then show us a good time."

Well, it wuz after 3 o'clock and I seen the curly haired chap with the big smile and yella sweater comin over towards us. "You kids gonna be in the penny scramble?" he wanted to know. Boy, wuz we, we told Jack Hulme, that's his name, how many pennies we wuz goin to get. Ted he got there first and we mazured our hands good, to see whose wuz the biggest. There wuzn't no use for me to get any, cause he would divvy up, you see he's my friend.

We run some of the races too, but the long legged fellows beat me every time and I didn't care none, cause I kin beat the kids at home all the time. I seen a little girl dressed up in a red and white dress and wearin a hair ribbon and I wuz standing speachless looking at her. The little girl wuz with her mother who wuz dressed in blue with a hat to match, like the society reporter in the newspaper sez. This woman asked me did I know where the show wuz at. I sed I had thought mebby her little girl wuz it, but she jest laughed.

We all went to the dodge-em house and my how we did laugh when Sammy Dennis come out on the floor all dressed up fit to kill in sheek trousers and wearin a red necktie what matched the big bow on his cane. "That's some swell class, beleeve me," I whispered to Ted. Sam sang some and Buddy Badger, who is only 6 years old, come out and showed us some stunts he learned from a circus. "I'll bet I could do that any old day," I told Ted. But then he's jest a kid enyhows.

Now there's Ruth Phillips who sang and danced jest as tho she wuz on a real stage. I'll bet she learned to clog dance from her brother who wuz in the navy wunst. Walter Evans did some stunts too and so did Billy Glenn. Now Billy is a grand girl and me and Ted both like her heaps. We cheered and cheered when she danced and yelled "Go to it old girl, giv er the gas", until a big fat lady sittin in back of us give us a nudge and told us to shut up so's she could hear Charles Smawley playin on the mouthorgan.

Me and Ted decided we'd go together and buy a mouthorgan with our last nickel, and learn to play like Mr. Smawley. The performants was finished with a lot of funny jokes told by Jimmy Herbolt, who is a reglar wize cracker, and awful nice to us kids. Just to show how unselfish and thoughtful I am, I took my busted balloon home to my little sister and she can make little cherries and bust 'em, and make lots of noise.

Three Murderers Pay Penalty In Columbus, Ohio

First Triple Execution In History Of Ohio Works Out Smoothly

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 3.—Ohio's first triple execution was completed in 31 minutes from the time the first condemned man was strapped in the electric chair until the third was pronounced dead.

The men, John Bryant, Richard Rhoades and John Hedricks, all of Pomeroy, were electrocuted at the state penitentiary last night in the order named for the murder of James McCumber last March 15.

Bryant was placed in the chair at 8:16 p. m. and was pronounced dead by the prison physician at 8:23.

Curious Throng Prison Yard.

He was followed by Rhoades who was strapped to the chair at 8:28 and declared dead at 8:34.

Hedricks was declared dead at 8:47 six minutes after he was dressed in the death cap.

The executions were devoid of the unusual except for the number of spectators and the crowds of curious which thronged the prison yard in futile efforts to see details of electrocutions.

Crowds such as never before seen at the penitentiary by prison officials packed West Spring street near the institution for more than an hour before the time set for the electrocutions. Many of the spectators outside the prison walls were state fair visitors.

"SEASON" LATE FOR HAY FEVER

Hopeful Victims Are Disappointed When Belated Season Arrives

Everything was late this season and you will remember how, there were those weather prophets, who said that there would be no summer weather, yet it is not hard to remember those extremely hot nights and days of a few weeks ago, when the corn seemed to mature over night and the crops generally matured in a remarkably short time.

There wasn't going to be any crops either, but nature knew better and otherwise and there is an abundance of fruits and other good things.

But that isn't the story at all. There is a gang of poor foolish persons in this world, who each year spend several weeks of each summer in going around with a handkerchief closely applied to their nose and are known as hay fever victims.

This year when everything else appeared to be different and seasons generally were late, they were under the same mistaken impression of numerous weather prophets that things generally were different and this would be one year when they would not suffer their usual agony during the golden rod and haying season.

When the early part of August was past and still they were free from their usual unpleasant feelings, they began to sing, "I'm not going to sneeze any more, any more" and they were jubilant when the month neared its end and they still refused to sneeze.

But it's different now, even if it is the first of September and about the usual time for the end of the hay fever season. You can tell them the minute you see them on the street or in the office. For the most part they are a dejected looking lot and not always inclined to reply pleasantly when you ask them what's the matter.

For the hay fever came just the same and is just as usual, thank you, except, it waited until vacation time was over for most persons and now they are compelled to work under a handicap.

There are the usual cures reported by the numerous victims of the disease but it is noticeable that they seldom mean anything and the fellow who goes along, makes the best of it and takes as few nostrums or so called cures as possible, is just about as well off as the fellow who is trying everything that is mentioned.

Senator McKinley's Condition Unchanged

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The condition of U. S. Senator William B. McKinley, stricken with pulmonary congestion while undergoing treatment for rheumatism, was described as "unchanged" in a long distance telephone message from Home Lawn Sanitarium at Martinsville, Ind., early today.

Senator McKinley early last evening showed marked improvement, the message stated, but later his fever rose and he again lapsed into a state of semi-consciousness. Last evening he was able to recognize members of his family gathered at the bedside.

The senator was stricken several weeks ago while at his home in Washington and taken to Martinsville for treatment. Monday his condition became critical and little hope for his recovery has been held out.

INSTRUCTORS ARE SELECTED

Mercer County Teachers' Institute To Be Held October 4 To 8

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 3.—An eminent corps of instructors is announced today by Prof. H. T. McConnel, county superintendent of schools, as constituting the faculty at the holding of the Mercer county teachers' institute here in the courthouse assembly room from the date of October 4 to 8.

Dr. J. Lynn Barnard, director of social studies of the department of public instruction of Pennsylvania, located at Harrisburg; Prof. W. H. Bristow, assistant director of secondary education, also of the department; Dr. Howard Burdge, principal of the Fredonia Normal school at Fredonia, N. Y.; Miss Margaret McGuire, principal McCall school in Philadelphia; Mrs. R. Brown Cook, penmanship instructor from the West Chester Normal school; Prof. Waldo Bates, dean of the art department of Edinboro State Normal, and Miss Nellie G. Hudson of that school, head of the department of geography and natural science; Mrs. Elfa Porter, supervisor of primary subjects at Indiana State Normal; Dr. J. S. Duncan of Mercer, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, a well-known scholar of literature; Dr. Luther Malmberg, dean of Thiel College at Greenville; Dr. R. A. Waldron of the science department of Slippery Rock Normal; Prof. O. W. Raney of Sharon High faculty; Dr. H. F. Winner of South Hills High schools, Pittsburgh; Dr. L. H. Beeler, head of the social science department of Grove City college, will all be carded. Dr. J. W. Sweeny of St. Marys, superintendent of the schools of Elk county, the oldest man in point of service of the state superintendents, will also be on the program. The list of instructors of this year exceeds in number any previous institute. Prof. R. J. McDowell of Pittsburgh will again have charge of the music.

The viewers in the action of N. T. Robinson vs. Mercer Borough, who claims damage for the erection of a sewage disposal plant on his farm to the south of town, viewed the location and heard the statements of the witnesses Wednesday. The board is that with a Grove City damage suit of similar nature filed by J. W. Hunter in charge.

T. B. Streams of Indiana, who for the past two years has been in charge of the Mercer-Crawford county district for the bureau of animal husbandry of the state with regard to the enforcement measure of the 1921 dog law, announces his transfer to the tri-county district of Clearfield, Jefferson and Indiana, which will make possible his establishing headquarters at his home in Indiana.

Harry Higbee of Stoneboro, who is a special agent for this bureau, will be given the Mercer-Crawford district. The official transfer has been made and but awaits the completion of work in the district on the part of Mr. Streams before he leaves. As concrete evidence of what he is doing in Mercer county, issue of 544 dog licenses this year at the county treasurer's' office as an increase over the 1925 total is proof of how capably he is handling the situation. He is doing it also with very few arrests.

Stringent measures on the part of this official in 1925 convinced county residents of his determination. In Crawford county, where they sell around the 7,000 mark on the average, an increase is being shown already for 1926. Mr. Streams is authority for the statement today that the sheep claims in this district are materially reduced this year in comparison to former years. He will return this fall, he states, as the chief prosecuting witness at the court hearing carded when a sheep claim case in Jefferson township is up.

There will be 125 new applicants heard at the naturalization court proceedings here on September 27-28-29, it is shown by the records of the prothonotary's office. These, together with continued cases, will make a list approximating 200, which is the customary size of list for the semi-annual naturalization court.

Wilson Cochran, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Cochran, sustained a fractured right arm as the result of a fall from the dock to the rocks at the Solid Comfort fishing camp in Canada.

Weather Aids Labor Situation In State

By G. ROSS DOWNING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 3. — With the return of fair weather following an unprecedented period of August rains came improvement in labor conditions throughout the state which tended to reach normalcy in many industries, according to the bi-monthly report of the State Department of Labor and Industry made public today. The state department's report was based on figures from the various labor employment offices of the commonwealth sent in during the last two weeks of August.

Steady activity on the railroads was reflected in the reports from demand for extra men was still far below that of last winter, a number of additional men have been taken on during the past two weeks and trainmen have been advanced in rank because of the increased freight business. Passenger traffic to the Sesqui-Centennial in Philadelphia was reported as good, thus resulting in the continual employment of additional trainmen.

Steady rainfall throughout the state during the middle part of the month caused widespread temporary unemployment among classes of common labor and the delay on many outside construction projects. The idle period has been offset by the employment of additional men when fair weather came in order that the work might be speeded up before fall weather sets in.

Both bituminous and anthracite districts reported increased activity. Johnstown reported a heavy demand for pick miners and machine coal loaders with a shortage of available men. This was said to be due to the fact that all orders are placed on the basis of the 1917 wage scale or less.

Conditions in the textile industries, especially those manufacturing men and women's clothing, were reported as good.

Activity in the building and construction lines was below normal with the exception of the Altoona and Allentown districts. In Altoona the value of the July building permits was three times that of the corresponding month last year. Work on a majority of the projects covered by the permits got underway during the latter part of August. In Allentown the building permits issued during July covered more than a million dollars in new construction.

The majority of the construction workers were employed in the Philadelphia district. A sufficient supply to meet the labor demand was on hand, the labor office there pointed out. The office there says that "the real estate market which has been flat for the past six months has begun to show slight improvement." The improvement in the real estate construction has absorbed workers who have completed projects at the Sesqui-Centennial.

ENTRIES FOR KENNEL SHOW, WILD LIFERS INVADING CONNEAUT

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., Sept. 3.—Dog fanciers, trapshooters and dogs are arriving here from all parts of the country for the annual meet of the Wild Life league of Pennsylvania and the American Kennel club bench show which opens Saturday.

So numerous are entries for the dog show that the event will be held in the Temple of Music instead of under canvas as first intended. The temple is the largest auditorium of its kind in Pennsylvania and among the largest in the world. J. Fred McKean of New Kensington, president, and Herbert Borrell of Meadville, secretary of the Wild Life league, have been here several days completing arrangements for the show.

New Hampshire, in 1840, was the first state to require the registration of voters.

MAN DISAPPEARS ASK SEARCH HERE

Mysteriously Missing Since August 29, Authorities Can't Find Trace Of Dayton Man

John Marshall of Dayton, Armstrong county, Pennsylvania, disappeared in Pittsburgh early Sunday morning, August 29, while driving between his uncle's home and that of friends in the East End. He had just brought his mother to the city and planned to spend the week-end there. He was driving a Ford roadster, of which no trace has been found. It carried Pennsylvania license 226-016, and the engine number was 7,368,775.

Marshall owns a small store in Dayton, had no business or personal trouble and was well and happy when last seen. He is about 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 135 pounds, has dark hair, very curly, and a rather dark complexion. His eyes are gray, nose rather large, usually wears glasses. He was wearing a dark coat, light trousers, Panama hat and white shirt. Only identification marks are a scar on knee and an old scald on one leg. Voice low, does not talk much, quiet habits.

City, county and state police have been unable to find any clue to his whereabouts. It is believed that he has either suffered a sudden illness or amnesia or met with foul play. His mother is prostrated, and other members of his family are prosecuting a vigorous search. Any clue to his whereabouts will be welcomed by his uncle, H. J. Hamilton, 412 Arabella street, Knoxville, Pittsburgh, or by his cousin, C. G. Ketchum, 1515 Park building, Pittsburgh.

Take Joy From Wedding Bells For Poor Groom

California Jewelers Plan Move To Popularize Rings For Men

Prospective Husbands In Self-Defense Stand Firm Against Conspiracy

(International News Service)
SACREMENTO, Sept. 3.—Pity the poor bridegroom!

The peal of wedding bells has become as the clang of the cash register.

And now comes the movement to popularize engagement rings and wedding rings for men.

It simply can't be done, according to L. E. Ross, chief of the state bureau of vital statistics, and ambassador of Dan Cupid. It's unfair to California's unorganized bridegrooms.

Informed of the proposal made by Conrad J. Brotherly, president of the National Retail Jewelers' Association, that engagement rings and wedding bands be decreed for men, Ross tried it out on his rapid calculator.

Here are the results:

Estimated present expenditure in California annually for engagement and wedding rings, based on number of marriages, $8,000,000.

Probable increase if men adopted engagement rings, $5,700,000.

Increase for wedding bands for bridegrooms, $570,000.

Total estimated increase if new vogue became popular, $6,270,000 annually.

Grand ring total, $14,270,000.

Even though men economized in the purchase of their own engagement rings, they could not hope to escape for less than $100 each, affirmed the state statistician. And the average wedding ring would call for another $10 at least.

Furthermore, said Ross, men have a false sense of modesty which would prevent them accepting rings from their brides or brides-to-be. So there's no hope of making it a reciprocity proposition.

Added to the financial objections, the statistician declared, is the fact that men, as a general rule, do not approve of jewelry for their own use.

Austrian Women Outrank Males

(International News Service)
VIENNA, Sept. 3.—With a population of a little more than six millions, Austria now has 238,690 more women than men. It will take about eighteen years to even things between the sexes in the country, it is estimated, although the birthrate of boys has been ten per cent greater than girls during the last six years.

This condition, which is due to the war, is reverse of that of prewar Austria, which, with a population almost three times as great, had about 400,000 surplus men.

Fall Styles For 1926 Are More Intriguing To Hollywood Stars

(International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 3. — Fall styles this year are even more intriguing than last year, according to Aileen Pringle, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player, who is known as "one of the best dressed women on the screen."

"The fascinating thing about this year's fashions," Miss Pringle explained, "is the fact there's a style for everyone. Designers have been more than kind to every type of woman.

"Length of skirts vary from five inches from the floor to fourteen inches from the floor. The flappers will be delighted with the novelty suits—short jackets and short skirts, made of plaids and brilliant colors.

"The sophisticated type can go in for velvet and soft furs; long skirts and soft, small, crush turbans.

"The demure misses will love the period evening gowns of taffeta and lace. They are very long, with full skirts and tight bodices and large, droopy hats for evening wear."

London Plans For Huge Monument To Soldier Veterans

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 3.—In order to preserve it as a Hill of Remembrance to British and American soldiers who fought and died in the World War, a project is on foot for the purchase of the English Bunker Hill, adjoining Hampstead Heath, the playground of London's lower classes.

It is proposed that on suitable places on the hill should be inscribed the names of the dead, together with quotations from British and American authors.

The cost of acquiring and laying out Bunker Hill is estimated at $75,000, of which $15,000 has already been subscribed. A committee has been formed and an appeal issued for funds to save the hill from the hands of the builder.

CHRYSLER REVEALS SECRETS OF QUALITY STANDARDIZATION

Vice-President Points Out Advantages of Plan Both to Company and Public

DETROIT, Sept. 3.—Walter P. Chrysler's widely discussed development of his new manufacturing principle — Quality Standardization —and what it means to the motor car public, were described in a statement issued yesterday by J. E. Fields, vice-president of the Chrysler Corporation. His statement follows:

"The Chrysler four-car plan of quality standardization—the only one of its kind in operation in the world today—reduces processes and practices of building automobiles to an engineering, machining, mechanical and manufacturing absolute. Nothing is left to chance. Men and machines alike must deliver to each operation in every car we build an unvarying maximum of precision and excellence.

"Standardized quantity production is an old story in the automobile industry, but Standardized Quality is a brand new achievement.

"Mr. Chrysler is intensely individualistic, contemptuous of manufacturing conventions and unawed by engineering traditions unless the years have proved them to be the soundest and most enduring that can be developed. There is scarcely a phase in the engineering, designing, manufacturing or distributing of motor cars that has not felt the influence of his ideas. In the last three years, particularly, his organization's achievements have been probably the most discussed in the automobile industry.

"But he is not hide-bound in his individualism. He believes in surrounding himself with strong men. These men have created and contributed much to the industry. He works with them and they with him as fellow craftsmen. His special genius is in subjecting all manufacturing practice to an absolute standardization of quality.

"I do not feel that it is overstressing the facts to say that this Chrysler principle of standardized quality manufacture is already beginning to revolutionize the buying of cars in every field, as Chrysler is today covering every market, under this plan, from $750 to the finest car money can buy.

"This standardized quality, at one step, eliminates 'purchaser's risk,' ends the buyer's doubts and fears as to quality, makes possible the purchase of any of the four Chrysler types with the positive assurance that the quality in each is equally assured. This is true because all four cars are built to the same quality standards and must pass the same inspections in relations to the tasks they are asked to perform.

"Leading manufacturers have been striving for years to achieve this evenness of quality. But Mr. Chrysler alone has succeeded—translated it into fact by an extraordinarily complete co-ordination of engineering and manufacturing resources.

"Chrysler standardization of quality goes back, first, to the proper fundamentals of modern motor car design; next to their incorporation into a complete car of remarkable efficiency. Then it passes successively to the sources of raw material for that car, governs the minutest operation, makes certain that every unit is produced to the finest precision standards under the most rigid inspection, even to the moulding of the manufacture of its accessories. Finally, it co-ordinates the whole into a finished car that is what its engineers, designers and body builders conceived it should be. Designed by one group of men, manufactured to one standard and sold by one organization, it is self-evident that the plan offers economies to the purchaser not permissible under any other system.

"Chrysler models naturally differ in price, in chassis size, in richness of appointments, in speed and power—but all are basically the same in rigid adherence to the same law of quality.

"That is, in brief, the secret of what standardized quality is, what it means to the maker and to the purchaser, and the advantages it offers to each."

Why Chrysler Model Numbers Mean Miles Per Hour

With the belief that motor car designations should convey a real meaning to the motoring public, the Chrysler Corporation has standardized and simplified the naming of its models, just as it has standardized the quality of its four lines of cars which supply the four great markets.

The Chrysler organization believes the public is most greatly interested in these points regarding an automobile: Appearance, quality, comfort, value, performance and dependability. It believes that the best method of indicating the capacity of its motor cars is the simplest, and, it has, therefore, designated its models the "50", "60", "70", and Imperial "80".

These numbers mean the speed capacity of each car in miles per hour and are an index to the abilities of each. Miles per hour has a significance far beyond mere speed alone.

Comparatively few people, for instance, may care to ride as fast as 70 miles an hour; but the power in the "70" which is indicated by 70 miles plus represents acceleration and smooth performance, as well as in sheer speed.

It means the highest possible quality in design and materials and the finest of precision manufacture. It means a soundness and a stability that assure unequaled Chrysler performance for the entire long life of the car. The Chambers Motor Co., 316 East North street are local Chrysler dealers.

Egypt Plans Reduction In Diplomatic Service As Economy Measure

(International News Service)
CAIRO, Sept. 3.—Sweeping reductions in the Egyptian Diplomatic Service with a view to economy is recommended by a Parliamentary Commission.

The Commission proposes the abolition of the Egyptian legations and consulates in Brazil, Sweden, Switzerland, Belgium, Spain, Czecho-slovakia, Holland Roumania.

All consultates in cities where legations exist will be suppressed, including those in New York, Liverpool, Lyons, Budapest, Hamburg, Naples and Piraeus. In addition all charge d'affaires will be replaced by first secretaries, while all second secretaries, attached lawyers, and interpreters will be dismissed.

Dancing Girls Salary Reduced

(International News Service)
BOMBAY, Sept. 3.—The professional dancing girls of the entourage of the Maharana of Zalwar have threatened to strike unless the Maharana withdraws his order of compulsory attendance for dances at the Durbar held every Wednesday.

Zalwar makes an allowance from the State treasury to every dancing girl in the capital city of Ajmere, and whenever they are called for a special occasion and additional honorarium is paid. The new ruler, inclined to be a little more economical than his predecessors, recently issued an order doing away with the custom of paying additional honorariums and insisting on the personal attendance of the girls every week.

In reply to the strike ultimatum the Maharan has retaliated by issuing another order to the effect that any absence from the weekly Durbar will be looked upon as dereliction of duty and that salaries would be cut down accordingly.

Daylight In Schools Is Held Best For Eyes

Superiority Over Artificial Light Is Cited By Sight Conservationists

Natural light in school buildings is urged in a report based upon Federal findings and made public by the Eyesight Cinservation Council of America.

"Even though the provisions for adequate daylighting should entail a cost in excess of artificial lighting," says the report, the adoption of artificial light as the sole source of illumination for schools, as has been advocated by some, and the failure to provide adequate natural illumination would probably be a false economy.

The investigation of school architecture and construction was directed by Dr. Taliaferro Clark, U. S. health officer formerly in charge of field investigations in child hygiene, assisted by Arthur F. Beal, Federal physicist. It showed that effective illumination of classrooms has an adverse influence on the activity of the intellectual processes of children.

The investigator according to the report of the Eyesight Conservation Council, studied the relative value of daylighting and artificial lighting, concluding that "owing to the manner in which the human eye has developed during many ages under natural lighting conditions, the great changes in the intensity of daylight, varying as much as 1000 foot-candles and more within a few minutes, are less trying to the eye than are the variations of relatively few foot-candles of artificial light."

The printed page may be read without visual discomfort under very high daylight illumination, whereas under conditions demanding artifical illumination similar and unnecessarily high intensities would cause discomfort, the report pointed out.

"At low intensities of illumination the eye is very sensitive to variation," it was found. "On entering a moderately dark room from the bright outside one does not at first see clearly, but on remaining for a sufficient length of time he may see well enough to be able to read."—Washington Post.

Boys Break Light Globes On Streets

Use Air Rifles And Stones In Doing Great Damage To Street Lights

According to complaints registered with the police of this city last night boys in various parts of the city and in particular in the down town section are doing their best to keep the Electric company busy replacing globes on the street lighting system.

Air rifles and stones are the weapons used in this expensive habit of the boys and the police and company are now co-operating in an effort to apprehend and punish the boys responsible for this type of destruction.

LOCAL RUNAWAYS ARE CAUGHT AT ZELIENOPLE

George Abrahams, 613 East Long avenue, and Lawrence Conti of 410 Phillips street both 14 years of age were picked up by the police of Zelienople, Pa., Thursday while enroute to Pittsburgh, according to their statements.

The police here were notified of the situation and got in touch with the families of the boys. Members of the family went to that place and brought back the runaways. The boys left home early Thursday and were making determined efforts to get to Pittsburgh when apprehended by the Zelienople police authori-

Life's Sunny Afternoon

"Grow old along with me,
The best is yet to be."

WITH her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women of middle age say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who have learned through their own experience the merit of this dependable medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

A woman in Nebraska was troubled with headaches for fifteen years. She writes, "I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have felt my health steadily improving. Today, after taking your medicine for almost a year and a half, I believe I can say the headaches have left me for it is seven months since I had the last one. I am continuing the Vegetable Compound. I am feeling fine now."

This woman is the mother of six children with a large house to care for. Her name is MRS. ADOLPH BRATKE, 4316 South 13th St., South Omaha, Nebraska.

Grove City Council To Act At Once To Carry Out Town's Desire

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—Council will proceed at once to the authorization of a bond issue of $75,000, declared Hon. H. K. Daugherty, city solicitor, today. The solons are carded to meet Friday evening of this week, which will be the regular September session. The matter will be brought up at that time for disposal is the presumption of the attorney. The term of the bonds, the interest rate they will bear and other business matters pertaining to the issue, will all be disposed of at that time. An ordinance properly authorizing the issue will also be acted on. If the money to be derived for the purchase of an additional unit for the city electric plant is to be made of use in equipping the plant for the heavy winter load of electric power, quick work will be necessary, as the days are shortening fast. The new unit, when in operation, will increase a power supply that just now is depleted due to the demand for power.

The Erie Conference of the Methodist church will hold its fall meeting at Oil City beginning on September 15th.

Dr. H. H. Barr, pastor of the Grace Methodist church of this city, and Rev. C. E. Loney, assistant pastor, will be attendants, as well as a number of laymen. The official board of the local church announces that conference will be requested to return both Dr. Barr and Rev. Loney to the Grace church, where both are giving exceptional satisfaction.

Rev. Loney, in addition to pastoral duties, is the choir leader of the church. The Erie conference includes five districts in northwestern and western Pennsylvania. The county of Mercer is included in the New Castle district with Dr. F. S. Neigh as superintendent. Dr. Neigh will be remembered as a former pastor of the local church.

Arthur Hull of Tulsa, Okla., vice president of the Bessemer Gas Engine Company, is here on a business trip. Mr. Hull is a well-known oil and gas operator of that city.

All the testimony in the viewers' hearing of the damage claims of J. W. Hunter against Grove City borough has been taken, is the announcement of the attorneys ensuite, including J. W. Nelson of Mercer, representing Mr. Hunter, and F. A. Service of Sharon and H. K. Daugherty, city solicitor, for the borough. Hunter is asking $26,500 damages for the erection of a sewage disposal plant on his land and for the alleged ruination of his dairy business as a result of odors from the plant. Regardless of the decision of the viewers, it is almost certain that an appeal to the court will be taken by the parties, it is pointed out. The viewers, including T. A. Sampson and M. B. Orr of Mercer and Lewis Burnside of Sharon, will review the testimony and file their report with the court.

FRANKLIN TROLLEYS TO PASS OUT AFTER 30 YEARS FOR BUSSES

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 3.—Three new buses intended to replace Franklin's street cars, will be here in a few days. The three new cars, with one now in service, will disperse with trolleys which have been in service more than 30 years. Recently one-man cars were put into service in Franklin and Oil City. These will be discontinued. The break in Franklin's trolley service came during the ice gorge last March, which swept away the Big Rock bridge.

Pennington Will Stay In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—When John D. Pennington waved his hand in the general direction of Western Pennsylvania as depicted on a map in the office of Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews in Washington, he started a landslide of conjecture which was echoed in every large community in the third enforcement area, the district dry administrator revealed here yesterday.

"I was asked where my center of activities was," Pennington said. "I waved my hand at the map, and said 'that's it.'

"'Not Pittsburgh alone? some asked.

"'Of course not,' I answered. 'I'd be willing to use any town in Western Pennsylvania as a base.'

"That started a landslide of rumors that I was going to move my headquarters," said Pennington.

"There's nothing to it. I intend to remain here."

Czechs Rewrite Their Anthems

PRAGUE, Sept. 3.—The national minorities of Czecho-Slovakia are to be let in on their national anthem "Kde domov muj." Till now the anthem has been written and sung in Czech only and is confined to a vocal glorification of the Czechs. Few of the four million other nationals in the country do not know the words or meaning of their national song.

The government has decided to rewrite the song to make it representative of all the peoples, that is, Czechs, Slovaks, Germans, Hungarians and Poles. It will be published in various languages and posted throughout the country.

Says Diphtheria Now Conquered Disease

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Diphtheria is now a conquered disease and its occurrence henceforth must soon be classed as a crime, according to Dr. S. J. Crumbine, general executive of the American Child Health association.

Diphtheria used to be a disease just like measles, and mumps, and whooping cough, but now apparently it has sunk so low in public esteem as to be classified along with the common garden variety of crimes such as highway robbery, bootlegging and murder.

"The time will soon come," Dr. Crumbine expressed himself, "when every case of diphtheria will be an indictment against the intelligence of parents, and it will not be many years before every death from diphtheria will be referred to a coroner's jury for investigation to fix criminal responsibility."

This new attitude of health officials with respect to diphtheria, Dr. Crumbine explains in the September Child Health Bulletin of the association issued today has come about in the last ten years, during which time most successful experiments have been carried out, proving beyond question that diphtheria can be definitely eliminated as a scourge of childhood. The preventive treatment is now within the means of every parent.

One of the most noteworthy examples of a city ridding itself of diphtheria is Auburn, N. Y., a city of 37,000 population. Immunization of school children and those below school age was begun in 1922 with the result that where the cases once reached the hundred mark annually, with from 10 to 20 deaths, not a death has occurred in the entire city from this cause since March, 1924. The 15 cases of diphtheria reported in 1925 were all among unprotected persons, not a single case occurring among those immunized.

Absence from the public schools due to diphtheria has been completely eliminated in Auburn, this item alone representing a saving to the city of $10,000 a year.

A nation-wide campaign to acquaint the country with the means of preventing diphtheria will be carried on during September and October by the state and provincial health authorities of North America. This work has the hearty endorsement of the American Child Health association, which feels that by concerted action of this kind, it is actually within the realm of possibility to wipe out diphtheria and relegate it to the list of strange and infrequent maladies.

Diphtheria now slays more children of kindergarten age than any other cause. Eighty-five per cent of all diphtheria deaths occur in children under ten years of age.

The elimination of diphtheria will mean the saving of 10,000 lives annually in the United States.

Gov. Hannett To Be Renominated By New Mexico

November Fight To Break Democratic Precedent By Offering Second Term

Republicans To Nominate Business Man And Put Up Strong Battle

(International News Service)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 3.—New Mexico's gubernatorial fight this fall will devolve about Richard Dillon of Encino, Republican candidate, and Governor A. T. Hannett, Democratic incumbent.

Governor Hannett, according to all indications, will break a party precedent by landing the second term nomination at the Democratic state convention at Las Vegas, September 2.

Never in the history of New Mexico statehood has a democratic governor been nominated to succeed himself.

Republican Platform

Dillon(Republican nominee, is a business man of Torrance county with large sheep interests. His platform, republicans indicate, will be a successful business administration of state affairs.

Congressman John Morrow, Raton, Remocrat, is expected to have little difficulty winning over Juan A. Sedillo, Santa Fe.

Reduced taxation, the so-called Hannett election code, and charges of democratic mis-administration will probably feature the fall campaign.

Governor Hannett last fall stood sponsor for an election reform code, prepared by three republicans and three democrats.

Code Rejected

Republican senate leaders rejected the code as tending to disfranchise many Spanish American voters by means of a clause requiring personal registration. This objection will doubtless be carried into the campaign.

Ben F. Pankey, Santa Fe, is republican candidate for state land commissioner, the only other state office about which there is likely to be a spirited contest.

The Republican convention has already been held and the democratic convention is to be held at Las Vegas, September 2.

Henlifters To Meet At Old Camp Tonight

Old Camping Club To Rally At Site Of Headquarters Near Harbor Bridge

The Henlifters, famous camping organization of other years, will hold one of their periodical reunions this evening at their old camp site at Stop 88 on the Sharon interurban car line near Harbor Bridge.

Jack Edgar and Arch Cubbison are in charge of the arrangements for the reunion which will feature as usual the campfire session with the musical effects which heralded the fame of the Henlifters far and wide in their day.

Resists Officer When Ordered Out To Curb

When Officer Llewellyn found a group of men congregated in front of store windows on Washington street he asked them to move out to the curb. All did as requested with the exception of Charles Nicholson, who refused. When the officer insisted, Nicholson struck at the officer and the officer placed him under arrest. He put up a forfeit for his appearance later. The case is still pending while an investigation is being made.

GIRL IS HURT IN ACCIDENT

Women Drivers Of Cars In Collision On Washington Street—Other Mishaps

Mrs. C. L. Rodgers of 1002 State street reported to the police Thursday that while she was driving east on Washington street, Mrs. Earl Stark, who was driving in front of her and in the same direction, stopped suddenly and the Rodgers car ran into the Stark car. A little girl with Mrs. Rodgers was thrown through the windshield of the Rodgers car and sustained a severe cut on the neck. Both cars were damaged.

Edward Pritchard of 111 Garfield avenue, reported Thursday that he was driving north on North Mill street near North, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 504-942, parked on North Mill street, turned out without warning. Mr. Pritchard, in avoiding this car, turned to the left and ran into a street car. Some damage was done.

Sam DeCarbo, 39½ South Jefferson street, reported Thursday that his son was driving west on Lutton street and into the Sutton gasoline station at Mill and Lutton streets, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 685-923, when the latter car turned into a parking place without warning and he ran into it. Some damage was done. The latter car belonged to W. T. Montgomery.

ARREST YOUTH IN BELL PHONE PAY STATION

Company On Trail Of Persons Defrauding Company At Local Pay Stations

Bell Telephone Company operatives have been engaged in this city for some time past, tracing down the persons who have been defrauding the company at the downtown pay stations.

Yesterday an arrest was made, a youth being caught in the act of defrauding the company at one of the pay stations. He was taken before Alderman Hamilton and fined.

The operatives of the Bell Company are still in the city, and intend to break up the practice, Manager T. J. Harper announces.

Question Patient In Sanitarium In Hall-Mills Case

Man Declared Crazy Following Double Slaying Interviewed By Investigator

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 3.—Mystery surrounding the patient in the White Haven Sanitarium who was visited by an investigator from New Jersey in an effort to solve the slaying of Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Charlotte Mills, was cleared up today when attaches announced that he is John Hart, a resident of New Brunswick.

Hart, it was reported, has been a patient for eighteen months in the lower county institution, receiving treatment for an affliction of the throat.

Officials admitted that he had given a detailed statement early in the week to an investigator, but denied any knowledge of its contents. Newspapermen were refused access to the patient for further questioning.

Denial was made of reports that he is dying, attaches explaining that he is able to be about although he has been forbidden to use his voice since any strain might jeopardize his chances of recovery.

Hart, it is said, is the man who walked into New Brunswick police headquarters and was informed that he was "crazy" when he told authorities that he saw the actual slaying. His statement is expected to be used to corroborate the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, who declared she saw Willie Stevens and Henry Carpender at the scene.

Viola Long Pays Fifty Dollar Fine

Viola Long, negress, 1017 1-2 Moravia street was arrested this morning by Officers Jack Young and Frank Reynolds, when she was found entertaining a negro at her home. They had some liquor which they were imbibing. The woman paid a fine of $50 on a charge of disorderly conduct while the male visitor paid a fine of $5.

Exonerate Bluitt

Council today concurred in the request of R. H. Bluitt, city mercantile tax collector, asking that he be exonerated of $380, uncollectable taxation. The firms have either gone out of business or the persons responsible for the taxes have left the city.

NO CHANGE IN LEGION PLANS

Continue To Prepare For "On-To-Paris" Convention In 1927

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Despite the undercurrent of opinion favoring the selection of an American city in preference to Paris for the 1927 reunion of the American Legion, Pennsylvania posts are going through with their "On-To-Paris" plans, it was learned here today.

Objection of many veterans to returning to Paris for the Legion convention is based upon the unsettled financial condition of France and the admitted unfriendliness of that country toward America because of the war debt.

Charles G. Lane, county commander of the Legion, said the question of selecting another city for the 1927 convention never has been discussed officially. Lane is also a Legion state committeeman.

If the international situation has not cleared when the veterans hold their next annual convention in Philadelphia in October, the question probably will be settled there, according to Lane.

Harrisburg Man Pleads Guilty To Murder Indictment

Original Plea Is Withdrawn And One Of Guilty To Manslaughter Is Made

(International News Service)

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 3.—Upon arrival of F. W. Culbertson, chief defense counsel in the trial of Harry Bankes, 26, of Harrisburg, charged with the murder of Albert Klinger of Lewistown last March, the original plea of not guilty of murder was withdrawn Thursday and a plea of guilty of voluntary manslaughter made by the defense.

District Attorney John T. Wilson, for the prosecution, accepted the plea and the judge concented to withhold sentence until the October term of the county court here.

The change in the pleas and the withholding of sentence was due to Bankes' physical condition. During the first day of the trial yesterday the defendant collapsed four times. When the hearing was opened today he collapsed again and had to be carried from the courtroom. Bankes was alleged to have shot and killed Klinger because of the latter's attention to Bankes" wife, now divorced.

Pepper Withdraws As House Candidate

Name Had Been Written In Ballot By Prohibition Party Voters

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 3. — Senator George Wharton Pepper on Thursday notified the Bureau of Elections of his withdrawal as the prohibition candidate for the house from the sixth legislative district of Philadelphia. Although Senator Pepper does not reside in that district enough voters wrote his name on the ticket to give him a place on the ballot.

Charles W. Staudenmier, a member of the house, also withdrew as the prohibition candidate from the second Schuylkill district. He has the Republican nomination.

William Schmidt, Pittsburgh, filed nominating papers as the candidate for the state senate from the 42nd district on the Workers party. Mike Blaskovich and Celia Paransky, both of Pittsburgh, filed from the second legislative district on the same ticket.

The Independent party of the fourth legislative district of Luzerne county filed papers for W. Bruce Good, Shickshinny, as candidate.

Today is the last day for Independent candidates to file.

Rodgers Not Guilty Of Any Negligence

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. — A naval board of inquiry which investigated the airplane crash in which Commander John Rogers was killed at Philadelphia reported today that Commander Rodgers came to his death in line of duty and that the crash was not due to any carelessness or misconduct on his part.

Charge Man Marries Stepdaughter Without Divorcing Her Mother

(International News Service)
TOLEDO, O., Sept. 3.—Harry H. Hendrickson, 26, railroad fireman alleged to have married his stepdaughter without first divorcing on a statutory charge in police court and was bound over to the grand jury in heavy bail.

The bigamy charge originally placed against Hendrickson alleging he married a 15-year-old girl on July 12, last, at Marshall, Ills., was dropped by Toledo police because the marriage occurred outside the state.

Hendrickson, according to the police was living with mother and daughter, both his alleged wives, in a "love nest" here.

RADIO CALLS FATHER IN TEXAS OIL FIELD TO SEE DEAD CHILD

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 3.—Radio station KDKA in Pittsburgh last night broadcasted an appeal into the Southwest for the whereabouts of Jesse Haught, oil well tool dresser of Clarksburg, who is out in the desert with a crew of men near Borger, Tex. They are believed to have a radio set with them.

Mrs. Haught wants her husband to come home for a last look at their little daughter, Nora Madeline, four years old, who died late last night from burns suffered when her clothes ignited while she was playing with matches.

REPORT STEAMER STRANDED NEAR KENTISH COAST

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 3.—An unidentified steamer was reported stranded off the Kentish coast today following a collision with a Japanese steamer, Andes Maru.

The Japanese vessel spent three hours trying to locate the ship. The commander of the Andes Maru expressed fear that the unknown ship had gone on the rocks.

The collision occurred in a heavy fog.

TWO MORE TRY CHANNEL SWIM

(International News Service)
CAPE GRIS-NES, Sept. 3.—Unheralded and unnounced two humble swimmers, a man and a woman, plunged off the Gris-nes rocks early today in an effort to swim the English Chanel in record time.

The woman, shrouding herself in mystery and calling herself Miss Mona McClaren, of Folkstone, is reported to be making the attempt in order to win the $5,000 prize offered by the News of the World, a British publication, for the first woman swimmer to break Gertrude Ederle's record.

The man is Horace Carey, a bus driver of Folkestone.

The only key to fame and fortune you'll ever be able to find is yourself.

DRIVERS MAKE POLICE WORK

Record Of Police For Month Shows Many Violators Of Traffic Rules

THIRTY-SEVEN ARE TAKEN AS SPEEDERS

Amount Of Fines Collected Lower Than Previous Month

There are a number of interesting features to the activities of the New Castle police for the month of August.

The greatest number of arrests in any one month of the present year is noticed, while the cash receipts have fallen off approximately forty per cent as compared with the month of July, when the arrests were considerably less in number. The arrests numbered 402 and the cash receipts $2,137.

Violate Traffic Rules

Another outstanding feature of the month was the number of arrests for traffic violations, in other words failure to observe the main thoroughfare stop regulations. Such violations numbered 75 and this is the greatest number since the enforcement of this regulation. It is also the first month that such violations have exceeded the parking violations.

The police announce that this main thoroughfare stop regulation will be enforced all the time and that it does not mean, simply to hesitate when coming to a main thoroughfare, but means stop.

Persons charged with being drunk also greatly exceeded in number during the past month, the number facing the same charge in any month in the past year. The number of drunks was 67.

Thirty-Seven Speeders

The maximum number of speeders was also tagged in the month of August for the present year, the number being 37, or considerably better than one a day.

Six prisoners were required to work out their fines and they gave the city their services for thirteen days. A record number of jail sentences were also imposed, six persons appearing before the mayor being sent to the county jail to recuperate.

There was a decided slump in the number of persons paying fines for traffic violations as compared with practically every month of the year. Women were on their good behavior in August. While the number of arrests increased seven over the previous month, the number of women arrested in the same month decreased sixty-six and two-thirds per cent as compared with July. There were but ten women arrested in August, two as inmates of disorderly houses, three as keepers of disorderly houses, one for a parking violation, one for being drunk, one for being drunk and disorderly and two for disorderly conduct. The number of whom sentence was suspended was 82, which is unusually high.

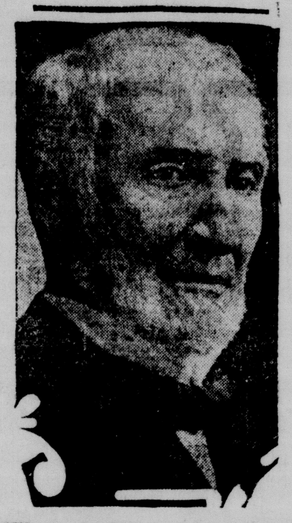
Report Of Month

The docket shows the number recorded for the various charges in the month of August to be as follows: traffic violations 75, parking violations 68, drunk 67, drunk and disorderly 14, suspicion 16, speeding 37, keeper of disorderly house 13, visitor in disorderly house 26, inmate of disorderly house 2, fighting 1, drunk and fighting 2, disorderly conduct 63, loitering 2, violation of the Snyder Act 3, arrested on warrants 3, begging 1, interfering with an officer 1, manslaughter 1, vagrancy 1, peddling without a license 1, breaking and entering 5.

The various cases were disposed of as follows: fined 253, suspended sentence 82, discharged 37, turned over to alderman 12, jail 6, worked 6, ordered to leave city 4, turned over to constable 1, pending 1.

Miss Anita Loos, now known all over the world as the author of the sprightly "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," is only 26 years old.

"Just Tired."



"Uncle Joe" Cannon, for years Speaker of the House, denied that he was seriously ill. "I'm just tired," he said. He is spending his declining years at Danville, Ill.

SQUIRE, MOTORISTS' FOE, RESIGNS AFTER PROBE OF HIS BOOKS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept 3.—C. O. Bragg, Malden justice of the peace who had aroused the ire of motorists by the number and size of fines and costs imposed after arrests on the Midland trail, resigned yesterday when faced with the result of an investigation by the tax commissioner. The audit of Bragg's books was a direct result of complaints by the motorists, and according to the tax commissioner's findings it appeared that though Bragg had given motorists receipts for the payments these amounts were not entered in his books in the manner required by law. When confronted with the audit and a demand from the tax commissioner's office for his resignation, Bragg wrote the resignation and Commissioner Hall mailed it to the county court. Bragg was defeated when he was a candidate for renomination in the Republican primary.

LAST SUMMER TOURING ORGY

Two-Day Holiday To Draw Record Number Of Tourists To Road

CELEBRATION HERE AT CASCADE PARK

Bathing Beach Owners Hope For Sultry Day To Bid Summer Adieu

It seems just a few weeks ago that New Castle was hailing the event of the long-awaited summer of 1926.

Now with the end of this week comes the day when custom dictates we should bid farewell to that pleasant season and turn our thoughts to overcoats, coal bills, ham and eggs for breakfast and flapping goloshes.

For the benefit of those who have overlooked the fact let us call to their attention that next Monday, September 6, is Labor Day and that day is unofficially accepted as the last grand holiday of summer. After that the frost can be expected to decorate the pumpkin almost any morning and husking bees will succeed Sunday school picnics.

But with the Saturday half holiday an almost universally accepted institution itself, local people are planning a wide variety of amusements and entertainments for the day.

Advices from the office of the New Castle Motor club indicate that one thing the combined holiday will bring about will be a last grand automobile touring orgy. Trips to points within a radius of 200 miles are being planned by scores of local motorists who plan to get going some time Saturday and to return late Monday evening. People intending to visit the many resorts located nearer the city will not start so soon because with any kind of a car a hundred mile trip is but a matter of three hours on an improved highway now.

Several of the local railroads have arranged attractive excursions to take points and overnight city points for those who do not wish to take a chance on motoring over holiday-crowded highways.

As usual, however, the majority of New Castle's citizens will remain in the city over the double holiday and for their amusement the usual diversions will be in vogue.

Organized labor will conduct its program with Cascade park as the center of its activities while the many bathing beaches which have sprung up on creeks and rivers in and near the city will undoubtedly attract hundreds of bathers if the weather is at all favorable.

Practically all business will be suspended in the city on Labor Day, which makes it the most universally observed holiday in the year's calendar. New Castle will take a respite from toil Sunday and Monday and enthusiastically observe the last holiday period of the summer of 1926.

NOTED BUILDING WILL BE MARKED

Bronze Tablet For Building Where Lincoln Stayed At Gettysburg

(International News Service)

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 3.—The building in which Abraham Lincoln stayed the night before he made his famous Gettysburg address at the dedication of the National Cemetery here on November 19, 1863, will be marked by a bronze tablet. The tablet will be erected by the local camp of the Sons of Veterans who have started a drive to raise $600 by local subscription for the purpose. The house in which Lincoln stayed is known as the Wills building.

Although the Wills building is one of the historical landmarks which is always pointed out to visitors here, there never has been a marker of any kind placed on it to signify its historical importance.

The tablet will be formally dedicated according to plans, on November 19, which will be designated as "Lincoln Day" in Gettysburg.

Next Convention At Wilkes-Barre

Third Class City Convention Next Year At Eastern City

(International News Service)

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept 3.—Wilkes-Barre was chosen as the 1927 convention city for the State League of Cities in the third class at the convention of the league here. Easton also had invited the 1927 convention.

Samuel E. Gilson, city solicitor of Erie, at the session on Thursday explained the legal phases of the municipal golf links maintained at Erie.

A legislative steering committee was named by the convention as follows: Wm. T. Ramsey, Chester, chairman; R. Ross Seaman, Harrisburg; George H. Lysle, McKeesport; Jos. G. Schuler, Wilkes-Barre; Walter E. Greenwood, Coatesville; Newton R. Turner, Easton, and W. D. Kinney, Erie.

The executive committee of the league was authorized to hire an engineer to work out a uniform system of traffic light regulations.

Bogus Baron On Way To Trial In Wilmington, Del.

(International News Service)

ALBUQUERQUE, New Mex., Sept. 3.—George A. Gabor, 20, who cut a swath across the country for three months impersonating "Baron Frederich Von Krupp" is on his way back to Wilmington, Del., in custody of detectives from that city. He will be prosecuted in Wilmington, it was stated, by Lamont DuPont of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours industries, who was one of the Few millionaires who royally entertained young Gabor when he presented himself here in June, as the heir of the multi-millionaire munitions magnate of Essen, Germany.

STREAM MOVES TOWNSHIP LINE

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 3.—A nameless stream in the eastern part of Adams county which once was the dividing line between Oxford and Conewago townships, has changed it course and as a result five families living in a triangle of about forty acres do not know in which of the two townships they live.

The families have been paying taxes and voting in Oxford township but upon investigation of some of the deeds on the land in the section concerned it was found that the official documents describing the land as being in Conewago township.

In an effort to straighten out the matter officials discovered that the stream in question had changed its course thereby causing the mixup.

Valentino's Body On Cross-Country Trip To Hollywood, California

Pola Negri Still Grief-Stricken As Pilgrimage To California Starts

Polish Screen Star Places Wreath Of Lilies At Foot Of Bier Of Dead Lover

(International News Service)

WITH THE VALENTINO FUNERAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3—Pola Negri still was a grief-stricken figure today as she, and others close to Rudolph Valentino, were accompanying the body of the late screen star to Hollywood for burial.

Each day, during the long trip which will not end until next Monday, she will place a fresh lilly on Valentino's bier.

As the train pulled out of Grand Central station in New York, last evening, Miss Negri was kneeling at the casket, with tears streaming down her cheeks. She did not rise until the train had long passed Harmon, some forty minutes out.

Then she placed at her dead fiance's feet a huge bunch of white lilies, tied with a purple bow.

Miss Negri is maintaining a close watch over the body from her compartment, which is next to the improvised sanctuary in which the body lies.

The body is enclosed in a bronze outer box. Inside of this is a hermatically sealed case; inside of this is the silvered bronze casket.

Covering the bier is a huge cloth of gold pall, casting $5,000.

In the private coach which is behind the coach wherein Valentino's body reposes are Alberto Guglielmi, Valentino's brother; George Ullman, his manager, and Mrs. Ullman; James Quirk, editor of a motion picture magazine and one of Valentino's friends; Miss Negri and her nurse and secretary, Adelaide Valencia and Florence Helm.

Newspaper correspondents are on another coach on the train.

LIQUOR CASES TO UPSET PLANS FOR SPEEDY JUSTICE

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Prohibition threatens to upset the carefully worked out plans of Chief Justice Taft to speed up the United States supreme court.

With new rules beginning to exert their force in reducing the time required to head and decide cases, liquor cases have become so numerous that the 1926 docket probably will be one of the largest in the history of the court.

More than 600 cases stood on the new docket today, with the prospect of many more being added before the court convenes October 2 after the summer recess.

By tightening up restrictions on cases which may be reviewed the high court has now reduced the time required to reach a case on the docket from four years to one, according to W. R. Stansbury, clerk.

The court has looked forward to the coming long session as the ultimate test of its new rules adopted last year, and attaches of the court have received with dismay many petitions involving liquor cases.

Vacations Nearing End At Post Office

Majority Of Employes Take Their Vacations During Slow Summer Season

Although vacations are taken by the employes of the New Castle post office according to a schedule which operates throughout the entire twelve months of the year, the majority of them enjoy their off periods during the "slow" summer months.

As a result practically all of the local postal men and women have completed their vacations for the present year and the force remains at almost full strength to take care of the fall pick-up in business.

To Examine Y.M.C.A. Boys Next Tuesday

All Boys Must Be Examined Before Being Assigned To Gymnasium Classes

Physical examinations for the members of the boys' department of the New Castle Y. M. C. A. will begin Tuesday, Sept. 7, it was announced today. The examinations will continue until all of the approximately six hundred boys enrolled in the department are taken care of.

Following the examinations the work of organizing the gymnasium classes for the coming winter season will begin. Secretary O. S. Goodwin hopes to begin a schedule of classes by October 4.

STATE STREET WORK STARTS

Contractors Lose No Time In Starting Paving Of West Side Street This Week

Woods and Golder, contractors, who received the contract for paving State street, at the meeting of the city council on Tuesday, have lost no time in getting started on the work.

The steam shovel was on the job yesterday, and work of excavating under way. The work has been started on the west end of State street, near the foot of the Youngstown hill.

Paving of State street will be one of the biggest traffic improvements in this city in some years. Much of the traffic coming into the city from the west will be enabled to reach Washington street without traversing Grant street to Jefferson street, and without the necessity of crossing the railroads on Grant street.

Rentz Appointed To State Tax Committee

President Of Local Chamber Receives Major Appointment From Parent Body

Word has just been received from the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce that Fred L. Rentz, president of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, has been selected as one of the committee, consisting of the presidents of the larger Chambers of Commerce of the state, to study present local tax conditions throughout the state and the burdensome methods now employed in collecting them.

This committee, after making a thorough analysis of these conditions, will offer recommendations to the public and our state legislature on some other methods which they may arrive at, as being better to handle these matters.

This is a very important assignment and the New Castle body is highly gratified over its Chamber being recognized in this matter.

Ask Investigation Into Kidnaping Of Catholic Clergyman

Norfolk Citizens Aroused Over Kidnaping By Hooded Mob Of Priest

(International News Service)

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 3.—Public indignation over the kidnapping of the Rev. V. D. Warren, a Catholic clergyman, reached such a stage here today that appeals were sent to Richmond to have Gov. Byrd intercede and order a state investigation. These appeals stated that county authorities were negligent and "not interested."

Father Warren conducts a school for poor colored children in Princess Anne county. Wednesday night while he was attending an open air concert, a crowd of about twenty masked and robed men entered the audience, seized him and drove away in automobiles. The clergyman was driven some thirty miles and then questioned concerning his work among colored people.

The priest was unharmed, but was left to make his way back home as best he could. He reported that one of his questioners informed him "we don't want negroes educated down here."

Protestant clergy as well as Catholic denounce the seizure of Father Warren and joined in asking state authorities to investigate.

COHEN SHOULD WORRY

A merchant unable to sleep tossed fretfully on his bed and muttered unintelligible words. The wife of his bosom sought the cause of his restlessness. In answer to her inquiries he said:

"You should expect me to sleep when my note to Cohen in the bank comes due tomorrow for $5,000 and there's only $2,000 in the bank to meet it."

"It is?" said the faithful wife. "Ike, you get right up and go over to Cohen's house and tell him. Let Cohen stay awake."—From Everybody's Magazine.

NEW ATLANTIC CABLE IS LAID

New York End Of Cable Is Completed Wednesday At Noon

"Bobbing up and down from a ship anchored off Rockway beach there hove into sight a long string of black casks. Fastened to the nearest one was a rope, the other end of which was attached to a huge winch mounted on a truck on shore. Round and round wound the winch and closer and closer came the string of casks. Finally the first one reached the shore and clinging to its bottom was a slimy black wire. It was seized by 150 men, was dragged far up on land and buried in a deep trench at Hammels, N. Y.

Thus was landed at 11:03 a. m. September 1, the New York shore end of the world's fastest cable. It extends from New York to Bay Roberts, Newfoundland, whence it strikes out across the floor of the Atlantic to its terminus at Penzance, England, and thence to London. It crosses the underseas plateaus, tops the submarine mountains and dips miles down into the deepest valleys.

The world's fastest cable, wrapped with Permalloy which gives it its speed, was made by the Telegraph Construction & Maintenance company of Greenwich, England. This is the oldest company engaged in the manufacture of deep sea cables. It was formed for the purpose of laying the first successful trans-Atlantic cable which was completed in 1866. Following the failure of Cyrus Field's first Atlantic cable in 1858 that courageous American could raise no more funds in America. He accordingly had recourse to England where after lengthy negotiations he succeeded in raising sufficient capital to build and lay a new cable.

The Gutta Percha company which then had a practical monopoly of the necessary insulating material was given the order to build the new cable which was completed in 1865. The steamship Great Eastern, the largest craft ever built up to that time, was chartered to lay the new cable. It set to work and 1200 miles of the new cable had been laid out when it parted and all efforts to recover it proved fruitless.

Once more Field's project was threatened with ruin. At this critical juncture in cable history, however, John Pender, the head of the Gutta Percha company, came forward with the proposal to risk a quarter of a million pounds of his own money in the effort to carry out the project. The Gutta Percha company became the Telegraph Construction & Maintenance company. A new cable was made and enough additional to complete the 1865 cable. The Great Eastern was purchased on the 13th of July, 1866, steamed into Trinity bay, Newfoundland, trailing behind her a line of cable stretching continuously back to the Irish coast. The shore end was landed safely and the Great Eastern steamed eastward again. It grappled for the lost end of the 1865 cable, recovered it, spliced on a new section and on September 8 landed this also in Newfoundland.

Thus, instead of a single Atlantic cable there were two. Others were built and laid until today there are 19 trans-Atlantic cables.

Japanese Beetle Pest Feared In This District

Being Spread Over State By Means Of Auto Tourists

Government Spends Millions In Effort To Exterminate Pests

By GEORGE H. MANNING,
(Washinghon Correspondent of the News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—The crops of Lawrence, Butler, Beaver and Mercer counties and other counties and other parts of Pennsylvania are endangered by the dread Japanese beetle which is taking advantage of the summer tourist traffic to "hitch-hike" to areas hitherto free from his depredations.

Discovery that the Japanese beetle which has for years devastated vegetation in Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Northern Maryland, travel by automobile came only this week, when a female beetle was discovered in the rose garden of an amateur horticulturist in Washington.

Spread By Tourists.

A two weeks' exhaustive search of the neighborhood of the rose garden, by a crew of ten beetle specialists from the United States Bureau of Entomology revealed no other specimen. The fact that the rose garden in which the Japanese beetle was found, was near a highway on which tourists travel into Washington from Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland, added to the fact that an official of the Department of Agriculture found one of the insects upon his shoulder while motoring through New Jersey, convinced Department of Agriculture experts that tthe Japanese beetle is being spread by tourists as well as by the travel of plants.

The Japanese beetle, through this modern method of travel, has ventured right under the nose of the United States Department of Agriculture, although the department, the states and private interests have spent millions of dollars to exterminate the pest.

The insect has done appaling damage to vegetation in Eastern Pennsylvania and is now traveling more extensively to the southern and western portions of the state.

Leaves Devastation.

The Japanese beetle gains a foothold easily, is almost impossible to exterminate, and attacks more than 100 different kinds of trees, plants and crops, leaving devastation in its path.

Free from his natural parasite enemies, the Japanese beetle, or "Popillia Japonica" has had things his way in the United States in spite of the millions of dollars spent to exterminate him. Japanese beetle specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture are now in Japan, Korea, Manchuria, India and China, searching for natural enemies of the pest to recruit for war against it.

Quarantine methods and sprays and poisons for plants and soils have been used to little avail. The most efficient enemies of the Japanese beetle yet discovered are several kinds of wasps which feed upon the grubs of the beetle and some flies which lay their eggs inside the adult beetle where the young hatch and feed upon the internal organs of the beetle-host.

These enemies of the beetle are being imported to the United States to fight the Poppilia Japonica. T. A. Gardner is in China, L. B. Parker is in India and H. A. Jaynes is in Japan, all studying the insect enemies preparing to import them in large quantities into the United States to fight the beetle which has ravaged the area around New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

TWO GIRLS CAUGHT WITH STOLEN AUTO

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 3.—Alleged to have taken an automobile, watch and other valuables from Joseph Kyle, who resides near Uniontown, Nellie Talbert and Edith Savage, two well-known local girls, have been apprehended in Columbus, O.

Kyle said one of the girls acted as his housekeeper and disappeared with his automblie while he was at work. The police in other cities were notified of the missing car and of the license number. The machine was identified when the Columbus police detained the girls. They were short of funds, not having sufficient money to pay for having a tire repaired. Both are to be brought here tomorrow.

Pork is most expensive when they call it chicken salad.

TELLS SCENES ON AUTO TOUR

New Castle Man Describes Interesting 1,000-Mile Auto Trip

Among the numerous letters received by The News, telling of the experiences had by the writers on motor trips to various points during the summer months, is one of L. R. Mardis, 136 Boyles avenue, manager of the Western Union Telegraph office here. Mr. Mardis tells of the unusual sights it is possible to see right in Pennsylvania and New York and not a great distance from the old home town.

The letter of Mr. Mardis follows:

We just returned from a very enjoyable auto camping tour of lower New York and Central Pennsylvania. While it either rained or was cloudy the whole trip there was the satisfaction of having cool weather for driving.

We made as far as Little Valley, N. Y., before camping first night and reached Watkins Glen, N. Y., early in afternoon of the second day. The Glen is world famous for its wild beauty. I always remember when quite a little fellow seeing a painting of the Glen with its stairways and waterfalls and always a desire to see it. Some claim the walls of the Glen were made by erosion of ice during the glacial period but it looks to me as though it was just the action of stones and water. The mouth or opening of the Glen comes right out on the main street of the town of Watkins which is located at the southern extremity of Lake Seneca, one of the famous Five Finger lakes. While we were there we noticed a Japanese artist very busily painting a picture of the Glen. The only evidence of animal life was a little skunk trying to hide under a rocky ledge. There is a large tourist camp at the foot of Lake Seneca at Watkins and hundreds of tourists in camp.

We went from there through the Catskill Mountains by way of Margretsville and made a trip around the great Ashokan Dam which is one of the sources of water supply for the City of New York and is near the town of Kingston, N. Y. We struck the Hudson River at Kingstown and stopped off at Newburg on the Hudson to see Washington's headquarters. Every room is furnished just as it was when Washington had his headquarters there. The most interesting thing to me was the large open French fireplaces with no chimney except from the ceiling up.

We then went over the Storm King highway along the Hudson River right along the foot of Storm King Mountain a sight well worth seeing. Stopped for a few minutes at West Point and asked our way to Port Jervis, N. Y., from one of the cadets who happened to be from Butler, Pa.

A good sized mountain was crossed before we reached Port Jervis where a beautiful scene burst on our view from the top of the mountain. We then followed the Delaware River until we came to the Delaware water gap which no one should fail to see. It is where the Delaware makes its break through the mountains at the foot of three mountains and the scenery is quite rugged. After passing through Sunbury, Lewistown and Tyrone and incidentally a few mountain grades and state forests or parks we dropped off the Lake to Seas Highway at Brookville and visited the giant pines at Cooks Forest which is another sight no one should fail to see as it is the only stand of original pines left in the state of Pennsylvania. They are leafless until the top of the tree and with their straight long trunks are quite majestic in their grandeur.

Reached home after a thousand mile trip of about ten days and no engine trouble.

Cattail Harvest In Full Swing At Conneaut Park

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., Sept. 3.—One of Pennsylvania's most novel harvests has just begun here at Conneaut Lake. Dozens of men are at work in the great cattail marshes west of the lake cutting the tall cattail stalks and baling them up in shocks like corn. The men use corn knives for the work and cut over a large area in a day. Owing to the marshy ground they are compelled to wear hip boots while at work.

The cattail leaves are left standing in the shocks two weeks to dry in the sun and are then carried to the edge of the marsh, where they are loaded in giant trucks and taken to railway cars, where they are shipped to furniture factories at various points. When the dried stalks reach the factories they are run through wringers to flatten them and force out the air. They are then twisted and are used in making the most expensive chair seats. The cattail leaves, which are round when twisted, are also used in wrapping the legs of wicker chairs and tables.

Conneaut Lake cattails are of the soft, tough variety which are best suited to commercial use.

OCTOGENARIAN KILLS SELF BY SHOOTING; SCAFFOLD DESIGNER

KANE, Pa., Sept. 3.—Chester S. King, 80 years old, of Port Allegheny, killed himself by shooting. Despondency over ill health is believed the cause.

King held various offices in McKean county during his career. While sheriff he designed a scaffold for the hanging of condemned murderers which was used various times at the county jail. It was on the type of scaffold designed by King that Gerald Chapman, notorious bandit, was hanged in Connecticut.

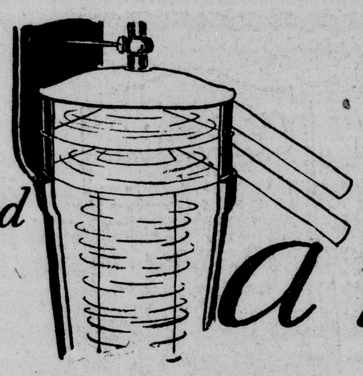
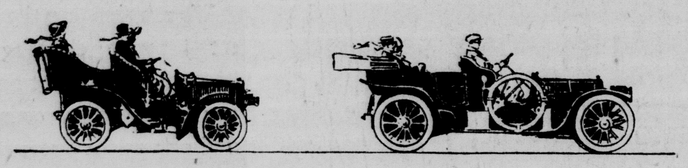
"Whirling" out hidden impurities by this unique process has produced



a remarkable new

ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL



PROGRESS never dies! Easier riding cars—more efficient motors—better gasoline . . . advancements going on constantly! Hand in hand with this steady march comes an Atlantic improvement in motor oil that is unquestionably

the biggest forward step in the history of motor lubricants

It represents an oil which will outlast and outlive any motor oil you have ever before used. An oil which will save you more in motor upkeep and lubrication costs than you ever dreamt possible.

For this new Atlantic Motor Oil literally will not wear out. Were it possible to keep it absolutely free from road dirt contamination and gasoline dilution, the oil in your crankcase would be as good as ever after thousands and thousands of miles of driving. For the character of this remarkable oil is unaffected by wear or motor heat. It will not weaken under the battering of flying pistons or heavy bearings.

Atlantic-perfected processes have made this new oil possible

Most everyone knows that crude petroleum contains all sorts of constituents. Many of them are wholly unsuited to motor lubrication. Among these is a quick-melting, waxy substance which breaks down under heat. It thins down the oil. It weakens the oil film. It permits the character of the oil to be changed; its efficiency to be reduced.

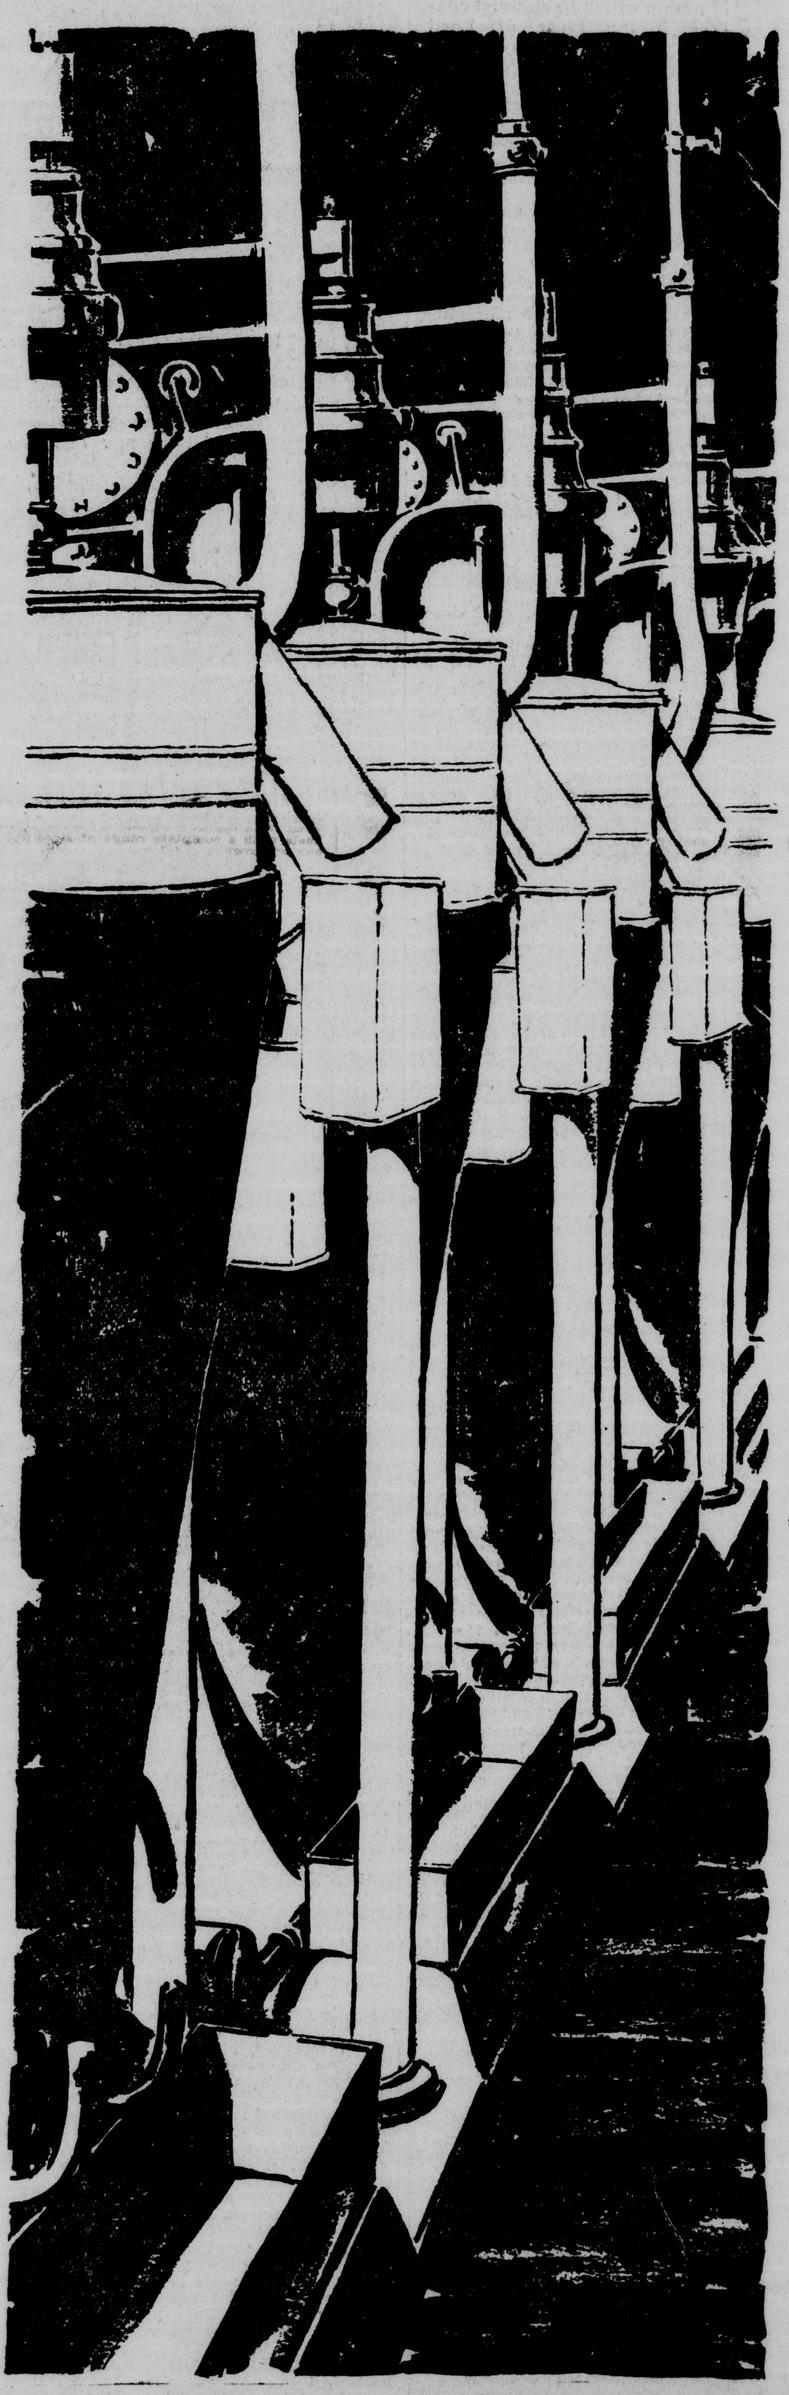
Ordinary distilling and filtering processes do not completely remove these undesirable elements. So Atlantic engineers have added another refinement to motor oil manufacture . . . a whirling process which employs Nature's centrifugal laws (the same principle as used in a cream separator).

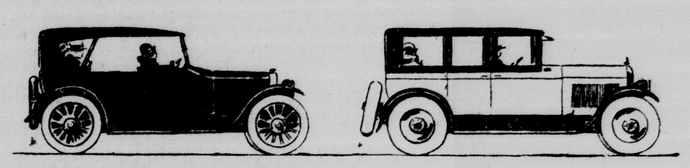
In addition, this new Atlantic Motor Oil is heat-tempered—subjected to a slow "curing" process which toughens it.

The net result is—

An oil that is all oil—as free from impurities as a motor oil can be.

An oil that will retain its "body" long after ordinary oils "break down."





An oil that is not appreciably reduced in volume nor changed in character through evaporation under motor heat.

An oil with the smoothest, toughest lubricating film ever attained in motor oil manufacture.

What do these motor oil improvements mean to you?

The new Atlantic Motor Oil means the most thorough, dependable protection the working parts of your motor have ever had . . . the lowest motor upkeep and repair cost you have ever known.

It means the greatest oil economy you have ever experienced.

You've always wanted this kind of a motor oil. Here it is. Use it and see how thoroughly it keeps your pistons sealed. How little it suffers from dilution. How little carbon it forms. How live and effective it still is after hundreds and hundreds of miles. How little oil your motor will consume. How this oil smoothes out motor anxieties and adds sinews of strength to your engine.

Atlantic dealers and service stations are now supplied with the new Atlantic Motor Oil in the Medium, Heavy, Special Heavy and Extra Heavy types. Sealed cans and by the quart. Dealer's chart tells exactly which oil to use in your car.

The evaporation test

Evaporation due to motor heat, contamination due to road dirt, dilution due to gasoline seepage—these are the great enemies of motor oil. The manufacturer cannot prevent contamination and dilution in the crankcase, but the Atlantic process of refining has prevented evaporation, or reduced it to the minimum, even under the most severe motor operating conditions. Study these remarkable tests:

At 480°
nine representative "medium" motor oils, under test, showed an evaporation loss of 19% or greater

At 480°
the new Atlantic Motor Oil (medium), under identically the same test, showed an evaporation loss of 3%

THE ATLANTIC REFINING CO.

Farm Relief Legislation Troubles To Remain Before Congress

Next Congress And One Meeting March 4 To Have Farm Problem

May Be Factor In Political Campaign For President

By JOSEPH PITTMAN
(General Press Association.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—The battle over farm relief legislation will be renewed at the next session of congress. Many symptoms indicate that agricultural questions will be overshadowing in Washington next winter.

The defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill in the recent session by no means ended the controversy over farm relief and the agricultural problem. On the contrary, it is impossible now to foresee when it will be ended.

Fight Just Begun.

"The fight for farm relief legislation has just begun," said Representative L. J. Dickinson of Iowa recently. Mr. Dickinson is one of the leaders of the agricultural group in the house and was active last session in support of the Haugen bill which was quite similar to the McNary-Haugen bill in the senate. "We are determined to obtain legislation which will remedy the deplorable condition in which agriculture finds itself."

Agriculture, he said, sought to have the same protection as industry and labor, that the agricultural problem had become the major campaign issue and it would be "the predominant issue in the 1928 campaign."

Senator Capper of Kansas, former head of the agricultural bloc in the senate, has likewise declared that the fight for farm legislation will be renewed next session. Senator Capper has recently been in conference with President Coolidge and he advised the president that the farmers were insistent they be given a square deal as compared with industry.

Expressions of a similar sort have been uttered by many members of the house and senate from agricultural states. It is true this is a campaign year and there is a tendency on the part of politicians in both houses of congress to talk with more stress about helping the farmer in campaign years than in ordinary years. But making a reasonable discount for this fact, there is no doubt unusual interest shown in Washington at this time over the agricultural situation and over agricultural demands.

Agriculture Demands Action.

The sum and substance of the situation is that the agricultural industry is becoming more and more convinced it is not getting the same advantages at the hands of government and otherwise as industry, finance and labor are obtaining, and it is becoming more and more bent on getting those advantages.

According to many of the farm leaders, and members of the argricultural group in the house and senate, the existing tariff rates are in large part responsible for the conditions of which agriculture complains. It is charged the farmer is getting little benefit from the tariff rates on the products of the farm, while the prices of what he has to buy are increased by the duties on manufactured products. Whatever may be the merit of this charge, there is no doubt it represents the opinion of a large percentage of the farmers of the country. The question has to some extent entered the present political campaign for the control of congress, and will have to be given serious consideration whenever congress undertakes another revision of the tariff law.

Now, while leaders in the agricultural forces are promising to renew the fight for farm relief legislation at the next session of congress, there is no likelihood of such legislation being enacted next session. The next congress begins the first Monday in December and ends at noon March 4. In that three months, it will be out of the question to pass a comprehensive farm relief measure, although there is no doubt the subject will be threshed over again and again in both houses. The friends of the McNary-Haugen bill, or the general principles underlying it, will urge the need of such legislation, Senator Fess will press his bill and the entire winter will be marked by more controversy over farm relief with no prospect of action.

For New Congress.

This means, of course, that the agricultural problem is going to be forced into the new congress which will come into power March 4. The new congress is likely to have as much trouble and conflict about it as the present one has had.

It is not at all unlikely the issue will still be unsettled when the presidential campaign of 1928 comes on. That it will cut a figure in the Republican national convention is probable, especially if former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois is urged for the presidency by his western and southern friends against President Coolidge. It looks now as if the agricultural forces would demand the nomination of Mr. Lowden, who is himself a large farm owner, who was a farm hand in his younger days and who has made a deep study of the needs of agriculture in this country and also has studied at close range the agricultural conditions in Europe.

The problem of how to foster and build up agriculture in the United States is, of course, an economic problem. Yet in the present condition of things in Washington and in the country, it is impossible to overlook the fact that in some respects it has become a political problem. Leastwise, it is deeply entangled with politics. Therefore, in considering what the government is going to do for agriculture or how it is going to deal with it, the politicians and political factors have to be taken into account.

President Coolidge is an aspirant for another term. No politician of standing in Washington doubts this. Naturally, the president and his friends desire the good will and support of the farmers and not their hostility, and have no desire to see Mr. Lowden or any other presidential aspirant become formidable through the backing of the great agricultural states and communities. The consequence is that the administration for political reasons in addition to reasons of economy and good government, is just now giving keen attention to the question of what can be done for agriculture. Secretary Jardine, head of the department of agriculture, Secretary of Commerce Hoover, farm loan board officials and various other officials, to say nothing of many members of house and senate, are pondering to an unusual extent on a problem that has plenty of perplexities. Not the least of these perplexities is the lack of unanimity among the agricultural leaders themselves and internal politics in some of the farm organizations adds to the difficulty.

Farm Conditions Improve.

While there is a great deal of talk that farm conditions are steadily improving and that the farmers if left alone will solve their own troubles, the facts as they are reported in a general way the country over do not entirely bear out such optimistic predictions. The truth is the agricultural situation is "spotted". Some sections have experienced improvement and have little of which to complain. Others are by no means in good shape. Numerous bank failures in parts of the middle western, northwestern and southern areas have been a backset and by reason of the troubles of the farmers, general business has suffered. An important result is that the demands of the farmers for relief and to be put on a par with other industries are getting the backing of a large and increasing element among leaders of business and finance and industry. This fact is bound to have weight with congress and the administration and to give agricultural matters an increasing prominence in Washington.

Just at this time, some of the best minds in the government and congress, as well as in agriculture, are giving thought to improved methods of agricultural financing. It is a safe prediction that the next year or two will witness some important departures in this field. Exactly what they will be and whether they will be brought about through legislation or administrative action, or by private interests alone, is impossible at this time to tell. The various bills pending in congress for relief of the farmer are so well known it is not necessary to discuss them. The administration would like to see the difficulties of the farmer solved without legislation, either by administration or by private financial interests.

Secretary Hoover has broached to the president and he and some other government officials are convinced a plan can be worked out for stabilizing land values by preventing the foreclosure of mortgages on farms and their enforced sale at low prices. Such foreclosures demoralize values in a community. One plan being considered is to organize private financial institutions or pools which will take over or guarantee mortgages about to be foreclosed. Something is likely to be worked out which will meet this phase of the agricultural problem.

STATE WHEAT YIELD LARGE

Over 23,000,000 Bushels To Be Crop Record For Present Year

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 3. — Pennsylvania will produce more than twenty-three million bushels of wheat and a million and a half bushels of rye, preliminary reports to the State Department of Agriculture indicate. The forecast is based on acreage reports from counties.

Lancaster county with an estimated yield of 2,756,714 bushels will lead the entire state in total production of wheat. York county will be second with 2,392,783 bushels, the forecast indicated. They are the only two counties to reach the two million bushel mark.

Franklin, Berks, Adams, Chester, in the order named and each with more than a million bushel production, follow Lancaster and York.

Philadelphia county with the entire acreage only 640, will lead the state in per acre yield by counties. The average yield there has been placed at 28.9 bushels per acre. Chester county in second with 26.9 bushels per acre. The average yield for the entire state has been estimated at 19.8 bushels.

Lackawanna county, where the riches of the earth are in the mines below the surface, reported only 50 acres planted to wheat and harvested this season, the smallest county acreage in the state. Wayne county reported but 80 acres and Cameron county an even 100 acres.

The total rye production of the state has been estimated at 1,535,999 bushels. Berks county with a production of 119,784 bushels held first place, while Franklin county, with 107,100 bushels, was second.

New Locomotive Used In Logging

Extensive Use Of New Oil-Electric Locomotive In Logging Industry Seen

CONSIDERS PLANS FOR NEW BRIDGE

By MILLER HOLLAND
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Extensive use of the oil-electric locomotive for logging in the West was seen today when it was learned that the 100-ton engine of this newest type of railroad power ordered by the Red River Lumber Company for service in timber land operations was on its way from Schenectady, N. Y., to Westwood, Cal.

The new locomotive will be the first of its kind to be operated on the Pacific coast and, according to Red River Lumber Company officials, the first in the lumber industry in the United States.

Of the internal combustion type, the new locomotive uses low grade fuel oil which drives an electric generator. The generator, in turn, moves powerful motors fastened to the axles of the driving wheels. The new type of locomotive is said to be a tremendous weight puller and economical in operation.

The locomotive, which is of 600 horsepower, will be used to haul logs of from six to eight feet in diameter over steep grades from the timberlands of the Red River Company's holdings to the lumber center at Westwood. The locomotive was designed and built by the American Locomotive, Ingersoll-Rand and General Electric companies.

One feature valuable in logging operations is that the new engine gives forth no smoke or sparks. In addition it uses little water and is said to be particularly suited to lumber work.

Marking completion of the Southern Pacific's new Cascade line between Klamath Falls and Eugene, in Oregon, "trail to rail" pageant and celebration was staged at Eugene, Ore., recently. The pageant, written by Prof. W. P. G. Thatcher of the University of Oregon, depicted the evolution and history of transportation in the Northwest. More than 3,000 people were included in the cast of the pageant. Ezra Meeker, famous Oregon Trail pioneer, was a character in the historical play. He was also grand marshal of the parade which preceded the pageant.

Among the transportation vehicles in the pageant were Indian pole drags, ox teams, burros, covered wagons, stage coaches, buckboard, buggies, canoes, ships, high-wheel bicycles, horses, railway locomotives and coaches and airplanes. The new Cascade line will be open for local train service early in September and through train service is expected to be inaugurated later in the year.

One of the latest San Francisco bay bridge plans being considered by the San Francisco board of supervisor is the one put forth by the New York and San Francisco Development Company, of which Major General George W. Goethals, former chief of engineers of the United States army and builder of the Panama Canal, is consulting and advisory engineer.

The proposed Goethals bridge would run from Hunter's Point, two or three miles south of the Ferry building, taking off between the drydocks there, to the foot of High street, Alameda, six and one-half miles across San Francisco bay. It would have several cantilever spans of 750 feet across the main channel to a point about 3,600 feet out in the bay from the pierhead line, and from that point on would be a series of 250-foot simple spans.

Cost of the project ranges from $40,000,000 for a vehicular bridge; $60,000,000 for a combined vehicular and rapid transit bridge, and $85,000,000 for a bridge to include heavy transcontinental rail traffic. According to Herbert L. Rothchild, vice president of the company, the Goethals structure conforms to war department rulings and naval requirements.

FARMFACTS

TIMELY REMINDERS From The Pennsylvania State College

Make Soybean Hay Right—Soybeans for hay cure best if cut just after the pods form. If permitted to stand until the beans in the pods are fully developed, the pods cure much more slowly than the rest of the plant. Then, too, short days and poorer curing weather are encountered.

Have Variety in Fall Garden—How many vegetables will be available in your garden in October? A Cambria county gardener last season had more than 20 ready for use when the first freeze came. In a southern Pennsylvania garden recently 32 vegetables were counted, all of which should be available late in the fall. There is a greater possibility for variety of products in the fall garden than in the early one.

Can Corn for Cows—Silage is one of the best and cheapest feeds for milk production. Anyone keeping a dairy herd can well afford to ensile a portion of his corn crop for next winter's feeding.

Keep Hens on Grass—There is nothing like outdoor range, either in green yards or on sod, to keep up the health of a flock of hens. This is especially true of hens that are to be used as breeders. Incidentally, it answers the question of green feed.

Be Ready for Apples—Be sure that there is a supply of crates, picnic baskets or bags, and ladders for the winter apples. Clean out the storage, and if it is not sweet or sanitary, sweeten it with whitewash, bordeaux or a disinfectant, taking care to ventilate thoroughly before using.

Help Control Corn Borer—The European corn borer is spreading. Help control this pest by not carrying corn from infested territory to clean sections.

Swedish Royalty Arrive In Tokio

(International News Service)

TOKIO, Sept. 3.—Crown Princess Gustaf Adolf and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden arrived in Tokio Thursday and were welcomed by Japanese dignitaries.

The royal couple will be presented to the Prince Regent later today.

The Crown Prince will spend several days in the vicinity of Tokio, devoting most of his time to the study of archeology.

Bishop Schrembs of the Catholic diocese of Cleveland, possesses a tenor voice of exceptionally fine quality and friends aware of this fact persuaded him recently to sing a solo for the radio.

How much gas do you buy in a year?

THE average car-owner, say statistics, uses 400 gallons of gasoline a year. Assuming yourself to be an average driver, multiply 400 by the cost per gallon ..... A tidy sum for motor fuel, isn't it?

And another good reason for running your car on Sterling Ethyl Gasoline.

For Ethyl Gasoline will not only give you more of the efficiency of each gallon of fuel. It will also save you many dollars in repair bills—in depreciation—and in motoring satisfaction.

Knocks out that "knock"

Ethyl Gasoline will save you money

This is why Sterling Ethyl Gasoline will save you money: It neutralizes the harmful effects of carbon. It stops the damaging carbon "knock." And it makes carbon of actual benefit.

You know what carbon ordinarily does—and it forms with every mile. It causes most engine ills. It costs you power. It wastes fuel. It cuts down the miles per gallon. It shakes and loosens the engine. It hastens depreciation. It puts your car in the service station—why, just think what you pay to have carbon removed from your cylinders!

But when you drive on Sterling Ethyl Gasoline

It knocks out that "knock" and turns carbon into power

This is a claim based on fact. Proved by racing drivers. Proved by the U. S. Navy. Proved by automobile manufacturers. Proved by car owners among your friends.

Sterling Ethyl Gasoline is science's latest contribution to automobile advance. It was developed in the great Research Laboratories of General Motors. And it turns carbon into an agency of service—into greater power, smoother operation and greater economy. In fact, the more carbon you have, the better Sterling Ethyl works!

Innocent Spooning Not Harmful, Says Judge In Youngstown Civil Court

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 3. — Petting was born in the 20th century, but the past 25 years witnessed a great advance in the popularity of the pastime among young and old, according to Judge George Gessner, a strong advocate of "proper spooning."

"I'm not against petting when its done properly," declared Judge Gessner of Domestic Relations court.

"Petting is merely a trend of nature and all of us have felt its appeal at least once during our life time."

The judge set down a set of "dont's" to govern petting. They are:

"Don't pet while driving an automobile. When you start petting stop driving. The two don't mix.

"Don't park your machine without lights.

"Don't pet on roads, or lanes, use the main thoroughfares. You'll attract considerably less attention and probably will keep out of the hands of the police.

"Don't pet the other fellow's girl. Pet the daughters and leave the wives alone.

"Don't pet unless your petter friend is 18 or over."

Gessner urged police to use more discretion in arresting petters, saying there was "no harm in a little innocent spooning."

Navigable Canal Will Connect All Hungary Rivers

(International News Service)

BUDAPEST, Sept. 3.—A navigable canal connecting the Danube and the River Theiss, which runs through the richest agricultural district of Hungary, will be built this year by a group of American and English financiers. The canal will cost about two million dollars but will reduce transportation costs of the huge Hungarian grain crops about thirty per cent.

The canal will be built from Szolnok to the Danube. At the present time most of the Theiss is too shallow for navigation but as it is lower than the Danube, the canal will allow enough water to flow into the smaller river to make float river craft. The canal also will drain a large section of land.

LAST DAY TO FILE PAPERS

Governor Pinchot's Attitude Is One That Is Perplexing Party Leaders

(From News Bureau State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 3.—While the two major parties have started their fall campaigns interest still remains on whether or not Governor Pinchot will be an independent candidate for the United States Senate. Today is the last day when independent bodies and candidates may file their papers with the state in order to insure a place on the November ballot.

Efforts have been made in the state during the summer to get up an independent ticket and it also is possible after the closing date to substitute names in the event one is placed in the field at the last moment. The governor already has the nomination of the Labor party. In the event he decides to withdraw he has until September 13 to get out of the fight. Many here, however, feel that he will not be a candidate in the fall.

The Republicans after their bitter fight in the spring for both the senatorial and gubernatorial places are now urging harmony for the coming campaign. In practically every place where the state wide candidates have appeared on platforms they have stressed that point.

This being the season of county fairs the candidates are unusually busy going about addressing rallies. Both Republican and Democratic candidates are taking advantage of these affairs to put themselves before the public. The Democrats are making a strong and intensive campaign in the interest of William B. Wilson, their senatorial candidate. They figure he has the best chance of any one on their ticket to be elected in his fight against Congressman Vare of Philadelphia.

"Brick" Muller To Find New Fame As Foot Ball Coach At Los Angeles

By THOMAS R. CURRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—'Brick' Muller, whose football exploits are legendary, will be as great an attraction in professional football this autumn as Harold "Red" Grange himself. Muller signed several days ago to captain the Los Angeles team of the Professional Football league.

Selected twice by Walter Camp for his all-American team, and the first west coast player ever to be nominated for the mythical eleven, Brick was undoubtedly the greatest player developed by the late "Andy" Smith of the University of California and he was probably the greatest player the Pacific coast has known.

Muller, although an end, was the bulwark of the Golden Bear "wonder teams" of 1920, 1921 and 1922. His forward passing ability has become traditional.

"Tell me about that 80-yard pass of yours," I asked him.

"It wasn't 80 yards," said 'Brick' with fine contempt for mythology, "it was caught 53 yards in front of scrimmage, and I stood 15 yards behind; that made it only 68 yards."

The Longest Pass.

That probably is the longest pass ever completed in a big time college game.

"I was surprised it didn't go farther," admitted "Brick", "I threw it as hard as I could."

"Is it your big hands that make you such a good passer?" I queried.

"I haven't big hands," said "Brick" modestly, holding up his freckled mitts. And they weren't unusually large at that.

"I think it's the looseness of my thumb joint that makes it easy to handle the ball," and Muller wiggled his thumbs as though they worked in a socket.

Brick played in two Tournament of Roses east-west championship games, one against Ohio State; the other against West Virginia. California defeated Ohio State 28 to 0 and wallowed in the mud for a scoreless tie with the Mountaineers.

For the past four years, Brick has been varsity end coach at California while attending medical school in San Francisco. His decision to take up professional football, he admitted, was influenced by the seductive lisp of $25,000, which will be enough to put him through the remaining years of his medical course.

"Brick" objected to the phrase "turning pro" in connection with his contract with the Los Angeles team. "I'm not becoming a professional," he declared, "I have been a professional ever since I got out of school because I've been paid to coach at California."

To Help California.

Brick said he had only one regret in connection with his decision to play the professional game and that was his inability to help "Nibs" Price, the new California coach, in preparing this year's eleven.

"I told 'Nibs' I'd help him out, but I didn't sign a contract," Muller explained. "I know, however, that he was counting on me as I knew Andy Smith's system thoroughly."

Muller's first act as captain of the new Los Angeles team was to sign Johnny Hawkins and Hank Lefebvre, former University of Southern California football celebrities. Eighteen men will be signed for the team, most of whom will be former football players in Pacific coast colleges.

Team practice will begin and the first game will be played with Kansas City or Chicago; the last contest of the season will be against the New York Giants, December 5.

Immediately afterward the Los Angeles team will return here for a series of games against picked opponents.

Bet the foreign papers carry standing heads, "Today's Cabinet."

Slippery Rock Church Has Notable History; Early Days Recalled

Congregation Celebrating 125th Anniversary, Hears Of Church Progress

Pioneer Church Of Large Area Of Western Pennsylvania, Facts Show

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—One hundred and twenty five years ago when the pioneer fathers hewed down great logs for the first church at Slippery Rock, it is probable that they had no actual vision of the anniversary in the church today, where hundreds of people are gathered in the building of more recent construction, listening to many of the pastors who have helped the church and congregations on their way in the past years.

The first to settle in this immediate community were William and Benjamin Cunningham, Abel Hennon, Robert and Samuel Gaston, William Cairns, Charles Morrow and John Moore. These men with their families came from Fayette county in 1796. Others who settled near here in 1800 or before were Joseph Benson, Hugh Wilson, Abraham McCurdy, John Newton and Moses Matheny. The greater part of the land in Wayne township was in Chew district.

Log Houses

Many difficulties arose to confront the pioneers in their efforts to build homes. The first houses were constructed of logs as were the barns, a number of which are still standing. The logs unhewn, were covered with rough clapboards four feet in length, which in turn were held in place by heavy long poles. The doors were of clapboards and were hung on heavy wooden hinges and had a wooden latch.

Greased linen or paper generally took the place of glass which was a very rare article. A table was made of a split slab set upon four legs, while the chairs were usually three legged stools, and the beds were made of poles.

The clothing was wool, prepared and woven by hand, flax was woven into linen and used for bedding. If a family planned to move, they did so on horseback. Not only the family, but the household furniture as well. At that time there was not a single bridge between the Ohio river and Lake Erie. For two years the corn was pounded in primitive fashion, before a grist mill was erected by Annanias Allen, near the mouth of the Slippery Rock creek.

Early Preaching Tours

While the men and women were laboring hard and long during the six days of the week, they did not forget their training in the Bible and Catechism. Desiring the privilege of the "preached Word," in their new homes, they arranged to have some of their pastors from former homes, come to visit them. In 1799 Elisha McCurdy and Joseph Stockton made their first preaching tour through these settlements, and were the first Presbyterian ministers to traverse these hills and valleys.

In 1800 the Reverends McCurdy, McPhersin and Marquis conducted services in various parts of this section. It was their custom to gather the scattered settlers from far and near into little groups for worship of God, and learn more of the gospel. During these tours the men would go as far north as Erie and overcame many obstacles in order to carry on the work. Having no roads, many times they would get lost in the by-paths that led through the woods, sleeping at night under the friendly moon with a blanket of stars for a coverlet.

Kept Appointments

It is hard to find people so staunch and true that they would rather suffer from the ill effects of wet clothing, than to miss an appointment. No doubt these traveling pastors would have put to shame "little Alibi," who furnishes excuses for people who do not keep appointments. Many times they would appear for the service, possibly a little late, having had to swim the creek which had swollen with recent rains, and with the exception of wet clothing, they would be in good spirits.

Among the first ministers who settled in this region permanently was Thomas E. Hughes, who located at Greersburg, (now Darlington) in 1798. He was a man of marked ability and the first settled pastor north of the Ohio river. The name of the little church on the Hill, has always been Slippery Rock, named from the creek on whose banks the first meetings were conducted. No exact date of its organization can be found in the record at the Presbytery.

The first official record of the church organization is on April 13, 1802. The first meeting place was probably the Allen Grist Mill. Here the families would gather for their worship. Included in the congregation at that time were: Jesse Bell, William Cairns and his wife Nancy, Joseph Hennon and his wife Margaret, William Cunningham and his wife Mary, Jonathan Peppard and Elizabeth his wife, Jacob Van Gorder and Margaret, Andrew Elliott and Lucy, Isaac Cole and Jane, Thomas and William Henry.

Enter New Castle

At a meeting of Erie Presbytery conducted September 30, 1802, the congregations of Slippery Rock and Lower Neshannock, (New Castle) reported that they are now able to support a minister full time and requested that they be permitted to present a call to the Ohio Presbytery for Alexander Cook. This request was granted, and on April 12, 1803, Mr. Cook, then a licentiate, accepted the call and taken under the care of Erie Presbytery. June 22 of the same year Erie Presbytery met at Slippery Rock and Mr. Cook was ordained to the gospel ministry, and was installed, the first pastor of this congregation and New Castle.

Following the coming of Rev. Cook, the people continued to meet at the Allen Mill or at his house for preaching services, but he had not been here long before the "Log Church" was built on the hill, nearby where the present church now stands. This structure lacked many so-called essentials, and contained many extremely interesting features, one of which was the huge fire-place which located in the center of the church, was built on the ground. Above this fireplace two logs were thrown across the church from side to side at the eaves, and upon these logs was built a large chimney of split sticks, straw and clay for the purpose of drawing the smoke out of the building.

High Fallutin' Folks

Congregations who slouch down in large comfortable seats found in the modern churches of today would find it extremely unforgivable if they should enter a church and were to find no seats. It is more probable that they would leave immediately. What a far cry it is to this little log church which contained no seats and people were compelled to stand or sit upon the ground. Some of the families began to construct seats for themselves, of a split log and four legs. They were criticized severely by other more puritanical members, for their departure from the older custom.

Stoves were put in and good old men shook their heads, "Such effeminacy, what are we coming to anyway?" The story of hardships suffered by many members of the congregation that they might continue to pay the minister his salary, are in accord with the favorite tales concerning Abe Lincoln. One man split rails for a week in order to obtain a dollar for the church. One other family decided that their children should go barefooted rather than not support the church. The church has prospered with such people to act as a foundation.

Other pastors in the church history include Rev. Robert Sample who worked hard for the fabulous sum of three hundred dollars a year, a greater part of which was paid in farm produce. During his pastorate a new frame church was built in 1825, and it stood until 1863 when the present building was erected.

Rev. Sample left the church for Slippery Rock to go to New Castle. It was three years before Rev. B. C. Critchlow just out of the seminary, was called. He served seven years and his place was supplied by the Rev. James Henderson, who had an important part in the spiritual awakening which increased the membership by more than fifty. Mr. Billingsly followed by Rev. Henderson and after a short stay, the church was without regular pastor for a period of six years.

Civil War Period

The reason for the long time intervening without a regular pastor was on account of the Civil War. Rev. Henry Webber supplied for several years before becoming formally installed, and helped with nursing of soldiers sent home and eased the suffering in every way possible. It is with a pride that people of this vicinity can point to the Slippery Rock cemetery where there lie buried soldiers from every war in which this country has taken part.

The church building standing today was erected during Rev. Webber's ministry, which was followed by Rev. Morton, who was followed by John H. Aughey, installed pastor in 1870. Following in line were pastors, Rev. G. S. Rice who served for 15 years, Rev. W. G. Beagle, Rev. Samuel Barber and Rev. Charles Bell, who came to the church in 1899.

Rev. Bell's long to be remembered pastorate lasted until October, 1914, a little over 15 years. He did a splendid work while in the church which is going on today. He resigned from that church to take up the work as pastor of the Bell Memorial, which he organized first as a mission.

Rev. Gusty P. West, followed Rev. Bell and was pastor of the church for five years. After an interval of several months, Rev. Paul Elliott, present pastor arrived. During his pastorate a number of changes have been made in the present structure. A model basement has been finished, a new hardwood floor, pulpit, pulpit platform and railing have been completed just recently, as well as new seats. The Slippery Rock church is an institution with a big future, and a splendid past.

Say Bomber Not Ellwood Man

Two Ellwood Citizens Fail To Identify Bomber As Rabick

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Evidence that the body of the man who exploded a bomb in banking rooms of the Farmers Savings Deposit bank August 24, is that of Mike, alias William Chowick, former Wisconsin prison and asylum inmate and not that of Jim Rabick, Ellwood City radical, continued to pile up last night with the arrival of Feodisi Loss of Ellwood City, with whom Rabick roomed for six weeks, and Paul Cartwright, a locksmith of Ellwood City, who made several keys for Rabick.

Loss, after he had viewed the body in the morgue and the clothes which were worn by the bomber, stated that the trousers of the bomber were too long to be those of Rabick and that the shoes were too small. He also said that Rabick had a bald spot on the back of his head. The body in the morgue showed no baldness. Cartwright, who came here to identify the keys found in the clothing of the dead bomber, could not identify any of them as keys that he had made for Rabick.

Chief of Police M. J. Teater of Ellwood City is still positive that the body in the morgue is that of Rabick. He bases his belief on the fact that the callouses are the same as those Rabick had on his hand caused by carrying a cane. Teater thinks that Loss is mistaken because of the fact that Rabick never worked and the dead man is said to have worked in the tube mills near Ellwood City.

William Dean Tells Of Webster Trip At Rotary Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—William Dean, who recently returned from a trip through the western states, told some interesting things concerning his views of future business, scenery and dwelled on packing houses in particular when he addressed his brother Rotarians at their regular dinner meeting in the dining room of the First Presbyterian church on Thursday evening.

There were two visitors from the New Castle club, Fred L. Rentz, president of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, and the new secretary, A. W. Chilton.

H. R. Smith reported that an operating table had been shipped from New York and would arrive here in due time for the clinic for crippled children which is to be in charge of Dr. Wallace of New Castle. This clinic, which is set for the third Tuesday in September, is for all crippled children, some of whom are unknown to the sponsors of this work, the Rotarians.

Local Girls Leave For University To Take Up Nursing

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—Miss Helen McClymonds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McClymonds of Second street, Miss Mary Ellen Bell, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Bell of Fifth street, left Wednesday evening for New York where they will take up nursing in the Presbyterian hospital department of Columbia University this winter.

Both young ladies are graduates of the Ellwood City high school and carried honors from Geneva and Slippery Rock colleges. They have been teaching in the Ellwood schools and as always, the best of chums, they have decided upon a life of nursing as a career.

Home Missions, Topic Of Woman's Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—Mrs. Hugh Tomb was in charge of the program given by the Woman's Missionary Society in their church parlor Thursday evening. The subject taken up for the evening included the Home Missions. The life of the Aliens, Indians and Friedman were discussed in papers read by the following women: Mrs. George Davidson, Mrs. E. S. Wilson, Mrs. J. A. Cosby, Mrs. Albert Keller, Mrs. W. H. Scheidemantle, Mrs. Robert Grandey and Mrs. Harvey Wright.

Plan Dedication Of New Church

Program Is Arranged For September 12 To 15 At Lutheran Church

NEW PASTOR TO BE INSTALLED

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—Dedication of the Trinity Lutheran church, installation of new pastor, Lutheran or neighborhood night, community night and recital night will be events at the local church beginning Sunday, September 12 to 15, inclusive.

The dedication service will be conducted in the morning of September 12, with Rev. L. J. Baker, the new minister, in charge. The installation will be in charge of Dr. Ellis B. Burgess, president of the Pittsburgh Synod. Rev. L. Beisecker, former pastor here, will have the Litergical service. Rev. Robert R. Durst, who organized in the local congregation in 1894, Rev. Peter Riffer of New Castle, and Rev. Charles White will also have part in the morning service.

The first Lutheran church building was erected at the corner of Spring avenue and Fifth street, October 28, 1900, and was dedicated July 3, 1902. It served as a place for worship until sold in 1925, and the new property on Second and Spring was purchased, and a new building erected.

There have been four pastors preceding the present one. They are: Rev. Robert Durst who served from September, 1894, to November, 1894; Rev. Peter Ripper, from November to April, 1902; Rev. A. P. Lentz from April, 1902, to April, 1914; Rev. Ludwig Beisecker, from September, 1914, to June, 1926. The new pastor who came here with his family from Latrobe is located in the splendid nine-roomed church parsonage which is built next to the church on Spring avenue.

Mrs. Helen Helling will sing "Open the Gates of the Temple," at the morning service and other special numbers will be selected by the choir.

The afternoon session will begin at 3:30, with Rev. F. E. Stough of the St. John's church at New Castle, in charge. Rev. C. W. White, manager of the Orphan's Home at Zelienople, will conduct the Litergical service.

In the evening the service at 8 o'clock will be in charge of Rev. L. Beisecker who now has a charge in Pittsburgh.

MANY NEW SIGNERS FOR BEAUTY CONTEST AT SHELBY PICNIC

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—There is more and and more interest being taken in the Bathing Beauty contest to be carried on at the National Tube company picnic at Morado park Monday.

Mrs. Catherine Jones, Miss Louise Barton and Mrs. Nellie Hazen in charge of this particular feature have written proof that Ellwood women who are in some way connected with this steel mill plan to appear for the contest in costumes in neat design suitable to the modern venus.

A large percentage of the employes have signified their plans to attend the picnic which promises to be the most successful ever conducted by the Tubers of Ellwood City.

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—Members of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church did not conduct their meeting at the grove at Ewing park as scheduled Thursday evening, but brought their lunch to the large dining room in the church where they had an enjoyable time.

Those on the committee were Mrs. H. L. Wilson, Mrs. Catherine Hainer, Mrs. Bert Hartung, Mrs. Fred Jackson, Mrs. D. A. Evans and Mrs. Grace Benford.

Ellwood Doctor Enters Guilty Plea

Alleged He Issued Phoney Whiskey Prescriptions To Drug-store Owners

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Dr. L. W. Darragh, 219 Foch street, Ellwood City, pleaded guilty in Federal Court Thursday to violating the prohibition act and was sentenced to pay a fine of $250 by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

R. E. Joyce, assistant prohibition administrator, stated to the court that Darragh had issued whiskey prescriptions bearing fictitious names and which were turned over to the owners of certain drugstores for the purpose of covering up alleged shortages in their liquor permits.

Prohibition authorities asserted today that two other physicians and a druggist of Ellwood City are now under arrest for violations of the prohibition act but they are withholding the names for the present.

Former Lawrence County Woman Is Now 91 Years Old

Mrs. Nancy Dean Jones, Once Associated With Late Ira D. Sankey, Evangelist

IS NOW RESIDING AT AUSTIN, MINN.

Mrs. Nancy Dean Jones, a native of Lawrence county, recently celebrated her 91st birthday at her home in Austin, Minn. Mrs. Jones was born at Harlansburg, nine miles east of this city. Her grandfather, William Harlan, gave the land upon which the village of Harlansburg is built. She is the youngest of 15 children.

Mrs. Jones' father, Major William Dean, was a 49'er, having made the cross country trip to California in a covered wagon. He lost a nephew while crossing the Platte river southwest of Omaha, Neb. Mr. Dean was in the California gold fields. Mrs. Jones has a walking stick mounted with some of the original gold dug by her father.

Mrs. Jones' father received the title of major for training companies which went to the front in 1861. There is a large family connection in Lawrence county.

A copy of the Austin, Minn., News received at this office contains the following family history:

Going back to an early ancestor who came to this country in 1636 one George Harlan and his brother, Michael, who came over along with William Penn on his second trip and they together with others built the first brick church in this country, shipping the brick from England. This church stands today in the city of Philadelphia. Many of the early day statesmen attended this church. George Washington, Daniel Webster and others have their names on the pews to this day. A former city council visited this church and Burns and Padden can tell all about it.

George Harlan came down the St. Lawrence and landed at Montreal then trekked overland to Chester county and settled on the Brandywine river at West Chester. Mrs. Jones was related to John Marshall Harlan who became associate justice of the United States supreme court. They were cousins. Judge Harlan has been noted for his clean cut decisions for the people and was on the bench from November 29, 1877, until his death in 1911.

In her younger days along with her husband, Mrs. Jones was associated with Ira D. Sankey, the noted gospel song worker who was associated with Mr. Moody, the evangelist. Mrs. Jones' husband taught Mr. Sankey his first lesson in vocal music under an oak tree at New Castle, Pa., and they became a serenading quartet of singers. Mrs. Jones has done mission work in Chicago, Ill., and it was while at one of her meetings that Mr. McBride who lectured in Austin in the Methodist church a few years ago, was converted. He recognized her at the Austin meeting and they had a brief visit later.

Mrs. Jones is still doing her sweeping, ironing and house work and she says, "I have no lazy bones. I'm 91 years old and still going."

Mrs. Jones lives with her son Jesse Y. Jones at 911 West Oakland avenue.

CROWDS THRONG CAPITOL ON RE-OPENING NIGHT

Hundreds Forced to Stand in Line in Lobby Waiting for Second Show. Act, Pictures and Features Please Immense Crowd.

Perhaps there is nothing more satisfying to the theatre owner than to have to hang out the S. R. O. sign. While he regrets the inability of his theatre to handle the crowd, yet the S. R. O. sign means that the people like his attraction. This being true, and it is, Charles Kranz the new manager of the Capitol Theatre must have been filled with varying emotions last night. The first was pleasure at the immense crowd which simply packed the Capitol, and second, regret, that he didn't have five hundred more seats to accommodate the people.

It was re-opening night and by eight o'clock standing room was the only thing left. At 8:15 even this was gone and the crowd patiently waited in the lobby until the first show was over. "It was a disappointment to me that we had to ask those good people to stand" said Mr. Kranz, but we hope to have more seats added in the near future."

From the reaction of the crowd as it left, the evening was something more than an ordinary success. The picture, "The Show Off" went over well, and Roger Wayne Fawn and his Musical Skallywags were forced to respond to numerous encores. Miss Gene Huston, petite, clever ,and appealingly winsome danced her way into favor and like the act back of her had to come back for more.

The Capitol Orchestra seemed imbued with the spirit of the crowd and proved to be an attraction, not only the means of attendant music. Julius V. Sypher has gathered together a group of real musicians and the orchestra's place on the program will be a welcome one in the future.

Hundreds of the crowd heard for the first time, the recently installed $18,000.00 Robert Morton Pipe Organ. With Miss Leta Mae John at the console it supplied a mead of entertainment that was fully appreciated. The organ is a wonderfully voiced instrument and stands out as an addition to the Capitol.

It was a wonderful night. Mr. Kranz appeared between the act and the feature picture and made an introductory address to the crowd. He promised them clean, wholesome entertainment, and said that as long as he was in charge of the Capitol that nothing but the best procurable would be shown. His words carried conviction, and if re-opening night is any criterion of the future bills of the house, New Castle will have an entertainment place that will compare with anything in Western Pennsylvania.

The same bill played Thursday night will continue Friday and Saturday. Monday, three acts of vaudeville will be shown with the feature picture, "The Cat's Pajamas" starring Betty Bronson and Ricardo Cortez.

BOMBERS WRECK CHICAGO HOME

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The home of Morris Eller, a leading figure in Republican politics in Chicago and Cook county, was wrecked by a bomb early today. Five members of the family, including Mr. Eller, were thrown from their beds but were not injured. Police are investigating on the theory that political enemies of Mr. Eller were back of the mysterious bombing.

"BAD MAN" STUTTERS AND THIS IDENTIFIES HIM WHILE FUGITIVE

SUTTON, W. Va., Sept. 3.—After eluding officers in various parts of the county for five years, Ode (Toots) Mayse, who has a record of being a "bad man," was arrested by officers at Eminence, near New Castle, Ky., and brought here.

He is now held in the Braxton county jail awaiting action of the next grand jury on a charge of robbing the home of H. H. Spicer of Copen. The crime was committed almost five years ago. A defect in Mayse's speech led to his identification at Eminence.

Prosperity Such As U. S. Enjoys Bad For Germany

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 3.—"Prosperity is like your forbidden liquor; a little is alright, but too much is bad."

Thus did Dr. Ernest W. Jungst, expert economist of Westphalia, Germany, reply to interviewers here when asked if he would like to see his native country as prosperous as he found the United States.

Dr. Jungst called attention to the fact that over-prosperity and attending loose morals and wanton pleasures engineered the downfall of ancient Rome.

The Essen economist's visit to America was for the purpose of studying social and economic conditions of coal miners here that he might strike a comparison with those of his own land in a book he is writing on the subject.

Prof. Dr. Fritz Herbst, director of the Essen mining school, and Carl Jungst, head of the mining units of the famous Krupp interests, accompanied Dr. Jungst. They are touring the East, maikng stops at mining and ore producing centers.

"Germany would not profit by the social and economic conditions of America," Dr. Jungst said. "In your mines I have found better roofs, cleaner coal and better working, yet you still have relatively far more accidents than we do. At that your output per man and per shift is greater than ours.

He explained that Germany has not yet returned to the pre-war standard. Many industries there are idle, but he said the output per man is increasing.

LIFT KILLS CLERK OF CONFECTIONERY IN CUSTOMER'S VIEW

STEUBENVILLE, O., Sept. 3.—In view of a score of customers in the Buffalo Confectionery store, Michael Maggie, 16 years old, of Mingo Junction, a soda clerk, was killed by an automatic elevator when he slipped and fell beneath it.

Maggie pressed the button to bring the elevator from an upper floor and opened the door before it reached the main floor. Attempting to enter before it had stopped, he slipped and was crushed against the shaft wall.

Lawrence County Medical Society Meets In Scottish Rite Cathedral

Dr. J. I. Johnston of the faculty of the College of Medicine at the University of Pittsburgh delivered an exceptionally able paper on "Some of the Common Forms of Heart Disease And Their Management" before the meeting of the Lawrence County Medical Society held Thursday evening at the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

The meeting was the first held by the society since the summer vacation period and was well attended. Following the business meeting and Dr. Johnston's address a lunch was served.

See Coolidge As Candidate For Party Nomination In 1928

Governor Al Smith Believed Leading Democratic Contender At Present

Many Other Hopefuls Are Laying Plans in Both Parties

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of the News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—The presidential campaign of 1928 has already started and the two men on whom the eyes of the politicians are chiefly focused today are Calvin Coolidge and Alfred E. Smith.

A good deal of talk, more or less flippant, has been going the rounds, in the press and out of it, about the possibility of "Al and Cal" being the nominees of their respective parties for the presidency. But the political leaders, the men who are going to have a hand when the nominations are actually made, are not taking the matter lightly and not treating it as a joke.

If one talks seriously with these leaders, Republican or Democrat, about the prospects for the 1928 nominations, he will quickly discover that at this time they see no way in which President Coolidge is likely to be headed off from the Republican nomination and they realize that Governor Smith is the only Democratic possibility to date in whose behalf a strong, definite and well-mapped out campaign is being made.

Believe Coolidge in Running.

So far as President Coolidge is concerned, it is generally taken for granted he will be in the running in 1928. In fact, the most competent political chiefs at the capital say unhesitatingly that President Coolidge is already a candidate for another term and that his lieutenants are busily engaged in effecting an organization for him. They have been busy for months. Now and then protestations emanate from the direction of White Pine Camp to the effect that the president is giving no thought to 1928 but the politicians of both parties are giving no heed to such utterances. They pronounce statements of this kind "apple-sauce" and go ahead building their projects on the assumption that Mr. Coolidge wants another term and is already in quest of it.

Recently, some of the agricultural Republicans from the west, who are displeased at the president, have declared he has lost his grip in the west and cannot be re-nominated and re-elected. But those politicians who are trying to view the situation with cold-blooded impartiality, point out that it is difficult to prevent a man in the White House from securing a renomination if he wants it. President Coolidge can have the support of the southern Republican delegates, those of New England and of much of the east, and many of those from the intermountain country and the far west.

See Nomination.

The political organizations in those regions are generally amenable to White House influence and they will doubtless be so in the present instance. In truth, some of Mr. Coolidge's lieutenants are declaring more or less openly that there are enough votes for him already in sight to insure his nomination. This is by no means far-fetched, despite the fact that some people believe the 1928 campaign is still a long way off, and fail to realize that it is the practice of good politicians to win their battles, if they can, long in advance.

President Coolidge will be under some disadvantages in seeking another term. Much water can run under the mill between now and 1928 and currents can shift quickly. What weight that will have with the country is something yet to be determined. Agricultural discontent with the administration is strong and is something not to be dismissed lightly. The Democrats may win house or senate or both this fall and if they do they will turn their batteries on the administration in the next congress.

These and other considerations are to be taken into account. Moreover, there are a number of strong Republican aspirants for the presidency, including such men as Lowden, Wadsworth, Watson, Hoover and Borah. It is not to be expected they will pick any rocks out of the Coolidge path and it would not be strange if they should throw some in.

Undoubtedly, if the elections this fall go Democratic and a Democratic congress is chosen, or even one branch of congress, the opponents of Mr. Coolidge will hail this as evidence of administration weakness and a showing of public dissatisfaction with White House policies. On the other hand, if the Republicans retain control of congress, the friends of Mr. Coolidge will be quick to capitalize this fact and proclaim it as a demonstration of public support of the administration.

Democratic Picture.

Turning to the Democratic picture, it does not need half an eye to perceive that up to this time there is only one aspirant for the Democratic nomination. This is Governor "Al" Smith of New York. If it be denied Governor Smith is active, at least it cannot be denied his close friends and political lieutenants are at work. They have been at work, moreover, for months. East, south, north and west, the partisans of Governor Smith are stirring and are laying the wires for his nomination. This is a matter of common knowledge and common gossip among Democratic political chieftains.

The campaign in behalf of Governor Smith is not being conducted blindly. Nor is it in the hands of amateurs. It is not confined to the general idea of promoting the popularity of the New York governor. Plans are already being made in numerous states to have men put on delegations to the next Democratic national convention who will be either openly for Smith or will not be unyielding against him. Anti-Smith men of the "last ditch" variety are the ones whom the governor's friends will keep off delegations just as far as possible. That some progress is being made in this direction is by no means a secret. It is being made ,furthermore, in some of the southern states which in the New York convention of 1924 were most pronounced for McAdoo and against Smith.

As time goes on, it will in all likelihood be found that the Smith managers are seeking diplomatically to heal old wounds and those likely to inflame feelings and engender new rancors and antagonisms, such as the prohibition question, matters of religion and so on.

To Abolish Two-Thirds Rule.

A powerful movement has been begun in the Democratic party to abolish the two-thirds rule. This was not begun by Governor Smith's lieutenants but they are helping it along. Strong evidence of the belief that Governor Smith is now the foremost Democratic candidate is seen in the fact that many of his opponents have come to the conclusion that abolition of the two-thirds rule would nominate him and hence they are opposing abolition.

In an effort to strengthen the cause of Governor Smith, the Democratic chiefs in New York state this fall plan not only to re-elect him governor but, if possible, to elect him a Democratic senator. They feel that if New York can go before the next Democratic convention with a Democratic governor, two Democratic senators and a Democratic mayor in New York, such a showing will have weight with party men the nation over.

Political experts this year will keep keen eyes on the results of the elections in many states to find out whether men friendly to the Smith cause have been put in the saddle. For instance, election of George E. Brennan as senator in Illinois would be widely viewed as tremendously strengthening the hand of Governor Smith.

While Governor Smith today is in an extremely strong position in his party, it will not do to assume he has the nomination won. Strenuous efforts are to be made to unhorse him. Leading Democratic possibilities other than Smith include McAdoo, Ritchie of Maryland, Donahey of Ohio, Pomerene of Ohio if elected senator, and Reed of Missouri, not to mention a half dozen others who have ambitions.

Clears away itching rash in two days
Uses Resinol now for all kinds of skin ills

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 4:—"On July 20, 1917, just before I was called to service in France, I was advised by my druggist to use Resinol Ointment for a rash which I had on my arm. It relieved the itching and the rash was gone in two days. Later I cured two friends of mine who were suffering from some kind of skin trouble. We all agreed that it was 100% stuff for anything like a breaking out.

While in France I had a bunch of boils that nothing seemed to cure until I had the doctor fix the little place up (after a treatment with a knife) with Resinol. Needless to say, I soon lost all my boils and from that time on I became the outfit's boil and pimple doctor.

Since coming home I have used a great many jars of Resinol and I swear by it. Every little cut or scratch gets its immediate application of Resinol. It is a wonderful, non-equaled ointment." (Signed) Chas. T. Sweet, Jr., 3015 So. 7th 7t.

Two Officials Are Appointed

Philadelphia Company Names Phillips And Rossell To Pittsburgh Jobs

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Appointment of Frank R. Phillips as vice president and general manager of the Duquesne Light Co., and William T. Rossell as general manager of the Pittsburgh Railways Co., both subsidiaries of the Philadelphia company, was announced here on Thursday. Both men are from Covington, Ky.

Phillips goes with the Duquesne Light Co. from the Pittsburgh Railways Co., of which he had been general manager. Rossell assumes the position vacated by Phillips.

Phillips has been connected with utilities in Pittsburgh for the past 17 years. He came to Pittsburgh in 1909 from Covington, Ky., and was active in designing the first efficient double-deck motor car in the country.

He is a member of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, Union club, South Hills Country club, Pittsburgh Athletic association, Lions club of Pittsburgh, Engineers Society of Western Pennsylvania, American Institute of Electrical Engineers and is past president of the American Electric Railway Engineering association.

Rossell is a railways engineer of considerable experience and has been general superintendent of maintenance of the Pittsburgh Railways Co. He joined the railways company in 1924 from the Cincinnati Newport & Covington Co., at Covington, Ky. He is a member of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commeree, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Electrical Railways association.

Hog Calling Not Yet Standardized

Since we published a request for information on the art of hog-calling many persons have taken us to task for our ignorance. Nevertheless, although each of our traducers supplies what purports to be the original and authentic call, we find lamentable discrepancies between them. So far we have received the following calls:

Indiana and Western Kentucky: "P-o-o-o-o-g--i-e! P-o-o-o-o-g-i-e! P-o-o-o-o-g-i-e!"

Middle West: "Whoo-ee! Whoo-ee! Whoo-ee!"

East Texas: "O Pig! Pig O! Pig O! Pig O!"

Now it is quite true that our ignorance on this subject is extensive. Still, how can we be held accountable for knowledge if the experts themselves are unable to agree just what the facts are? We trust these gentlemen will find some way to get together on what the national hog-call is, and when they have finished their deliberations we shall be glad to report their findings.—New York World.

Youthful Thugs Stage Robbery

(International News Service)

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 3.—Mike Fosilkey, manager of the A. & P. chain store at Republic, near here Thursday faced a pistol in the hands of a youthful bandit. While a second robber ransacked the store till and took $20.

"Is that all you have?" asked the bandit.

"No," said Mike, "there's $14 of my own money in my pocket, but you?" "Not if it belongs to you," said the hold-up man.

The pair pocketed the company's $20, and fled in the machine.

Accident Kills Girl, Brother Kills Himself

CALUMET, Mich., Arthur Lawrence, 15, voluntarily paid with his life for what he thought was his inexcusable carlessness.

Young Lawrence was cleaning a shotgun on his mother's farm near Sidnaw when it was discharged accidentally. The charge ripped through the kitchen door, killing his eleven-year-old sister instantly.

Arthur rushed into the house, stood for a moment over her body and then went to the barn and killed himself.

Take your car up that hill with Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline

You will be amazed at the difference Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline makes!

No "knocking" whatever. New power that shoots her along in high. And when you get back on the level and in traffic—faster pick-up, less gear-shifting and a motor that runs like new.

There is no fuel comparable with Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline. It stops that "knock" instantly and turns carbon into a source of power. Fill your tank today.

THE PENNZOIL COMPANY
OIL CITY, PA.

NOTICE: Dilution of Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline with other fuels decreases its effectiveness. Therefore it is important to drain your tank before filling it with Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline for the first time—and to use Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline exclusively thereafter. Remember also that no motor fuel will "grind valves." While Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline makes carbon an agency of service, you must keep your valves in good condition.

TIMELY VIEWS on WORLD TOPICS

BRITISH STRIKE FAILURE THROUGH MISGUIDED POLICY

By J. G. BRADLEY, President Of West Virginia Coal Association, In An Interview

Through misguided policy, the British coal miners have lost their strike. The union leaders do not work on the theory that co-operation with the operators means higher wages and prosperity for both. Instead, the union leaders have tried to drive a wedge between the operators and the miners.

The miners, or any other laborers, should be protected in their right to strike, but co-operation with the operators should remove the necessity for strikes.

Coal is England's greatest reserve of wealth. One-third of the country's coal can be mined at a profit on the existing basis, one-third can be mined without loss, but the other third can be mined only at a loss.

The cost of production has risen because of poor management, because the operators have not had direct control of their mines. It will continue to rise as long as the trade unions continue to work at variance with capital.

The country has reached the limit of government interference, and the result has been only to cripple the mines and industry. The English are sick of the subsidy and the dole.

I am certain the strike is over, so far as its effectiveness goes. Any kind of a formal settlement now depends on the adroitness of A. J. Cook, secretary of the miners' federation. A great many of the politicians are afraid of him, and the tendency of the miners is, of course, to give their leaders a chance to save their faces.

It seemed to me, too, that the other British workers are tired of pulling the oar for the miners. If the English miners cannot stand the competion with other countries, cannot work as long hours and produce as much, the industry is done for there.

If work does it, Germany will come back. The German miners, naturally, are willing to contribute to the British strikers, for the strike has done a lot to help the industry in Germany.

For the next four or five months, however, this country will continue to serve British markets. Cheap fuel and low rates were responsible for the strength of the British merchant marine before the strike, and it was impossible for the United States to compete with it in export business.

Our exporters during the strike have been selling to British markets, principally in the Argentine, despite the fact that the shipping board has raised the rates.

In the Congo the natives use cooking utensils made of ivory.

Once More War Stalks In Seething Balkans

By JACKSON V. JACOBS. Central Press Correspondent.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—More trouble. And again the Balkans are the root of it.

In some respects the present situation which involves Bulgaria and her immediate neighbors, Yugoslavia, Greece and Rumania resembles the situation of 1914 which brought on the Great War. Then Austria-Hungary sent an ultimatum to Serbia threatening invasion unless the latter dissolved a certain organization and prevented its activities in the Dual Monarchy. Now a Greater Serbia is similarly threatening Bulgaria. So far the public has been kept in ignorance of the real danger by the forces engendering it, each hoping to have the league pronounce in its favor—some working openly, some in secret—until now the league must exercise all its ingenuity and authority if peace is to prevail.

What has been openly done includes the dispatch of repeated petitions to the league by Macedonian organizations asking for an autonomous administration in Macedonia, either under the league or as a political entity in a Balkan federation and the identic note dispatched to Bulgaria by Yugoslavia, Rumania and Greece the other day objecting to the activities of the Macedonian organizations on their frontiers and requesting their supression.

What has been done secretly concerns the dispatch of a note by Yugoslavia to Bulgaria and lodged with the league, warning both Bulgaria and the league that unless

King Boris's Bulgarian government governmeit dissolved the Macedonian Interior Revolutionary organization alleged to be functioning in Bulgaria and prevented the alleged border raids of its Comitadji bands Yugoslavia would be obliged to end the intolerable situation herself.

Also lodged with the league are a Bulgarian petition that he league send a commission to investigate the complaints made in the identic note; a refusal of the signatories of the note to accept such a commission; finally, the offer of Bulgaria to surrender her part of Macedonia if Yugoslavia and Greece will do the same with theirs—all in the interest of the self government Macedonia demanded by her revolutionary organization.

In widely different ways both government and organization hope to achieve the same end; the intervention of the League of Nations—the government by scrupulously observing terms of the treaty and the advice of the league and of the Council of Ambassadors and the organization by harassing those whom it considers usurpers in Macedonia through appeals of the league propaganda abroad and military operations against Serbs and Greeks.

BUILD SCHOOL AUTHORIZED BY BOND ISSUE VOTE

Wilkinsburg School Under Way As Result Of Vote At Recent Election

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Work on the new grade school provided for in the $1,000,000 bond issue approved by Wilkinsburg voters recently, is well under way, and with excavation nearly finished the actual construction work will begin soon. It is on the northeast corner of Wallace avenue and Mill street. The building is expected to be opened in September, 1927.

At present the grade school is housed in the Horner school on the opposite corner but this school, originally planned to accommodate 700 junior high school students, now accommodates 1,000 and is overcrowded. An addition to the high school also is provided for in the bond issue. This will cost $650,000 and work on it will soon be started.

The grade school now being built will cost $350,000. The building will have 16 school rooms and an auditorium to seat 500 persons. Rest rooms for the teachers and pupils also will be provided. It will be of two stories and will be of light fire-proof brick. Miss Mary H. Gibson is the principal. Alden & Harlow are the architects, and the Pittsburgh Construction & Engineering company the contractor.

Maharajah Plans Irish Rice Fields

(International News Service)

DUBLIN, Aug. 28.—Ireland is to have its own rice fields. The damp climate and swampy ground of Connemarra has been selected as the most desirable spot and cultivation is to begin at once.

The Maharajah Jam Sahib of Nawanager, known to cricket fans as "Ranji," is sponsoring the scheme.

The Maharajah bought Ballynahinch Castle a year ago and promised to live on and develop the famous estate for six months every year.

He brought over a retinue of Indian servants and among them was a rice expert who announced that the climate and nature of soil was in every way suitable for rice cultivation.

Without delay the Maharajah set his scheme working and laid out the rice fields. There is more rain than sun in Connemarra, but the Maharajah says it only takes ten days sun to harden the rice pods, and that's just about all they get in Connemarra.

Agricultural experts are watching the experiment. It may be tried in England.

A TRAINLOAD of Maytag Washers for WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

A Solid Trainload Purchase of Maytag Washers

THE largest number of washers of one model and make ever brought into Western Pennsylvania. Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of Maytags contained in this huge trainload. One of the Maytags in this trainload is for you—to lighten your household burdens—to wash for you cleaner and faster, more easily, more thoroughly and with less wear and tear.

Wash cleaner in one-half the time

The Maytag gyrafoam principle has set an entirely new standard of time and cleanliness in washing whole tubfuls in three to seven minutes; anything and everything in ten minutes; a whole washing, fifty pounds of clothes (dry weight) in one short hour. Constant soapier water action in every inch of the tub, all of the time, washes out thoroughly the ground-in dirt of work-clothes or play-clothes.

Wash collar and cuff bands without rubbing

No need with the Maytag to finish your washing on the back-breaking scrub board. All clothes come out thoroughly clean — neck-bands, collar bands, cuff-bands — all as snowy white as you could desire.

A gentleness unmatched by human hands

The cast-aluminum tub has no corners, seams, corrugations or crevices to harm sheer silks, fine fabrics or delicate georgettes. While the gyratator principle creates, with ordinary laundry soap, a super-cleansing washing solution which is forced naturally through the meshes of the clothes without scrubbing, rubbing, dragging or pounding.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

The Lure of Jazz

By Joella Johnson

AND I've a splendid cabinet phonograph—with all the latest records. It would look just wonderful with your mahogany furniture."

The latest young woman to answer Joan Jarvis' advertisement for a roommate was confident that her advent would be all that could be necessary to make a two-girl Eden out of the tiny flat.

Joan herself had thought at first that his applicant, whose pleasant face made up for an almost too peppy manner, might suit. Then came the news of the phonograph.

"I'm sorry," said Joan, firmly. "But I've decided not to share the suite, after all."

As her caller, slightly ruffled, retreated down the stairs, Joan closed the door, crossed the room in three swift strides, and slammed the windows firmly shut. It was warm weather for September, and the apartment was none too airy anyway. The heat, however, was not what was worrying Joan. That attractive young lady had several unpleasant things to think about.

She curled herself on the couch. Through the half shut transom over the door filtered the rasping refrain of some phonographic soprano who was wailing to the world her discomfort over being "All Alone."

Joan rose and closed the transom.

Still the persistent, tinny rhythm reached her ears. Through the shut windows came an assortment of other mechanical melodies. Even the plastered ceiling seemed a futile bulwark against the measured beat of a popular "Blues" record.

Phonographs! Joan muffled her head in pillows and thought hateful thoughts of the men who made the noisy things, the folks who played them, and the landlords who permitted them.

She'd had some hopes of a congenial association with the girl who had answered her ad., until that remark about the phonograph. There were "Blues" enough being broadcasted from 49 other apartments in the building without having an extra dose of them first hand.

It had been a long hard day at the office, the boss more exacting than ever, the routine of secretarial duties more depressing.

"Almost 11 o'clock," reflected Joan, after a glance at her wristwatch. "I've dozed all evening. Oh, well, why not. There was nowhere to go, or anybody to go with."

Her head ached worse. Opening the windows, she leaned out for a few deep breaths of fresh air. The stars were bright, the back court view mercifully shadowed, and the silence restful.

Joan felt almost at peace.

"Umm-eee-whirr!" sounded a sudden preliminary from an apartment just below.

Joan jumped. Her fists clenched nervously. Could it be? At this hour?

With all the stridency that an extra-loud needle could furnish, the phonograph downstairs blared into the "Blues" that Joan hated worst.

"Slam!" went her windows shut, but they were inadequate barriers. The canned saxophone still wailed unsquelched.

Indignant, Joan dashed to the wall phone and pushed the janitor's button. She was not a chronic complainant, but this midnight concert business was too much. She jabbed the button with a peevish thumb.

She'd show that person just where he or she got off. She rehearsed the wording of her protest.

Still the janitor didn't answer.

Gossiping no doubt, with his cronies of some neighboring building. She'd have to wait until morning.

She loosened her hair, preparatory to bed. The jazzy temp of the merciless machine downstairs still harrassed her. She could never sleep with that noise.

Fired with a sudden determination, she tidied herself hastily and stormed out to the hallway. She'd have the satisfaction, anyway, of telling the owner of that instrument as much as was lady-like of what she thought of her or him.

Her hand was on the knob of the flat below, when she hesitated. The phonograph was still playing that tune that she most detested. Something in the rendition caught her attention.

Unmistakably it repeated itself. A measured clickety-clack as the record turned. Just the sort of horrid noise that always comes from a disc that has been cracked. But this dissonance was familiar. As familiar and as accursing as the hateful melody itself.

She turned to retreat, but she wasn't quick enough. The door flung open and a tall, bathrobe-draped figure loomed over her. A firm hand grasped her shoulder.

"Who is it?" boomed a command-

"Let me go!" squeaked Joan.

"Wait till I look at you," ordered her captor. None too gently he tilted up her drooping head.

Half an hour later, they were still sitting side by side on the top stair.

"I really never meant to be so mean," Joan was explaining unnecessarily. "I didn't really care a tiny bit if you liked grand opera or not."

"But—"

"Every girl likes to make her hero over, somehow. That's why I scolded you about your fondness for ragtime. I really loved the time the old crowd had at your mother's house, dancing to that same old phonograph."

"You smashed the record the day we quarreled," grinned the downstairs apartment's owner. "But I patched it up and kept it."

"After you'd gone away," confessed Joan, "I used to hate it. It made me feel so lonesome. At last I couldn't stand staying at home, so I got a job here in Boston."

"So you were lonesome?" whispered the voice that had boomed so crossly not long before. "Well, you won't be any more."

Quite a long pause.

"So," said the big voice, after a while, "I'll get the license tomorrow, sell what junk we both have here, and we'll shop together for the furnishings of our brand new bungalow."

"Don't sell everything," pleaded Joan, softly. "We'll want the phonograph and that cracked old record. I always did love those special 'Blues.'"

Felt Safe.

It is generally conceded that it takes a certain amount of "brass" to succeed on stage or screen, in other words, to be free from self-consciousness, and this may account for some of the remarkable success of Valentino.

When Rudy was getting his first start, at Universal, Director Rex Ingram remarked:

"One of these days you'll get your big chance and I hope you'll go over with a bang, because you seem to be free from that professional conceit which promotes jealousy."

"Well," answered Valentino, "to tell you the truth, I haven't seen any actors around here whose work suggested any reason whatever for my being jealous."

Autumn Reflections

By Claire Wesson

PENELOPE CAREY looked like a bit of the Autumn landscape herself, in her scarlet sweater and tam. A keen wind was blowing, sending down showers of gaily colored leaves on her bent head. But she did not mind, for her rapid footsteps were bearing her toward a hot supper, and her sister.

They had been busy this morning, she, hurrying to school to correct some of yesterday's papers, and Pauline, scurrying around the already immaculate little house, getting it ready for her music pupils.

But now they had all the evening before them in which to talk about their wonderful gift.

She was so excited at the thought that she even hurried by Daddy Erwin's fearful lest he or some of the children rush out to greet her. But no one did. The shabby old house, with its many windows, looked strangely sad and still. At the thoughts of the old man who lived there, her brown eyes grew sober, and her mouth looked grim. But, suddenly, with a laugh and a quick backward look, she started to run.

"I thought you might like supper in the living room, Pen. I've got a fire going in there."

"I certainly would. Polly. I can't wait to taste those griddle cakes and syrup. I've just been dreaming here."

"I've been in a daze myself," Pauline confessed. "Ever since that letter from Uncle Charles came. There! Everything is ready. Pour the chocolate, will you, and see if I put the napkins on?"

"You never made such good ones, sis," said Penelope, helping herself to another hot cake.

Pauline's eyes wandered around the room with its pretty furnishings and huge fireplace.

"Pen," she said, "I think a good way to spend the thousand dollars Uncle Charles left us—would be to buy a piano. It would look better than that old antique one."

Penelope leaned her arms on the table and gazed into the fire.

"A thousand dollars," she murmured. "Oh, isn't it like a fairy gift? We have always been so poor, and we never had anything pretty like other girls. And the mortgage on the house—just paid off last month. A piano would be lovely, but mother liked the old one."

"I know. Would you rather take that course in writing, Pen? Uncle said that it was to be spent for what would give us the most pleasure."

"I think it would do you more good to go abroad for six weeks. We could take one of those student cruises. And you could study music."

Both sisters sat silent, smiling at their fancies.

Suddenly Pauline half whispered, "We forgot. They are going to send Daddy Erwin to the poorhouse and take the five children he's helping. They cost him so much, and the store isn't paying. He trusts everybody." She paused and looked away.

"That's what you get for being good?" Penelope asked. "He's been father to this whole town for 55 years. And those children were left orphans. It's the first time they've been happy in their lives."

"He said that if he could only get a thousand dollars somewhere he could keep the children and start again," Pauline faltered.

Their eyes met. Clear, clear, shining eyes they were, filled with a sudden mist and tenderness. They had known that this would be!

"It wouldn't be so hard to give it up. It would take him years to pay it back, but he's doing more than we are. And we have youth—and mother's memory. That's something to live by. We can't ever be really sad or poor when we know that mother would do it, because it's the happiest way."

"Guess I'm getting sentimental in my old age," said Penelope, dashing away a tear and slipping into her sweater. She carried in her sister's coat, ready now to go to "Daddy's."

Pauline stooped over the fire to turn the blazing log, a smile on her thin face. As her sister entered the room the fire suddenly blazed up, filling the place with its warmth and light. And the carved words of their mother's choosing, engraved over the mantel, seemed to stand worth with a glory all their own—

"He who joy would win,
Must share it. Happiness was born a twin."

Firelight or Limelight?

By Clyde Weldon

CAROL DEAN received her college diploma with no thought of following the vocation for which she was fitted. But what her plans were only she knew, for hers was one of those quiet and reserved natures which make few friends and no confidants.

She was not popular with other girls, and the boys, with one exception found her utterly impossible. But Jimmy Macklin persisted in his attentions in spite of all, as might be expected of a man who had earned the sobriquet of "Bulldog" Macklin on the football team.

By adroit questioning Jimmy had learned that Carol was an orphan; that she had lived with an uncle until she came to the university. Shortly afterward the uncle had died leaving all he possesed to her with the understanding that she continue her college course, and what money remained would come into her possession on the day she finished. After that loomed a big question mark.

But East is East and West is—where Jimmy Macklin came from, and to where he was finally obliged to return, though he did so with reluctance and disappointment, for Carol would give him neither encouragement or enlightenment as to her future.

"But I want to write you," Jimmy pleaded.

"Well, write me," Carol replied; then added, "but don't mail it, because I'd never receive it."

So they had parted. But down in a little corner of Carol's heart was a niche that Jimmy Macklin still occupied. She tried to oust him but with bulldog tenacity he still clung. However, in the excitement of carrying out her secret plans she did succeed in forgetting him temporarily.

Her guardian, an old lawyer, shook a doubtful head as he handed her $1,100, all that remained of her father's estate, and gazed sadly over his steel-rimmed glasses at her ill-concealed contempt for his kindly counsel.

"A pretty girl with $1,100 is in grave danger alone in a large city," was his final admonition.

"I think that I am able to take care of myself," she boasted, and was gone.

A few weeks later, on a July day, several young ladies sat in a room outside the office of the casting director of a big motion picture company in Hollywood. All had their eyes on a door marked "private." They were untrained, inexperienced girls waiting for "extra" work. Close scrutiny would have revealed one as Carol Dean, but a decidedly different looking Carol from the campus of the university had known. The plain, simple dress then affected had given way to a gorgeous costume, her hair had been bobbed and the pink of her cheeks was not that created by the winds of Maine.

She had just arrived, yet only $500 remained in her purse. That was the beginning. Week after week went by. Each day the director would open the door and say: "Nothing today, ladies," or "I can place you," indicating one, then, to the others, "Sorry, but you are not the type."

One by one the unfortunates had drifted away and their places taken by others. Carol stuck firmly to her post through many weary weeks. And each day her thoughts centered more and more around Jimmy; she wished she had told him more, wished she knew where he was. He had not told her where he lived as she had not evinced any interest. But he was always talking about little white cottages with big fireplaces; wide shade trees; great flower beds and pebbly walks between green hedges. She thought of these things as the weeks dragged on. Finally, one morning, her landlady stopped her and bluntly told her not to return unless she was prepared to pay her rent.

Pay her rent! She looked in her purse and found 10 cents. It stood between her and starvation! But she went to the studio and remained until late in the afternoon, and when she did leave she started blindly off into the country, going on and on. Darkness overtook her, but she did not pause until the lights of an approaching car nearly blinded her. Then she staggered off the road and fell exhausted.

The car, dust covered, stopped, and the driver, a rough looking youth, went over and examined Carol by the aid of a flashlight. A sharp exclamation escaped his lips and, muttering something under his breath, he picked her up, placed her in the seat and they went roaring down the road. A few miles farther on he turned off the main road into another that wound far up into the hills.

When Carol regained consciousness, she found herself on a couch before a fireplace in which a fire crackled cheerfully. Her eyes moved slowly around until they rested upon a little, grayhaired woman quietly rocking and knitting, the long needles flashing in the firelight. Carol stirred and the old lady was beside her instantly, a glass in her hand.

"Drink this," she urged smiling, "and you'll soon feel better."

"But where am I?" asked Carol, uneasily.

"Where you belong," answered a man, striding around in front of her, "and where you are going to stay, if you ask me."

"Jimmy!" she cried, then fell back and the room grew dark again.

On the following evening the two sat on the wide veranda looking off across the California hills. She had told him of her ambition to be a movie star, her yearning for the limelight, and her failure to secure even extra work, and he had listened without interruption.

"Hearthlight is better than limelight," he said, when she had finished. "And if you are strong enough, tomorrow we will go see the minister."

"Minister?"

"Why, yes; we're going to be married right away, you know."

"And I suppose that I've nothing to say about it?" in the old rebellious tone.

"Not a thing," answered Jimmy, grimly.

She was silent a moment, her head bowed, then: "Very well," she sighed.

And Jimmy did.

Eternal Question.

Senator Wadsworth of New York said at a Washington banquet:

"Russia won't be recognized by the American government till the American people demand its recognition—and the people make no such demand at present.

"A Red was orating one night from a soap box.

"'There's famine in Russia,' he shouted, 'and our Bolshevik brothers are starving. Who will help them? Who will give them their meals?'

"'Who,' yelled a heckler, 'will give them their deserts?'"

Local Color

By Parke Whitney

STIILL gunnin' for local color?" mischievously inquired Whiz Whittaker, storekeeper and postmaster, as the Summer girl came up the steps.

"Did you ever know a hermit?" asked Isabel Treat, solemnly. "Why is a hermit and what is he like?"

She apparently never tired of the stories Whiz produced, or manufactured, from his store of forest lore, hunting experiences and local happenings.

"Curious," said Whiz, "I did know a hermit once. Lived over in the woods a piece, back of that old meetin' house in the roadside clearin'. Remember? Most folks thought he was crazy—and he did have crazy spells. He gave me the most terrifyin' experience of a long and eventful life. 'Twas like this, Miss Treat: I was footin' it out o' the woods 'fore Christmas—a 20-mile tramp. A snowstorm struck, last o' the afternoon, and the goin' was pretty heavy. I'd got as far as Prestonville and there was a three-mile stretch of woodland between me and home. Halfway through the woods, the dark came down so quick I couldn't see my hand before me. I couldn't keep the road, and wandered off, 'til first thing I knew I stumbled over the steps of the old meetin' house. I knew there was a box stove in there and prob'ly some wood, so, I got around to the side door that's never locked, and went in.

"I'd just stepped in when I heard a deep groan. If my mouth had been open my heart woulda jumped out.

"There was a dim white light around the pulpit and while I stood there like a dummy, too scared to move, a terrible voice shrieked, 'Sacrifice! Sacrifice!'

"Now, I'm telling you, Miss Treat, I left there mighty sudden. Snow, nor wind, nor dark made no difference to me. I was gettin' right away from that place. And, would you believe it? when I got home I didn't have no mackinaw on! Went back next mornin' and found it standin' in the road all buttoned up. Honest, I was so scared I'd run plumb out of it."

Miss Treat bit her lip violently, but remained quiet, staring out into the sunshine in valiant emulation of the imperturbable Whiz.

"I did go back next mornin' when it was too late," Whiz resumed, self-accusingly. "It was my old hermit perished with the cold, lyin' there by the preacher's desk, where he'd set his old lantern."

Miss Treat leaned forward breathlessly. The story had taken an unexpected turn.

"Didn't anyone ever know anything about him?" she asked.

"I knew him most," he said. "I used to stay with him, times I was huntin'. Called himself Isaiah. Wasn't so crazy, only once in a while."

The girl questioned still more urgently.

"Did you ever hear the name Isaiah Treat?"

Whiz nodded, his eyes now intent upon her. She tugged at the chain around her neck and drew out an old-fashioned locket which she held open, toward him. He nodded again.

"That's Isaiah," he said, "with his hair and whiskers trimmed."

"Isaiah Treat was my grandfather," began the girl. "When I was five and my sister eight, we lived with him. Grandfather had a bad, ungrateful brother who gave him much trouble. I know this story only as it was told to me. Grandfather suffered with his head at times because of an old hurt. For some unexplained reason he had drawn a large sum of money from the bank and had it in the safe in his room, Wakened by some one at the safe, he fired at the thief—killed him as he believed. The thief was his own brother. It is supposed that, confused by the old head-trouble, grandfather took the money from the safe and went away with his fright and remorse. He was never found. The brother recovered and lived some years."

"My turn now," said Whiz. "How old are you? Twenty-five. That's right. Twenty years ago. Old Isaiah had some sort of trouble. Used to go to the church and mourn about it. Ever see this?"

He produced a soiled leather pocket book which contained a few papers, coins, and the half of a one-cent piece.

"Lend me your car for 15 minutes," said Isabel Treat.

She was back in the allotted time, and opening her closed hand, showed the half of a tarnished penny, strung on a faded ribbon.

"Grandfather and I had them for luck," she explained. "Just a little girl's play."

Whiz matched the halves carefully. They fitted perfectly. Glancing up, he surprised the tears in the girl's eyes.

"It was grandfather!" she said. "How pitiful, I've always thought he might have come here, since I knew he was born in this neighborhood."

"That was why you were so interested in local color," said Whiz, shrewdly. He ruffled his iron gray hair meditatively.

Then he said. "There's a few things of Isaiah's in a safe deposit box at the bank. You ride up with me. He showed me where he kept 'em hid and said his girls would come for 'em some day. I swore not to tell."

Whiz came back to the car with a worn, old, leather handbag.

"It's all there," he said soberly. "I looked out for him afterward and paid expenses. I advertised some but it didn't get me anywhere. Then I figured that where old Isaiah was so set on savin' this or some one, why, some day somethin' would steer 'em down this way. If you live in the woods a lot, you get to know things without knowing how you know."

"You mean this is money?" asked the girl, aghast at the utter simplicity of his outlook. "And you've kept it for me all these years?"

"Sho, now!" said Whiz. "I couldn't break a promise, could I? And we're still kind of honest, down here."

Spicy Path.

The late Frances Hodgson Burnett of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" fame disapproved of psycho-analysis with its erotic horrors, and at a tea at her beautiful estate at Plandome, L. I., she said one day:

"It shocks me to see the multitude of mediocre young writers who get themselves called geniuses by writing psycho-analytical novels. It is so easy nowadays to win fame. You only need to write a feeble novel dealing with nasty sex questions a la Freud."

Mrs. Burnett sighed and shook her head.

"The path of fame used to be steep and difficult," she said, "but now everybody shoots up to the top in a swift and luxurious funicular."

Whispers of Love

By Phil Moore

YOUR Walter was just a kid flyin' kites when I saw him last. you say he is 30 now and not married? Well, perhaps he is not the marryin' kind. So much the better for you, Sarah, you bein' a widow and so nicely fixed here with him, your only child."

Caroline Baxter, neighbor to Sarah Adams in years gone by, having, by means of many questions, caught up with the Adams family history, settled back comfortably in the wing chair and surveyed the cozy living room with its up-to-date rugs, draperies, lamp-shades, piano and radio.

"No, Caroline, I don't feel that way. He's doing well in the insurance business, and I want him to have all the joy of young love and married life with children of his own. I can't be with him always, and I want him to have loved ones near him to the end."

"Ain't he ever been in love?"

"Not that I know of. He seems to like girls well enough. Can't do enough for them when there is a crowd but never singles anyone out for his attentions. Seems perfectly happy at home with his little garden and odd jobs around the house

"There was a mighty nice girl next door for a while that I hoped he would fancy. But when I asked him about her he said, 'Imagine me running around with her! I would feel like an electric fan in a blizzard! So unnecessary, you know,' That girl was some hummer—most of them are these days. 'Well,' I said 'there is that May Raynolds who is visiting in town; she's sweet and quiet and helpless enough, and seems to like you.' Walter said. 'That girl likes anybody—just like the ducks in the park when you feed them.'

"I told him he was too hard to suit, but he said that was not the trouble. He couldn't imagine anyone wanting him around forever."

"Merciful heavens!" screamed Mrs. Baxter—not at the last remark, but at the sight of a cat coming into the room with no hair on its tail and not much on its body.

"What is that critter, Sarah?"

"Oh, just one of Walter's pets. He's always bringing in some injured bird or beast to care for. He rescued this cat from some fire. Found her dragging her kittens from the blaze. In that cage is a hummingbird with a broken wing, and he has a dog with a wooden leg."

After a cup of tea Mrs. Baxter departed.

Walter was late coming home that night. He was unusually preoccupied, and said little until he began helping his mother clear away the dishes—the time when confidences between them took place.

"Mother, can we take care of another pet for a while? You know the Hitchcock house where the fire was the other day. I was there this afternoon settling claims. I found that Mrs. Hitchcock was so badly burned that they had taken her to the hospital, and her niece who had just come to stay with her is alone in the house. She has no home. She was burned, too, in trying to save the old lady. The doctor said her burns were superficial and would soon heal. But her hair and eyebrows are gone and she is afraid the smoke has injured her eyes. She doesn't want anyone to see her. She's frightened at everything and I think she is a nervous wreck. You'd know just what to do for her better than any doctor."

Walter was setting the butter into the oven instead of into the refrigerator. His mother noticed this but said nothing, for she read the sign.

"I'll go over with you this evening, if you like, and see what can be done."

"Another singed cat," thought Mrs. Adams, when she saw the poor frightened girl with her head and most of her face concealed by a cap and bandages, and her eyes covered with great smoked glasses.

When she heard her sweet, appealing voice she understood why Walter had misplaced the butter.

Arrangements were soon made for bringing her to the Adams home.

What manner of girl Virginia really was could not be judged for many weeks. Just what would emerge from the coverings, in which she insisted on concealing her disfigured head at all times, was uncertain.

Under Mr. Adams' understanding and sympathetic care she gradually recovered her normal condition and fitted into the home life and light duties. Walter read to her and took her driving, though she slid into the rear seat out of sight.

One evening Walter asked Virginia to play for him while he helped his mother with the dishes. This time he began by scraping the good butter into the garbage pail, while he confided to his mother:

"I've asked Virginia to marry me, but she says I must wait for an answer till I've seen what she looks like, and if her eyes are all right. As if that made any difference!"

"Then you think you've found someone who won't mind having you around forever?"

"Well, you see, I want her around all the time and perhaps she needs me."

One bright June day Virginia burst from her chrysalis. She came into the garden where Walter was picking roses, and threw aside the cap and glasses which had hidden her so long. Soft new hair in golden ringlets covered her head, great blue eyes looked out merrily from half-grown dark lashes and straight eyebrows gave her an arch look.

Walter, overcome by the sudden transformation and perhaps feeling that he was losing his singed kitten, stepped back a pace.

Virginia held out her arms, "I will still need petting, Walter!"

"And loving," was all he could say, as he drew her to him.

A Big One.

Little Mary's father is a teacher and keeps pretty close tabs on her school work.

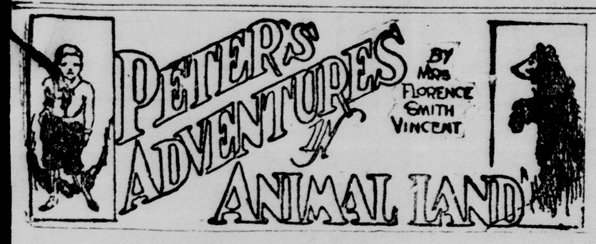
Her arithmetic gives him more concern than anything else. At lunch time on the day when she had her final examination in arithmetic, he asked her what mark she got.

To which she mournfully replied, "The biggest nought I ever saw."

Real Happiness.

Elizabeth—So Barbara is engaged! Great news! Who's the happy one?

Anita—Her mother.



ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL.

Peter bit his lip and tried to swallow the lump in his throat. He hadn't at all intended to give the Camel away. And Dromda had just spoken to him as though he were the meanest fellow in the world—a Boy who would betray a friend.

At the sound Dromda the Camel felt ashamed of himself.

"I believe you," muttered he gruffly. "And I really wouldn't have carried you into the ravine, Two-Legs, if I could have shaken you from my back before Mother Eephant hit me. I only said that to scare you, cross-patch that I am. Look at Mrs. Elephant now! Isn't she the finest mother you ever saw?"

Close in under his mother's body stood the little Tusker, and now, after the danger was all over, he was frightened half to death. He shivered and shook and big tears ran down his trunk and splashed on the ground. And Mother Elephant was comforting her baby as best she knew how. She petted him and soothed him and sang to him a squeally lullaby, and by and by the little Tusker stopped trembling and smiled a little crooked smile.

"Well, Mother, where do we go from here?" grunted he, and Mother Elephant was so glad to see her son his own sunny self again that she threw up her trunk and trumpeted just as loud as she could.

"Home!" screamed she. "We are going home, baby, and just as fast as our feet can take us. All's well that ends well! Right about face! Mark time! Ready now, forward march!"

"Home, home, home and something to eat!" little Tusker waved his trunk and shambled his funny fat feet and down the mountain he started.

"Yes, sir, she's the lovingest mother in Four-Foot land," declared Dromda the Camel under his breath, following with his eyes Mrs. Elephant swaying in the wake of her small son—her great body a mighty bulwark for his defense—until the top of her tail disappeared from sight.

Kane Motorist Is Absolved In Death Of Man

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Sept. 3.—Daniel Sullivan an oil well drilling contractor of Wilcox today was absolved of blame at the coroner's inquest into the death of John McMahon, 50, a carpenter who died at Kane Summit hospital after being struck by Sullivan's automobile.

McMahon was crossing the street in front of his house when he was struck by the automobile, suffering a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Seize Two More Cars Of Alcohol

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 3.—Seizure of two additional cars of alcohol on the Lehigh Valley siding at Pittston was reported by local prohibition agents today, bringing the total for the last 24 hours to 20,000 gallons estimated to be worth $100,000.

Charles Hume, deputy administrator, was unable to furnish the name of the consignor or the consignee in the absence of J. D. Moore, chief field officer, who was in charge of the raid.

Like the two cars seized yesterday, the latest haul was sent to the government warehouse at Scranton for storage.

The seizures have suggested the operation of a booze ring locally.

New Castle To Play Agathons

Lawrence League Teams To Clash At Energy, Mahoningtown And Energy

TO CELEBRATE DAY AT MAHONINGTOWN

By ED. FRITZ

Major and minor league races are drawing to a close and the fans who love to hear the umpires razzed and the ball clouted, or see the pill go sailing by a bat have only a few more weeks to have their appetites whet.

Locally, the New Castle team of the O. & P. circuit is out of the flag race but despite this obvious fact the fans propose sticking to the team until the last tilt is played an the season is over.

In the Lawrence County loop Ellwood City has apparently cinched the bunting despite the hectic efforts of Neshannocks to fly back to the top of the league and like the O. & P. League, supporters are watching the Lawrence loop tussle.

Saturday afternoon four games will be played and owing to the fame which has surrounded Massillon the banner attraction will be staged at Centennial Field with the Agathons holding the visitors' angle.

Team Perks Up

Since the debut of two hurlers the New Castle team has perked up and has been playing better ball than in the middle of the season. The Massillon aggregation rarely fails to please.

It is probable that Grabfelder, dimunitive shortstop who may receive a tryout with Connie Mack's Athletics will cavort in his regular berth but Manager Bill Steen as yet has not decided what hurler will take the hill.

While this edible setto is transpiring three Lawrence County circuit contests will be under way and on account of their classy sandlot exhibitions all of the games will be featured by large crowds.

Ellwood City hops to Energy for the last time this season. Energy held the Neshannocks to a 3-3 deadlock Wednesday. A year ago they proved Ellwood's nemesis and hold hopes of beating Connie Wardman's aggregation Saturday.

To Honor Huff

While these teams are saying it with balls, strikes, hits and errors, Wampum with its unconquerable Bob Robertson will oppose alert Hub Hart and the Mahoning A. A. at Mahoningtown. This game promises class and a spectacular battle.

Not so very long ago Bessemer commenced playing rejuvenated baseball and since then has become a feared aggregation and at Bessemer they will play the Neshannocks who captured the championship last season.

The feature of the Saturday games in the Lawrence loop will be the staging of Jess Huff day at Mahoningtown. He has seen 30 years of diamond service and no doubt he will be the recipient of some token of appreciation from fans.

TILDEN AND CHAPIN WIN AT BROOKLINE

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 3. — For the first time since 1923 William T. Tilden reached within striking distance of the national doubles championship Thursday.

After falling for two successive years to carry youthful Sandy Wiener of Philadelphia beyond the third round, the national singles titleholder today won his way to the finals of the 1926 tournament with Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., as his partner, paddling through five sets over a wet court to defeat his veteran Far West rival, William M. Johnston, and the intercollegiate champion, Edward G. Chandler, at 6-3, 0-6, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Horse Drops Dead On Home Stretch

NORWALK, O., Sept. 3.—On the home stretch of the second heat of the 2:24 trot, at the Huron County fair, here, Peter Patter, a six-year-old bay gelding, by Czar Peter, with Frank A. Cares of Fremont up, burst a blood vessel and dropped dead within 100 feet of the wire.

The horse was third at that time. Peter Patter won the Michigan futurity event as a two-year-old.

High Gridders To Entertain Parents

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Tonight is the night of all nights for the young High School hopeful, for the very simple fact that his "ma and pa" will be at Muddy Creek Falls to watch him go through his "this and that." Faculty Manager Ralph Gardner has been working hard all week on the "Parents Night" program and has it just about completed, was the word passed along today.

The celebration tonight providing Jupiter Pluvius minds his own business, will be elaborate in every detail. There will be speeches of all kinds, from all kinds of men, and probably some eats, and probably some fun, in fact the evening promises to be a large one from more than one standpoint.

Someone To Speak

Just who will do the talking tonight is not definitely known, in fact the writer is led to believe that there is some dark secret about the speeches, Gardner informed us of the "Parents Night" on Thursday and just casually announced that there would be speakers, just that and nothing more.

In case it don't rain the parents are asked to get out to the camp early in the afternoon if possible, and watch the boys practice, or play tennis or do anything they want to except take the "fails home," and then best of all the parents are asked to pack a picnic lunch; you know meat loaf, potato salad, sandwiches, and cake or pie just as the palate prefers and hie themselves into the camp and enjoy themselves to the full extent of the law.

Of course while this article is being written the sky has that down-trodden look as if at any minute a healthy deluge of rain-water may descend.

Now getting down to the serious business of talking sense the High School officials will appreciate it if the parents and friends of the boys go to camp tonight or this afternoon. They want the people of New Castle to know what is going on out there and no mistaking that fact for sausage.

Boys Show Effects

The boys have been out in the "open spaces" four days now, and they are beginning to show the effects, just like a "chorus girl putting on the war paint," only the boys are putting on a coat of tan or sunburn, and they are also learning something about football, and if they can't learn anything from Coach Bridenbaugh, Assistant Coaches Thomas and Klee then they will never know how to play football, because these three men know football, they know the game, they can teach it, and further than that they have their heart and soul back of everything that they do, so there you have the entire situation in a nutshell and just try to crack it. Anyway this is "Parents Night" in camp and the boys are expecting to see their parents and friends so don't disappoint them.

Gene Tunney Taking Things Easy In Camp

By FRANK F. O'NEILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 3.—Except for a brisk hike over the hills early this morning, Gene Tunney, challenger for the world's heavyweight championship, spent another day of idleness in his new camp at the Glenbrook Country Club here.

Tunney arose almost with the sun and covered five miles with long swinging strides, returning in time for a brisk rub-down from his trainer, Luie Fink, before breakfast. After that his work for the day was completed and he retired into seclusion with his beloved books as his only companions. He planned to reappear only in time to fulfill a promise made yesterday to pose for the camera men.

If the day proved fair enough the challenger said he might play a few holes of golf, but otherwise would do absolutely nothing but relax. Tunney feels that he already is a little too far advanced in his process of preparation, and with an intensive siege of training ahead of him desires to get a complete rest.

The challenger's retinue of camp mates was expected to be increased today with the arrival of several more sparring partners. Bud Gorman, Billy Vidabeck and Harold Mays, heavyweights, and Bryan Downey, welterweight, were due to arrive sometime during the day.

Osk Till, the fast and shifty boxer from Mount Vernon, arrived last night with Louie Fisk, the trainer, and Pants Lawrence, the Adirondack guide, who was transported from Speculator when Tunney changed his headquarters.

Dewberrys Trim Potters 3 To 2

The Dewberrys defeated the Shenago Pottery team 3 to 2 in a game played on Thursday night on the Scotland Lane grounds. The winning run was scored in the sixth inning after a man was out.

Schaas on the knoll for the Dewberrys pitched a masterful game and allowed but two hits while the winners found Armentrout for ten hits.

A. Gall, Schaas and Potter featured the game by their heavy hitting.

DAZZLER TAKES NASSAU STAKES

Superlette Wins Peconic Handicap; Long Shots Come Through

NEW YORK, Sept. 3. — Showing a liking for the sloppy track at Belmont Park here Thursday the Greentree stable's Dazzler romped away with the Nassau claiming stakes at a mile for 2-year-olds and upward. Laura Dianti of the Belair stud, the odds-on favorite could do no better than second, six lengths behind the winner. Sherman was third and Wampee, the only other starter, fourth. The time was 1:30 1-5.

Superlette took the Peconic handicap for all ages at six furlongs over Taps, with Earl Sande up. Celidon ran third. Storm King was the other starter.

The Lindenhurst purse for 2-year-old maidens was easy for Candy Pig, the favorite. Compensation was second and Montclair third. The five and a half furlongs was covered in 1:06 2-5. Bonnie Khayam won the Bellaire purse for 2-year-old fillies over the same distance.

Long shots had a field day at Lincoln Fields with Try Again paying $32.20, to win the seventh race; St. Charles, $25.50 to take the second and Damara, $15.50 to score in the third. Nabisco won $15.40 for every $2 bet of his admirers in the first race.

Bible Mission To Entertain Needy Mothers At Camp

Beginning on Monday, September 6, the Bible House Mission Band that is conducting tent camp meeting on the Pence farm on the Harlansburg road, will entertain poor widows and children. There will be free lunch and free transportation from their home and returning.

Those who plan to attend are asked to leave their name and address at the Mission, 10 East North street, and they will be called for.

The camp is located in a grove of beautiful trees. There are swings and plenty of water. It is a fine place for tired mothers with their children to have a good time.

Aldridge At His Father's Bedside

CINCINNATI, Sept. 3.—Vic Aldridge, hurler for the Pirates, now in a hectic chase for the National league pennant, is at the bedside of his father, at Terre Haute. He was summoned home from St. Louis by a telegram saying his father is lying at the point of death.

DEMPSEY LOSES FIRST TILT WITH HIS EX-MANAGER

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Supreme Court Justice Walsh yesterday denied the motion of Jack Dempsey's attorney to vacate two warrants of attachment obtained by Jack Kearns against money and property owned by the heavyweight champion.

The attachment was obtained in connection with a suit for $333,333 brought against Dempsey by Kearns his former manager.

In denying the motion to vacate the warrants of attachment, Justice Walsh said:

"I am of opinion that sufficient facts are presented to show the existence of a contract between plaintiff and defendant, performance by plaintiff of the terms thereof, breach of the defendant and consequent damage to plaintiff."

Kearns claims in his suit that he is entitled to recover $333,333.34 from Dempsey for alleged breach of contracts to fight Harry Wills and Gene Tunney, before his term as manager expired early yesterday morning. Justice Walsh also denied a motion by Dempsey's attorney to compel Kearns to increase the amount of bond filed by him in his suit.

FRANKIE FRISCH TO FEEL WRATH OF JOHN McGRAW

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Capt. Frank Frisch of the New York Giants has been fined $500 for leaving his team without permission in St. Louis two weeks ago, team officials announced... Manager John McGraw said that Frisch would return to the team today.

In a statement given out by the officials, it was pointed out that the fine was necessarily imposed as the result of Frisch's deserting the club, but that in view of Frisch's good conduct and satisfactory services previously, no further action would be taken. However, Frisch will lose his salary for the time he has been absent from the Giants.

Make Plans For New Major League

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Tom O'Rourke, veteran boxing promoter declared today that he inended to accept the presidency of the New York club in the reported organization of a third major league, said to be ready to take the field next season. O'Rourke said major league territory would be invaded in New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Cincinnati and that the four remaining franchises would be allotted to International league towns yet to be selected.

He also declared that John Conway Toole president of that organization had been offered a post with the outlaws but had declined.

Frontier League Is Haven For Outlaws

By LOUIS R. CURRAN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—Merrie olde Sherwood Forest, the haven of Robin Hood, Friar Tuck, Little John and other famous outlaws, has a modern counterpart in the Frontier league of the great southwest.

The prescribed gentry of the present day, however aren't fugitives from the sheriff; they are players banned by Organized baseball for real and alleged offenses.

Hall Chase, Jimmy O'Connell, Chick Gandil, Buck Weaver, Lefty Williams, Tom Seaton, Hap Felsch, and Swede Risberg are names almost as familiar to the baseball fan as Babe Ruth, Rogers Hornsby and Dazzy Vance.

Jimmy O'Connell, the Giants' $75,000 beauty, who was banned by Kenesaw Mountain Landis for mistaking Heinie Sand for "one of the boys" is packing the denizens of the alkali wastes into the stands by pasting the ball for a batting average of .500. O'Connell is with the Chino Copper Co. team of Hurley, N. M.

Peerless Hall.

Hal Chase although over 40, rises to difficult plays like the "Peerless Hal" of 20 years ago. Chase is first baseman for Douglas, Ariz.

Chick Gandil and Buck Weaver who figured in the White Sox scandal of several years ago are both hitting around .400 Gandil is manager of the Fort Baird, N. M. team.

Lefty Williams another White Sox player up to the time of the 1919 scandal, had some trouble with his throwing arm early this season but has rounded into shape and has pitched good ball of late.

Tom Seaton who was dropped by San Francisco is now manager for Bisbee. Seaton, the league's leading pitcher went to Bisbee from Juarez.

Hap Felsch and Swede Risberg are recent arrivals in Douglas.

Bill Murphy, pitcher is not an ineligible. He recently joined the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast league after pitching most of the season for the Douglas team of the frontier circuit.

Business Better.

"The attendance in the Frontier league was rather poor" Murphy observed "until the clubs signed up the famous ineligibles. Then it picked up considerably. Jimmy O'Connell is packing the fans into the parks because of his sensational hitting. He gets a base hit on nearly every ball thrown him and cracks the pill so hard even the good infielders are scared.

"The league doesn't have to depend on gate receipts for all its financing The Chino Copper Co. at Hurley puts up $4,000 a month for the games played at Hurley while the Copper Queen Co. at Bisbee helps pay for the contests there.

"The best catcher in the league" Murphy concluded, "is a young Mexican named Arzatti who is handling the Juarez squad."

There are six clubs in the league, Bisbee and Douglas (Arizona); Ft. Baird and Hurley (New Mexico); El Paso (Texas) and Juarez (Old Mexico.) Three games a week are played.

Men who never have been in organized baseball are free to play in the Frontier league and then sign contracts with "regular" clubs.

Here And There In Sports Land

By ED. FRITZ

Fate has played many queer pranks in the boxing game and the "jane" who helps "make and break" may put in an appearance when Tunney and Dempsey clash in the Philadelphia spectacle, or fistic extravanganza.

Boys who hammer typewriters relative to making the fight a success from a dollar and cent angle and who help fighters grow rich and fat apparently have overlooked one angle of the coming embroglio.

For the past ten or twelve years the ring ahs been conspicuous for its absence of gratuity, many champions having "fired" the men who piloted them from bread and coffee to choice foods and much wealth.

Jess Willard hopped away from the men who made him and when he fought Dempsey he had a half score of inexperienced men handling his end of the fight and he was decrowned by Dempsey.

"I'll be a fighting champion" said Dempsey through Jack Kearns his manager, but since then Jack the Fighter has "canned" Jack, the manager and he will enter against Tunney with Jack Normile as his boss-all.

Johnny Kilbane parted from Jimmie Dunn and the first time he defended his toga resulted in his downfall, the French fighter, Eugene Criqui winning the battle in New York city.

Will the same fate that followed Willard, Kilbane and others pull Dempsey down? It is a cinch that no one knows Dempsey like Kearns. No difference what anyone may say about Kearns, he knows Dempsey from D to Y.

Tonight at Erie New Castle has a representative of the fistic game making a how-d-you do to fandom He is Kid Cangle a typical Dime fighter—plenty of "sock" and teeming with action. He is scheduled to fight Frankie Garcia a tough lad. Cangle said yesterday:

"I'm anxious to get in there and when I hear the first bell I start. I'm not afraid of anybody they put up against me. I'm no pink tea fighter and I don't expect to come out unscarred. Anytime I start there'll be a fight."

If rain keeps pouring down the New Castle club will not get a chance to show their Chebula or Hospidore new pitchers. Rain has accomplished much toward putting the team in a financial slump but being resourceful the club is not on the rocks financially. Every time rain stops a tilt the local club is forced to dig in the coffers and pay out a rain guarantee. One official put it thusly: "Everything going out and nothing coming in."

Imperials Down Willow Grove 6-5

The Imperials defeated Willow Grove 6 o 5 in a game played Thursday night on the Willow Grove field. Lewis on the mound for the Imperials pitched a masterful game allowing but four hits and fanning five men.

The Imperials won the game by bunching hits in the first three innings, while the Willow Grove team got to Lewis for enough hits in the second inning to produce five runs.

The hiting of Rogovin and Hoskins featured.

CHURCH TEAMS PLAY TONIGHT

The New Castle Church league will present three fast attractions tonight for the benefit of the fans with all three games starting at 6:30 on the dot.

At the Lehigh field the Third U. P. and First M. E. teams are booked to battle with Frazier as the umpire.

At the Radiator field the Central Christians and Croton teams will try their luck with Black as the official.

At the Colonial field the First Baptists and Central Presbyterians will meet with Hamilton as the referee.

Mr. Dawes' boom is a regular boom. It's just too young yet to say more than "Ping!"

The Gridiron Magician

By Feg Murray

Last season was a rather sad experience for Knute Rockne and his Ramblers (as the much-traveled Notre Dame football team is called), for, after going through 1924 without a defeat in ten games, his 1925 varsity was whitewashed by the Army and Nebraska 27 and 17 to 0 respectively, and played a scoreless tie with Penn State. It was a bitter pill for the wily Rockne to swallow, but he took it like a man, without alibis, and developed the nucleus of a fine team for the coming season.

The developer of the famous "Four Horsemen" is a very remarkable man. In successive stages he has been a star end on the Norte Dame football team, an actor, and a member of the school band; head track coach and instructor in chemistry; assistant and finally head football coach, besides being a speech-maker and author. Thruout all these changes he has lost his hair, but kept his inventive turn of mind, his pleasing personality, and his sense of humor—hence his success. He was bound to come out on top!

Rockne loves to spring something new, yet there is a good sound reasoning behind everything he tries. He and Charles Dorais, a classmate, were the first to see the advantages of the forward pass, and, after a summer of practice, became the sensations of the football world. In 1921 Rockne sprunk his famous "shift" on the Army, and in 1924 and 1925 he upset rival elevens by throwing three and four full teams at them in the course of a single game.

Notre Dame, a school of only 2,300 students, should do much better this year than last. Not because they have any new quartet to take the place of the departed "Four Horsemen", not because the magician, Rockne, will still be with them to wave his wand of psychology, dynamic personality and inventive genius over their destiny.

Feg Murray Says—

Imagine a golfer playing a shot on the railroad tracks and hitting the third rail with his mid-iron.

The result probably wouldn't even bother him. Golfers are shock-proof.

Jack Dempsey Plans Intensive Training

By GEORGE BARRY.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 3. —The roadway to Jack Dempsey's chin continues to be as wide as the Grand Canyon, all of which caused a rather youthful writer of sportive items to remark to Jack:

"Gosh, you're kind of easy to hit."

The champion fixed him with a quizzical glance and then shot out: "Sure I'm easy to hit—and so's the side of a wall. But it doesn't get anybody anywhere to hit a wall. It isn't geting my sparring partners much and it's going to get Tunney less.

"Of course he'll hit me unless I knock him over with the first few punches. But it won't get him anything in the end except perhaps an extra shellacking."

Dempsey had a rather intensive sesion planned for today and said if he felt really frisky and decided he needed some strenuous exercise he would box ten or a dozen rounds.

Pennsy Shop Old-Time Players Asked To Report

The following players of the famous old Pennsy Shop ball club are requested to be present at the E. and A. Division lot in Mahoningtown, Saturday, September 4, to take part in a preliminary game with the Mahoning A. A. club of the Lawrence County League. Jess Huff, Sr., "Lefty" Park, W. D. Evans, Jack Griffith, Don McElwain, Ray Rhodes, Tommy O'Brien, Ed "Lefty" Woods, Mike Mescal, A. Genger, B. Genger and C. Genger.

If any members of the old team have been overlooked those sponsoring the game urgently request them to report and a place will be found for them in the lineup. The game will be called at 2:45 p. m., D. S. time. The game will precede the regularly scheduled fracas between Wampum and the M. A. A.

Huff and C. Genger are the only two men still playing ball. Huff, who incidentally is the oldest player in the County League, is still putting up a creditable game at third for the M. A. A. while Genger is swatting the apple with a Sharon outfit.

Any player wishing further particulars may secure them by calling S. E. Park at 4819, bell phone.

Gertrude Ederle To Feature Program At Sesqui-Centennial

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Gertrude Ederle, first of her sex to conquer the English channel, will make her debut before the American public at the sesqui-centennial swimming pool here this afternoon when she will sprint for 50 yards, paced by her sister Helen.

She will wear the togs she used in her famous channel swim and will swim the crawl stroke. There are seven events on the swimming porgram today. Miss Helen Wainright and Miss Aileen Riggin, famous women swimmers, will demonstrate various dives.

More than 10,000 persons greeted "Trudie" when she arrived here at the Broad street station. With her were Dudley Field Malone, who is managing her affairs; her sister, and Misses Wainright and Riggin.

Escorted by police and military aides of Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick, Miss Ederle visited the city hall where she was greeted by the mayor. She was taken to the exposition grounds where she was tendered an official reception.

Miss Ederle will give exhibitions at the sesqui pool every afternoon and night for a week.

Wright May Play For "Bucs" Today

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Glenn Wright shortstop, laid up some time ago with a lame ankle, may get into the game today against the Cubs. The ankle has undergone treatment by Bonesetter Reese. If Wright's ankle is in shape his presence will help the Pirates, now three games behind St. Louis.

Tagging All Bases

(International News Service)

Cheers and boos, moans and groans, jeers and flying fists accompanied the doubleheader played between the Cardinals and the Cubs in the latters' home park. More than 31,000 not particularly orderly fans saw the St. Louis team take both games, 9 to 1, and 2 to 0, while police reserves quelled the excitement. The shut-out victory featured Grover Alexander's first appearance against his former teammates in Chicago.

The Reds and Pirates played three and a half innings of ball, the score 3 to 0, favor of Cincinnati, and after that the deluge. The crucial game brought out one of the largest week day crowds in Cincinnati's history.

Blue and Bassler batted belligerently, aiding the Tigers to beat the Browns, 6 to 3. Each drove in three runs.

Rain prevented the playing of all other scheduled games in both leagues.

Pennant Races In Both Leagues

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Still traveling under a full head of steam, the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday won two games from the Chicago Cubs and this morning were two full games ahead of the Cincinnati Reds and three beyond the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Cards have 22 more games to play, the Reds 26 and the Pirates 30.

The Reds got the tough end of the breaks yesterday when their game with the Pirates was rained out after 3½ innings had been played. The Reds were in front, 3 to 0, at the time. Neither club, therefore, gained or lost ground.

The same was true of the American league contenders, the New York Yankees being halted by rain and the Cleveland Indians being off the schedule for the day. The Yanks, inconsequence, remained six games in front.

Hillsville Calls Off Series Games

The Hillsville team winners of the Twilight League informed Manager T. C. Richards of the Independents that the series scheduled to start last evening would have to be called off, due to the fact that boys were planning on meeting Ellwood City for the county championship.

The Hillsville-Independent series of three games was to have started Thursday night, but the message received here shortly before two o'clock yesterday afternoon "threw cold water on the proposition."

Cangie And Garcia To Fight At Erie

Kid Cangie, local junior lightweight, and Frankie Garcia step into an Erie ring to box 10 rounds.

Recently Cangie stopped Al Trippe, training mate of Garcia, hence Garcia's desire to win from Cangie, if possible.

Miner Calls On President And Gets Arrested

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Leonard Clarence, 29, who gave his occupation as a miner and his residence as Scottdale, Pa., was under observation at the Gallinger hospital today following his appearance at the White House with a demand to see President Coolidge.

Clarence told attaches he had a message from Heaven, directing him to see Mr. Coolidge about a new method of settling the war debts.

Informed the President was on his vacation, Clarence seated himself in the executive offices and said he would wait until his return.

He was turned over to the police.

Salvation Army Board To Meet

Number of Important Matters Will Be Considered At This Time

A special meeting of the advisory board of the Salvation Army has been called for Monday evening. The place of meeting will be announced later. It is hoped that every member of the board can be in attendance at this meeting, as matters of importance will be up for consideration.

Senator McKinley Suffers Relapse

(International News Service)

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—The condition of United States Senator William B. McKinley, critically ill at the Home Lawn sanitarium here, took a sudden turn for the worse this morning after the patient showed some improvement during the night.

Physicians announced the senator's temperature began mounting shortly after dawn, his respiration difficulties increased and he again lapsed into unconsciousness.

Hyperdermic injections for heart action were administered shortly before 9 o'clock. It was feared that the crisis had been reached and that death might be very near.

Liquor Violator Gets Two Years

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 3.—Paul Tassone, of Republic, near here, today was under sentence of two years in the Allegheny County Workhouse, and had been assessed a fine of $1,000 and costs, by Judge Thomas A. Hudson, on charges of violating the prohibitory laws.

Tassone, who was known as a leader in Republic political circles, was arrested by state police who raided his home. A second case against him is on file for the September term of court.

World's Largest And Wildest Place Scene Of Gold Rush

SYDNEY, Sept. 3.—Adventurers have found a new El Dorado in the South Seas.

According to authentic reports from Morobe (New Guinea) a rich gold strike has been made in wild mountainous country beyond Salimoa. Four centuries ago Alvaro de Saavedra and his hardy Spanish voyagers sailing from the western coast of Mexico coasted along the northern shores of New Guinea and gave to the country the name Isla del Oro (Island of Gold). It is claimed that for the first time the name is to justify itself.

Already shipments of gold from the new field have arrived at Sydney and outgoing vessels are carrying increased passenger lists. But men experienced in the country say that the story of the Salamona field will be the same as many others where nature has hidden her gold from men—a story of whitening bones and ill-rewarded effort.

The field is situated in a district which has more than 200 inches of rainfall a year. Malaria, dysentry and worst of all, the dreaded blackwater fever, play havoc with travelers who venture into its area. The natives are the fiercest in the whole of New Guinea and have not yet come under the spell of the white man's civilization.

Tools, stores, and even food every ounce of it have to be carried over a range of high mountains from the seaboard. The field lies but 15 miles from the nearest port as the bird flies but those 15 miles are converted into many more by the rough untamed nature of the country. It takes a fully laden native carrier—the only method of transport—seven or eight days to travel those few miles.

Such is the citadel in which the yellow god has fortified himself in this new El Dorado. Despite official warnings of the difficulties ahead, many Australian adventurers have already set out to woo fortune in this new world.

The field is in the Mandated Territory of New Guinea and the known rich auriferous belt in this country is said to be one of the reasons why Germany is so anxious for the return of this former colony.

Harvard Tackle In Red Grange's Job

(International News Service)

MEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 3.—Chicago has its "football" iceman, —Red Grange.

So has this city. He is Carl Lindner, Harvard tackle for the past two years.

Lindner, former Medford High athlete, keeps in condition by carrying ice for the Medford Ice Company. He believes there is no better exercise than "hauling ice up three stories to Mrs. Smith," or "pulling" the cakes onto the teams as they are loaded for delivery.

Young Lindner has no intention of emulating Red Grange, although he admits that he can see where the former University of Illinois star gained much from the hard work he put in while carrying ice to customers.

"I would not give anything in the form of conditioning preference over the work I do each summer to prepare for the opening of Harvard football practice," he declared. "It makes me feel as if I had practiced football all Summer when I join the squad. While others are fighting their hardest to become accustomed to the hard grind I am in the best of condition and so much ahead when it comes to the hardening exercises."

German Air Line To U. S. Soon Open

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A trans-Atlantic passenger-carrying airplane service between Germany and the United States, is a possibility within two years, the department of commerce announced today in a statement telling preparations by a German company to operate the proposed line.

The German concern already has taken steps to lay out an airway for the proposed service, the department stated. A trip of investigation to Reykjavik, Iceland, has been made by two German scientists, it announced, "for the purpose of studying wind currents and sun beams and their effect upon a future airplane route between Europe and the United States." Dr. Danmeyer and a Dr. Georgi, professors at Hamburg university, conducted the experiments.

The proposed air route would start at Hamburg and pass via Scapa Flow, to Faroe Islands, Reykjavik and Cape Farewell, Greenland, and would have New York as its ultimate destination," the department declared. "It is planned to send a large scientific expedition to Iceland next year for the purpose of investigating in detail all conditions which would be likely to affect the operation of airplanes over the contemplated route.

"Persons in Germany, interested in the project, state that under favorable circumstances the projected line may be opened by the beginning of 1928."

Find Rats, Toads In Bootleg Liquor

By SIMON NEIMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—More than 50 varieties of poisons, ranging from wood alcohols to ether, and including arsenic, nitro-benzine and iodine are to be found in bootleg liquor now on the market, according to F. E. Malloy, chief government chemist attached to the Pittsburgh prohibition headquarters.

In addition to the poisons which were more or less invisible to the purchaser, Malloy found rats, mice, lizards, toads and a variegated collection of insects in mash seized by federal agents and brought to him to be analyzed, a report submitted to him by Administrator John D. Pennington shows.

"The greater part of the moonshine produced today is made under unsanitary conditions allowing many poisonous substances to enter the product," Malloy said.

Many medicinal preparations are used by the bootleg fraternity for manufacture of their wares, the report shows. These preparations often contain deadly doses of arsenic, strychnine, tartar emetic, quinine, morphine, cocaine, prussic acid and practically any other poison which may be administered in liquid form.

Bank Of England To Be Remodeled

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street"—London's pet name for the headquarters of the Bank of England—is to have a wash after many years of grime.

The internal part of the bank building is being remodeled, and the outer walls are to be cleaned in order not to clash with the newer part now rising.

Experts are carrying out experiments with various cleaning preparations in order to make the "Old Lady's wash a thorough one.

Hunt Sharks In Southern Seas

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—A company has been formed here to capture sharks in the Southern seas and turn them into commercial products in the form of leather, oil, glue fertilizer and food.

Ships have been built equipped as factories where the sharks can be made ready for export within forty-eight hours after their capture.

One of the chief products are to the fins, which are highly prized as a table delicacy in some parts of the world.

NEW MACHINE WAKES YOU UP

New Contrivance Is Reported To Take Care Of Late Sleepers In London

Have hope, some of you brethren who are hard to wake in the morning.

Some of you disciples of Morpheus who pass out for the night when you go to sleep, and who are about as easily awakened in the morning as a hibernating bear.

Prof. Low, not Sing Hi Low, the eminent Chinese toothpick carver whose name is in everybody's mouth, but Prof. A. M. Low of "deah ole Lunnon", where the truck drivers wear monocles, and the longshoremen knock off at three o'clock for a bit of tea, has invented a machine which wakes you up in the morning, and while it is waking you up makes your tea.

Ripping, Eh, What?

It's a ripping idea, eh, what, old thing? Fawncy now, having some silly machine making your tea, and when it's done pulling the covers back from your bed. It seems as though the thing is controlled by a clockwork mechanism which is connected to the tea caddy and the bed.

Following along in Prof. Low's wake is another inventor who has a machine which tips up the bed and drops you into a tub. Deucedly clever, old bean.

The alarm clock manufacturers will probably seek to have the inventions declared out of bounds or something, for with a couple of the machines mentioned, a fellow wouldn't need a clock.

Now if somebody would invent a machine for the married men which would wake the wife up in a good humor. But then, even science has its limitations.

Gary's Mansion Will Be Torn Down

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Judge Elbert Gary's palatial Fifth Avenue mansion is going to be torn down, but the head of the United States Steel Corporation will continue to have the same address he has had for many years—856 Fifth Avenue.

Judge Gary's home will be replaced by a 12-story apartment building. The steel head has engaged a suite of rooms in the projected building, which will have the same street number as the present private dwelling.

The transaction represents an investment of $11,800,000.

Business Outlook Brisk In Germany

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A continued current of optimism runs through the German business outlook, according to a cable dispatch to the department of commerce from Acting Commercial Attache Douglas Miller at Berlin.

Although a total of 1,645,000 persons were listed as "unemployed" on August 1, Miller reported that this number represented a decrease of 89,000 over the army of unemployed on July 1.

The expenditure of large sums of money by the government for construction work, it was said, accounted for the relief in unemployment. More public construction has been ordered, Miller added, thus promising additional relief.

Further indication of German industrial activity was seen by the commercial attache in the large increases in imports of raw materials.

While these importations resulted in an unfavorable trade balance against Germany for the month of June, Miller declared they indicated "greater activity in German industries".

The Swedish Riksdag is 500 years old this year, ranking among the oldest of existing parliamentiary institutions.

The right angle for approaching a difficult problem is the "try" angle.

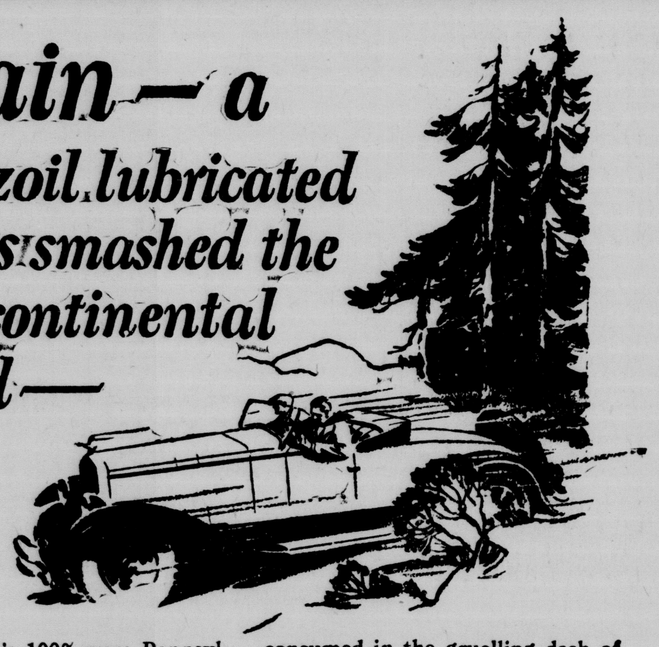
Again—a Pennzoil lubricated car has smashed the transcontinental record—



AGAIN, this 100% pure Pennsylvania oil has proved itself a safe, sure lubricant in the most terrific test your brain can conjure up.

L. B. Miller, driving a Wills Sainte Claire roadster that had already covered well over 20,000 miles, left San Francisco at 9:00 P. M. Monday, August 23rd. 83 hours and 12 minutes later, he checked in at New York, having beaten the best previous record by 3 hours, 8 minutes. Only 16 quarts of Pennzoil were consumed in the gruelling dash of 3368 miles. And when drained at the end of the run the Pennzoil was found still good—still ready for work.

Just two months ago Ab. Jenkins and Ray Peck, driving a Studebaker, set the old record—86 hours and 20 minutes. They too, trusted to Pennzoil's ability to endure the merciless test without breaking down.

If you want the best oil you can buy, use Pennzoil.

THE MIDDLE OF THE 19TH CENTURY BEGAN AN ERA OF INCREASED PROSPERITY AND THE FOUNDING OF MANY NEW AND IMPORTANT ENTERPRISES IN THE UNITED STATES. IN 1849 THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WAS ESTABLISHED.

AT A MUCH EARLIER DATE, LOCAL TRADE UNIONS HAD BEEN FORMED. IN 1850 THE PRINTERS FORMED THE FIRST NATIONAL LABOR ORGANIZATION.

THE TELEGRAPH, INVENTED BY MORSE AND FIRST SUCCESSFULLY USED IN 1844, WAS COMING INTO GENERAL USE AT THIS PERIOD. IN 1851 THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY WAS ESTABLISHED.

THE MOVEMENT FOR NATIONALLY ORGANIZED LABOR LED TO THE FORMING OF THE BROTHERHOOD OF LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS IN 1863.

TOMORROW—PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION OF 1856.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Both the industrial and railroad stocks showed traces of unsettlement in the early trading today due to the withdrawal of speculative interest on the eve of the Labor Day holiday, which extends from the closing today until next Tuesday morning.

Selling pressure on the industrials and the most active of the high-priced railroad shares produced a slightly reactionary market in this period, with United States Steel selling close to 148 and General Motors at 207. But strong demand for the better grade of railroad stocks soon turned the tide in that section of the market, and exceptional buoyancy was noted in Chesapeake and Ohio, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Kay and Frisco.

Call money was in supply at 4½ per cent for loans which hold over until next Tuesday.

Horlick Prisoner Of Bolsheviks For Three Years; Escapes

Among radio fans, the A. & P. Gypsies are well known and thousands are acquainted with the name of Harry Horlick. Few know, however, that Horlick is a Russian who was a prisoner of the Bolsheviks in Russia for three years and escaped only after a determined struggle.

Monday evening the A. & P. Gypsies will resume their broadcasting and plan a winter of entertainment over the air.

Council To Make Several Views

Municipal Engineer Frank Miller today requested members of city council to view Liberty street, resurfacing having been completed. He also asked council to visit and view the new sewage disposal plant. He reported the plant is not yet entirely built.

Council also agreed to view the electric light situation Wednesday night.

Ministers To Have Meeting On Monday

First meeting of the fall of the Ministerial Association of New Castle, will be held Monday, September 6, at 10 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A.

A special invitation is extended to all new ministers of the city.

Engaged

Sir Henry Thornton, head of the Canadian national railways, was reported engaged to Miss Martha Watriss, twenty-five, a New York society girl.

PRISONERS ENTER PLEAS

Judge Hildebrand Passes Sentence On Number Of Prisoners Today

September term of court will be considerably shortened as the result of a number of pleas of guilty before Judge Hildebrand this morning, the pleas being presented by District Attorney J. Elder Bryan. Sentences were passed as follows:

Frank Amerson and John Kline, arrested for manufacturing liquor near Mt. Aair, were each fined $300 and costs and given one year to the Allegheny county workhouse.

Andy Konjak, assault and battery, $25 and costs and paroled for two years.

John Mateza, possessing liquor, $300 and costs and 18 months to the Allegheny county workhouse.

Jennie Mezzina, who was charged with larceny, was sent to the Huntingdon reformatory.

Carl Gramaldi, possessing liquor, was paroled for two years upon the payment of $100 and costs.

William Kohanshi, possessing liquor, paroled for three years upon the payment of $200 and costs.

Joe Galich of Bessemer, possessing liquor, $200 fine and costs and one year to the workhouse. Judge Hildebrand stated that if the fine is paid that he would entertain a petition for parole at the end of five months.

Peter Terpelowski, possessing liquor, paroled for two years upon the payment of $200 and costs.

William Taylor, felonious assault and battery, $25 and costs and not less than one year and six months, nor more than three years to the Western penitentiary.

James Steel, driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, $200 fine and costs and three months to the county jail.

J. Stokes, liquor charge, $500 fine and costs and one year to the Allegheny county workhouse.

Ralph Davis, colored of Wampum, entered a plea to possessing liquor, but claimed that while it was found in his place it did not belong to him. He was sent back to jail to await further investigation in his case.

Cases of Clyde Tuter and Frank Recruppio, were continued until a later date.

"Baron" Krupp

This man, claiming to be Baron von Krupp, of the German steel family, was held in Albuquerque, N. M., on a bad check charge. Police said he was an impostor.

Dancing has been prohibited for four weeks in the Oberfranken district of Germany so as to gather the harvest.

Window Washer Files Heart-Balm Suit For $75,000 In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—A broken heart, says Miss Anna Dobski, is a broken heart, whether it beats in the breast of a society butterfly or in that of a window washer.

By the same token, she says further, if Broadway beaux can be made to pay $75,000 or thereabouts, for loving 'em and leaving 'em, then one Albin Niemienski should be forced to pay likewise.

Albin thinks otherwise. In the first place, he points out, he is an oiler at the Pennsylvania railroad yards, where Miss Dobski massages window panes. Oilers, he says, don't carry $75,000 bills around in their overalls.

Anna charges that Albin whispered sweet nothings in her ear—and, more to the point, asked her to marry him. Then, she says, he up and married one Jennie Kaminska. So she now asks $75,000 cold cash to assuage her feelings.

Then too, she charges, there is the matter of a child, born to her, and for whom, she says, Albin pays $3 weekly as support.

The suit was on file in common pleas court here today. The suit is a matter of Pittsburgh court record.

LOCK IN CELL BALKS COPS

Couldn't Get Prisoner Out Of Jail Cell This Morning

Generally the worry of the police is to get and lock up the person wanted for the violation of some law. It's seldom, if ever, that it is a case of wanting to get a man out of jail and unable to do so, as far as the police are concerned.

But the unexpected and unusual does occur every now and then and it did happen at the police station this morning.

In cell No. 3 of the city lockup was Rudolph Nemcovsky, aged 19, brought back here from Youngstown last night to answer the charge of stealing the automobile of H. A. Moore of the Y. M. C. A., from the streets of this city on Wednesday night.

When the officers went to get him out this morning, the key went in the lock all right, but the lock refused to release the bolt and the prisoner remained in the cell. The officers tried their luck for half an hour and then called in Jesse E. Pankratz, the well known lock expert of this city.

In a few minutes, he had discovered that some glass, had been placed in the lock and ground up among the tumblers and as a result they refused to drop and release the bolt.

A few minutes work with the proper tools and the cause was removed, the key worked and the prisoner walked forth, not to freedom but to an alderman's office, where he heard the charge made against him.

LARGE PUFF BALL FOUND AT VOLANT

One of the largest puff balls to be discovered in Lawrence county was brought to The News today by J. H. Stunkard, Volant, R. D. 3, where it is attracting considerable interest.

The ball, when measured, was 35 inches the long way and 30½ inches, the short way.

It is as large as the ordinary pumpkin.

According to Mr. Stunkard the puff ball when sliced and prepared is a delicacy to some people.

Pass Two Ordinances

Council today passed finally two ordinances changing and fixing the grades in Fairmont avenue and Elizabeth streets, between Delaware and Audley avenues.

COUNCIL MAY GRANT REQUEST

May Allow Land Company To Connect With City Sewer System

Council today indicated that the request of the Community Real Estate, owners of land in Neshannock township, to be allowed to connect with the city sewage system will be granted next week, councilmen today deciding that the proposition presented in a petition submitted by Attorney S. L. Clark to be one of the fairest the city has ever received. Action today was postponed on account of the absence of Councilman Louis Genkinger who attended the third class cities convention which closed at Hazelton yesterday.

According to Attorney Clark the Community Real Estate Company owns lands at the extremity of Highland avenue, in Neshannock township, the lots being in Audley, Delaware, Highland, Fairmont and Hazlecroft avenues.

He told council that the company contains provisions in contracts whereby all of the city building, sewage and zoning laws will be carried out and that it is the plan of the company to sell lots on a restricted basis.

He said that inasmuch as the land now vacant, is in the heart of a fine residential district, prospective purchasers desired to have all the conveniences of the city and the company can help build this section providing council allows sewer connections.

It was agreed and stipulated in the petition that the company or purchasers would pay their proportionate share of any enlargement of the city's sewage system.

Councilmen agreed that on the face of the petition, it is one of the fairest presented to the city and final action will be taken Tuesday.

Fights Please Fans

New Castle fans who journeyed to the Youngstown boxing bouts last night today placed their approval on the bouts.

They report the Mitchell-Lewis "go", one of the best ever staged in Youngstown.

Levine had the best of the early rounds and Mitchell wound up the fight, fresh and strong.

The Jimmie Jones-Sailor Friedman battle was not quite as good as the Mitchell-Friedman "go."

Johnny Hill stopped Red Taylor and Johnny Roberts banged George Harris for the award.

To Make Payments

Council today received a recommendation from City Engineer Miller that two firms receive payments for work done for the city. Council concurred in the recommendation and Woods & Golder will receive a second payment of $2,741.95, for paving Maitland street and Thorson company will draw a first payment of $1,849.97, for paving West Falls street.

Reports On Frontage

City engineer Miller today presented a report to council concerning the frontage of the National Radiator company's plan for connecting with the sanitary sewer system. The company has installed a new locker room, containing lavatories and wants to connect with the sewer. Council will take action on the request next week.

Cupid Settles Worcester Barber Feud When Rival Beauty Parlor Heads Wed

(International News Service)

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept 3. — Cupid has settled a business rivalry here. Ernest L. Trahan hung out his barber sign on Pleasant street and waited for the girls to come and get their hair bobbed.

Miss Jane A. Roche likewise hung out a sign just across the street telling Worcester that within it was a woman's beauty shop.

Trahan watched the girls enter the rival business place and Miss Roche looked to see other girls go into that Trahan shop.

Some sage once said that great minds think alike. An idea dawned on Trahan and it apparently also dawned on Miss Roche. Though rivals, they bowed pleasantly when they met.

The idea eventually found its way into words and the two shops were combined. Thus was born the Peacock Beauty Shop at No. 2 Foster street, with Trahan president and Miss Roche manager.

But this does not end the story Miss Roche stepped to the altar in St. Peter's church and became Mrs. Ernest L. Trahan.

Chamber Of Commerce Committee Takes Up Matter With Officials

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR NEW CASTLE

Other Matters Considered At Meeting Of C. Of C. Board Of Directors

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the board of directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce held at noon, Thursday, in the Elks' club, and presided over by President Fred L. Rentz, was an interesting one. Many matters of importance and benefit to the committee were taken up for consideration.

L. B. Round, chairman of the committee to work out ways and means of placing a sign at Mahoningtown, reported progress, and this work will be continued to the end that a proper sign be placed there.

Reports on several committee meetings held with officials of outside organizations concerning new industries for New Castle, were submitted. This work will be continued, and it is hoped additional industrial interests may be induced to locate here.

The matter of establishing an extensive credit rating bureau was again taken up, and it was reported that James D. Hays, manager of the Harrisburg Credit Exchange would be in New Castle during the week of September 20th, to discuss the matter with the members of the better business bureau of the New Castle Chamber, and others interested in credit matters.

The matter of congested traffic on the public square was considered and it was decided to have the members of our city council, mayor, and chief of police meet with the directors of the chamber at their next meeting to discuss this and other conditions.

The formation of a traffic club as a branch of the chamber was launched and work will be continued on this.

The chamber extended an invitation to the State Sabbath School Association through the chairman of the convention committee, Robert M. Strickler, to hold their 1927 convention in New Castle.

Vice-President James B. Foster, reported the forming of an automotive club of the chamber, at a meeting held on August 26 when A. C. McCoy was elected chairman. The holding of a meeting of the membership of the chamber during the month of October was authorized by the directors, and the president empowered to make plans for such a meeting, at which time, it is hoped to secure several nationally known speakers.

Four Applications For Divorce Filed

Cruel Treatment And Desertion Are Grounds Upon Which Separation Is Asked

Mrs. Frances L. Murphy has filed an application for divorce from her husband, Harry O. Murphy, on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. They were married in May, 1922, and lived together until December, 1925.

Desertion is alleged in the application for divorce filed by Mary S. Kersey against Thomas C. Kersey. They were married in February, 1923, and lived together until October of the same year.

Hilda V. O'Rourke has filed an application for divorce from her husband, John E. O'Rourke, on the grounds of cruelty. They were married in May, 1924, and lived together until August, 1926.

Leonard Weir has filed an application for divorce from his wife, Margaret Weir, on the grounds of indignities. They were married in December, 1920, and lived together until September, 1925.

A definite project is under consideration for through railroad service between England and Russia, in which huge steam ferries would be used to carry trains across the North Sea and the Gulf of Finland. Third Loop May Foment Warfare

Identity Of Third "Major League" Sponsors Not Yet Disclosed

TOOLE REFUSES TO JOIN LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Rumors of the organization of new baseball league to compete with the two major leagues, which have been recurring vaguely for several months in the various major league cities, have been renewed in New York.

Heretofore all efforts to ascertain the identity of the promoters and financial backers of the proposed organization were futile, but in the latest rumor the name of Tom O'Rourke, boxing promoter, was mentioned as the prospective president of the New York club and the proposed league.

O'Rourke confirmed the rumor that the league was in the process of formation, but he declined to say who is behind it.

Expects Eight Teams.

"We're going to have eight teams in the league," he said, "and we expect to be going by next year. There will be clubs in New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Cincinnati and in four International league towns. We tried to get John C. Toole, president of the International league, to joint us, but he didn't come, though, and now we expect to break up the International league.

"The New York club will have a stadium in Long Island City near the Plaza, and it will be the largest stadium in the world. The directors of the new league will hold a meeting in New York soon and everything will be announced."

WEALTHY WIDOW MARRIES ON DARE

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Because Mrs. Ruth Lewis Cosgrove, youthful widow of A. K. Cosgrove, millionaire coal operator who died last May, wouldn't take a dare, she is now Mrs. Rubin Weller, wife of the president of the English Town Developing company.

At 4 a. m. August 4 last, the couple were married at Portchester, N. Y., Mrs. Weller today admitted. They met for the first time August 3, she having been a widow three months.

Just before midnight Weller said: "Say, Ruth, I like you an awful lot. I dare you to marry me."

"I never take a dare," she answered. "Say when."

"Right now," replied Weller.

At dawn they located a town where they might procure a license and a judge to perform the ceremony. Mrs. Weller, a Johnstown (Pa.) girl, married Cosgrove nine years ago. About a year before his death they separated. Cosgrove left $1,000,000 and willed nearly half to his wife.

CONFERENCE DATES FIXED

Shenango Presbyterial Sets Time And Place For Meetings

Time and place for conducting District Conferences of the Shenango Presbyterial was decided Thursday at the meeting of the executive committee of Presbyterial which convened in the Central Presbyterian church of this city.

The conferences will be held October 5-6-7-8 in the First Presbyterian church of Sharon, Princeton Presbyterian, First church of Ellwood City and the Clarksville Presbyterian church.

An invitation was received from the Wampum Presbyterian church to attend the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the church on October 14. An invitation was also received from the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church to attend the fifty second anniversary of the church which is being celebrated today.

At the morning session which opened at ten o'clock a religious program was carried out in charge of the president, Mrs. P. P. Fisher of Sharon, Pa.

A letter was read from the Board of the Presbyterial congratulating the ladies of the Shenango Presbyterial on the efficient work that had been done during the year. In the prize essay contest only Erie and Shenango Presbyterials had given a report.

The resignation of Mrs. McCullough as secretary of overseas hospital work was accepted and Mrs. Cutler was elected to fill the vacancy. Mrs. Travers as temperance secretary resigned also. Her place will be filled later. Mrs. Olive Emery was elected to be in charge of the work of the Westminster Guild made vacant by the resignation of Mrs. Ben Jenkins.

It was decided to support Miss Edith Williams, a missionary at Ganada, Ariz. Mrs. A. A. Young was elected secretary to write letters to missionaries.

PERHAPS HE WAS

In a long glistening Rolls Royce he glided up to the filling station, and called out, "Let's have some gas, please!"

"How much you want?" asked the man in overalls, eyeing the car admiringly. The motorist struck by a sudden thought, put a hand in his pocket. Thirty cents was all he had in his clothes.

"One gallon," said he.

The man in the overalls glanced over the big car again and then fixed the driver with a stare of utter disgust.

"One gallon!" he sneered; "watcher tryin' to do, wean it?"—From Everybody's Magazine.

The mystery about the average "mystery car" is how they keep the decrepit thing running.

A FACE CARD

The bishop, seated in a Pullman car, was absorbed in a book. The porter scrutinized him very carefully, and said:

" 'Scuse me, Senator, anythin' Ah kin do fo' yo', suh?"

The bishop replied in the negative.

The porter soon returned and asked:

"Shall Ah open the window, Govunah?"

"No, thanks."

A third excursion he ventured. " 'Scuse me, Kuh-nel, kaint Ah brush you' off?" The bishop looked up.

"Listen, porter, he said. "I'm not a senator, or governor or colonel; nothing but a poor common, episcopal bishop."

"Yassah, Bishop; Ah jes' knowed yo' was one of dem face cawds."—From Everybody's Magazine.

Passenger Train In Collision En Route From Cleveland To Brunswick, Md.

(International News Service)

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 3.—The number of dead in the Baltimore and Ohio train wreck near Foley, Pa., early today, mounted to three this morning with the death in a hospital here of William F. Reynolds, brakeman of the New York to Chicago passenger train which was in collision with a freight.

W. W. Collins, Cumberland, Md., and R. E. Albright, Hyndman, Pa., were instantly killed.

Three Injured

Three persons were injured. They were: Thomas W. Whitman, Cumberland, fireman of the passenger train; L. M. Ellison, Pittsburgh, engineer of the passenger train, and Mrs. Edith Winne, East Toledo, O., a passenger. All are expected to recover.

Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in Woodrow Wilson's cabinet, was on the passenger train, but was not injured.

Brains, Brawn and Beauty

"Miss Australia," otherwise Miss Beryl Mills of Sydney, Australia, en route through Chicago to take part in the annual beauty pageant at Atlantic City. In Australia, according to Claude McKay, editor of the Syney Guardian, who is a member of Miss Mills' party, "brains, brawn and beauty" are considered in picking a representative girl, and it's NO easy matter to win a beauty contest there. Miss Mills already has violated the etiquette of bathing beauties by indulging in swims whenever possible.

Three Violent Deaths Reported In Mercer County

Truck, Mine Car And Shotgun Figure As The Instruments Of Death In Tragedies

ONE ACCIDENT NEAR COUNTY LINE

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 3.—Three sudden and tragic deaths in Mercer county were investigated at a triple inquest held here by Coroner W. J. Grath today.

The first case was that of Harold C. Heglin, aged 17, who was killed in No. 2 coal mine near the Mercer-Lawrence county line late yesterday. Heglin was struck by a car on a slope in the mine and instantly killed. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Heglin of Springfield township. He is survived by his parents, and six brothers and sisters.

Killed by Truck

The second case was that of George King, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. King of Fredonia, who died last night from injuries received when he was run over by his father's truck. He had been riding on the truck and when it

HUNTING FOR TWO FLYERS

Allegheny Mountains Are Being Searched For Trace Of Missing Men

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3, — Walter Beech, captain of the "Travelair" team scheduled to compete at the national air races here beginning tomorrow, was scouring the Allegheny Mountains today for traces of Lloyd Spearman and George Weis, who left Pittsburgh Wednesday to fly here for the air derby.

The two men, each in a single-seat plane, should have arrived at the Models Farm Flying Field early yesterday, race officials said. Hope was expressed by Beech that the men are safe, though lost.

"The Alleghenies are one of the hardest stretches of country for air pilots," he said, "especially between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia."

Beech asked, before he took off to seek the lost fliers, that two planes be kept in readiness here in case the men were found injured. Several other fliers were forced to make landings because of rough weather yesterday. However, they telephoned to race officials here that they were safe.

Washington, Pa., Man Surrenders To Authorities

William Borchers Held In $65,000 Bail As Result Of Death And Suicide

GIRL DIES AFTER ILLEGAL OPERATION

Doctor Arrested In Case Ends Own Life In Cell Of Jail

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 3. — William Borchers, 26, surrendered to county authorities here today and was held in $65,000 bail on charges of being an accessory to abortion and homicide in connection with the death of Margaret Foley, 20, pretty society girl. Dr. Roger S. Parry, prominent local physician, committed suicide in his cell here after his arrest in connection with the case.

Borchers appeared before Alderman J. S. Carmichael with Richard G. Miller, his attorney, and county officials, and waived preliminary hearing. Taken before Judge James Brownson, Borchers was ordered held in $65,000 bail.

To Furnish Bail

Relatives of Borchers, prominent in oil circles here, were expected to furnish bail for him.

Funeral services for Miss Foley, whose death followed an alleged illegal operation, will be held tomorrow at the church of the Immaculate Conception, with burial in the church cemetery.

The body of Dr. Parry was to be returned to Waynesburg, his former home, late today.

Borchers, son of W. F. Borchers, widely known oil operator, named in the case as a friend of Dr. Parry and Miss Foley, and wanted for questioning in connection with the death of the latter following an alleged illegal operation, was on tour with an orchestra for which he is manager when the death of Miss Foley and its sequel, Dr. Parry's arrest and suicide, occurred.

Excitement Prevails

Washington was agog with excitement today. With two members of its most exclusive social set dead, and arrest of a third, details of the double tragedy were being brought to light.

Robert E. Burnside, Dr. Parry's attorney, told of the physician's last words before he was found dead in his cell, "I am innocent of this awful charge," Dr. Parry was quoted as saying.

"The illegal operation was performed in Pittsburgh, and I merely consented to treat the girl in an effort to restore her to health."

The widow and a small daughter survive the physician.

Miss Foley's body was found at Mrs. Medrella's' home after the lat-

VOTERS DELAY REGISTERING

Few Go To Polls To Register On Thursday In New Castle

Registration on the first day provided for that purpose, September 2, was woefully light, according to the reports of various registrars in the city. Few people availed themselves of the opportunity, a general apathy seeming to grip the entire voting population.

Two more days are provided for registration, the second on September 14, and the third and last on October 2. Voters failing to register on these dates will be denied the privilege of voting on November 2.

New Castle has approximately 15,000 votes if every one eligible, would register. Usually the registration falls far below this figure, and unless more interest is shown in the second and third voting days, the figure this year will fall below even that of other years.

Plan Steps To Secure State Convention For New Castle In 1927

The first executive committee meeting of this fiscal year of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association was held at the parlor of the Y. W. C. A. Thursday evening at 7:30.

The chief matter of business was a discussion of the coming state convention to be held at Reading, Oct. 13, 14 and 15, and plans for the publicity to be given the securing of the 1927 state convention for New Castle.

To Send Large Delegation

In order to work up a good delegation for the Reading convention, the following committee was appointed to arrange for a tour of the county so that every Sabbath School would be visited in the interest of the convention. The committee appointed was, H. L. Marvin, Miss Cassie Brothers, C. A. Martin, Mrs. J. L. Stratton, Rev. H. L. Johnson, the county president, Robt. M. Strickler, Jr., and the county secretary, Mrs. Wm. J. Marshall.

It was pointed out, that those planning to attend the Sesqui-Centennial at Philadelphia from this county could first attend the State Convention and then go on to Philadelphia which is only a distance of about sixty miles.

To Get Convention

In regard to plans for bringing the State Convention to New Castle next year, the president stated that the Chamber of Commerce of New Castle was furnishing a descriptive New Castle booklet, 2,500 copies of which will go to Reading and be placed on every seat at the opening general session of the convention. Letters of invitation will also be secured from the various civic or-

BANDIT WOUNDS POLICE OFFICER

Billiard Hall Proprietor Is Shot Dead By Bandit During Robbery

(International News Service)

GARY, Ind., Sept. 3. — A bandit and his victim are dead, and a police officer is fighting valiantly for his life in a hospital here today following a fierce five-minute battle between crime and the law.

Harry Bolds, a lake seaman, is the dead highwayman. He was killed in a revolver duel with police officer Michael Flynn, who himself received wounds that may prove fatal.

The bandit had entered the billiard hall operated by Chester Gostenborder. When Gostenborder was slow in opening the safe, Bolds shot him dead. He was backing out of the hall when met by Officer Flynn. The duel followed in which Bolds was killed and Flynn wounded.

A few minutes before he killed Gostenborder, Bolds held up the Broadway Hotel and took $37 from T. O. Wells, night clerk.

Mysterious Death In 1923 Of Nurse For Carpender Being Investigated

DISCOVER GIRL'S BODY IN STREAM

Henry Stevens Seeks Vindication By Bringing Out Authentic Witnesses

(International News Service)

SOMERVILLE N. J. Sept. 3.—A possibility that the mysterious death of Miss Agnes Brezeale, a student nurse in 1923, might have some connection with the murders of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills was being run down by investigators today.

Miss Brezeale whose death was described to suicide at the time was nurse for Henry B. Carpender while the latter was a patient in the Middlesex county hospital during the sessions of the Somerset county grand jury which refused to indict Mrs. Frances S. Hall, Carpender's cousin.

Both Mrs. Hall and Carpender, together with her brother "Willie" Stevens are now held for the murders.

The girl's body was discovered in the shallow water of a creek a

DR. SNAPE IS VISITOR HERE

Returning From Vacation—Plays Golf With John D. Rockefeller, 87

Dr. John R. Snape, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, but now pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church of Cleveland, Ohio, was in New Castle today for a short time, on his way back from an extended vacation in the East with Mrs. Snape.

At the present time, the Euclid Avenue church in Cleveland is engaged in a building project which they expect to finish by January 1, 1927. The total cost of the new building is $1,400,000.00 and when Dr. Snape assumed charge on January 1, of this year, there was a debt of $700,000.00 on the edifice.

Large Donations By Rockefeller

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., is a member of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, although living in Tarrytown, N. Y., at the present time. Recently he announced that he would give $100,000.00 to the new church in his own name, $100,000.00 in memory of his wife, and that his son would put in $50,000.00. In addition, the oil magnate said that he would give another $100,000.00 providing the people of the church raised $350,000.00. One of the first duties of Dr. Snape upon his return to Cleveland, O., will be to raise the $350,000.00 and of this he feels confident.

While in Tarrytown, N. Y., Rev. Snape had the pleasure of playing nine holes of golf with Mr. Rockefeller. Although 87 years of age, Mr. Rockefeller played the nine holes in 50.

NEW PASTOR COMES SOON

Dr. Chas. B. Wingard Here On Thursday Making Arrangements

DR. CHAS. B. WINGARD.

Dr. Chas B. Wingard wife and daughter of Martins Ferry O. were visitors in New Castle on Thursday afternoon enroute from Chautaqua Lake to the Ohio city.

Dr. Wingard has accepted a call to become pastor of the Central Presbyterian church in this city, taking up his work here on September 19. The visit yesterday was made with a view to having some preparation made at the church parsonage on Park avenue prior to removing to this city. The new pastor and his family will come to this city during the next week or ten days to reside.

At the meeting of the Shenango Presbytery on September 14 the call will be presented, and arrangements be made for the formal installation services at the Central Presbyterian church.

Dr. Wingard has been most successful in his pastorate at Martins Ferry and in Pittsburgh, previously and Central members feel they are fortunate in securing such a capable and able minister to assume charge of the congregation at the outset of the winter's work.

Massillon Man Is Arrested On Murder Charge

Ben Rudner Taken Into Custody Today In Mellet Assassination

GRAND JURY WILL INDICT THREE MEN

Last Of 86 Witnesses Is Heard By Grand Jury At Canton

By PAUL E. BROKAW
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CANTON, O., Sept. 3.—Ben Rudner, Massillon, O., hardware merchant, today was arrested on a first degree murder charge in connection with the seven-weeks-old Don R. Mellett assassination.

The former bootlegger and inmate of Atlanta penitentiary was taken into custody in Massillon, O., seven miles from here, where he operates a retail hardware business.

County authorities made the arrest upon the request of County Prosecutor C. B. McClintock.

Brought to Canton

Rudner was to be brought to Canton immediately.

It was the second arrest in the long-drawn-out murder inquiry. Louis Mazer, friend of Rudner's, was arrested about three weeks ago in Cleveland on a first degree murder charge. Mazer is also charged with violation of the national prohibition act.

Patrick E. McDermott, alleged hired triggerman and "key witness" for whom a nation-wide search has been instigated, is still at large.

To Indict Three

It has been semi-officially announced that the grand jury today will indict three men, jointly, for first degree murder.

The porch swing sighs as it surveys the cool and chilly nights, the porch swing feels the weather man is taking all his rights. For soon it will be bundled up and promptly stored away, and for six months the porch swing will not see the light of day. For months its hung out on the porch, in daytime idle, quite, but what a lot of tales it heard told on a summer night. Those soft sweet nothings whispered in a maiden's shell pink ear, when Pa and Ma were gone to bed, and there was none to hear. Those whispered words at midnight's hour, and oftimes a caress, and now and then the porch swing heard the maiden whisper yes. But soon that sport will be inside, the porch swing will be through, and davenports will take its place, the weather's sixty two.

Arrest Soldier For Attack On New Castle Girl

Sixteen-Year-Old Girl, Visiting In Virginia, Tells Police Of Attack

HEARING IN CASE ON SEPTEMBER 7

Soldier Arrested Yesterday On Warrant Charging Criminal Assault

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Weeping convulsively, her body scratched and her clothing torn, Lillian Davis, 16-year-old girl of New Castle, Pa., staggered into the house of her sister, Mrs. Nellie Davis, Virginia Highlands, Va., Tuesday night and told Mrs. Davis that she had been criminally assaulted by a soldier in a woods near the Davis home.

Louis Whitaker, a private in the Sixteenth field artillery regiment at Fort Myer, a friend of the Davis girl since she came to visit her sister in Arlington county, was arrested at Mrs. Davis' home yesterday when he came to visit Lillian. He is held without bail in the Arlington county, Va., jail, charged with the assault. Conviction on the charge lodged against him permits the death penalty.

Mrs. Davis told police she was unable to get a coherent story from Lillian, Tuesday night. The girl lay awake all night, she said, sobbing most of the time. Yesterday morning the girl described in greater detail the alleged assault, accused Whittaker, and said he had promised to call for her late in the afternoon.

Mrs. Davis got in touch with the police, a warrant was sworn out against Whittaker, and Pauline A. Smith, woman deputy sheriff, and Raymond Clark, policeman, were at Mrs. Davis' home when Whittaker arrived. He was placed under arrest and taken to jail immediately. A hearing was set for September 7 to give Whittaker a chance to procure counsel.

The girl's story, according to her sister, was that she took a walk with Whittaker Tuesday afternoon, as she had done a number of times before. When they approached a clump of woods near the old Hilltop clubhouse, off the Mount Vernon boulevard, the girl said the assault took place while she was struggling to free herself.

The girl's father is dead. She came to visit Mrs. Davis for the summer after close of school in New Castle last June.

Whittaker is serving his second enlistment in the army. He joined the service in December, 1921, and re-enlisted in 1924. He was at one time an acting sergeant, but was reduced to the rank of a private for infraction of army rules.

Address of Lillian Davis in New Castle is not given.

ter notified Deputy Coroner T. C. Bebout that the body had lain all night in her home while she, frightened because Dr. Parry did not return with an undertaker, as she had believed he was to have done, went to the home of a neighbor for the night.

To Give Self Up

Dr. Parry was arrested after officials questioned Mrs. Medrella, and was taken to the police station, where he was to have been held until Borchers could be located for questioning.

Borchers, police said today, called the police station over long distance telephone and assured them that he was en route to Washington to give himself up.

Police planned to question him on charges that he had visited the Foley girl with Dr. Parry on several occasions.

Relatives of Dr. Parry today were notified of his death. His mother, at Waynesburg, Pa., a brother, Burdette Parry, of Bristoria, Pa., and three sisters, Mrs. Frank Feals of Tennessee, and Mrs. Albert Scott and Mrs. Jessica Lehman of West Virginia, were told of his suicide.

The program includes the following: horseshoe contest, 100-yard dash for boys 12 to 15 years of age, 50-yard dash for girls 12-15 years of age, 50-yard dash for fat men, 190 pounds and over; 100-yard dash for card men, ball-throwing contest for ladies, sack race for boys up to 15 years of age, watermelon-eating contest for boys up to 15 years of age; nail-driving contest for ladies, horseshoe pitching contest for card men, peanut race for girls up to 18 years.

There will, of course, be the usual opportunity of dancing and taking in the amusements of the park, and present indications are that a record crowd will be in attendance, providing the weather conditions are good.

In Charge of Celebration

Featuring the evening will be the five hundred dollar display of fireworks, which will conclude the day's program. This display will be one of the best seen in years at the park.

Those in active charge of the celebration are as follows: General chairman, T. J. McMichael; secretary and treasurer, R. C. Jones; members of the general committee, N. C. Patton, Alvin Glitch, Victor Gassey, Hugh Spence, Apollo Smith, James Casey, John McKibben, E. A. Erbs, H. P. Callihan, James P. Merrilees, Lew McKnight, John Swan, Robert Hutchison and Willis Campbell.

There will be a meeting of the committee at nine a. m. on Monday at which time the official Labor Day badges will be distributed.

The local organization of the Electrical Workers will have a special committee to meet and entertain President Noonan while he is in the city.

HOLD YOUTH IN AUTO THEFT

Police Bring Youth Back From Youngstown With Stolen Car

Rudolph Nemcovsky, aged 19, who claims Star City, W. Va., as his home, is now in the county jail charged with the theft of the automobile of H. A. Moore of the Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday evening from the vicinity of the Y. M. C. A.

He was found asleep in the Moore car on the outskirts of Youngstown Thursday by officers of that city and when he was unable to produce evidence of ownership he was arrested and the authorities here notified.

Officers John Moore and M. J. Young went to Youngstown last night and brought him back and placed him in the city jail until this morning. This morning Nemcovsky was taken before Alderman O. H. P. Green where an information made by Chief of Police Henry Dysart charges him with the theft of the Moore car between 9 and 11 p. m. Wednesday night.

When the information was read to him Nemcovsky entered a plea of guilty and was held for the September term of court. He was placed in the county jail pending the completion of the case.

Nemcovsky claims he arrived here some time Wednesday from Pittsburgh in company with another man. In the evening he took the car, he claims and went for a ride to Youngstown intending to return the car later. He was picked up there while sleeping in the car. His companion, he asserts, made his escape while the officers were questioning him.

The car was run only 20 miles and was in good shape.

RAILROADER DIES FROM INJURIES

Simon J. Molk Succumbs To Injuries In Beaver Falls Hospital

Simon J. Molk, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie brakeman, who was struck by a train at West Ellwood Junction, died last night in the Providence hospital at Beaver Falls. His left leg was almost severed and he sustained other injuries.

He had finished his run and was making his way to New Castle when the accident occurred. A sad feature of the case was that he was returning to his home in Buffalo to be with his wife on her birthday, Mrs. Molk who was notified of the accident, arrived at the hospital too late to see her husband alive.

Molk is survived by his wife and two children.

Hearing On Charge Of Throwing Acid

Mary Crawford, colored, had a hearing before Alderman Mantz last night on a charge of having thrown acid on Thomas Lee, colored. After hearing the stories of the two, the alderman adjourned the case until the premises from which the acid was thrown can be inspected by himself and the attorneys. Lee said that he was going to his garage across the alley from Mrs. Crawford, when the acid was thrown on him. It burned the side of his face and ruined his clothing. Mrs. Crawford denies that she threw the acid. Attorney Robert White represented Lee and Edwin K. Logan, Mrs. Crawford.

month after she disappeared. The discovery followed a telephone call to the New Brunswick police by a man who said a girl's body was lying in the water. This man's identity was never learned.

Seek Possible Link.

Inspector John Underwood, chief of the detectives, characterized any possible link between the suicide and the murders as "bunk." He said, that the affair would be investigated, due to the coincidence of Miss Brezeale having nursed Carpender at the time of the previous investigation.

Meanwhile, the authorities continued their efforts to batter down the alibi of Henry Stevens, another brother of Mrs. Hall who was drawn into the case again a few days ago.

Stevens claims to have been fishing 50 miles away from New Brunswick on the night the murders were committed. Today a group of women from his home town, Lavallette, N. J., joined the corps of 23 men witnesses who have declared themselves ready to swear to the authenticity of Stevens' alibi.

Upon the outcome of the questioning of seven witnesses at Toms River today by Prosecutor Simpson depends the validity of Henry Stevens' alibi in the eyes of the prosecution, it was said. A squad of deputy sheriffs have been assigned to watch the Stevens home.

TRAFFIC COP HAS GREETING

Unusual Treatment Accorded Local Motorist At Cumberland, Md.

There are different ways of treating the motorists, otherwise known as tourists, who happen to pass through a community enroute to some other section of the country, who, naturally, become a source of revenue in many instances, as they travel about the country.

Indications are that, generally speaking, they are considered a benefit to any district and are treated accordingly, when it comes to the matter of showing them courtesy.

About the most pleasing demonstration of appreciation of what the tourist really means to a community is that reported by Harry Carlson of this city and well known member of the composing room force of The News, on a recent visit in Cumberland, Md.

On his arrival there, a traffic officer was one of the first persons with whom he came in contact. His experience in other communities led him to believe that possibly he was about to receive some instructions as to what he could not do.

Instead the officer handed him a neatly printed card on which was conveyed to him the greeting and courtesy extended him by that city. The words on the card will best express just what that community believes in doing for the tourist and what could be used with good results in every other city of the country.

They read as follows: "Cumberland Maryland." We are glad you came this way. We greet you. Our parking laws do not apply to tourists. Park where you can and as long as you want. We request that you don't park near fire hydrants and don't speed through our streets. If any one in our city overcharges you, please report to the authorities. "We want you to come again."

County Teachers Have Business Meeting At Institute Closing Session

Lawrence county's seventy third annual institute of teachers ended today at noon when a business meeting in the Senior High school auditorium concluded the program of the week.

At the business meeting delegates were elected to the state and national educational association conventions, the following being selected. To attend the State Educational meeting in Harrisburg during the Christmas vacations, from the High school group, Roy F. Conway, of the Union township schools, alternate J. C. Frazee of Enon Valley. From the Elementary group, Miss Grace Reed, Ewing Park, Mrs. Albert Brenner of Shenango township.

Ball to National Convention

To represent the Lawrence county schools at the national convention in Dallas, Texas, in February, Charles F. Ball, assistant county superintendent was chosen, with H. J. Colton of Bessemer as alternate.

Officers of the Lawrence county chapter of the State Educational association were elected as follows, President, C. B. Book of Shenango township; secretary, Miss Grace Reed of Ewing Park.

The speakers of this morning's session were Dr. J. Linwood Eisenberg, principal of Slippery Rock State Normal school and Dr. E. L. Craik, president of Juniata college, Huntingdon, Pa. Dr. Eisenberg spoke on the "Spirit of the School" and Dr. Craik on "The Days That Lie Ahead". W. H. Helle, president of the Directors' association also spoke on the correlation of the directors to the work of the teachers.

A patriotism period was held in which Agnes McClelland of West Pittsburgh was heard in a recitation and Mrs. Gula Hess sang, with Miss Allurah Leslie at the piano. Fred Warner blew a number of calls on the bugle.

The institute was a success, and County Superintendent John C. Syling and his associates are to be congratulated. Inspired by the speakers of the institute, the teachers are now ready to assume their duties in the many schools in Lawrence county outside the city of New Castle.

testify in the startling murder case completed their presentation of evidence this morning.

The grand jury was then reported to have gone into immediate deliberation on the expected indictment.

Their report was predicted to come some time this morning or early this afternoon.

ADD MASSILLON MAN

en Rudner, the son of a wealthy Canton junk dealer, was first brought under suspicion by the testimony of Steve Kascholk, Nanty Glo, Pennsylvania miner, and informer, and star witness in the circumstantial case that has been brought against the two alleged murders.

Kascholk has testified and made sworn affidavits, now a matter of record, that he went to Massillon with McDermott where they were "hired to slug an editor."

Kascholk in all of his statements declared that Rudner hired them.

Later in the alleged plot, Kascholk refused to carry out his part and left Canton for Cleveland.

The evidence in the possession of investigators shows that McDermott motored to Massillon about ten days after the murder and stopped near the Rudner place of business.

According to testimony offered by Peggy Cavanaugh, Cleveland waitress, who accompanied him on the trip, McDermott returned to the automobile with a large roll of bills.

That was two days before the elusive McDermott was last seen.

Miss Cavanaugh is now being held as a material witness in the county jail here under $10,000 bond. Many other material witnesses are being closely guarded to prevent attempts of intimidation.

RACE FOR LIFE

Miss Dottie Long, daughter of George W. Long, was sick for a long time and her parents, who reside on Route No. 3, were told by doctors in the neighborhood that they could do nothing more for her. Being advised to take the child for treatment, her loving father put the child in his car and drove to the Free Minstrel Show, B. & O. Grounds, South Mill street, this city, to see if they could promise any relief.

He did so and Mr. Ross Dyar, the health evangelist in charge of the demonstration, gave little Dottie a free dose of medicine that had been so successful in relieving the sufferings of thousands of other people all over the country.

The poor weak little one then lay down on the seat of the car, sick and miserable.

Twenty minutes later the child complained of a peculiar sensation, and before she could be removed from the car had passed a horrible and repulsive monster tape worm—the cause of all the trouble.

Mr. Long was too excited and delighted to talk much, his one thought being to get little Dottie home and inform her anxious mother of their good fortune. He did say, however, that "I certainly thank Heaven for sending this great medicine within my reach, for I had fear of her life if that terrible parasite had been permitted to live inside her body and sap away her vitality much longer."

Commenting upon it afterwards the health evangelist said: "Now you see why it is we offer $1,000 for any tape worm that we fail to remove. We know what our medicine will do, even when the doctors and all other medicines have failed. We have seen it work dozens, yes hundreds of times when people had given up all hope of getting well, many of them refusing to believe they had a tape worm. Not only that, we have seen it bring back health and strength in thousands of cases—where there was no tape worm, but merely lowered vitality and general weakness that caused the whole system to run down and produce distressing symptoms that led to the belief that there was some serious trouble.

"My company has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to discover herbal ingredients that would combine into the best possible preparation for the stomach, liver and kidney disorders, relief of such common complaints as had blood, constipation, rheumatism and child bedwetting, and we have gloriously succeeded as you have seen demonstrated here numerous times."

World's Tonic is sold at Smith's Drug Store, South Mill street; also Paisley's, corner of Washington St. and Croton avenue and at all good drug stores at only $1.00 a bottle. Also is demonstrated at the Big Free Minstrel Show every night at the B. & O. Grounds, South Mill St.

McKINNEY CLASS HAS ANNUAL CORN ROAST

Members, their wives, families and friends to the number of 120 attended the annual corn roast of the McKinney class of the First Presbyterian Sunday school at the church Thursday evening, September 2. At 6:30 a dinner of corn, weiners, sandwiches and the seasonable garnishment for such a spread was served in the dining room.

After dinner a program in charge of retiring President L. B. Round and lasting about an hour, consisting of singing and several impromptu speeches, was given.

The class did some of its voluminous chorus singing. Two added features of the singing was a song by the kitchen committee and also one by Mr. McKinney. John C. Offutt, Joe Boyd, H. O. Rugh, Ed McGoun, J. C. Glenn, H. A. J. Brown and several other of the older members of the class. Miss Foster sang several gospel songs, accompanied on the harp by Miss Holquist. A. J. Koonce, who is leaving soon for Chicago to enter the Moody Bible institute, spoke briefly and Rev. McClure told a story to close the festivities.

The new president, Harry L. Elder, and new vice president, William Porter, were introduced and took active charge of the class affairs for the ensuing year.

Class To Meet

Mrs. E. N. Baer's Sunday school class of the First Methodist Bible school will meet Tuesday evening, September 7 to 8 o'clock instead of Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. Ernest Greiner of 37 Winter avenue.

ENTERTAINS GUESTS AT FAREWELL PARTY

As a courtesy to Miss Catherine Guinaugh, who is leaving the city, Miss Annabelle Morrissey, N. Lee avenue, entertained at a surprise party in her home Wednesday evening. The honor guest received many lovely gifts. Music and dancing were the chief pleasures of the evening.

September 16 Mrs. Margaret Butler and Mrs. Margaret Clark will be joint hostesses to the club members in the former's home on Winslow avenue September 16.

Corn and Weiner Roast.

Members of New Castle lodge I. O. O. F., Lawrence Encampment, Rachel Rebecca lodge with Mahoning Valley Grange will attend a corn roast at Kelso's on the New Castle-Edenburg road Saturday evening, September 4.

EVENING PARTY IS ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

Miss Genevieve Baker entertained the Gibson Melody Makers at the home of her sister Mrs. M. Wade of Morton street, Thursday evening. Informal social pastimes were enjoyed during the evening. Guitar solos were rendered by Miss Emma Free, Miss Alice Reese and Dale Williams. Miss Jean Williams played several banjo solos.

The home was decorated with vari-colored garden flowers. Dainty refreshments were served and the hostess was assisted by Miss Alice Reese. Special guests were Miss Anna Grider, Miss Dorothy Miller and William Calahan.

Other guests included the Misses Anna Free, Lillian Widel, Ruth Robinson, Aubrey Way, Edna Stroble, Ruth Stroble and Messrs. Dale Williams, Dean Williams, Robert Chapel, Mack Wade, Mrs. Calahan and Mr. and Mrs. S. Baker.

WEDDING NEWS OF LOCAL INTEREST

Announcements have been received here of the marriage of Miss Charlotte Isabelle Mosher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Mosher of Los Angeles, Cal., formerly of this city, and Edward Crumpton, Jr. The ceremony took place Friday, August 27, at Mission Inn, Riverside, Cal.

After an eastern wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Crampton will reside in Los Angeles.

The bride has visited a number of times at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Powers on the Mount Jackson road.

ENTERTAIN JOINTLY AT LUNCHEON-BRIDGE

Mrs. E. F. G. Harper and daughter Miss Eleanor Harper of Boyles avenue entertained jointly in the New Castle Field club today. Tones of red and orchid prevailed in the appointments and luncheon was served at 1 o'clock to 32 guests.

The afternoon hours were pleasantly spent with bridge. Out of town guests were the Misses Edna and Helen Shumaker of Dunbar, Pa., and Mrs. Mark Graham of Grove City.

Temple Bible Class.

Members of the Temple Bible class, taught by Daniel Kennedy, of the First Baptist Sunday school will have a tureen dinner at Cascade park Tuesday evening, September 7, at 6:30. Husbands and families will be guests of the occasion. In case of rain the supper will be held in the church dining room.

Enjoy Corn Roast

About fifty members of the First Baptist Young People's society enjoyed a delightful corn roast Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert James of Johns street.

Contrary to all expectations, instead of a corn roast the repast proved to be a real banquet. Baskets of gladiolas and hydrangeas made a colorful decoration for the tables.

The young people are very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. James for the enjoyable evening. They received much inspiration for more good times in the future and especially this coming winter.

Mrs. James was assisted in serving by Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Dandy.

Class Picnic.

Mrs. H. E. Waggoner, Vine street entertained members of the Searchers of the Truth class of Croton M. E. church in her home Thursday at a picnic dinner. Covers were laid for 13 and the hostess was assisted by Mrs. P. N. Billig and Mrs. Sara Hess.

The afternoon was spent socially and the various members told of the vacation trips during the summer. Singing was later enjoyed, with Mrs. C. W. Neiblinger as accompanist.

Special guests were Mrs. Mary McClelland of Cleveland, O.; Mrs. C. W. Neiblinger and son Howard of Beaver Falls and Miss Florence Cox.

Leave For Hartville

Rev. Alma Broadhead and Miss Louise Amesbury of Hartville, N. Y., have returned home after a visit with friends in New Castle, Pittsburgh and Leechburg, Pa. They were accompanied home by the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Broadhead of Morton street, this city and William Powell of Pittsburgh.

Enroute to New York they will visit in Clarion, Knox and Brookville.

HER HONOR THE GOVERNOR SCORES TREMENDOUS HIT

Seldom has a movie play scored such a tremendous hit as "Her Honor the Governor" which opened at the Penn theatre on Thursday night for a three day showing. Pauline Frederick probably the greatest emotional actress in America playing the leading role and she is supported by a cast that measures up well with Miss Frederick.

While not based on the hectic life of the first Woman Governor of Texas, there is much in "Her Honor the Governor" that is similar in theme to the politics in that state. Politically in aspect but very strong in theme and action "Her Honor the Governor" is one of those plays that have a wonderful appeal to everyone. It will show for two more days.

Neal Burns in "Mister Wife" provides a good laugh for everyone. This comedy is of the unusual type and adds a wholesome touch to the program.

The Kinogram News shows the latest events of the world in pictures.

ENTERING HIGH SCHOOL

THOUSANDS of young men and young women (they aren't boys and girls after they get out of the grades) are entering high school this year, and if they are the right kind of young people they will get the right kind of a thrill from this experience.

Entering high school is an epochal event in the life of anyone who is blessed with the opportunity. Most students never get beyond the graduation period in the high schools. After that they either go to work or loaf or do a little of each.

A great many young people who enter high school never graduate, and that is a very sad mistake for them to make, and a still graver mistake on the part of the parents, providing the latter deliberately give their consent to a child leaving high school without graduating, when it is not necessary.

The first day in high school marks the beginning of an important event in the life of the young man or young woman who enjoys the privilege of acquiring this important education.

There will come a time in the history of this country (and it is approaching rapidly nowadays), when a young person without a high school diploma is going to find things pretty hard in this life. For education is the stepping stone to success and independence and without it all is slavish labor and interminable discouragement. Those who entered upon high school life soon are to be congratulated. They are marching over a royal road and paving their own life's highway so that progress will be sure.

THE NEW STYLES

THAT the United States as a whole has been enjoying better than average good health this summer has been observed in lay and medical circles.

It has been popularly believed that the summer has been unusually healthy because it has been unusually cool, with the exception of short-lived spells of torridity, but Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the United States public health service, attributes the country's general good health to the fact that the changes in temperature have been less sudden than in other years. He attributes many summer ills to nature's plunging man without notice from a cool draught into the heat of a steam bath and then back again into the chill of the draught.

The nation's chief health officer has also observed with personal satisfaction that the public takes better care of its health than formerly by exercising care and common sense in matters of diet, physical exertion and apparel.

Even if a few women still smother themselves with summer furs, they are not chargeable with otherwise wearing too many clothes. More and more are fashion and common sense going hand in hand during the hot weather period, even among men. There is a suspicion that milady's complete summer costume can be weighed in apothecaries' scales. And does not conventional man descard his vest and "heavies" and don linens, summer worsteds and soft collars when the sun stands high?

GO TO WORK

GO TO work! Knowledge does not come from impressive books, but from the principle of working out these theoretical truths in actual practice.

The world is overpopulated with people who work harder killing time than they would have to work if they used time intelligently. The efforts of such people are reminiscent of the old horse once used in the brickyards to mill the clay. Round and round the circle he went, getting nowhere. A merry-go-round is a rollicking sport for children, but when adults do a lot of traveling they like to feel that they have been somewhere.

Do not wait for something to turn up and happen. Make things happen. The precious gifts of the gods is initiative—the ability to start something and keep it going. In the business world this gift commands the highest wage. In all of life the initiator of new outlets for the bubbling spirit of man is a benefactor.

Everywhere today the call is for the man who can make himself busy in new ways to reach old ends. The burden of civilzation is he who means well, but means well feebly.

We can't have universal peace and cigar ashes on rugs.

Nobody can see a man who is all wrapped up in himself.

It disappoints a man to return from his vacation and find that his long rest has done his creditors no good.

The distinction is this: A realist believes what he sees. A visionary is convinced he will eventually see what he believes.

There are fewer self-made men now than formerly, observes an educator. Also, they've stopped putting boot-straps on boots.

Maybe it's convention, but is there any particular reason why promoters feel obliged to hold bathing beauty contests at beaches?

It is observed by a speaker that the age seldom sees the man with a patch on his trousers. Maybe it is because we no longer have the variety of colors that never matched.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:30. Sun rises tomorrow 5:30.

Big department stores in large cities have found it necessary for some reason or other to make patrons to park their umbrellas when they enter the stores. We do not know the reason but it must be a good one and a saving on the store.

A college president and one of the biggest ever known can die and be buried in this country and not one in a thousand will even know who he is, while a movie star will die and an ocean of tears and mourning will be the result. Humans are queer animals.

There are bozos who are not sailors even if they are always at sea.

Yesterday C. R. Baldwin brought us a basket of peaches that were about as fine as peaches usually grow. Mr. Baldwin is associated with J. F. Bovard in a new fruit growing venture on the Harlansburg road near McCaslin. This year they will harvest about one thousand bushels of fine peaches. The variety given us was the "Carman". Extensive apple and grape plantings are also coming along, but not yet bearing. Bovard & Baldwin also have a hardware store on East Washington street. We enjoyed the peaches immensely and are also glad to note the enterprise of these men in the fruit raising game. California has nothing on Lawrence county in the fruit raising—also in many other things.

Some day, to get even we shall wear an old, old hat and then not buy it back from the check boy.

Some ladies think that woman's suffrage was brought about just as an excuse for finding out the ages of women.

We have made a visit to the Sesqui Centennial at Philadelphia and after looking it over carefully, have come to the conclusion that it is a great show and well worth visiting. It is about finished and in good shape. What we admired about it is the human effort involved in its wonderful construction. Pennsylvanians should support this show in every way. It means nothing to us personally, but it means a lot to Pennsylvania. The foreign nations and other states having exhibits, made at great expense have something coming to them and it is the duty of the people to show their appreciation by at least attending the great show. The navy yard is right next to the exposition ground and the war ships and subs there are alone worth a visit to Philadelphia, that is if you are an American. Be sure and go if you possibly can and take all the little folks along. It is a great educational feature.

We have reached the conclusion after seeing thousands of ladies in bathing suits that every man should see his future wife in a bathing suit before he marries her. There are no restrictions on bathing suits any more and there is very little cloth in any of them either.

In the old days the girls used to have what they called a "Hope Chest." Some of them call it a "Struggle Chest" now.

As one travels over the wonderful highways of the great state of Pennsylvania and you cross it three ways withot going over a foot of earth road on every hand the eye is greeted with signs reading "Tea Room." These places are all a delusion and a snare and are not what one would think a tea room should be. The roadside eating factory has a long way to go before it will be popular with anything but the flies.

It was our pleasure during the past ten days to stop in quite a few hotels of the type New Castle is building just now. We are more convinced than ever that the new hotel here is going to make a new era in this city and it is going to be a great boon. A good hotel is a great civic center. What is in other cities surely can be in grand old New Castle. And by the way we think better of New Castle than we ever did if such a thing is possible.

What is become of the old-fashioned little girl who could speak a piece for company?

Every once in a while a man who is a regular devil marries a strong minded woman who scares all the devil out of him in less time than it takes to tell it.

Atlantic City is still a popular place. Last week one high class hotel that had rooms got $14 a day for a room and other hotels of less pretentions got $26 per day for one room and board. When one man steps away from the desk refusing to pay the price three or four rush up and offer to pay more. There is going to be a crash some day.

Everybody in the United States seems to want to eliminate something. Wouldn't it be great if some one thought of eliminating the eliminators?

There is going to be a big Charleston contest in New York with contestants from all over the world taking part. New York was chosen for the contest over Hollywood. Hold it in California and it might start an earthquake.

An Austrian specialist says that cigaret smoking is making women's voices harsh instead of "soft and sweet" as they should be naturally. However, in all probability the women prefer something approximating masculinity in their vocal organs to harmonize with their other mannish affectations.

Tex Rickard the veteran promoter has found out that we have a way of running our own boxing affairs in this Commonwealth and it took only one round with the State Athletic Commission for him to learn his lesson.

The suggestion that women will soon wear suspenders makes us wonder if their shoulders are broad enough for that responsibility.

A thin girl may have her good points but they don't show up well in a bathing suit.

Whenever we hear a statement that a man is "going to the dogs" our sympathies just naturally gravitates toward the dogs.

Hereafter when Gertrude Ederle wants to relax and enjoy herself at some seaside resort she's going to have a mighty hard time getting some nice young man to teach her to swim.

After a man has swallowed hook, line and sinker and is about to be led to the slaughter he begins to wonder if he really is entitled to any credit for having won the lady of his choice of if he is just another poor fish who didn't have enough brains to stay away from the bait.

A man reaches the prime of life at 27 years. But even then his hearing is on the down grade as that sense is more acute at 7 or 8 years. Such is the belief of Karl Pearson distinguished scientist. A few years ago Dr. Eugene Lyman Fiske expressed his opinion that our bodies begin wearing out at the age of 12. So authorities disagree. But the average man undoubtedly reaches the pinnacle of his physical powers before he is 30. Thereafter he slowly deteriorates. His health may be good. But the endurance of youth is on the wane. Old age really begins in the cradle.

Murphy was a new cavalry recruit and received one of the worst horses in the troop. The sergeant had instructed him never to dismount without orders. No sooner was he astride than the horse kicked up his heels and sent Murphy sprawling over his head where the sergeant saw him a little later.

"You dismounted without orders."

"I did have orders."

"From headquarters?"

"No, from hindquarters."

If Goethe Read Them.
Thaw's Prayer.

A Hindu Worth While.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1926, by N. Y. American, Inc.

Goethe said the best way to Germanize territory taken from Poland was to send German plays and players to inspire respect for the German idea and language.

What would Goethe think of these, chosen from titles of plays now advertised in New York?

"Liars," "Loose Ankles," "One Man's Woman," "Cradle Snatchers," "Laff That Off," "If I Was Rich," "Sex," "She Couldn't Say No," "The Adorable Liar."

Another title, "My Country," strikes your eye, and your mind turns to patriotism. Then you read "it is the nation's laugh hit."

They say Euripides' "Bacchue" was played in Athens for 500 years. It wouldn't play twice in New York unless George Cohan rewrote it, and Schubert or Ziegfeld organized such a chorus of Bacchue as Dionysus never dreamed of.

Harry K. Thaw, who killed Stanford White, and has since attracted attention, writes an autobiography that "cost him $25,000," a large price.

Mr. Thaw says his lawyer was a traitor, but doesn't name the lawyer. He had several. He says the lawyer was worse than Stanford White. And the night after he killed White he prayed that the latter might go to heaven. It would be interesting to know what memoranda the angel Gabriel wrote on the margin of that prayer.

On one farm in the new South African diamond fields prospectors found $180,000 worth of diamonds.

A community of a few hundred, almost overnight, grows into a crowd of 50,000. Thousands pour in, on foot, some in bathing suits, to make running easier.

A few, perhaps a dozen, will find diamonds and get rich. Half a dozen may keep the money and leave it to spoil their children. The thousands will complain that they had no luck.

And in starting for the diamond fields they left behind them open libraries, opportunities without limit, and the certainty of independence, if they cared to work for it, without the hardship of a "diamond rush".

You know about Krishnamurti, the young Hindu who receives messages from "beyond". Another Hindu, worth ten million Krishnamurtis, is Assam Dina—enormously rich, married to an American girl. He inherited recently the astronomical observatory on Mt. Blanc, highest mountain in Europe, is bringing it up to date, and next year will build on a nearby mountain a better observatory, equipped with the world's most powerful telescope.

This gentleman from India sends up his scientific materials by airplane and plans regular airplane service between the lower regions and Mt. Blanc by the eagle's route.

That's the kind of Hindu the world needs, one that with his telescope will look out into space, find what is really happening there; not somebody to sit down and imagine that his poor, feeble little brain can be made a receiving station for Divine wisdom.

There is great mental power among the people of India, dwarfed and held down by a hot climate, vicious laws and the degrading caste system. Set free in a better climate it might produce many Assam Dinas and a surprise for Britain, that inhabits and Rules India now, as a semi-benevolent ferret might rule a rabbit Warren.

Hamilton Fyfe, successful editor of the London Daily Herald, British labor organ, leaves his job to devote his life "to vagabondage, seeing the world."

Many men do that, thinking it rather noble. In reality they do what every man does as he roams the woods. Usefulness in this world depends not on how much you see of it, but how much you do in it.

Mr. Fyfe predicts that 20 years hence there will be only two political parties, "one consisting of Laborites and Liberals, the other of Communists."

Everything is possible, but at present there is only one really powerful party in Britain, France, Germany or America, the party of well organized capital, which runs the world, with plenty of advice and criticism to which it pays little attention.

Another joyous Wall street closing, plenty of cheap money at 4½, the "general price level" higher, railroad stocks going up. Why shouldn't they go up, when government says to the public "you've got to pay the poor railroads enough to keep them going and give them a fair return on money invested." Government doesn't say that about farmers, for to say it would be bolshevism, or at the least, Socialism.

The first British decoration bestowed on a Chinese woman in the M. B. E. awarded to Miss Foonye Catherine Woo, head mistress of the St. Paul's Girls' School in Hong Kong. Though a British subject, Miss Woo is thoroughly Chinese in her desire to preserve the best in the national culture. In St. Paul's School a modern education is given in Chinese to 500 girls, the daughters of Chinese Christian parents who support the school. Miss Woo spent five years in England where she was educated in the leading schools for girls and later took a special course in theology. When she returned to China she accepted an invitation to become principal of St. Paul's School. Last year the British Government gave her a site for a new building. Miss Woo is one of the representatives on the National Christian Council in China, and an enthusiastic Y. W. C. A. workers.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

THE AMERICAN PRUNE

A number of references have been made of late in the newspaper to the place and importance of the lowly prune.

When the Southern Pacific Railroad recently added a new locomotive of the latest type to its passenger service the fact to light that per pound a prune is more valuable than a locomotive.

Locomotives cost 17.3 cents a pound. Prunes cost 19 cents a pound in California.

As an industry the raising of prunes has assumed importance with a suddenness that places it almost on a parallel with the phenomenal growth of the automobile and the moving picuture industries.

The first scion planted in this country was brought from France in 1856.

It was planted in California as an experiment from which little was expected.

Only in 1870 was the first serious attempt made to cultivate prunes on a large scale in the United States. The first real prune orchard was planted then.

Ten years later the crop in the United States was 200,000 pounds and in 1900 it had reached a total of nearly 130,000,000 pounds and has been growing steadily ever since.

Its popularity in this country as a table delicacy has grown by leaps and bounds. Doctors speak kind words in referring to it and it made a host of friends because of its health giving properties.

The American prune is also holding its own in foreign markets.

Large quantities are now being exported, some even being sent to the land from which the first scion came.

The grade of prunes is determined by the number to the pound. They range from 30 to 40 in the highest grade to 120 to 130 in the lowest.

American prunes in the foreign markets are said to rank with the finest brands of France.

The American output is still supplied principally by three western states: California, Oregon and Washington.

As an industry the producing of the American prune has attained a place of lasting importance.

Bible Thought For Today

STAY WITH THE LORD:—The Lord is with you, while ye be with him; and if ye seek him, he will be found of you; but if ye forsake him, he will forsake you. II. Chronicles 15:2.

Human nature: Waiting all afternoon to call a doctor; growling because he doesn't arrive in ten minutes.

A man usually feels at peace with God if he feels at peace with himself.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE BUNK REFORMERS

All Governments, especially that of the United States of America, are entirely dependent upon three Arms, Legislative, Executive, and Judicial. Weakness in any one of these Arms spells poor Government. The choice of the Legislator, the Executive, and the Judge in this country is dependent upon the votes of the people, directly, or indirectly. In order that the people might have some clear-cut method of using their votes, the Founders of the Nation designed a "Party System", and with it fixed party responsibility. The purpose of all this was to enable the Party in Opposition to show to the voter any weakness that might be developed by the officers of the Party in Power. Very clearly, such a method would tend to make all Parties very careful in the choice of a man whom they nominated for office.

This System should work very well, but the Nation has drifted away from the Idea. There are many Reformers. Usually these Reformers under the Direct Primary System ran for office upon a Party Ticket of their own choice. They say they are Republicans, or Democrats, and this does not mean a single thing. Some of these Reformers are elected, and they find themselves in the Legislatures, as Executives and as Judges, powerless to reform anything. They are very completely out of harmony with the other branches of the Government, or too many weak spots are found among the holders of offices in this or that Department of Government.

A soldier, with a most excellent military record for doing things was chosen by the Mayor of Philadelphia to "clean up the city", and enforce Law and Order. Whatever has happened to General Butler since that time is another story, but the story of his work in Philadelphia shows how impossible it is for any man, no matter how purposeful and determined he may be, to accomplish anything without the aid of all branches of Government. Recently, in San Diego, California, General Butler told this story, illustrating the conditions under which he worked. It was not of bootlegging, or of the usual sort, but in fact, a startling story. I quote the General:

"A burglary was committed in Philadelphia, the criminal was apprehended, tried and sentenced to the penitentiary. He was eventually taken to the penitentiary and there imprisoned. About two weeks after his imprisonment the police picked him up on the streets of Philadelphia. The warden of the penitentiary was called on the telephone and was asked where his prisoner Blank was. He promptly answered 'Right here in the penitentiary'. He was told instead of being right there, he was in my office. The man was sent back to the penitentiary, and in the course of ten days the police picked him up again on the streets of Philadelphia. The same conversation was had with the warden of the penitentiary. The criminal was afterwards sent to another penitentiary and he is still there."

Government, like a chain, can not be stronger than its weakest link. The penitentiary where the criminal was originally lodged is only a part of the Judicial system of the Government of Pennsylvania, and unless there is a political system whereby there is a direct responsibility for that weakness brought home to a particular Party, and fixed there, such weakness will always exist. No Reformer can accomplish anything; he must belong to a Party, pledged to reform not only one Office, not only one Department, but all offices and all Departments of Government.

The Direct Primary System will never bring about any true Reform. Parties in Conventions can not be held accountable, but officers chosen as Party Candidates at Direct Primaries can never be held responsible for the System.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

A MAN'S VIEW

I'm glad I'm not a wife,
The way men growls and squeals,
I'd hate to spend my life
Just thinking up his meals.

I'm glad I'm not a wife!
How horrible 'twould be
To have to spend a life
Just looking after me!

I'm sure I couldn't stand
Day in and out the sight
Of one so wise and bland,
And so superbly right.

How can a woman prize
And cherish all life long
A man, so sure, so wise,
Who's never in the wrong?

I'm glad I'm not a wife,
Shoes I would rather shine,
A man—and live my life
With such a wife as mine!

POEMS HOVE BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"A SERENADE"

By Sir Walter Scott

This simple song, with its everlasting lover's question, loses nothing, placed beside other serenades. It has the lilt and beauty such verses should possess; and if one finds it almost too simple, he should remember that this kind of amiable loveliness is not easy of accomplishment.

Ah! County Guy, the hour is nigh,
The sun has left the lea,
The orange flower perfumes the bower,
The breeze is on the sea,
The lark, his lay who trilled all day,
Sits hushed his partner nigh;
Breeze, bird and flower confess the hour,
But where is County Guy?

The village maid steals through the shade
Her shepherd's suit to hear;
To beauty shy, by lattice high,
Sings high-born Cavalier.
The star of Love, all stars above,
Now reigns o'er earth and sky,
And high and low the influence know—
But where is County Guy?

Kiddies Have Great Day At Cascade At Annual Outing

(By KATE MOORHEAD)

Gee, me and Ted Jones had a swell time at the big picnic they give us at Cascade yesterday. I got up awful early, about 7:00 o'clock and wuz all ready to go when I come down to breakfast in the morning, but Mom, she thought I better eat a lot, then I wouldn't be hungry agin so soon. Well, enyhows, she seemed glad to have me go about 9:00 o'clock, because you see I wuz so worried about mebby some of the races bein over before I got there—and so wuz Ted.

We seen some girls coming towards us, and not wantin to be bothered with girls hangin around, me and Ted juked behind the picture building where you enter the park, there we found some of our friends playin ball. We watched them awhile, but not bein polite and asking us would we like to play, we walked to the place where our friends Jimmy and Albert had jest got a set of silver cause they got a fish hooked.

Gosh, now imagine Jimmy with a lotta silver. He got awful mad when we called him a sissy, and he said he got em for his brother anyhows. Well they are pretty good kids, so we walked over to the penny house with them, and I showed how strong I wuz when I punched the bag so hard, my fist pritnear made a hole in it, honest.

John Dennis he came up and started showin off how strong he wuz and punched for a long time. He's from the south side, and me and Ted admire the way he wears his red tie and the grandest long pants you ever seen. We wuz all standin there and punchin the bag when Charles Cameron come up lookin awful glum. When we asked him about his headache, or maybe a pain some wheres, he said the only pain he got wuz in his big toe, and it wuz because his Mom thought he wuz a sissy girl and made him carry a blue umbrella, when no selfrespecting boy is afraid of a little rain.

"Gee, that's tough, I sed. But I'll give you half my chewing gum, if you wanta come with us. Mebby we kin ditch the rain dodger someplace." More cheerful he seemed to enjoy hisself. I admired his sweater and he sed I could have it if I wanted it, cause he didn't need it enyhows. Shucks, beleeve me, he's a good friend of mine and Teds.

We heard Wallace Jones braggin because he hit that punch bag for 300, and George Budar who lives on Miller avenue, jest laughed and laughed. I sed to George, would he care to eat some of my cracker jack, but he sed, no, he wuz savin his money to get hot dog, and he wuz hungry enough to eat it all hisself. Gess hes goin to be a business man someday. Now me, I beleeve in bein generous. Why I even give my sister the core of an apple the other day, then I splained to her she could plant the seeds and have a tree of apples all for herself.

"Ted, look at them girls tryin' to rock that boat over there in the Kiddy playground," I sez givin my boy friend a nudge, which nearly knocked him over. I wanted to go over and have some fun but Ted jest laughed and sed, "them wuz jest things for babies over there."

I seen a man wearin a policemans uniform feeding the monkeys an apple and while me and Ted wuz standin there and watchin the fun, I herd a woman in back of me, tellin how once upon a time a long time ago, a woman went to a zoo, wearin a big rat pompadore in her hair. The monkey didn't like her cause she got fresh, and he pulled down her hair. I dunno what he did with the rat.

There wuz a nice kind man sittin on a bench, and he had some crutches beside him. I sat down next to him and give him some popcorn, and talked to him alot, until Ted yelled at me from the penny house, where I had left him gazin at his funny face in one of them wobbly mirrors. 'Cmere," he sed, "looky what I got, a pitcher." And sure enoughtwas the grandest pitcher of a lady and there wuz a verse what told his fortune on it. He put it in his pocket and is goin to keep it for evermore.

Gosh, wisht I saved more money. I had 20 cents, and now I only gotta nickel, not even enough to buy a pitcher of a lady. We wuz standin there talkin about not having much money when Edward and Waldo Westrich come up with their sister Katherine. She's an awful nice girl and interduced us to her girl friend Margaret Smith and her brother Frank. They didn't stick around long when they found out we wuz so poor. They sed they wuz goin to get some ice cream. Huh, we don't like ice cream enyhow.

It seemed awful hard for Helen Marshall to get Constance and Jimmy Borovilos away from the monkeys. I seen them when me and Ted strolled over and watched the man with the blue raincoat help the kids into the ferris wheel. Meyby we could get a ride fer nuthin if we'd ask that man "could we come in and rock the boat," Ted said. (He had changed his mind about it being for babies.)

There wuz a little girl named Zena who cried like anything, because her mamma didn't let her ride all the time. Her hair wuz curly and my she wuz pretty, jest like my sister, who doesn't bawl. He walked over and looked at Jack Rhinhart ridin the horse on the merry go round, and gee, he looked swell in that sailor outfit. Raymond Winters and Paul Workman helped him get his feet in the stirrups before the tall black haired man come up. Harold and Clarence Workman wuz there too and sed they had been havin a swell time too. Then they wanted to know, "wuz we goin to be in the penny scramble?"

"Penny scramble?" what music that wuz to us poor boys who didn't have much cash. Marie and Maybelle, girl friends of Ted's, came up jest then and sed they wuz plannin to be in the races in the afternoon. "That is somethin like it," I sez, "bring us kids here then show us a good time."

Well, it wuz after 3 o'clock and I seen the curly haired chap with the big smile and yella sweater comin over towards us. "You kids gonna be in the penny scramble?" he wanted to know. Boy, wuz we, we told Jack Hulme, that's his name, how many pennies we wuz goin to get. Ted he got there first and we mazured our hands good, to see whose wuz the biggest. There wuzn't no use for me to get any, cause he would divvy up, you see he's my friend.

We run some of the races too, but the long legged fellows beat me every time and I didn't care none, cause I kin beat the kids at home all the time. I seen a little girl dressed up in a red and white dress and wearin a hair ribbon and I wuz standing speachless looking at her. The little girl wuz with her mother who wuz dressed in blue with a hat to match, like the society reporter in the newspaper sez. This woman asked me did I know where the show wuz at. I sed I had thought mebby her little girl wuz it, but she jest laughed.

We all went to the dodge-em house and my how we did laugh when Sammy Dennis come out on the floor all dressed up fit to kill in sheek trousers and wearin a red necktie what matched the big bow on his cane. "That's some swell class, beleeve me," I whispered to Ted. Sam sang some and Buddy Badger, who is only 6 years old, come out and showed us some stunts he learned from a circus. "I'll bet I could do that any old day," I told Ted. But then he's jest a kid enyhows.

Now there's Ruth Phillips who sang and danced jest as tho she wuz on a real stage. I'll bet she learned to clog dance from her brother who wuz in the navy wunst. Walter Evans did some stunts too and so did Billy Glenn. Now Billy is a grand girl and me and Ted both like her heaps. We cheered and cheered when she danced and yelled "Go to it old girl, giv er the gas", until a big fat lady sittin in back of us give us a nudge and told us to shut up so's she could hear Charles Smawley playin on the mouthorgan.

Me and Ted decided we'd go together and buy a mouthorgan with our last nickel, and learn to play like Mr. Smawley. The performants was finished with a lot of funny jokes told by Jimmy Herbolt, who is a reglar wize cracker, and awful nice to us kids. Just to show how unselfish and thoughtful I am, I took my busted balloon home to my little sister and she can make little cherries and bust 'em, and make lots of noise.

Three Murderers Pay Penalty In Columbus, Ohio

First Triple Execution In History Of Ohio Works Out Smoothly

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 3.—Ohio's first triple execution was completed in 31 minutes from the time the first condemned man was strapped in the electric chair until the third was pronounced dead.

The men, John Bryant, Richard Rhoades and John Hedricks, all of Pomeroy, were electrocuted at the state penitentiary last night in the order named for the murder of James McCumber last March 15.

Bryant was placed in the chair at 8:16 p. m. and was pronounced dead by the prison physician at 8:23.

Curious Throng Prison Yard.

He was followed by Rhoades who was strapped to the chair at 8:28 and declared dead at 8:34.

Hedricks was declared dead at 8:47 six minutes after he was dressed in the death cap.

The executions were devoid of the unusual except for the number of spectators and the crowds of curious which thronged the prison yard in futile efforts to see details of electrocutions.

Crowds such as never before seen at the penitentiary by prison officials packed West Spring street near the institution for more than an hour before the time set for the electrocutions. Many of the spectators outside the prison walls were state fair visitors.

P. L. D. Reading Circle

Mrs. Alice Shelton entertained the members of the P. L. D. Reading Circle at her home on Green street, Thursday evening. The president, Mrs. Blanche Dillard, presided. Devotionals were led by the chaplain, Mrs. Belle Shannon. Sixteen members responded to roll call.

A pleasing program was carried out in charge of Mrs. Julia Wilkes on the subject, "Kind Words." Papers were read by Mrs. Dillard, Mrs. Coffee, Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. Wilkes and Mrs. Almon. A solo number was given by Mrs. Katherine Engs. Special guests were Mrs. Marian Turner, Mrs. Mary Shannon and Mrs. Katherine Engs.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Engs and Mrs. Rose.

JOE BADEZKO'S CAR REPORTED STOLEN

Joe Badezko, Wampum R. D. 1, reported to the police Thursday that his Chevrolet touring car, 1923 model, Pennsylvania license 998-045 had been stolen from the Shenango tin mill yard. The police so far have been unable to locate the stolen car.

Lillian Kelty Is Still Missing

Lillian Kelty, aged 17, of 122 Quest street, reported missing from her home in this city a few days ago, has not yet been located, according to Mrs. Minnie McKibben, city policewoman, who is investigating the case. No word has been received from the missing girl since she left home here.

DON'T LET THE CHILDREN SUFFER

Mothers! Here's a Friendly Warning.

Preparations are now being made for school days. All the Mary Janes and Johnny Joneses will be hurried away in a spic-and-span condition to the call of ding-dong bell. New dresses, new suits, new shoes and everything make up the attire to greet the school season.

But have the children's teeth been taken care of? That's important—it's paramount for health's safe. Much of the chonic disorders and ill-health of children are directly traceable to bad teeth. It naturally hampers them in their studies.

Take care of the children's teeth now. Bring them to Dr. Finkelstein's where they will be relieved of all fear of pain. Here that wonderful anesthetic, "Vital Air," does its magic so quickly that you will be profoundly amazed!

"SEASON" LATE FOR HAY FEVER

Hopeful Victims Are Disappointed When Belated Season Arrives

Everything was late this season and you will remember how, there were those weather prophets, who said that there would be no summer weather, yet it is not hard to remember those extremely hot nights and days of a few weeks ago, when the corn seemed to mature over night and the crops generally matured in a remarkably short time.

There wasn't going to be any crops either, but nature knew better and otherwise and there is an abundance of fruits and other good things.

But that isn't the story at all. There is a gang of poor foolish persons in this world, who each year spend several weeks of each summer in going around with a handkerchief closely applied to their nose and are known as hay fever victims.

This year when everything else appeared to be different and seasons generally were late, they were under the same mistaken impression of numerous weather prophets that things generally were different and this would be one year when they would not suffer their usual agony during the golden rod and haying season.

When the early part of August was past and still they were free from their usual unpleasant feelings, they began to sing, "I'm not going to sneeze any more, any more" and they were jubilant when the month neared its end and they still refused to sneeze.

But it's different now, even if it is the first of September and about the usual time for the end of the hay fever season. You can tell them the minute you see them on the street or in the office. For the most part they are a dejected looking lot and not always inclined to reply pleasantly when you ask them what's the matter.

For the hay fever came just the same and is just as usual, thank you, except, it waited until vacation time was over for most persons and now they are compelled to work under a handicap.

There are the usual cures reported by the numerous victims of the disease but it is noticeable that they seldom mean anything and the fellow who goes along, makes the best of it and takes as few nostrums or so called cures as possible, is just about as well off as the fellow who is trying everything that is mentioned.

Senator McKinley's Condition Unchanged

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The condition of U. S. Senator William B. McKinley, stricken with pulmonary congestion while undergoing treatment for rheumatism, was described as "unchanged" in a long distance telephone message from Home Lawn Sanitarium at Martinsville, Ind., early today.

Senator McKinley early last evening showed marked improvement, the message stated, but later his fever rose and he again lapsed into a state of semi-consciousness. Last evening he was able to recognize members of his family gathered at the bedside.

The senator was stricken several weeks ago while at his home in Washington and taken to Martinsville for treatment. Monday his condition became critical and little hope for his recovery has been held out.

STRUCK BY AUTO; DIES IN HOSPITAL

WARREN, Pa., Sept. 3.—John McMahon, 50 years old, of Dahoga is dead in Kane Summit hospital as the result of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile driven by Dan Sullivan of Wilcox. McMahon was standing in the road and it is said he jumped in front of the machine driven by Sullivan to avoid being struck by another machine.

INSTRUCTORS ARE SELECTED

Mercer County Teachers' 'Institute To Be Held October 4 To 8

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 3.—An eminent corps of instructors is announced today by Prof. H. T. McConnel, county superintendent of schools, as constituting the faculty at the holding of the Mercer county teachers' institute here in the courthouse assembly room from the date of October 4 to 8.

Dr. J. Lynn Barnard, director of social studies of the department of public instruction of Pennsylvania, located at Harrisburg; Prof. W. H. Bristow, assistant director of secondary education, also of the department; Dr. Howard Burdge, principal of the Fredonia Normal school at Fredonia, N. Y.; Miss Margaret McGuire, principal McCall school in Philadelphia; Mrs. R. Brown Cook, penmanship instructor from the West Chester Normal school; Prof. Waldo Bates, dean of the art department of Edinboro State Normal, and Miss Nellie G. Hudson of that school, head of the department of geography and natural science; Mrs. Elfa Porter, supervisor of primary subjects at Indiana State Normal; Dr. J. S. Duncan of Mercer, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, a well-known scholar of literature; Dr. Luther Malmberg, dean of Thiel College at Greenville; Dr. R. A. Waldron of the science department of Slippery Rock Normal; Prof. O. W. Raney of Sharon High faculty; Dr. H. F. Winner of South Hills High schools, Pittsburgh; Dr. L. H. Beeler, head of the social science department of Grove City college, will all be carded. Dr. J. W. Sweeny of St. Marys, superintendent of the schools of Elk county, the oldest man in point of service of the state superintendents, will also be on the program. The list of instructors of this year exceeds in number any previous institute. Prof. R. J. McDowell of Pittsburgh will again have charge of the music.

The viewers in the action of N. T. Robinson vs. Mercer Borough, who claims damage for the erection of a sewage disposal plant on his farm to the south of town, viewed the location and heard the statements of the witnesses Wednesday. The board is that with a Grove City damage suit of similar nature filed by J. W. Hunter in charge.

T. B. Streams of Indiana, who for the past two years has been in charge of the Mercer-Crawford county district for the bureau of animal husbandry of the state with regard to the enforcement measure of the 1921 dog law, announces his transfer to the tri-county district of Clearfield, Jefferson and Indiana, which will make possible his establishing headquarters at his home in Indiana.

Harry Higbee of Stoneboro, who is a special agent for this bureau, will be given the Mercer-Crawford district. The official transfer has been made and but awaits the completion of work in the district on the part of Mr. Streams before he leaves. As concrete evidence of what he is doing in Mercer county, issue of 544 dog licenses this year at the county treasurer's' office as an increase over the 1925 total is proof of how capably he is handling the situation. He is doing it also with very few arrests.

Stringent measures on the part of this official in 1925 convinced county residents of his determination. In Crawford county, where they sell around the 7,000 mark on the average, an increase is being shown already for 1926. Mr. Streams is authority for the statement today that the sheep claims in this district are materially reduced this year in comparison to former years. He will return this fall, he states, as the chief prosecuting witness at the court hearing carded when a sheep claim case in Jefferson township is up.

There will be 125 new applicants heard at the naturalization court proceedings here on September 27-28-29, it is shown by the records of the prothonotary's office. These, together with continued cases, will make a list approximating 200, which is the customary size of list for the semi-annual naturalization court.

Wilson Cochran, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Cochran, sustained a fractured right arm as the result of a fall from the dock to the rocks at the Solid Comfort fishing camp in Canada.

Weather Aids Labor Situation In State

By G. ROSS DOWNING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 3. — With the return of fair weather following an unprecedented period of August rains came improvement in labor conditions throughout the state which tended to reach normalcy in many industries, according to the bi-monthly report of the State Department of Labor and Industry made public today. The state department's report was based on figures from the various labor employment offices of the commonwealth sent in during the last two weeks of August.

Steady activity on the railroads was reflected in the reports from demand for extra men was still far below that of last winter, a number of additional men have been taken on during the past two weeks and trainmen have been advanced in rank because of the increased freight business. Passenger traffic to the Sesqui-Centennial in Philadelphia was reported as good, thus resulting in the continual employment of additional trainmen.

Steady rainfall throughout the state during the middle part of the month caused widespread temporary unemployment among classes of common labor and the delay on many outside construction projects. The idle period has been offset by the employment of additional men when fair weather came in order that the work might be speeded up before fall weather sets in.

Both bituminous and anthracite districts reported increased activity. Johnstown reported a heavy demand for pick miners and machine coal loaders with a shortage of available men. This was said to be due to the fact that all orders are placed on the basis of the 1917 wage scale or less.

Conditions in the textile industries, especially those manufacturing men and women's clothing, were reported as good.

Activity in the building and construction lines was below normal with the exception of the Altoona and Allentown districts. In Altoona the value of the July building permits was three times that of the corresponding month last year. Work on a majority of the projects covered by the permits got underway during the latter part of August. In Allentown the building permits issued during July covered more than a million dollars in new construction.

The majority of the construction workers were employed in the Philadelphia district. A sufficient supply to meet the labor demand was on hand, the labor office there pointed out. The office there says that "the real estate market which has been flat for the past six months has begun to show slight improvement." The improvement in the real estate construction has absorbed workers who have completed projects at the Sesqui-Centennial.

ENTRIES FOR KENNEL SHOW, WILD LIFERS INVADING CONNEAUT

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., Sept. 3.—Dog fanciers, trapshooters and dogs are arriving here from all parts of the country for the annual meet of the Wild Life league of Pennsylvania and the American Kennel club bench show which opens Saturday.

So numerous are entries for the dog show that the event will be held in the Temple of Music instead of under canvas as first intended. The tempie is the largest auditorium of its kind in Pennsylvania and among the largest in the world. J. Fred McKean of New Kensington, president, and Herbert Borrell of Meadville, secretary of the Wild Life league, have been here several days completing arrangements for the show.

New Hampshire, in 1840, was the first state to require the registration of voters.

Mysteriously Missing Since August 29, Authorities Can't Find Trace Of Dayton Man

John Marshall of Dayton, Armstrong county, Pennsylvania, disappeared in Pittsburgh early Sunday morning, August 29, while driving between his uncle's home and that of friends in the East End. He had just brought his mother to the city and planned to spend the week-end there. He was driving a Ford roadster, of which no trace has been found. It carried Pennsylvania license 226-016, and the engine number was 7,368,775.

Marshall owns a small store in Dayton, had no business or personal trouble and was well and happy when last seen. He is about 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 135 pounds, has dark hair, very curly, and a rather dark complexion. His eyes are gray, nose rather large, usually wears glasses. He was wearing a dark coat, light trousers, Panama hat and white shirt. Only identification marks are a scar on knee and an old scald on one leg. Voice low, does not talk much, quiet habits.

City, county and state police have been unable to find any clue to his whereabouts. It is believed that he has either suffered a sudden illness or amnesia or met with foul play. His mother is prostrated, and other members of his family are prosecuting a vigorous search. Any clue to his whereabouts will be welcomed by his uncle, H. J. Hamilton, 412 Arabella street, Knoxville, Pittsburgh, or by his cousin, C. G. Ketchum, 1515 Park building, Pittsburgh.

Take Joy From Wedding Bells For Poor Groom

California Jewelers Plan Move To Popularize Rings For Men

Prospective Husbands In Self-Defense Stand Firm Against Conspiracy

(International News Service)

SACREMENTO, Sept. 3.—Pity the poor bridegroom!

The peal of wedding bells has become as the clang of the cash register.

And now comes the movement to popularize engagement rings and wedding rings for men.

It simply can't be done, according to L. E. Ross, chief of the state bureau of vital statistics, and ambassador of Dan Cupid. It's unfair to California's unorganized bridegrooms.

Informed of the proposal made by Conrad J. Brotherly, president of the National Retail Jewelers' Association, that engagement rings and wedding bands be decreed for men, Ross tried it out on his rapid calculator.

Here are the results:

Estimated present expenditure in California annually for engagement and wedding rings, based on number of marriages, $8,000,000.

Probable increase if men adopted engagement rings, $5,700,000.

Increase for wedding bands for bridegrooms, $570,000.

Total estimated increase if new vogue became popular, $6,270,000 annually.

Grand ring total, $14,270,000.

Even though men economized in the purchase of their own engagement rings, they could not hope to escape for less than $100 each, affirmed the state statistician. And the average wedding ring would call for another $10 at least.

Furthermore, said Ross, men have a false sense of modesty which would prevent them accepting rings from their brides or brides-to-be. So there's no hope of making it a reciprocity proposition.

Added to the financial objections, the statistician declared, is the fact that men, as a general rule, do not approve of jewelry for their own use.

Austrian Women Outrank Males

(International News Service)

VIENNA, Sept. 3.—With a population of a little more than six millions, Austria now has 238,690 more women than men. It will take about eighteen years to even things between the sexes in the country, it is estimated, although the birthrate of boys has been ten per cent greater than girls during the last six years.

This condition, which is due to the war, is reverse of that of pre-war Austria, which, with a population almost three times as great, had about 400,000 surplus men.

Fall Styles For 1926 Are More Intriguing To Hollywood Stars

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 3. — Fall styles this year are even more intriguing than last year, according to Aileen Pringle, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player, who is known as "one of the best dressed women on the screen."

"The fascinating thing about this year's fashions," Miss Pringle explained, "is the fact there's a style for everyone. Designers have been more than kind to every type of woman.

"Length of skirts vary from five inches from the floor to fourteen inches from the floor. The flappers will be delighted with the novelty suits—short jackets and short skirts, made of plaids and brilliant colors.

"The sophisticated type can go in for velvet and soft furs; long skirts and soft, small, crush turbans.

"The demure misses will love the period evening gowns of taffeta and lace. They are very long, with full skirts and tight bodices and large, droopy hats for evening wear."

London Plans For Huge Monument To Soldier Veterans

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—In order to preserve it as a Hill of Remembrance to British and American soldiers who fought and died in the World War, a project is on foot for the purchase of the English Bunker Hill, adjoining Hampstead Heath, the playground of London's lower classes.

It is proposed that on suitable places on the hill should be inscribed the names of the dead, together with quotations from British and American authors.

The cost of acquiring and laying out Bunker Hill is estimated at $75,000, of which $15,000 has already been subscribed. A committee has been formed and an appeal issued for funds to save the hill from the hands of the builder.

CHRYSLER REVEALS SECRETS OF QUALITY STANDARDIZATION

Vice-President Points Out Advantages of Plan Both to Company and Public

DETROIT, Sept. 3.—Walter P. Chrysler's widely discussed development of his new manufacturing principle — Quality Standardization —and what it means to the motor car public, were described in a statement issued yesterday by J. E. Fields, vice-president of the Chrysler Corporation. His statement follows:

"The Chrysler four-car plan of quality standardization—the only one of its kind in operation in the world today—reduces processes and practices of building automobiles to an engineering, machining, mechanical and manufacturing absolute. Nothing is left to chance. Men and machines alike must deliver to each operation in every car we build an unvarying maximum of precision and excellence.

"Standardized quantity production is an old story in the automobile industry, but Standardized Quality is a brand new achievement.

"Mr. Chrysler is intensely individualistic, contemptuous of manufacturing conventions and unawed by engineering traditions unless the years have proved them to be the soundest and most enduring that can be developed. There is scarcely a phase in the engineering, designing, manufacturing or distributing of motor cars that has not felt the influence of his ideas. In the last three years, particularly, his organization's achievements have been probably the most discussed in the automobile industry.

"But he is not hide-bound in his individualism. He believes in surrounding himself with strong men. These men have created and contributed much to the industry. He works with them and they with him as fellow craftsmen. His special genius is in subjecting all manufacturing practice to an absolute standardization of quality.

"I do not feel that it is overstressing the facts to say that this Chrysler principle of standardized quality manufacture is already beginning to revolutionize the buying of cars in every field, as Chrysler is today covering every market, under this plan, from $750 to the finest car money can buy.

"This standardized quality, at one step, eliminates 'purchaser's risk,' ends the buyer's doubts and fears as to quality, makes possible the purchase of any of the four Chrysler types with the positive assurance that the quality in each is equally assured. This is true because all four cars are built to the same quality standards and must pass the same inspections in relations to the tasks they are asked to perform.

"Leading manufacturers have been striving for years to achieve this evenness of quality. But Mr. Chrysler alone has succeeded—translated it into fact by an extraordinarily complete co-ordination of engineering and manufacturing resources.

"Chrysler standardization of quality goes back, first, to the proper fundamentals of modern motor car design; next to their incorporation into a complete car of remarkable efficiency. Then it passes successively to the sources of raw material for that car, governs the minutest operation, makes certain that every unit is produced to the finest precision standards under the most rigid inspection, even to the moulding of the manufacture of its accessories. Finally, it co-ordinates the whole into a finished car that is what its engineers, designers and body builders conceived it should be. Designed by one group of men, manufactured to one standard and sold by one organization, it is self-evident that the plan offers economies to the purchaser not permissible under any other system.

"Chrysler models naturally differ in price, in chassis size, in richness of appointments, in speed and power—but all are basically the same in rigid adherence to the same law of quality.

"That is, in brief, the secret of what standardized quality is, what it means to the maker and to the purchaser, and the advantages it offers to each."

Why Chrysler Model Numbers Mean Miles Per Hour

With the belief that motor car designations should convey a real meaning to the motoring public, the Chrysler Corporation has standardized and simplified the naming of its models, just as it has standardized the quality of its four lines of cars which supply the four great markets.

The Chrysler organization believes the public is most greatly interested in these points regarding an automobile: Appearance, quality, comfort, value, performance and dependability. It believes that the best method of indicating the capacity of its motor cars is the simplest, and, it has, therefore, designated its models the "50", "60", "70", and Imperial "80".

These numbers mean the speed capacity of each car in miles per hour and are an index to the abilities of each. Miles per hour has a significance far beyond mere speed alone.

Comparatively few people, for instance, may care to ride as fast as 70 miles an hour; but the power in the "70" which is indicated by 70 miles plus represents acceleration and smooth performance, as well as in sheer speed.

It means the highest possible quality in design and materials and the finest of precision manufacture. It means a soundness and a stability that assure unequaled Chrysler performance for the entire long life of the car. The Chambers Motor Co., 316 East North street are local Chrysler dealers.

Egypt Plans Reduction In Diplomatic Service As Economy Measure

(International News Service)

CAIRO, Sept. 3.—Sweeping reductions in the Egyptian Diplomatic Service with a view to economy is recommended by a Parliamentary Commission.

The Commission proposes the abolition of the Egyptian legations and consulates in Brazil, Sweden, Switzerland, Belgium, Spain, Czecho-slovakia, Holland Roumania.

All consultates in cities where legations exist will be suppressed, including those in New York, Liverpool, Lyons, Budapest, Hamburg, Naples and Piraeus. In addition all charge d'affaires will be replaced by first secretaries, while all second secretaries, attached lawyers, and interpreters will be dismissed.

Dancing Girls Salary Reduced

(International News Service)

BOMBAY, Sept. 3.—The professional dancing girls of the entourage of the Maharana of Zalwar have threatened to strike unless the Maharana withdraws his order of compulsory attendance for dances at the Durbar held every Wednesday.

Zalwar makes an allowance from the State treasury to every dancing girl in the capital city of Ajmere, and whenever they are called for a special occasion and additional honorarium is paid. The new ruler, inclined to be a little more economical than his predecessors, recently issued an order doing away with the custom of paying additional honorariums and insisting on the personal attendance of the girls every week.

In reply to the strike ultimatum the Maharan has retaliated by issuing another order to the effect that any absence from the weekly Durbar will be looked upon as dereliction of duty and that salaries would be cut down accordingly.

Daylight In Schools Is Held Best For Eyes

Superiority Over Artificial Light Is Cited By Sight Conservationists

Natural light in school buildings is urged in a report based upon Federal findings and made public by the Eyesight Cinservation Council of America.

"Even though the provisions for adequate daylighting should entail a cost in excess of artificial lighting," says the report, the adoption of artificial light as the sole source of illumination for schools, as has been advocated by some, and the failure to provide adequate natural illumination would probably be a false economy.

The investigation of school architecture and construction was directed by Dr. Taliaferro Clark, U. S. health officer formerly in charge of field investigations in child hygiene, assisted by Arthur F. Beal, Federal physicist. It showed that effective illumination of classrooms has an adverse influence on the activity of the intellectual processes of children.

The investigator according to the report of the Eyesight Conservation Council, studied the relative value of daylighting and artificial lighting, concluding that "owing to the manner in which the human eye has developed during many ages under natural lighting conditions, the great changes in the intensity of daylight, varying as much as 1000 foot-candles and more within a few minutes, are less trying to the eye than are the variations of relatively few foot-candles of artificial light."

The printed page may be read without visual discomfort under very high daylight illumination, whereas under conditions demanding artifical illumination similar and unnecessarily high intensities would cause discomfort, the report pointed out.

"At low intensities of illumination the eye is very sensitive to variation," it was found. "On entering a moderately dark room from the bright outside one does not at first see clearly, but on remaining for a sufficient length of time he may see well enough to be able to read."—Washington Post.

Boys Break Light Globes On Streets

Use Air Rifles And Stones In Doing Great Damage To Street Lights

According to complaints registered with the police of this city last night boys in various parts of the city and in particular in the down town section are doing their best to keep the Electric company busy replacing globes on the street lighting system.

Air rifles and stones are the weapons used in this expensive habit of the boys and the police and company are now co-operating in an effort to apprehend and punish the boys responsible for this type of destruction.

LOCAL RUNAWAYS ARE CAUGHT AT ZELIENOPLE

George Abrahams, 613 East Long avenue, and Lawrence Conti of 410 Phillips street both 14 years of age were picked up by the police of Zelienople, Pa., Thursday while enroute to Pittsburgh, according to their statements.

The police here were notified of the situation and got in touch with the families of the boys. Members of the family went to that place and brought back the runaways. The boys left home early Thursday and were making determined efforts to get to Pittsburgh when apprehended by the Zelienople police authori-

Life's Sunny Afternoon

"Grow old along with me,
The best is yet to be."

WITH her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women of middle age say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who have learned through their own experience the merit of this dependable medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

A woman in Nebraska was troubled with headaches for fifteen years. She writes, "I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have felt my health steadily improving. Today, after taking your medicine for almost a year and a half, I believe I can say the headaches have left me for it is seven months since I had the last one. I am continuing the Vegetable Compound. I am feeling fine now."

This woman is the mother of six children with a large house to care for. Her name is Mrs. Adolph Bratke, 4316 South 13th St., South Omaha, Nebraska.

Grove City Council To Act At Once To Carry Out Town's Desire

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—Council will proceed at once to the authorization of a bond issue of $75,000, declared Hon. H. K. Daugherty, city solicitor, today. The solons are carded to meet Friday evening of this week, which will be the regular September session. The matter will be brought up at that time for disposal is the presumption of the attorney. The term of the bonds, the interest rate they will bear and other business matters pertaining to the issue, will all be disposed of at that time. An ordinance properly authorizing the issue will also be acted on. If the money to be derived for the purchase of an additional unit for the city electric plant is to be made of use in equipping the plant for the heavy winter load of electric power, quick work will be necessary, as the days are shortening fast. The new unit, when in operation, will increase a power supply that just now is depleted due to the demand for power.

The Erie Conference of the Methodist church will hold its fall meeting at Oil City beginning on September 15th.

Dr. H. H. Barr, pastor of the Grace Methodist church of this city, and Rev. C. E. Loney, assistant pastor, will be attendants, as well as a number of laymen. The official board of the local church announces that conference will be requested to return both Dr. Barr and Rev. Loney to the Grace church, where both are giving exceptional satisfaction.

Rev. Loney, in addition to pastoral duties, is the choir leader of the church. The Erie conference includes five districts in northwestern and western Pennsylvania. The county of Mercer is included in the New Castle district with Dr. F. S. Neigh as superintendent. Dr. Neigh will be remembered as a former pastor of the local church.

Arthur Hull of Tulsa, Okla., vice president of the Bessemer Gas Engine Company, is here on a business trip. Mr. Hull is a well-known oil and gas operator of that city.

All the testimony in the viewers' hearing of the damage claims of J. W. Hunter against Grove City borough has been taken, is the announcement of the attorneys ensuite, including J. W. Nelson of Mercer, representing Mr. Hunter, and F. A. Service of Sharon and H. K. Daugherty, city solicitor, for the borough. Hunter is asking $26,500 damages for the erection of a sewage disposal plant on his land and for the alleged ruination of his dairy business as a result of odors from the plant. Regardless of the decision of the viewers, it is almost certain that an appeal to the court will be taken by the parties, it is pointed out. The viewers, including T. A. Sampson and M. B. Orr of Mercer and Lewis Burnside of Sharon, will review the testimony and file their report with the court.

The production department of the Bessemer Gas Engine Company over which Sam Winder so capably presided, must be voodoed, is the opinion of at least three of the employees who have been operated on for appendicitis within a six weeks' period.

The last victim is Alvin Turner at the Bashline-Rossman hospital. The first six weeks ago was Francis Pizor, who is now back at work, with Johnny Morrow, another victim, recuperating.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. English have just returned from an 8,400-mile trip through the Middle West which included a visit to points of interest. The journey was made by auto.

FRANKLIN TROLLEYS TO PASS OUT AFTER 30 YEARS FOR BUSSES

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 3.—Three new buses intended to replace Franklin's street cars, will be here in a few days. The three new cars, with one now in service, will disperse with trolleys which have been in service more than 30 years. Recently one-man cars were put into service in Franklin and Oil City. These will be discontinued. The break in Franklin's trolley service came during the ice gorge last March, which swept away the Big Rock bridge.

Pennington Will Stay In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—When John D. Pennington waved his hand in the general direction of Western Pennsylvania as depicted on a map in the office of Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews in Washington, he started a landslide of conjecture which was echoed in every large community in the third enforcement area, the district dry administrator revealed here yesterday.

"I was asked where my center of activities was," Pennington said. "I waved my hand at the map, and said 'that's it.'

"'Not Pittsburgh alone? some asked.

"'Of course not,' I answered. 'I'd be willing to use any town in Western Pennsylvania as a base.'

"That started a landslide of rumors that I was going to move my headquarters," said Pennington.

"There's nothing to it. I intend to remain here."

Czechs Rewrite Their Anthems

PRAGUE, Sept. 3.—The national minorities of Czecho-Slovakia are to be let in on their national anthem "Kde domov muj." Till now the anthem has been written and sung in Czech only and is confined to a vocal glorification of the Czechs. Few of the four million other nationals in the country do not know the words or meaning of their national song.

The government has decided to rewrite the song to make it representative of all the peoples, that is, Czechs, Slovaks, Germans, Hungarians and Poles. It will be published in various languages and posted throughout the country.

Says Diphtheria Now Conquered Disease

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Diphtheria is now a conquered disease and its occurrence henceforth must soon be classed as a crime, according to Dr. S. J. Crumbine, general executive of the American Child Health association.

Diphtheria used to be a disease just like measles, and mumps, and whooping cough, but now apparently it has sunk so low in public esteem as to be classified along with the common garden variety of crimes such as highway robbery, bootlegging and murder.

"The time will soon come," Dr. Crumbine expressed himself, "when every case of diphtheria will be an indictment against the intelligence of parents, and it will not be many years before every death from diphtheria will be referred to a coroner's jury for investigation to fix criminal responsibility."

This new attitude of health officials with respect to diphtheria, Dr. Crumbine explains in the September Child Health Bulletin of the association issued today has come about in the last ten years, during which time most successful experiments have been carried out, proving beyond question that diphtheria can be definitely eliminated as a scourge of childhood. The preventive treatment is now within the means of every parent.

One of the most noteworthy examples of a city ridding itself of diphtheria is Auburn, N. Y., a city of 37,000 population. Immunization of school children and those below school age was begun in 1922 with the result that where the cases once reached the hundred mark annually, with from 10 to 20 deaths, not a death has occurred in the entire city from this cause since March, 1924. The 15 cases of diphtheria reported in 1925 were all among unprotected persons, not a single case occurring among those immunized.

Absence from the public schools due to diphtheria has been completely eliminated in Auburn, this item alone representing a saving to the city of $10,000 a year.

A nation-wide campaign to acquaint the country with the means of preventing diphtheria will be carried on during September and October by the state and provincial health authorities of North America. This work has the hearty endorsement of the American Child Health association, which feels that by concerted action of this kind, it is actually within the realm of possibility to wipe out diphtheria and relegate it to the list of strange and infrequent maladies.

Diphtheria now slays more children of kindergarten age than any other cause. Eighty-five per cent of all diphtheria deaths occur in children under ten years of age.

The elimination of diphtheria will mean the saving of 10,000 lives annually in the United States.

Gov. Hannett To Be Renominated By New Mexico

November Fight To Break Democratic Precedent By Offering Second Term

Republicans To Nominate Business Man And Put Up Strong Battle

(International News Service)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 3.—New Mexico's gubernatorial fight this fall will devolve about Richard Dillon of Encino, Republican candidate, and Governor A. T. Hannett, Democratic incumbent.

Governor Hannett, according to all indications, will break a party precedent by landing the second term nomination at the Democratic state convention at Las Vegas, September 2.

Never in the history of New Mexico statehood has a democratic governor been nominated to succeed himself.

Republican Platform

Dillon(Republican nominee, is a business man of Torrance county with large sheep interests. His platform, republicans indicate, will be a successful business administration of state affairs.

Congressman John Morrow, Raton, Remocrat, is expected to have little difficulty winning over Juan A. Sedillo, Santa Fe.

Reduced taxation, the so-called Hannett election code, and charges of democratic mis-administration will probably feature the fall campaign.

Governor Hannett last fall stood sponsor for an election reform code, prepared by three republicans and three democrats.

Code Rejected

Republican senate leaders rejected the code as tending to disfranchise many Spanish American voters by means of a clause requiring personal registration. This objection will doubtless be carried into the campaign.

Ben F. Pankey, Santa Fe, is republican candidate for state land commissioner, the only other state office about which there is likely to be a spirited contest.

The Republican convention has already been held and the democratic convention is to be held at Las Vegas, September 2.

Henlifters To Meet At Old Camp Tonight

Old Camping Club To Rally At Site Of Headquarters Near Harbor Bridge

The Henlifters, famous camping organization of other years, will hold one of their periodical reunions this evening at their old camp site at Stop 88 on the Sharon interurban car line near Harbor Bridge.

Jack Edgar and Arch Cubbison are in charge of the arrangements for the reunion which will feature as usual the campfire session with the musical effects which heralded the fame of the Henlifters far and wide in their day.

Resists Officer When Ordered Out To Curb

When Officer Llewellyn found a group of men congregated in front of store windows on Washington street he asked them to move out to the curb. All did as requested with the exception of Charles Nicholson, who refused. When the officer insisted, Nicholson struck at the officer and the officer placed him under arrest. He put up a forfeit for his appearance later. The case is still pending while an investigation is being made.

GIRL IS HURT IN ACCIDENT

Women Drivers Of Cars In Collision On Washington Street—Other Mishaps

Mrs. C. L. Rodgers of 1002 State street reported to the police Thursday that while she was driving east on Washington street, Mrs. Earl Stark, who was driving in front of her and in the same direction, stopped suddenly and the Rodgers car ran into the Stark car. A little girl with Mrs. Rodgers was thrown through the windshield of the Rodgers car and sustained a severe cut on the neck. Both cars were damaged.

Edward Pritchard of 111 Garfield avenue, reported Thursday that he was driving north on North Mill street near North, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 504-942, parked on North Mill street, turned out without warning. Mr. Pritchard, in avoiding this car, turned to the left and ran into a street car. Some damage was done.

Sam DeCarbo, 39½ South Jefferson street, reported Thursday that his son was driving west on Lutton street and into the Sutton gasoline station at Mill and Lutton streets, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 685-923, when the latter car turned into a parking place without warning and he ran into it. Some damage was done. The latter car belonged to W. T. Montgomery.

ARREST YOUTH IN BELL PHONE PAY STATION

Company On Trail Of Persons Defrauding Company At Local Pay Stations

Bell Telephone Company operatives have been engaged in this city for some time past, tracing down the persons who have been defrauding the company at the downtown pay stations.

Yesterday an arrest was made, a youth being caught in the act of defrauding the company at one of the pay stations. He was taken before Alderman Hamilton and fined.

The operatives of the Bell Company are still in the city, and intend to break up the practice, Manager T. J. Harper announces.

Question Patient In Sanitarium In Hall-Mills Case

Man Declared Crazy Following Double Slaying Interviewed By Investigator

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 3.—Mystery surrounding the patient in the White Haven Sanitarium who was visited by an investigator from New Jersey in an effort to solve the slaying of Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Charlotte Mills, was cleared up today when attaches announced that he is John Hart, a resident of New Brunswick.

Hart, it was reported, has been a patient for eighteen months in the lower county institution, receiving treatment for an affliction of the throat.

Officials admitted that he had given a detailed statement early in the week to an investigator, but denied any knowledge of its contents. Newspapermen were refused access to the patient for further questioning.

Denial was made of reports that he is dying, attaches explaining that he is able to be about although he has been forbidden to use his voice since any strain might jeopardize his chances of recovery.

Hart, it is said, is the man who walked into New Brunswick police headquarters and was informed that he was "crazy" when he told authorities that he saw the actual slaying. His statement is expected to be used to corroborate the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, who declared she saw Willie Stevens and Henry Carpender at the scene.

Viola Long Pays Fifty Dollar Fine

Viola Long, negress, 1017 1-2 Moravia street was arrested this morning by Officers Jack Young and Frank Reynolds, when she was found entertaining a negro at her home. They had some liquor which they were imbibing. The woman paid a fine of $50 on a charge of disorderly conduct while the male visitor paid a fine of $5.

Exonerate Bluitt

Council today concurred in the request of R. H. Bluitt, city mercantile tax collector, asking that he be exonerated of $380, uncollectable taxation. The firms have either gone out of business or the persons responsible for the taxes have left the city.

NO CHANGE IN LEGION PLANS

Continue To Prepare For "On-To-Paris" Convention In 1927

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Despite the undercurrent of opinion favoring the selection of an American city in preference to Paris for the 1927 reunion of the American Legion, Pennsylvania posts are going through with their "On-To-Paris" plans, it was learned here today.

Objection of many veterans to returning to Paris for the Legion convention is based upon the unsettled financial condition of France and the admitted unfriendliness of that country toward America because of the war debt.

Charles G. Lane, county commander of the Legion, said the question of selecting another city for the 1927 convention never has been discussed officially. Lane is also a Legion state committeeman.

If the international situation has not cleared when the veterans hold their next annual convention in Philadelphia in October, the question probably will be settled there, according to Lane.

Harrisburg Man Pleads Guilty To Murder Indictment

Original Plea Is Withdrawn And One Of Guilty To Manslaughter Is Made

(International News Service)

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 3.—Upon arrival of F. W. Culbertson, chief defense counsel in the trial of Harry Bankes, 26, of Harrisburg, charged with the murder of Albert Klinger of Lewistown last March, the original plea of not guilty of murder was withdrawn Thursday and a plea of guilty of voluntary manslaughter made by the defense.

District Attorney John T. Wilson, for the prosecution, accepted the plea and the judge concented to withhold sentence until the October term of the county court here.

The change in the pleas and the withholding of sentence was due to Bankes' physical condition. During the first day of the trial yesterday the defendant collapsed four times. When the hearing was opened today he collapsed again and had to be carried from the courtroom. Bankes was alleged to have shot and killed Klinger because of the latter's attention to Bankes" wife, now divorced.

Pepper Withdraws As House Candidate

Name Had Been Written In Ballot By Prohibition Party Voters

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 3.—Senator George Wharton Pepper on Thursday notified the Bureau of Elections of his withdrawal as the prohibition candidate for the house from the sixth legislative district of Philadelphia. Although Senator Pepper does not reside in that district enough voters wrote his name on the ticket to give him a place on the ballot.

Charles W. Staudenmier, a member of the house, also withdrew as the prohibition candidate from the second Schuylkill district. He has the Republican nomination.

William Schmidt, Pittsburgh, filed nominating papers as the candidate for the state senate from the 42nd district on the Workers party. Mike Blaskovich and Celia Paransky, both of Pittsburgh, filed from the second legislative district on the same ticket.

The Independent party of the fourth legislative district of Luzerne county filed papers for W. Bruce Good, Shickshinny, as candidate.

Today is the last day for Independent candidates to file.

Rodgers Not Guilty Of Any Negligence

(International News Service)

Charge Man Marries Stepdaughter Without Divorcing Her Mother

(International News Service)

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 3.—Harry H. Hendrickson, 26, railroad fireman alleged to have married his stepdaughter without first divorcing on a statutory charge in police court and was bound over to the grand jury in heavy bail.

The bigamy charge originally placed against Hendrickson alleging he married a 15-year-old girl on July 12, last, at Marshall, Ills., was dropped by Toledo police because the marriage occurred outside the state.

Hendrickson, according to the police was living with mother and daughter, both his alleged wives, in a "love nest" here.

RADIO CALLS FATHER IN TEXAS OIL FIELD TO SEE DEAD CHILD

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 3.—Radio station KDKA in Pittsburgh last night broadcasted an appeal into the Southwest for the whereabouts of Jesse Haught, oil well tool dresser of Clarksburg, who is out in the desert with a crew of men near Borger, Tex. They are believed to have a radio set with them.

Mrs. Haught wants her husband to come home for a last look at their little daughter, Nora Madeline, four years old, who died late last night from burns suffered when her clothes ignited while she was playing with matches.

REPORT STEAMER STRANDED NEAR KENTISH COAST

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—An unidentified steamer was reported stranded off the Kentish coast today following a collision with a Japanese steamer, Andes Maru.

The Japanese vessel spent three hours trying to locate the ship. The commander of the Andes Maru expressed fear that the unknown ship had gone on the rocks.

The collision occurred in a heavy fog.

TWO MORE TRY CHANNEL SWIM

(International News Service)

CAPE GRIS-NES, Sept. 3.—Unheralded and unnounced two humble swimmers, a man and a woman, plunged off the Gris-nes rocks early today in an effort to swim the English Chanel in record time.

The woman, shrouding herself in mystery and calling herself Miss Mona McClaren, of Folkstone, is reported to be making the attempt in order to win the $5,000 prize offered by the News of the World, a British publication, for the first woman swimmer to break Gertrude Ederle's record.

The man is Horace Carey, a bus driver of Folkestone.

The only key to fame and fortune you'll ever be able to find is yourself.

DRIVERS MAKE POLICE WORK

Record Of Police For Month Shows Many Violators Of Traffic Rules

THIRTY-SEVEN ARE TAKEN AS SPEEDERS

Amount Of Fines Collected Lower Than Previous Month

There are a number of interesting features to the activities of the New Castle police for the month of August.

The greatest number of arrests in any one month of the present year is noticed, while the cash receipts have fallen off approximately forty per cent as compared with the month of July, when the arrests were considerably less in number. The arrests numbered 402 and the cash receipts $2,137.

Violate Traffic Rules

Another outstanding feature of the month was the number of arrests for traffic violations, in other words failure to observe the main thoroughfare stop regulations. Such violations numbered 75 and this is the greatest number since the enforcement of this regulation. It is also the first month that such violations have exceeded the parking violations.

The police announce that this main thoroughfare stop regulation will be enforced all the time and that it does not mean, simply to hesitate when coming to a main thoroughfare, but means stop.

Persons charged with being drunk also greatly exceeded in number during the past month, the number facing the same charge in any month in the past year. The number of drunks was 67.

Thirty-Seven Speeders

The maximum number of speeders was also tagged in the month of August for the present year, the number being 37, or considerably better than one a day.

Six prisoners were required to work out their fines and they gave the city their services for thirteen days. A record number of jail sentences were also imposed, six persons appearing before the mayor being sent to the county jail to recuperate.

There was a decided slump in the number of persons paying fines for traffic violations as compared with practically every month of the year. Women were on their good behavior in August. While the number of arrests increased seven over the previous month, the number of women arrested in the same month decreased sixty-six and two-thirds per cent as compared with July. There were but ten women arrested in August, two as inmates of disorderly houses, three as keepers of disorderly houses, one for a parking violation, one for being drunk, one for being drunk and disorderly and two for disorderly conduct. The number of whom sentence was suspended was 82, which is unusually high.

Report Of Month

The docket shows the number recorded for the various charges in the month of August to be as follows: traffic violations 75, parking violations 68, drunk 67, drunk and disorderly 14, suspicion 16, speeding 37, keeper of disorderly house 13, visitor in disorderly house 26, inmate of disorderly house 2, fighting 1, drunk and fighting 2, disorderly conduct 63, loitering 2, violation of the Snyder Act 3, arrested on warrants 3, begging 1, interfering with an officer 1, manslaughter 1, vagrancy 1, peddling without a license 1, breaking and entering 5.

The various cases were disposed of as follows: fined 253, suspended sentence 82, discharged 37, turned over to alderman 12, jail 6, worked 6, ordered to leave city 4, turned over to constable 1, pending 1.

Miss Anita Loos, now known all over the world as the author of the sprightly "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," is only 26 years old.

"Just Tired."

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, for years Speaker of the House, denied that he was seriously ill. "I'm just tired," he said. He is spending his declining years at Danville, Ill.

SQUIRE, MOTORISTS' FOE, RESIGNS AFTER PROBE OF HIS BOOKS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept 3.—C. O. Bragg, Malden justice of the peace who had aroused the ire of motorists by the number and size of fines and costs imposed after arrests on the Midland trail, resigned yesterday when faced with the result of an investigation by the tax commissioner. The audit of Bragg's books was a direct result of complaints by the motorists, and according to the tax commissioner's findings it appeared that though Bragg had given motorists receipts for the payments these amounts were not entered in his books in the manner required by law. When confronted with the audit and a demand from the tax commissioner's office for his resignation, Bragg wrote the resignation and Commissioner Hall mailed it to the county court. Bragg was defeated when he was a candidate for renomination in the Republican primary.

LAST SUMMER TOURING ORGY

Two-Day Holiday To Draw Record Number Of Tourists To Road

CELEBRATION HERE AT CASCADE PARK

Bathing Beach Owners Hope For Sultry Day To Bid Summer Adieu

It seems just a few weeks ago that New Castle was hailing the event of the long-awaited summer of 1926.

Now with the end of this week comes the day when custom dictates we should bid farewell to that pleasant season and turn our thoughts to overcoats, coal bills, ham and eggs for breakfast and flapping goloshes.

For the benefit of those who have overlooked the fact let us call to their attention that next Monday, September 6, is Labor Day and that day is unofficially accepted as the last grand holiday of summer. After that the frost can be expected to decorate the pumpkin almost any morning and husking bees will succeed Sunday school picnics.

But with the Saturday half holiday an almost universally accepted institution itself, local people are planning a wide variety of amusements and entertainments for the day.

Advices from the office of the New Castle Motor club indicate that one thing the combined holiday will bring about will be a last grand automobile touring orgy. Trips to points within a radius of 200 miles are being planned by scores of local motorists who plan to get going some time Saturday and to return late Monday evening. People intending to visit the many resorts located nearer the city will not start so soon because with any kind of a car a hundred mile trip is but a matter of three hours on an improved highway now.

Several of the local railroads have arranged attractive excursions to take points and overnight city points for those who do not wish to take a chance on motoring over holiday-crowded highways.

As usual, however, the majority of New Castle's citizens will remain in the city over the double holiday and for their amusement the usual diversions will be in vogue.

Organized labor will conduct its program with Cascade park as the center of its activities while the many bathing beaches which have sprung up on creeks and rivers in and near the city will undoubtedly attract hundreds of bathers if the weather is at all favorable.

Practically all business will be suspended in the city on Labor Day, which makes it the most universally observed holiday in the year's calendar. New Castle will take a respite from toil Sunday and Monday and enthusiastically observe the last holiday period of the summer of 1926.

Bronze Tablet For Building Where Lincoln Stayed At Gettysburg

(International News Service)

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 3.—The building in which Abraham Lincoln stayed the night before he made his famous Gettysburg address at the dedication of the National Cemetery here on November 19, 1863, will be marked by a bronze tablet. The tablet will be erected by the local camp of the Sons of Veterans who have started a drive to raise $600 by local subscription for the purpose. The house in which Lincoln stayed is known as the Wills building.

Although the Wills building is one of the historical landmarks which is always pointed out to visitors here, there never has been a marker of any kind placed on it to signify its historical importance.

The tablet will be formally dedicated according to plans, on November 19, which will be designated as "Lincoln Day" in Gettysburg.

Next Convention At Wilkes-Barre

Third Class City Convention Next Year At Eastern City

(International News Service)

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept 3.—Wilkes-Barre was chosen as the 1927 convention city for the State League of Cities in the third class at the convention of the league here. Easton also had invited the 1927 convention.

Samuel E. Gilson, city solicitor of Erie, at the session on Thursday explained the legal phases of the municipal golf links maintained at Erie.

A legislative steering committee was named by the convention as follows: Wm. T. Ramsey, Chester, chairman; R. Ross Seaman, Harrisburg; George H. Lysle, McKeesport; Jos. G. Schuler, Wilkes-Barre; Walter E. Greenwood, Coatesville; Newton R. Turner, Easton, and W. D. Kinney, Erie.

The executive committee of the league was authorized to hire an engineer to work out a uniform system of traffic light regulations.

Bogus Baron On Way To Trial In Wilmington, Del.

(International News Service)

ALBUQUERQUE, New Mex., Sept. 3.—George A. Gabor, 20, who cut a swath across the country for three months impersonating "Baron Frederich Von Krupp" is on his way back to Wilmington, Del., in custody of detectives from that city. He will be prosecuted in Wilmington, it was stated, by Lamont DuPont of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours industries, who was one of the Few millionaires who royally entertained young Gabor when he presented himself here in June, as the heir of the multi-millionaire munitions magnate of Essen, Germany.

STREAM MOVES TOWNSHIP LINE

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 3.—A nameless stream in the eastern part of Adams county which once was the dividing line between Oxford and Conewago townships, has changed it course and as a result five families living in a triangle of about forty acres do not know in which of the two townships they live.

The families have been paying taxes and voting in Oxford township but upon investigation of some of the deeds on the land in the section concerned it was found that the official documents describing the land as being in Conewago township.

In an effort to straighten out the matter officials discovered that the stream in question had changed its course thereby causing the mixup.

Valentino's Body On Cross-Country Trip To Hollywood, California

Pola Negri Still Grief-Stricken As Pilgrimage To California Starts

Polish Screen Star Places Wreath Of Lilies At Foot Of Bier Of Dead Lover

(International News Service)

WITH THE VALENTINO FUNERAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3—Pola Negri still was a grief-stricken figure today as she, and others close to Rudolph Valentino, were accompanying the body of the late screen star to Hollywood for burial.

Each day, during the long trip which will not end until next Monday, she will place a fresh lilly on Valentino's bier.

As the train pulled out of Grand Central station in New York, last evening, Miss Negri was kneeling at the casket, with tears streaming down her cheeks. She did not rise until the train had long passed Harmon, some forty minutes out.

Then she placed at her dead fiance's feet a huge bunch of white lilies, tied with a purple bow.

Miss Negri is maintaining a close watch over the body from her compartment, which is next to the improvised sanctuary in which the body lies.

The body is enclosed in a bronze outer box. Inside of this is a hermatically sealed case; inside of this is the silvered bronze casket.

Covering the bier is a huge cloth of gold pall, casting $5,000.

In the private coach which is behind the coach wherein Valentino's body reposes are Alberto Guglielmi, Valentino's brother; George Ullman, his manager, and Mrs. Ullman; James Quirk, editor of a motion picture magazine and one of Valentino's friends; Miss Negri and her nurse and secretary, Adelaide Valencia and Florence Helm.

Newspaper correspondents are on another coach on the train.

LIQUOR CASES TO UPSET PLANS FOR SPEEDY JUSTICE

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Prohibition threatens to upset the carefully worked out plans of Chief Justice Taft to speed up the United States supreme court.

With new rules beginning to exert their force in reducing the time required to head and decide cases, liquor cases have become so numerous that the 1926 docket probably will be one of the largest in the history of the court.

More than 600 cases stood on the new docket today, with the prospect of many more being added before the court convenes October 2 after the summer recess.

By tightening up restrictions on cases which may be reviewed the high court has now reduced the time required to reach a case on the docket from four years to one, according to W. R. Stansbury, clerk.

The court has looked forward to the coming long session as the ultimate test of its new rules adopted last year, and attaches of the court have received with dismay many petitions involving liquor cases.

Vacations Nearing End At Post Office

Majority Of Employes Take Their Vacations During Slow Summer Season

Although vacations are taken by the employes of the New Castle post office according to a schedule which operates throughout the entire twelve months of the year, the majority of them enjoy their off periods during the "slow" summer months.

As a result practically all of the local postal men and women have completed their vacations for the present year and the force remains at almost full strength to take care of the fall pick-up in business.

To Examine Y.M.C.A. Boys Next Tuesday

All Boys Must Be Examined Before Being Assigned To Gymnasium Classes

Physical examinations for the members of the boys' department of the New Castle Y. M. C. A. will begin Tuesday, Sept. 7, it was announced today. The examinations will continue until all of the approximately six hundred boys enrolled in the department are taken care of.

Following the examinations the work of organizing the gymnasium classes for the coming winter season will begin. Secretary O. S. Goodwin hopes to begin a schedule of classes by October 4.

STATE STREET WORK STARTS

Contractors Lose No Time In Starting Paving Of West Side Street This Week

Woods and Golder, contractors, who received the contract for paving State street, at the meeting of the city council on Tuesday, have lost no time in getting started on the work.

The steam shovel was on the job yesterday, and work of excavating under way. The work has been started on the west end of State street, near the foot of the Youngstown hill.

Paving of State street will be one of the biggest traffic improvements in this city in some years. Much of the traffic coming into the city from the west will be enabled to reach Washington street without traversing Grant street to Jefferson street, and without the necessity of crossing the railroads on Grant street.

Rentz Appointed To State Tax Committee

President Of Local Chamber Receives Major Appointment From Parent Body

Word has just been received from the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce that Fred L. Rentz, president of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, has been selected as one of the committee, consisting of the presidents of the larger Chambers of Commerce of the state, to study present local tax conditions throughout the state and the burdensome methods now employed in collecting them.

This committee, after making a thorough analysis of these conditions, will offer recommendations to the public and our state legislature on some other methods which they may arrive at, as being better to handle these matters.

This is a very important assignment and the New Castle body is highly gratified over its Chamber being recognized in this matter.

Ask Investigation Into Kidnaping Of Catholic Clergyman

Norfolk Citizens Aroused Over Kidnaping By Hooded Mob Of Priest

(International News Service)

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 3.—Public indignation over the kidnapping of the Rev. V. D. Warren, a Catholic clergyman, reached such a stage here today that appeals were sent to Richmond to have Gov. Byrd intercede and order a state investigation. These appeals stated that county authorities were negligent and "not interested."

Father Warren conducts a school for poor colored children in Princess Anne county. Wednesday night while he was attending an open air concert, a crowd of about twenty masked and robed men entered the audience, seized him and drove away in automobiles. The clergyman was driven some thirty miles and then questioned concerning his work among colored people.

The priest was unharmed, but was left to make his way back home as best he could. He reported that one of his questioners informed him "we don't want negroes educated down here."

Protestant clergy as well as Catholic denounce the seizure of Father Warren and joined in asking state authorities to investigate.

NEW ATLANTIC CABLE IS LAID

New York End Of Cable Is Completed Wednesday At Noon

"Bobbing up and down from a ship anchored off Rockway beach there hove into sight a long string of black casks. Fastened to the nearest one was a rope, the other end of which was attached to a huge winch mounted on a truck on shore. Round and round wound the winch and closer and closer came the string of casks. Finally the first one reached the shore and clinging to its bottom was a slimy black wire. It was seized by 150 men, was dragged far up on land and buried in a deep trench at Hammels, N. Y.

Thus was landed at 11:03 a. m. September 1, the New York shore end of the world's fastest cable. It extends from New York to Bay Roberts, Newfoundland, whence it strikes out across the floor of the Atlantic to its terminus at Penzance, England, and thence to London. It crosses the underseas plateaus, tops the submarine mountains and dips miles down into the deepest valleys.

The world's fastest cable, wrapped with Permalloy which gives it its speed, was made by the Telegraph Construction & Maintenance company of Greenwich, England. This is the oldest company engaged in the manufacture of deep sea cables. It was formed for the purpose of laying the first successful trans-Atlantic cable which was completed in 1866. Following the failure of Cyrus Field's first Atlantic cable in 1858 that courageous American could raise no more funds in America. He accordingly had recourse to England where after lengthy negotiations he succeeded in raising sufficient capital to build and lay a new cable.

The Gutta Percha company which then had a practical monopoly of the necessary insulating material was given the order to build the new cable which was completed in 1865. The steamship Great Eastern, the largest craft ever built up to that time, was chartered to lay the new cable. It set to work and 1200 miles of the new cable had been laid out when it parted and all efforts to recover it proved fruitless.

Once more Field's project was threatened with ruin. At this critical juncture in cable history, however, John Pender, the head of the Gutta Percha company, came forward with the proposal to risk a quarter of a million pounds of his own money in the effort to carry out the project. The Gutta Percha company became the Telegraph Construction & Maintenance company. A new cable was made and enough additional to complete the 1865 cable. The Great Eastern was purchased on the 13th of July, 1866, steamed into Trinity bay, Newfoundland, trailing behind her a line of cable stretching continuously back to the Irish coast. The shore end was landed safely and the Great Eastern steamed eastward again. It grappled for the lost end of the 1865 cable, recovered it, spliced on a new section and on September 8 landed this also in Newfoundland.

Thus, instead of a single Atlantic cable there were two. Others were built and laid until today there are 19 trans-Atlantic cables.

Japanese Beetle Pest Feared In This District

Being Spread Over State By Means Of Auto Tourists

Government Spends Millions In Effort To Exterminate Pests

By GEORGE H. MANNING,
(Washinghon Correspondent of the News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—The crops of Lawrence, Butler, Beaver and Mercer counties and other counties and other parts of Pennsylvania are endangered by the dread Japanese beetle which is taking advantage of the summer tourist traffic to "hitch-hike" to areas hitherto free from his depredations.

Discovery that the Japanese beetle which has for years devastated vegetation in Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Northern Maryland, travel by automobile came only this week, when a female beetle was discovered in the rose garden of an amateur horticulturist in Washington.

Spread By Tourists.

A two weeks' exhaustive search of the neighborhood of the rose garden, by a crew of ten beetle specialists from the United States Bureau of Entomology revealed no other specimen. The fact that the rose garden in which the Japanese beetle was found, was near a highway on which tourists travel into Washington from Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland, added to the fact that an official of the Department of Agriculture found one of the insects upon his shoulder while motoring through New Jersey, convinced Department of Agriculture experts that tthe Japanese beetle is being spread by tourists as well as by the travel of plants.

The Japanese beetle, through this modern method of travel, has ventured right under the nose of the United States Department of Agriculture, although the department, the states and private interests have spent millions of dollars to exterminate the pest.

The insect has done appaling damage to vegetation in Eastern Pennsylvania and is now traveling more extensively to the southern and western portions of the state.

Leaves Devastation.

The Japanese beetle gains a foothold easily, is almost impossible to exterminate, and attacks more than 100 different kinds of trees, plants and crops, leaving devastation in its path.

Free from his natural parasite enemies, the Japanese beetle, or "Popillia Japonica" has had things his way in the United States in spite of the millions of dollars spent to exterminate him. Japanese beetle specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture are now in Japan, Korea, Manchuria, India and China, searching for natural enemies of the pest to recruit for war against it.

Quarantine methods and sprays and poisons for plants and soils have been used to little avail. The most efficient enemies of the Japanese beetle yet discovered are several kinds of wasps which feed upon the grubs of the beetle and some flies which lay their eggs inside the adult beetle where the young hatch and feed upon the internal organs of the beetle-host.

These enemies of the beetle are being imported to the United States to fight the Poppilia Japonica. T. A. Gardner is in China, L. B. Parker is in India and H. A. Jaynes is in Japan, all studying the insect enemies preparing to import them in large quantities into the United States to fight the beetle which has ravaged the area around New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

TWO GIRLS CAUGHT WITH STOLEN AUTO

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 3.—Alleged to have taken an automobile, watch and other valuables from Joseph Kyle, who resides near Uniontown, Nellie Talbert and Edith Savage, two well-known local girls, have been apprehended in Columbus, O.

Kyle said one of the girls acted as his housekeeper and disappeared with his autombile while he was at work. The police in other cities were notified of the missing car and of the license number. The machine was identified when the Columbus police detained the girls. They were short of funds, not having sufficient money to pay for having a tire repaired. Both are to be brought here tomorrow.

TELLS SCENES ON AUTO TOUR

New Castle Man Describes Interesting 1,000-Mile Auto Trip

Among the numerous letters received by The News, telling of the experiences had by the writers on motor trips to various points during the summer months, is one of L. R. Mardis, 136 Boyles avenue, manager of the Western Union Telegraph office here. Mr. Mardis tells of the unusual sights it is possible to see right in Pennsylvania and New York and not a great distance from the old home town.

The letter of Mr. Mardis follows:

We just returned from a very enjoyable auto camping tour of lower New York and Central Pennsylvania. While it either rained or was cloudy the whole trip there was the satisfaction of having cool weather for driving.

We made as far as Little Valley, N. Y., before camping first night and reached Watkins Glen, N. Y., early in afternoon of the second day. The Glen is world famous for its wild beauty. I always remember when quite a little fellow seeing a painting of the Glen with its stairways and waterfalls and always a desire to see it. Some claim the walls of the Glen were made by erosion of ice during the glacial period but it looks to me as though it was just the action of stones and water. The mouth or opening of the Glen comes right out on the main street of the town of Watkins which is located at the southern extremity of Lake Seneca, one of the famous Five Finger lakes. While we were there we noticed a Japanese artist very busily painting a picture of the Glen. The only evidence of animal life was a little skunk trying to hide under a rocky ledge. There is a large tourist camp at the foot of Lake Seneca at Watkins and hundreds of tourists in camp.

We went from there through the Catskill Mountains by way of Margretsville and made a trip around the great Ashokan Dam which is one of the sources of water supply for the City of New York and is near the town of Kingston, N. Y. We struck the Hudson River at Kingstown and stopped off at Newburg on the Hudson to see Washington's headquarters. Every room is furnished just as it was when Washington had his headquarters there. The most interesting thing to me was the large open French fireplaces with no chimney except from the ceiling up.

We then went over the Storm King highway along the Hudson River right along the foot of Storm King Mountain a sight well worth seeing. Stopped for a few minutes at West Point and asked our way to Port Jervis, N. Y., from one of the cadets who happened to be from Butler, Pa.

A good sized mountain was crossed before we reached Port Jervis where a beautiful scene burst on our view from the top of the mountain. We then followed the Delaware River until we came to the Delaware water gap which no one should fail to see. It is where the Delaware makes its break through the mountains at the foot of three mountains and the scenery is quite rugged. After passing through Sunbury, Lewistown and Tyrone and incidentally a few mountain grades and state forests or parks we dropped off the Lake to Seas Highway at Brookville and visited the giant pines at Cooks Forest which is another sight no one should fail to see as it is the only stand of original pines left in the state of Pennsylvania. They are leafless until the top of the tree and with their straight long trunks are quite majestic in their grandeur.

Reached home after a thousand mile trip of about ten days and no engine trouble.

Cattail Harvest In Full Swing At Conneaut Park

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., Sept. 3.—One of Pennsylvania's most novel harvests has just begun here at Conneaut Lake. Dozens of men are at work in the great cattail marshes west of the lake cutting the tall cattail stalks and baling them up in shocks like corn. The men use corn knives for the work and cut over a large area in a day. Owing to the marshy ground they are compelled to wear hip boots while at work.

The cattail leaves are left standing in the shocks two weeks to dry in the sun and are then carried to the edge of the marsh, where they are loaded in giant trucks and taken to railway cars, where they are shipped to furniture factories at various points. When the dried stalks reach the factories they are run through wringers to flatten them and force out the air. They are then twisted and are used in making the most expensive chair seats. The cattail leaves, which are round when twisted, are also used in wrapping the legs of wicker chairs and tables.

Conneaut Lake cattails are of the soft, tough variety which are best suited to commercial use.

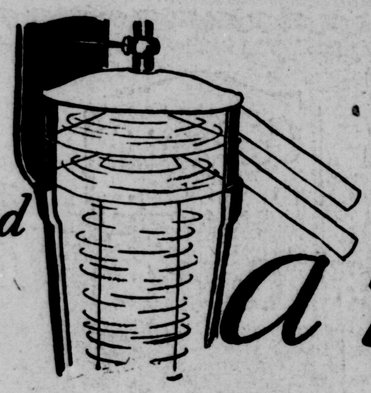
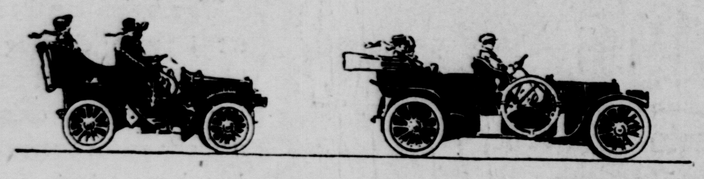
"Whirling" out hidden impurities by this unique process has produced



a remarkable new

ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL



PROGRESS never dies! Easier riding cars—more efficient motors—better gasoline . . . advancements going on constantly! Hand in hand with this steady march comes an Atlantic improvement in motor oil that is unquestionably

the biggest forward step in the history of motor lubricants

It represents an oil which will outlast and outlive any motor oil you have ever before used. An oil which will save you more in motor upkeep and lubrication costs than you ever dreamt possible.

For this new Atlantic Motor Oil literally will not wear out. Were it possible to keep it absolutely free from road dirt contamination and gasoline dilution, the oil in your crankcase would be as good as ever after thousands and thousands of miles of driving. For the character of this remarkable oil is unaffected by wear or motor heat. It will not weaken under the battering of flying pistons or heavy bearings.

Atlantic-perfected processes have made this new oil possible

Most everyone knows that crude petroleum contains all sorts of constituents. Many of them are wholly unsuited to motor lubrication. Among these is a quick-melting, waxy substance which breaks down under heat. It thins down the oil. It weakens the oil film. It permits the character of the oil to be changed; its efficiency to be reduced.

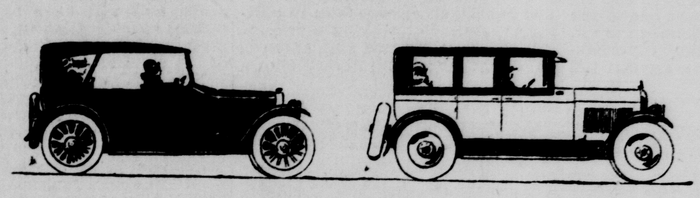
Ordinary distilling and filtering processes do not completely remove these undesirable elements. So Atlantic engineers have added another refinement to motor oil manufacture . . . a whirling process which employs Nature's centrifugal laws (the same principle as used in a cream separator).

In addition, this new Atlantic Motor Oil is heat-tempered—subjected to a slow "curing" process which toughens it.

The net result is—

An oil that is all oil—as free from impurities as a motor oil can be.

An oil that will retain its "body" long after ordinary oils "break down."



An oil that is not appreciably reduced in volume nor changed in character through evaporation under motor heat.

An oil with the smoothest, toughest lubricating film ever attained in motor oil manufacture.

What do these motor oil improvements mean to you?

The new Atlantic Motor Oil means the most thorough, dependable protection the working parts of your motor have ever had . . . the lowest motor upkeep and repair cost you have ever known.

It means the greatest oil economy you have ever experienced.

You've always wanted this kind of a motor oil. Here it is. Use it and see how thoroughly it keeps your pistons sealed. How little it suffers from dilution. How little carbon it forms. How live and effective it still is after hundreds and hundreds of miles. How little oil your motor will consume. How this oil smoothes out motor anxieties and adds sinews of strength to your engine.

Atlantic dealers and service stations are now supplied with the new Atlantic Motor Oil in the Medium, Heavy, Special Heavy and Extra Heavy types. Sealed cans and by the quart. Dealer's chart tells exactly which oil to use in your car.

The evaporation test

Evaporation due to motor heat, contamination due to road dirt, dilution due to gasoline seepage—these are the great enemies of motor oil. The manufacturer cannot prevent contamination and dilution in the crankcase, but the Atlantic process of refining has prevented evaporation, or reduced it to the minimum, even under the most severe motor operating conditions. Study these remarkable tests:

At 480° nine representative "medium" motor oils, under test, showed an evaporation loss of 19% or greater

At 480° the new Atlantic Motor Oil (medium), under identically the same test, showed an evaporation loss of 3%

Farm Relief Legislation Troubles To Remain Before Congress

Next Congress And One Meeting March 4 To Have Farm Problem

May Be Factor In Political Campaign For President

By JOSEPH PITTMAN
(General Press Association.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—The battle over farm relief legislation will be renewed at the next session of congress. Many symptoms indicate that agricultural questions will be overshadowing in Washington next winter.

The defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill in the recent session by no means ended the controversy over farm relief and the agricultural problem. On the contrary, it is impossible now to foresee when it will be ended.

Fight Just Begun.

"The fight for farm relief legislation has just begun," said Representative L. J. Dickinson of Iowa recently. Mr. Dickinson is one of the leaders of the agricultural group in the house and was active last session in support of the Haugen bill which was quite similar to the McNary-Haugen bill in the senate. "We are determined to obtain legislation which will remedy the deplorable condition in which agriculture finds itself."

Agriculture, he said, sought to have the same protection as industry and labor, that the agricultural problem had become the major campaign issue and it would be "the predominant issue in the 1928 campaign."

Senator Capper of Kansas, former head of the agricultural bloc in the senate, has likewise declared that the fight for farm legislation will be renewed next session. Senator Capper has recently been in conference with President Coolidge and he advised the president that the farmers were insistent they be given a square deal as compared with industry.

Expressions of a similar sort have been uttered by many members of the house and senate from agricultural states. It is true this is a campaign year and there is a tendency on the part of politicians in both houses of congress to talk with more stress about helping the farmer in campaign years than in ordinary years. But making a reasonable discount for this fact, there is no doubt unusual interest shown in Washington at this time over the agricultural situation and over agricultural demands.

Agriculture Demands Action.

The sum and substance of the situation is that the agricultural industry is becoming more and more convinced it is not getting the same advantages at the hands of government and otherwise as industry, finance and labor are obtaining, and it is becoming more and more bent on getting those advantages.

According to many of the farm leaders, and members of the agricultural group in the house and senate, the existing tariff rates are in large part responsible for the conditions of which agriculture complains. It is charged the farmer is getting little benefit from the tariff rates on the products of the farm, while the prices of what he has to buy are increased by the duties on manufactured products. Whatever may be the merit of this charge, there is no doubt it represents the opinion of a large percentage of the farmers of the country. The question has to some extent entered the present political campaign for the control of congress, and will have to be given serious consideration whenever congress undertakes another revision of the tariff law.

Now, while leaders in the agricultural forces are promising to renew the fight for farm relief legislation at the next session of congress, there is no likelihood of such legislation being enacted next session. The next congress begins the first Monday in December and ends at noon March 4. In that three months, it will be out of the question to pass a comprehensive farm relief measure, although there is no doubt the subject will be threshed over again and again in both houses. The friends of the McNary-Haugen bill, or the general principles underlying it, will urge the need of such legislation, Senator Fess will press his bill and the entire winter will be marked by more controversy over farm relief with no prospect of action.

For New Congress.

This means, of course, that the agricultural problem is going to be forced into the new congress which will come into power March 4. The new congress is likely to have as much trouble and conflict about it as the present one has had.

It is not at all unlikely the issue will still be unsettled when the presidential campaign of 1928 comes on. That it will cut a figure in the Republican national convention is probable, especially if former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois is urged for the presidency by his western and southern friends against President Coolidge. It looks now as if the agricultural forces would demand the nomination of Mr. Lowden, who is himself a large farm owner, who was a farm hand in his younger days and who has made a deep study of the needs of agriculture in this country and also has studied at close range the agricultural conditions in Europe.

The problem of how to foster and build up agriculture in the United States is, of course, an economic problem. Yet in the present condition of things in Washington and in the country, it is impossible to overlook the fact that in some respects it has become a political problem. Leastwise, it is deeply entangled with politics. Therefore, in considering what the government is going to do for agriculture or how it is going to deal with it, the politicians and political factors have to be taken into account.

President Coolidge is an aspirant for another term. No politician of standing in Washington doubts this. Naturally, the president and his friends desire the good will and support of the farmers and not their hostility, and have no desire to see Mr. Lowden or any other presidential aspirant become formidable through the backing of the great agricultural states and communities. The consequence is that the administration for political reasons in addition to reasons of economy and good government, is just now giving keen attention to the question of what can be done for agriculture. Secretary Jardine, head of the department of agriculture, Secretary of Commerce Hoover, farm loan board officials and various other officials, to say nothing of many members of house and senate, are pondering to an unusual extent on a problem that has plenty of perplexities. Not the least of these perplexities is the lack of unanimity among the agricultural leaders themselves and internal politics in some of the farm organizations adds to the difficulty.

Farm Conditions Improve.

While there is a great deal of talk that farm conditions are steadily improving and that the farmers if left alone will solve their own troubles, the facts as they are reported in a general way the country over do not entirely bear out such optimistic predictions. The truth is the agricultural situation is "spotted". Some sections have experienced improvement and have little of which to complain. Others are by no means in good shape. Numerous bank failures in parts of the middle western, northwestern and southern areas have been a backset and by reason of the troubles of the farmers, general business has suffered. An important result is that the demands of the farmers for relief and to be put on a par with other industries are getting the backing of a large and increasing element among leaders of business and finance and industry. This fact is bound to have weight with congress and the administration and to give agricultural matters an increasing prominence in Washington.

Just at this time, some of the best minds in the government and congress, as well as in agriculture, are giving thought to improved methods of agricultural financing. It is a safe prediction that the next year or two will witness some important departures in this field. Exactly what they will be and whether they will be brought about through legislation or administrative action, or by private interests alone, is impossible at this time to tell. The various bills pending in congress for relief of the farmer are so well known it is not necessary to discuss them. The administration would like to see the difficulties of the farmer solved without legislation, either by administration or by private financial interests.

Secretary Hoover has broached to the president and he and some other government officials are convinced a plan can be worked out for stabilizing land values by preventing the foreclosure of mortgages on farms and their enforced sale at low prices. Such foreclosures demoralize values in a community. One plan being considered is to organize private financial institutions or pools which will take over or guarantee mortgages about to be foreclosed. Something is likely to be worked out which will meet this phase of the agricultural problem.

STATE WHEAT YIELD LARGE

Over 23,000,000 Bushels To Be Crop Record For Present Year

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 3.—Pennsylvania will produce more than twenty-three million bushels of wheat and a million and a half bushels of rye, preliminary reports to the State Department of Agriculture indicate. The forecast is based on acreage reports from counties.

Lancaster county with an estimated yield of 2,756,714 bushels will lead the entire state in total production of wheat. York county will be second with 2,392,783 bushels, the forecast indicated. They are the only two counties to reach the two million bushel mark.

Franklin, Berks, Adams, Chester, in the order named and each with more than a million bushel production, follow Lancaster and York.

Philadelphia county with the entire acreage only 640, will lead the state in per acre yield by counties. The average yield there has been placed at 28.9 bushels per acre. Chester county in second with 26.9 bushels per acre. The average yield for the entire state has been estimated at 19.8 bushels.

Lackawanna county, where the riches of the earth are in the mines below the surface, reported only 50 acres planted to wheat and harvested this season, the smallest county acreage in the state. Wayne county reported but 80 acres and Cameron county an even 100 acres.

The total rye production of the state has been estimated at 1,535,999 bushels. Berks county with a production of 119,784 bushels held first place, while Franklin county, with 107,100 bushels, was second.

Swedish Royalty Arrive In Tokio

(International News Service)

TOKIO, Sept. 3.—Crown Princess Gustaf Adolf and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden arrived in Tokio Thursday and were welcomed by Japanese dignitaries.

The royal couple will be presented to the Prince Regent later today.

The Crown Prince will spend several days in the vicinity of Tokio, devoting most of his time to the study of archeology.

Bishop Schrembs of the Catholic diocese of Cleveland, possesses a tenor voice of exceptionally fine quality and friends aware of this fact persuaded him recently to sing a solo for the radio.

New Locomotive Used In Logging

Extensive Use Of New Oil-Electric Locomotive In Logging Industry Seen

CONSIDERS PLANS FOR NEW BRIDGE

By MILLER HOLLAND
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Extensive use of the oil-electric locomotive for logging in the West was seen today when it was learned that the 100-ton engine of this newest type of railroad power ordered by the Red River Lumber Company for service in timber land operations was on its way from Schenectady, N. Y., to Westwood, Cal.

The new locomotive will be the first of its kind to be operated on the Pacific coast and, according to Red River Lumber Company officials, the first in the lumber industry in the United States.

Of the internal combustion type, the new locomotive uses low grade fuel oil which drives an electric generator. The generator, in turn, moves powerful motors fastened to the axles of the driving wheels. The new type of locomotive is said to be a tremendous weight puller and economical in operation.

The locomotive, which is of 600 horsepower, will be used to haul logs of from six to eight feet in diameter over steep grades from the timberlands of the Red River Company's holdings to the lumber center at Westwood. The locomotive was designed and built by the American Locomotive, Ingersoll-Rand and General Electric companies.

One feature valuable in logging operations is that the new engine gives forth no smoke or sparks. In addition it uses little water and is said to be particularly suited to lumber work.

Marking completion of the Southern Pacific's new Cascade line between Klamath Falls and Eugene, in Oregon, "trail to rail" pageant and celebration was staged at Eugene, Ore., recently. The pageant, written by Prof. W. P. G. Thatcher of the University of Oregon, depicted the evolution and history of transportation in the Northwest. More than 3,000 people were included in the cast of the pageant. Ezra Meeker, famous Oregon Trail pioneer, was a character in the historical play. He was also grand marshal of the parade which preceded the pageant.

Among the transportation vehicles in the pageant were Indian pole drags, ox teams, burros, covered wagons, stage coaches, buckboard, buggies, canoes, ships, high-wheel bicycles, horses, railway locomotives and coaches and airplanes. The new Cascade line will be open for local train service early in September and through train service is expected to be inaugurated later in the year.

One of the latest San Francisco bay bridge plans being considered by the San Francisco board of supervisor is the one put forth by the New York and San Francisco Development Company, of which Major General George W. Goethals, former chief of engineers of the United States army and builder of the Panama Canal, is consulting and advisory engineer.

The proposed Goethals bridge would run from Hunter's Point, two or three miles south of the Ferry building, taking off between the drydocks there, to the foot of High street, Alameda, six and one-half miles across San Francisco bay. It would have several cantilever spans of 750 feet across the main channel to a point about 3,600 feet out in the bay from the pierhead line, and from that point on would be a series of 250-foot simple spans.

Cost of the project ranges from $40,000,000 for a vehicular bridge; $60,000,000 for a combined vehicular and rapid transit bridge, and $85,000,000 for a bridge to include heavy transcontinental rail traffic. According to Herbert L. Rothchild, vice president of the company, the Goethals structure conforms to war department rulings and naval requirements.

FARM FACTS

TIMELY REMINDERS From The Pennsylvania State College

Make Soybean Hay Right—Soybeans for hay cure best if cut just after the pods form. If permitted to stand until the beans in the pods are fully developed, the pods cure much more slowly than the rest of the plant. Then, too, short days and poorer curing weather are encountered.

Have Variety in Fall Garden—How many vegetables will be available in your garden in October? A Cambria county gardener last season had more than 20 ready for use when the first freeze came. In a southern Pennsylvania garden recently 32 vegetables were counted, all of which should be available late in the fall. There is a greater possibility for variety of products in the fall garden than in the early one.

Can Corn for Cows—Silage is one of the best and cheapest feeds for milk production. Anyone keeping a dairy herd can well afford to ensile a portion of his corn crop for next winter's feeding.

Keep Hens on Grass—There is nothing like outdoor range, either in green yards or on sod, to keep up the health of a flock of hens. This is especially true of hens that are to be used as breeders. Incidentally, it answers the question of green feed.

Be Ready for Apples—Be sure that there is a supply of crates, picnic baskets or bags, and ladders for the winter apples. Clean out the storage, and if it is not sweet or sanitary, sweeten it with whitewash, bordeaux or a disinfectant, taking care to ventilate thoroughly before using.

Help Control Corn Borer—The European corn borer is spreading. Help control this pest by not carrying corn from infested territory to clean sections.

How much gas do you buy in a year?

THE average car-owner, say statistics, uses 400 gallons of gasoline a year. Assuming yourself to be an average driver, multiply 400 by the cost per gallon . . . . . A tidy sum for motor fuel, isn't it?

And another good reason for running your car on Sterling Ethyl Gasoline.

For Ethyl Gasoline will not only give you more of the efficiency of each gallon of fuel. It will also save you many dollars in repair bills—in depreciation—and in motoring satisfaction.

Sterling ETHYL GASOLINE — Knocks out that "knock"

Ethyl Gasoline will save you money

This is why Sterling Ethyl Gasoline will save you money: It neutralizes the harmful effects of carbon. It stops the damaging carbon "knock." And it makes carbon of actual benefit.

You know what carbon ordinarily does—and it forms with every mile. It causes most engine ills. It costs you power. It wastes fuel. It cuts down the miles per gallon. It shakes and loosens the engine. It hastens depreciation. It puts your car in the service station—why, just think what you pay to have carbon removed from your cylinders!

But when you drive on Sterling Ethyl Gasoline

It knocks out that "knock" and turns carbon into power

This is a claim based on fact. Proved by racing drivers. Proved by the U. S. Navy. Proved by automobile manufacturers. Proved by car owners among your friends.

Sterling Ethyl Gasoline is science's latest contribution to automobile advance. It was developed in the great Research Laboratories of General Motors. And it turns carbon into an agency of service—into greater power, smoother operation and greater economy. In fact, the more carbon you have, the better Sterling Ethyl works!

Drive with Ethyl today

Don't go another day without the benefits of Sterling Ethyl Gasoline. The very first tankful will make you a booster. And as a companion to this new fuel, use Sterling Motor Oil. It is refined from the highest grade 100% Pure Pennsylvania Oil in the world. Fill up with Sterling Ethyl Gasoline and Sterling Motor Oil today.

Innocent Spooning Not Harmful, Says Judge In Youngstown Civil Court

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 3. — Petting was born in the 20th century, but the past 25 years witnessed a great advance in the popularity of the pastime among young and old, according to Judge George Gessner, a strong advocate of "proper spooning."

"I'm not against petting when its done properly," declared Judge Gessner of Domestic Relations court.

"Petting is merely a trend of nature and all of us have felt its appeal at least once during our life time."

The judge set down a set of "dont's" to govern petting. They are:

"Don't pet while driving an automobile. When you start petting stop driving. The two don't mix.

"Don't park your machine without lights.

"Don't pet on roads, or lanes, use the main thoroughfares. You'll attract considerably less attention and probably will keep out of the hands of the police.

"Don't pet the other fellow's girl. Pet the daughters and leave the wives alone.

"Don't pet unless your petter friend is 18 or over."

Gessner urged police to use more discretion in arresting petters, saying there was "no harm in a little innocent spooning."

Navigable Canal Will Connect All Hungary Rivers

(International News Service)

BUDAPEST, Sept. 3.—A navigable canal connecting the Danube and the River Theiss, which runs through the richest agricultural district of Hungary, will be built this year by a group of American and English financiers. The canal will cost about two million dollars but will reduce transportation costs of the huge Hungarian grain crops about thirty per cent.

The canal will be built from Szolnok to the Danube. At the present time most of the Theiss is too shallow for navigation but as it is lower than the Danube, the canal will allow enough water to flow into the smaller river to make float river craft. The canal also will drain a large section of land.

LAST DAY TO FILE PAPERS

Governor Pinchot's Attitude Is One That Is Perplexing Party Leaders

(From News Bureau State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 3.—While the two major parties have started their fall campaigns interest still remains on whether or not Governor Pinchot will be an independent candidate for the United States Senate. Today is the last day when independent bodies and candidates may file their papers with the state in order to insure a place on the November ballot.

Efforts have been made in the state during the summer to get up an independent ticket and it also is possible after the closing date to substitute names in the event one is placed in the field at the last moment. The governor already has the nomination of the Labor party. In the event he decides to withdraw he has until September 13 to get out of the fight. Many here, however, feel that he will not be a candidate in the fall.

The Republicans after their bitter fight in the spring for both the senatorial and gubernatorial places are now urging harmony for the coming campaign. In practically every place where the state wide candidates have appeared on platforms they have stressed that point.

This being the season of county fairs the candidates are unusually busy going about addressing rallies. Both Republican and Democratic candidates are taking advantage of these affairs to put themselves before the public. The Democrats are making a strong and intensive campaign in the interest of William B. Wilson, their senatorial candidate. They figure he has the best chance of any one on their ticket to be elected in his fight against Congressman Vare of Philadelphia.

"Brick" Muller To Find New Fame As Foot Ball Coach At Los Angeles

By THOMAS R. CURRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—'Brick' Muller, whose football exploits are legendary, will be as great an attraction in professional football this autumn as Harold "Red" Grange himself. Muller signed several days ago to captain the Los Angeles team of the Professional Football league.

Selected twice by Walter Camp for his all-American team, and the first west coast player ever to be nominated for the mythical eleven, Brick was undoubtedly the greatest player developed by the late "Andy" Smith of the University of California and he was probably the greatest player the Pacific coast has known.

Muller, although an end, was the bulwark of the Golden Bear "wonder teams" of 1920, 1921 and 1922. His forward passing ability has become traditional.

"Tell me about that 80-yard pass of yours," I asked him.

"It wasn't 80 yards," said 'Brick' with fine contempt for mythology, "it was caught 53 yards in front of scrimmage, and I stood 15 yards behind; that made it only 68 yards."

The Longest Pass.

That probably is the longest pass ever completed in a big time college game.

"I was surprised it didn't go farther," admitted "Brick", "I threw it as hard as I could."

"Is it your big hands that make you such a good passer?" I queried.

"I haven't big hands," said "Brick" modestly, holding up his freckled mitts. And they weren't unusually large at that.

"I think it's the looseness of my thumb joint that makes it easy to handle the ball," and Muller wiggled his thumbs as though they worked in a socket.

Brick played in two Tournament of Roses east-west championship games, one against Ohio State; the other against West Virginia. California defeated Ohio State 28 to 0 and wallowed in the mud for a scoreless tie with the Mountaineers.

For the past four years, Brick has been varsity end coach at California while attending medical school in San Francisco. His decision to take up professional football, he admitted, was influenced by the seductive lisp of $25,000, which will be enough to put him through the remaining years of his medical course.

"Brick" objected to the phrase "turning pro" in connection with his contract with the Los Angeles team. "I'm not becoming a professional," he declared, "I have been a professional ever since I got out of school because I've been paid to coach at California."

To Help California.

Brick said he had only one regret in connection with his decision to play the professional game and that was his inability to help "Nibs" Price, the new California coach, in preparing this year's eleven.

"I told 'Nibs' I'd help him out, but I didn't sign a contract," Muller explained. "I know, however, that he was counting on me as I knew Andy Smith's system thoroughly."

Muller's first act as captain of the new Los Angeles team was to sign Johnny Hawkins and Hank Lefebvre, former University of Southern California football celebrities. Eighteen men will be signed for the team, most of whom will be former football players in Pacific coast colleges.

Team practice will begin and the first game will be played with Kansas City or Chicago; the last contest of the season will be against the New York Giants, December 5.

Immediately afterward the Los Angeles team will return here for a series of games against picked opponents.

Lew Cody, motion picture star, is president of the group of sportsmen supporting the Los Angeles team financially.

Bet the foreign papers carry standing heads, "Today's Cabinet."

Slippery Rock Church Has Notable History; Early Days Recalled

Congregation Celebrating 125th Anniversary, Hears Of Church Progress

Pioneer Church Of Large Area Of Western Pennsylvania, Facts Show

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—One hundred and twenty five years ago when the pioneer fathers hewed down great logs for the first church at Slippery Rock, it is probable that they had no actual vision of the anniversary in the church today, where hundreds of people are gathered in the building of more recent construction, listening to many of the pastors who have helped the church and congregations on their way in the past years.

The first to settle in this immediate community were William and Benjamin Cunningham, Abel Hennon, Robert and Samuel Gaston, William Cairns, Charles Morrow and John Moore. These men with their families came from Fayette county in 1796. Others who settled near here in 1800 or before were Joseph Benson, Hugh Wilson, Abraham McCurdy, John Newton and Moses Matheny. The greater part of the land in Wayne township was in Chew district.

Log Houses

Many difficulties arose to confront the pioneers in their efforts to build homes. The first houses were constructed of logs as were the barns, a number of which are still standing. The logs unhewn, were covered with rough clapboards four feet in length, which in turn were held in place by heavy long poles. The doors were of clapboards and were hung on heavy wooden hinges and had a wooden latch.

Greased linen or paper generally took the place of glass which was a very rare article. A table was made of a split slab set upon four legs, while the chairs were usually three legged stools, and the beds were made of poles.

The clothing was wool, prepared and woven by hand, flax was woven into linen and used for bedding. If a family planned to move, they did so on horseback. Not only the family, but the household furniture as well. At that time there was not a single bridge between the Ohio river and Lake Erie. For two years the corn was pounded in primitive fashion, before a grist mill was erected by Annanias Allen, near the mouth of the Slippery Rock creek.

Early Preaching Tours

While the men and women were laboring hard and long during the six days of the week, they did not forget their training in the Bible and Catechism. Desiring the privilege of the "preached Word," in their new homes, they arranged to have some of their pastors from former homes, come to visit them. In 1799 Elisha McCurdy and Joseph Stockton made their first preaching tour through these settlements, and were the first Presbyterian ministers to traverse these hills and valleys.

In 1800 the Reverends McCurdy, McPhersin and Marquis conducted services in various parts of this section. It was their custom to gather the scattered settlers from far and near into little groups for worship of God, and learn more of the gospel. During these tours the men would go as far north as Erie and overcome many obstacles in order to carry on the work. Having no roads, many times they would get lost in the by-paths that led through the woods, sleeping at night under the friendly moon with a blanket of stars for a coverlet.

Kept Appointments

It is hard to find people so staunch and true that they would rather suffer from the ill effects of wet clothing, than to miss an appointment. No doubt these traveling pastors would have put to shame "little Alibi," who furnishes excuses for people who do not keep appointments. Many times they would appear for the service, possibly a little late, having had to swim the creek which had swollen with recent rains, and with the exception of wet clothing, they would be in good spirits.

Among the first ministers who settled in this region permanently was Thomas E. Hughes, who located at Greersburg, (now Darlington) in 1789. He was a man of marked ability and the first settled pastor north of the Ohio river. The name of the little church on the Hill, has always been Slippery Rock, named from the creek on whose banks the first meetings were conducted. No exact date of its organization can be found in the record at the Presbytery.

The first official record of the church organization is on April 13, 1802. The first meeting place was probably the Allen Grist Mill. Here the families would gather for their worship. Included in the congregation at that time were: Jesse Bell, William Cairns and his wife Nancy, Joseph Hennon and his wife Margaret, William Cunningham and his wife Mary, Jonathan Peppard and Elizabeth his wife, Jacob Van Gorder and Margaret, Andrew Elliott and Lucy, Isaac Cole and Jane, Thomas and William Henry.

Enter New Castle

At a meeting of Erie Presbytery conducted September 30, 1802, the congregations of Slippery Rock and Lower Neshannock, (New Castle) reported that they are now able to support a minister full time and requested that they be permitted to present a call to the Ohio Presbytery for Alexander Cook. This request was granted, and on April 12, 1803, Mr. Cook, then a licentiate, accepted the call and taken under the care of Erie Presbytery. June 22 of the same year Erie Presbytery met at Slippery Rock and Mr. Cook was ordained to the gospel ministry, and was installed, the first pastor of this congregation and New Castle.

Following the coming of Rev. Cook, the people continued to meet at the Allen Mill or at his house for preaching services, but he had not been here long before the "Log Church" was built on the hill, nearby where the present church now stands. This structure lacked many so-called essentials, and contained many extremely interesting features, one of which was the huge fire-place which located in the center of the church, was built on the ground. Above this fireplace two logs were thrown across the church from side to side at the eaves, and upon these logs was built a large chimney of split sticks, straw and clay for the purpose of drawing the smoke out of the building.

High Fallutin' Folks

Congregations who slouch down in large comfortable seats found in the modern churches of today would find it extremely unforgivable if they should enter a church and were to find no seats. It is more probable that they would leave immediately. What a far cry it is to this little log church which contained no seats and people were compelled to stand or sit upon the ground. Some of the families began to construct seats for themselves, of a split log and four legs. They were citicized severely by other more puritanical members, for their departure from the older custom.

Stoves were put in and good old men shook their heads, "Such effeminacy, what are we coming to anyway?" The story of hardships suffered by many members of the congregation that they might continue to pay the minister his salary, are in accord with the favorite tales concerning Abe Lincoln. One man split rails for a week in order to obtain a dollar for the church. One other family decided that their children should go barefooted rather than not support the church. The church has prospered with such people to act as a foundation.

Other pastors in the church history include Rev. Robert Sample who worked hard for the fabulous sum of three hundred dollars a year, a greater part of which was paid in farm produce. During his pastorate a new frame church was built in 1825, and it stood until 1863 when the present building was erected.

Rev. Sample left the church for Slippery Rock to go to New Castle. It was three years before Rev. B. C. Critchlow just out of the seminary, was called. He served seven years and his place was supplied by the Rev. James Henderson, who had an important part in the spiritual awakening which increased the membership by more than fifty. Mr. Billingsly followed by Rev. Henderson and after a short stay, the church was without regular pastor for a period of six years.

Civil War Period

The reason for the long time intervening without a regular pastor was on account of the Civil War. Rev. Henry Webber supplied for several years before becoming formally installed, and helped with nursing of soldiers sent home and cased the suffering in every way possible. It is with a pride that people of this vicinity can point to the Slippery Rock cemetery where there lie buried soldiers from every war in which this country has taken part.

The church building standing today was erected during Rev. Webber's ministry, which was followed by Rev. Morton, who was followed by John H. Aughey, installed pastor in 1870. Following in line were pastors, Rev. G. S. Rice who served for 15 years, Rev. W. G. Beagle, Rev. Samuel Barber and Rev. Charles Bell, who came to the church in 1899.

Rev. Bell's long to be remembered pastorate lasted until October, 1914, a little over 15 years. He did a splendid work while in the church which is going on today. He resigned from that church to take up the work as pastor of the Bell Memorial, which he organized first as a mission.

Rev. Gusty R. West, followed Rev. Bell and was pastor of the church for five years. After an interval of several months, Rev. Paul Elliott, present pastor arrived. During his pastorate a number of changes have been made in the present structure. A model basement has been finished, a new hardwood floor, pulpit, pulpit platform and railing have been completed just recently, as well as new seats. The Slippery Rock church is an institution with a big future, and a splendid past.

Say Bomber Not Ellwood Man

Two Ellwood Citizens Fail To Identify Bomber As Rabick

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Evidence that the body of the man who exploded a bomb in banking rooms of the Farmers Savings Deposit bank August 24, is that of Mike, alias William Chowick, former Wisconsin prison and asylum inmate and not that of Jim Rabick, Ellwood City radical, continued to pile up last night with the arrival of Feodisi Loss of Ellwood City, with whom Rabick roomed for six weeks, and Paul Cartwright, a locksmith of Ellwood City, who made several keys for Rabick.

Loss, after he had viewed the body in the morgue and the clothes which were worn by the bomber, stated that the trousers of the bomber were too long to be those of Rabick and that the shoes were too small. He also said that Rabick had a bald spot on the back of his head. The body in the morgue showed no baldness. Cartwright, who came here to identify the keys found in the clothing of the dead bomber, could not identify any of them as keys that he had made for Rabick.

Chief of Police M. J. Teater of Ellwood City is still positive that the body in the morgue is that of Rabick. He bases his belief on the fact that the callouses are the same as those Rabick had on his hand caused by carrying a cane. Teater thinks that Loss is mistaken because of the fact that Rabick never worked and the dead man is said to have worked in the tube mills near Ellwood City.

William Dean Tells Of Webster Trip At Rotary Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—William Dean, who recently returned from a trip through the western states, told some interesting things concerning his views of future business, scenery and dwelled on packing houses in particular when he addressed his brother Rotarians at their regular dinner meeting in the dining room of the First Presbyterian church on Thursday evening.

There were two visitors from the New Castle club, Fred L. Rents, president of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, and the new secretary, A. W. Chilton.

H. R. Smith reported that an operating table had been shipped from New York and would arrive here in due time for the clinic for crippled children which is to be in charge of Dr. Wallace of New Castle. This clinic, which is set for the third Tuesday in September, is for all crippled children, some of whom are unknown to the sponsors of this work, the Rotarians.

Local Girls Leave For University To Take Up Nursing

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—Miss Helen McClymonds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McClymonds of Second street, Miss Mary Ellen Bell, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Bell of Fifth street, left Wednesday evening for New York where they will take up nursing in the Presbyterian hospital department of Columbia University this winter.

Both young ladies are graduates of the Ellwood City high school and carried honors from Geneva and Slippery Rock colleges. They have been teaching in the Ellwood schools and as always, the best of chums, they have decided upon a life of nursing as a career.

Home Missions, Topic Of Woman's Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—Mrs. Hugh Tomb was in charge of the program given by the Woman's Missionary Society in their church parlor Thursday evening. The subject taken up for the evening included the Home Missions. The life of the Aliens, Indians and Friedman were discussed in papers read by the following women: Mrs. George Davidson, Mrs. E. S. Wilson, Mrs. J. A. Cosby, Mrs. Albert Keller, Mrs. W. H. Scheidemantle, Mrs. Robert Grandey and Mrs. Harvey Wright.

Plan Dedication Of New Church

Program Is Arranged For September 12 To 15 At Lutheran Church

NEW PASTOR TO BE INSTALLED

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—Dedication of the Trinity Lutheran church, installation of new pastor, Lutheran or neighborhood night, community night and recital night will be events at the local church beginning Sunday, September 12 to 15, inclusive.

The dedication service will be conducted in the morning of September 12, with Rev. L. J. Baker, the new minister, in charge. The installation will be in charge of Dr. Ellis B. Burgess, president of the Pittsburgh Synod. Rev. L. Beisecker, former pastor here, will have the Litergical service. Rev. Robert R. Durst, who organized in the local congregation in 1894, Rev. Peter Riffer of New Castle, and Rev. Charles White will also have part in the morning service.

The first Lutheran church building was erected at the corner of Spring avenue and Fifth street, October 28, 1900, and was dedicated July 3, 1902. It served as a place for worship until sold in 1925, and the new property on Second and Spring was purchased, and a new building erected.

There have been four pastors preceding the present one. They are: Rev. Robert Durst who served from September, 1894, to November, 1894; Rev. Peter Ripper, from November to April, 1902; Rev. A. P. Lentz from April, 1902, to April, 1914; Rev. Ludwig Beisecker, from September, 1914, to June, 1926. The new pastor who came here with his family from Latrobe is located in the splendid nine-roomed church parsonage which is built next to the church on Spring avenue.

Mrs. Helen Helling will sing "Open the Gates of the Temple," at the morning service and other special numbers will be selected by the choir.

The afternoon session will begin at 3:30, with Rev. F. E. Stough of the St. John's church at New Castle, in charge. Rev. C. W. White, manager of the Orphan's Home at Zelienople, will conduct the Litergical service.

In the evening the service at 8 o'clock will be in charge of Rev. L. Beisecker who now has a charge in Pittsburgh.

MANY NEW SIGNERS FOR BEAUTY CONTEST AT SHELBY PICNIC

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—There is more and and more interest being taken in the Bathing Beauty contest to be carried on at the National Tube company picnic at Morado park Monday.

Mrs. Catherine Jones, Miss Louise Barton and Mrs. Nellie Hazen in charge of this particular feature have written proof that Ellwood women who are in some way connected with this steel mill plan to appear for the contest in costumes in neat design suitable to the modern venus.

A large percentage of the employes have signified their plans to attend the picnic which promises to be the most successful ever conducted by the Tubers of Ellwood City.

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 3.—Members of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church did not conduct their meeting at the grove at Ewing park as scheduled Thursday evening, but brought their lunch to the large dining room in the church where they had an enjoyable time.

Those on the committee were Mrs. H. L. Wilson, Mrs. Catherine Hainer, Mrs. Bert Hartung, Mrs. Fred Jackson, Mrs. D. A. Evans and Mrs. Grace Benford.

Ellwood Doctor Enters Guilty Plea

Alleged He Issued Phoney Whiskey Prescriptions To Drug-store Owners

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Dr. L. W. Darragh, 219 Foch street, Ellwood City, pleaded guilty in Federal Court Thursday to violating the prohibition act and was sentenced to pay a fine of $250 by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

R. E. Joyce, assistant prohibition administrator, stated to the court that Darragh had issued whiskey prescriptions bearing fictitious names and which were turned over to the owners of certain drugstores for the purpose of covering up alleged shortages in their liquor permits.

Prohibition authorities asserted today that two other physicians and a druggist of Ellwood City are now under arrest for violations of the prohibition act but they are withholding the names for the present.

Former Lawrence County Woman Is Now 91 Years Old

Mrs. Nancy Dean Jones, Once Associated With Late Ira D. Sankey, Evangelist

IS NOW RESIDING AT AUSTIN, MINN.

Mrs. Nancy Dean Jones, a native of Lawrence county, recently celebrated her 91st birthday at her home in Austin, Minn. Mrs. Jones was born at Harlansburg, nine miles east of this city. Her grandfather, William Harlan, gave the land upon which the village of Harlansburg is built. She is the youngest of 15 children.

Mrs. Jones' father, Major William Dean, was a 49'er, having made the cross country trip to California in a covered wagon. He lost a nephew while crossing the Platte river southwest of Omaha, Neb. Mr. Dean was in the California gold fields. Mrs. Jones has a walking stick mounted with some of the original gold dug by her father.

Mrs. Jones' father received the title of major for training companies which went to the front in 1861. There is a large family connection in Lawrence county.

A copy of the Austin, Minn., News received at this office contains the following family history:

Going back to an early ancestor who came to this country in 1636 one George Harlan and his brother, Michael, who came over along with William Penn on his second trip and they together with others built the first brick church in this country, shipping the brick from England. This church stands today in the city of Philadelphia. Many of the early day statesmen attended this church. George Washington, Daniel Webster and others have their names on the pews to this day. A former city council visited this church and Burns' and Padden can tell all about it.

George Harlan came down the St. Lawrence and landed at Montreal then trekked overland to Chester county and settled on the Brandywine river at West Chester. Mrs. Jones was related to John Marshall Harlan who became associate justice of the United States supreme court. They were cousins. Judge Harlan has been noted for his clean cut decisions for the people and was on the bench from November 29, 1877, until his death in 1911.

In her younger days along with her husband, Mrs. Jones was associated with Ira D. Sankey, the noted gospel song worker who was associated with Mr. Moody, the evangelist. Mrs. Jones' husband taught Mr. Sankey his first lesson in vocal music under an oak tree at New Castle, Pa., and they became a serenading quartet of singers. Mrs. Jones has done mission work in Chicago, Ill., and it was while at one of her meetings that Mr. McBride who lectured in Austin in the Methodist church a few years ago, was converted. He recognized her at the Austin meeting and they had a brief visit later.

Mrs. Jones is still doing her sweeping, ironing and house work and she says, "I have no lazy bones. I'm 91 years old and still going."

Mrs. Jones lives with her son Jesse Y. Jones at 911 West Oakland avenue.

BOMBERS WRECK CHICAGO HOME

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The home of Morris Eller, a leading figure in Republican politics in Chicago and Cook county, was wrecked by a bomb early today. Five members of the family, including Mr. Eller, were thrown from their beds but were not injured. Police are investigating on the theory that political enemies of Mr. Eller were back of the mysterious bombing.

"BAD MAN" STUTTERS AND THIS IDENTIFIES HIM WHILE FUGITIVE

SUTTON, W. Va., Sept. 3.—After eluding officers in various parts of the county for five years, Ode (Toots) Mayse, who has a record of being a "bad man," was arrested by officers at Eminence, near New Castle, Ky., and brought here.

He is now held in the Braxton county jail awaiting action of the next grand jury on a charge of robbing the home of H. H. Spicer of Copen. The crime was committed almost five years ago. A defect in Mayse's speech led to his identification at Eminence.

CROWDS THRONG CAPITOL ON RE-OPENING NIGHT

Hundreds Forced to Stand in Line in Lobby Waiting for Second Show. Act, Pictures and Features Please Immense Crowd.

Perhaps there is nothing more satisfying to the theatre owner than to have to hang out the S. R. O. sign. While he regrets the inability of his theatre to handle the crowd, yet the S. R. O. sign means that the people like his attraction. This being true, and it is, Charles Kranz the new manager of the Capitol Theatre must have been filled with varying emotions last night. The first was pleasure at the immense crowd which simply packed the Capitol, and second, regret, that he didn't have five hundred more seats to accommodate the people.

It was re-opening night and by eight o'clock standing room was the only thing left. At 8:15 even this was gone and the crowd patiently waited in the lobby until the first show was over. "It was a disappointment to me that we had to ask those good people to stand" said Mr. Kranz, but we hope to have more seats added in the near future."

From the reaction of the crowd as it left, the evening was something more than an ordinary success. The picture, "The Show Off" went over well, and Roger Wayne Fawn and his Musical Skallywags were forced to respond to numerous encores. Miss Gene Huston, petite, clever ,and appealingly winsome danced her way into favor and like the act back of her had to come back for more.

The Capitol Orchestra seemed imbued with the spirit of the crowd and proved to be an attraction, not only the means of attendant music. Julius V. Sypher has gathered together a group of real musicians and the orchestra's place on the program will be a welcome one in the future.

Hundreds of the crowd heard for the first time, the recently installed $18,000.00 Robert Morton Pipe Organ. With Miss Leta Mae John at the console it supplied a mead of entertainment that was fully appreciated. The organ is a wonderfully voiced instrument and stands out as an addition to the Capitol.

It was a wonderful night. Mr. Kranz appeared between the act and the feature picture and made an introductory address to the crowd. He promised them clean, wholesome entertainment, and said that as long as he was in charge of the Capitol that nothing but the best procurable would be shown. His words carried conviction, and if re-opening night is any criterion of the future bills of the house, New Castle will have an entertainment place that will compare with anything in Western Pennsylvania.

The same bill played Thursday night will continue Friday and Saturday. Monday, three acts of vaudeville will be shown with the feature picture, "The Cat's Pajamas" starring Betty Bronson and Ricardo Cortez.

Prosperity Such As U. S. Enjoys Bad For Germany

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 3.—"Prosperity is like your forbidden liquor; a little is alright, but too much is bad."

Thus did Dr. Ernest W. Jungst, expert economist of Westphalia, Germany, reply to interviewers here when asked if he would like to see his native country as prosperous as he found the United States.

Dr. Jungst called attention to the fact that over-prosperity and attending loose morals and wanton pleasures engineered the downfall of ancient Rome.

The Essen economist's visit to America was for the purpose of studying social and economic conditions of coal miners here that he might strike a comparison with those of his own land in a book he is writing on the subject.

Prof. Dr. Fritz Herbst, director of the Essen mining school, and Carl Jungst, head of the mining units of the famous Krupp interests, accompanied Dr. Jungst. They are touring the East, maikng stops at mining and ore producing centers.

"Germany would not profit by the social and economic conditions of America," Dr. Jungst said. "In your mines I have found better roofs, cleaner coal and better working, yet you still have relatively far more accidents than we do. At that your output per man and per shift is greater than ours.

He explained that Germany has not yet returned to the pre-war standard. Many industries there are idle, but he said the output per man is increasing.

See Coolidge As Candidate For Party Nomination In 1928

Governor Al Smith Believed Leading Democratic Contender At Present

Many Other Hopefuls Are Laying Plans in Both Parties

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of the News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—The presidential campaign of 1928 has already started and the two men on whom the eyes of the politicians are chiefly focused today are Calvin Coolidge and Alfred E. Smith.

A good deal of talk, more or less flippant, has been going the rounds, in the press and out of it, about the possibility of "Al and Cal" being the nominees of their respective parties for the presidency. But the political leaders, the men who are going to have a hand when the nominations are actually made, are not taking the matter lightly and not treating it as a joke.

If one talks seriously with these leaders, Republican or Democrat, about the prospects for the 1928 nominations, he will quickly discover that at this time they see no way in which President Coolidge is likely to be headed off from the Republican nomination and they realize that Governor Smith is the only Democratic possibility to date in whose behalf a strong, definite and well-mapped out campaign is being made.

Believe Coolidge in Running.

So far as President Coolidge is concerned, it is generally taken for granted he will be in the running in 1928. In fact, the most competent political chiefs at the capital say unhesitatingly that President Coolidge is already a candidate for another term and that his lieutenants are busily engaged in effecting an organization for him. They have been busy for months. Now and then protestations emanate from the direction of White Pine Camp to the effect that the president is giving no thought to 1928 but the politicians of both parties are giving no heed to such utterances. They pronounce statements of this kind "apple-sauce" and go ahead building their projects on the assumption that Mr. Coolidge wants another term and is already in quest of it.

Recently, some of the agricultural Republicans from the west, who are displeased at the president, have declared he has lost his grip in the west and cannot be re-nominated and re-elected. But those politicians who are trying to view the situation with cold-blooded impartiality, point out that it is difficult to prevent a man in the White House from securing a renomination if he wants it. President Coolidge can have the support of the southern Republican delegates, those of New England and of much of the east, and many of those from the intermountain country and the far west.

See Nomination.

The political organizations in those regions are generally amenable to White House influence and they will doubtless be so in the present instance. In truth, some of Mr. Coolidge's lieutenants are declaring more or less openly that there are enough votes for him already in sight to insure his nomination. This is by no means farfetched, despite the fact that some people believe the 1928 campaign is still a long way off, and fail to realize that it is the practice of good politicians to win their battles, if they can, long in advance.

President Coolidge will be under some disadvantages in seeking another term. Much water can run under the mill between now and 1928 and currents can shift quickly. What weight that will have with the country is something yet to be determined. Agricultural discontent with the administration is strong and is something not to be dismissed lightly. The Democrats may win house or senate or both this fall and if they do they will turn their batteries on the administration in the next congress.

These and other considerations are to be taken into account. Moreover, there are a number of strong Republican aspirants for the presidency, including such men as Lowden, Wadsworth, Watson, Hoover and Borah. It is not to be expected they will pick any rocks out of the Coolidge path and it would not be strange if they should throw some in.

Undoubtedly, if the elections this fall go Democratic and a Democratic congress is chosen, or even one branch of congress, the opponents of Mr. Coolidge will hail this as evidence of administration weakness and a showing of public dissatisfaction with White House policies. On the other hand, if the Republicans retain control of congress, the friends of Mr. Coolidge will be quick to capitalize this fact and proclaim it as a demonstration of public support of the administration.

Democratic Picture.

Turning to the Democratic picture, it does not need half an eye to perceive that up to this time there is only one aspirant for the Democratic nomination. This is Governor "Al" Smith of New York. If it be denied Governor Smith is active, at least it cannot be denied his close friends and political lieutenants are at work. They have been at work, moreover, for months. East, south, north and west, the partisans of Governor Smith are stirring and are laying the wires for his nomination. This is a matter of common knowledge and common gossip among Democratic political chieftains.

The campaign in behalf of Governor Smith is not being conducted blindly. Nor is it in the hands of amateurs. It is not confined to the general idea of promoting the popularity of the New York governor. Plans are already being made in numerous states to have men put on delegations to the next Democratic national convention who will be either openly for Smith or will not be unyielding against him. Anti-Smith men of the "last ditch" variety are the ones whom the governor's friends will keep off delegations just as far as possible. That some progress is being made in this direction is by no means a secret. It is being made ,furthermore, in some of the southern states which in the New York convention of 1924 were most pronounced for McAdoo and against Smith.

As time goes on, it will in all likelihood be found that the Smith managers are seeking diplomatically to heal old wounds and those likely to inflame feelings and engender new rancors and antagonisms, such as the prohibition question, matters of religion and so on.

To Abolish Two-Thirds Rule.

A powerful movement has been begun in the Democratic party to abolish the two-thirds rule. This was not begun by Governor Smith's lieutenants but they are helping it along. Strong evidence of the belief that Governor Smith is now the foremost Democratic candidate is seen in the fact that many of his opponents have come to the conclusion that abolition of the two-thirds rule would nominate him and hence they are opposing abolition.

In an effort to strengthen the cause of Governor Smith, the Democratic chiefs in New York state this fall plan not only to re-elect him governor but, if possible, to elect him a Democratic senator. They feel that if New York can go before the next Democratic convention with a Democratic governor, two Democratic senators and a Democratic mayor in New York, such a showing will have weight with party men the nation over.

Political experts this year will keep keen eyes on the results of the elections in many states to find out whether men friendly to the Smith cause have been put in the saddle. For instance, election of George E. Brennan as senator in Illinois would be widely viewed as tremendously strengthening the hand of Governor Smith.

While Governor Smith today is in an extremely strong position in his party, it will not do to assume he has the nomination won. Strenuous efforts are to be made to unhorse him. Leading Democratic possibilities other than Smith include McAdoo, Ritchie of Maryland, Donahey of Ohio, Pomerene of Ohio if elected senator, and Reed of Missouri, not to mention a half dozen others who have ambitions.

Clears away itching rash in two days

Uses Resinol now for all kinds of skin ills

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 4:—"On July 20, 1917, just before I was called to service in France, I was advised by my druggist to use Resinol Ointment for a rash which I had on my arm. It relieved the itching and the rash was gone in two days. Later I cured two friends of mine who were suffering from some kind of skin trouble. We all agreed that it was 100% stuff for anything like a breaking out.

While in France I had a bunch of boils that nothing seemed to cure until I had the doctor fix the little place up (after a treatment with a knife) with Resinol. Needless to say, I soon lost all my boils and from that time on I became the outfit's boil and pimple doctor.

Since coming home I have used a great many jars of Resinol and I swear by it. Every little cut or scratch gets its immediate application of Resinol. It is a wonderful, non-equaled ointment." (Signed) Chas. T. Sweet, Jr., 3015 So. 7th 7t.

Two Officials Are Appointed

Philadelphia Company Names Phillips And Rossell To Pittsburgh Jobs

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Appointment of Frank R. Phillips as vice president and general manager of the Duquesne Light Co., and William T. Rossell as general manager of the Pittsburgh Railways Co., both subsidiaries of the Philadelphia company, was announced here on Thursday. Both men are from Covington, Ky.

Phillips goes with the Duquesne Light Co. from the Pittsburgh Railways Co., of which he had been general manager. Rossell assumes the position vacated by Phillips.

Phillips has been connected with utilities in Pittsburgh for the past 17 years. He came to Pittsburgh in 1909 from Covington, Ky., and was active in designing the first efficient double-deck motor car in the country.

He is a member of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, Union club, South Hills Country club, Pittsburgh Athletic association, Lions club of Pittsburgh, Engineers Society of Western Pennsylvania, American Institute of Electrical Engineers and is past president of the American Electric Railway Engineering association.

Rossell is a railways engineer of considerable experience and has been general superintendent of maintenance of the Pittsburgh Railways Co. He joined the railways company in 1924 from the Cincinnati Newport & Covington Co., at Covington, Ky. He is a member of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commeree, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Electrical Railways association.

Hog Calling Not Yet Standardized

Since we published a request for information on the art of hog-calling many persons have taken us to task for our ignorance. Nevertheless, although each of our traducers supplies what purports to be the original and authentic call, we find lamentable discrepancies between them. So far we have received the following calls:

Indiana and Western Kentucky: "P-o-o-o-o-g--l-e! P-o-o-o-o-g-i-e! P-o-o-o-o-g-i-e!"

Middle West: "Whoo-ee! Whoo-ee! Whoo-ee!"

East Texas: "O Pig! Pig O! Pig O! Pig O!"

Now it is quite true that our ignorance on this subject is extensive. Still, how can we be held accountable for knowledge if the experts themselves are unable to agree just what the facts are? We trust these gentlemen will find some way to get together on what the national hog-call is, and when they have finished their deliberations we shall be glad to report their findings.—New York World.

Youthful Thugs Stage Robbery

(International News Service)

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 3.—Mike Fosilkey, manager of the A. & P. chain store at Republic, near here Thursday faced a pistol in the hands of a youthful bandit. While a second robber ransacked the store till and took $20.

"Is that all you have?" asked the bandit.

"No," said Mike, "there's $14 of my own money in my pocket, but you?" "Not if it belongs to you," said the hold-up man.

The pair pocketed the company's $20, and fled in the machine.

Accident Kills Girl, Brother Kills Himself

CALUMET, Mich., Arthur Lawrence, 15, voluntarily paid with his life for what he thought was his inexcusable carlessness.

Young Lawrence was cleaning a shotgun on his mother's farm near Sidnaw when it was discharged accidentally. The charge ripped through the kitchen door, killing his eleven-year-old sister instantly.

Arthur rushed into the house, stood for a moment over her body and then went to the barn and killed himself.

Take your car up that hill with Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline

You will be amazed at the difference Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline makes!

No "knocking" whatever. New power that shoots her along in high. And when you get back on the level and in traffic—faster pick-up, less gear-shifting and a motor that runs like new.

There is no fuel comparable with Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline. It stops that "knock" instantly and turns carbon into a source of power. Fill your tank today.

THE PENNZOIL COMPANY
OIL CITY, PA.

NOTICE: Dilution of Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline with other fuels decreases its effectiveness. Therefore it is important to drain your tank before filling it with Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline for the first time—and to use Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline exclusively thereafter. Remember also that no motor fuel will "grind valves." While Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline makes carbon an agency of service, you must keep your valves in good condition.

Tell them that if they are figuring on taking a motor trip over LABOR DAY that they had better check over their buses and get busy.

I came back quick like and says "Get busy doing what?" Just to show that he's not so dumb he says, "Why get busy finding out whether they need a new Tire, Tube or some accessory for their car. If they do they'll never buy it any better than right now during this sale. If you can get that over our store will do a big business Saturday.

So that's my job to convince you, gentle reader, and I know of no better way than to list 45 examples with the prices and reminding you that we have thirty-five hundred more bargains to pick from.

GULBRANSEN The Registering Piano

Because you cannot play have you allowed the greatest joy of music to elude you?

You are seated at your piano—playing.
Your mood—something of your very self—has entered into the music—your music. Your touch, your expression, your personality give color to the melody.
You are expressing yourself in the most wonderful of languages—the language of music.
Nothing can take the place of this—just listening cannot compare!

You need no musical training to play the Gulbransen. It plays by roll—yet you control its playing. You can hush it to a whisper, or release its clear, sweet tones in brilliant volume. You can play fast or slow, accent melody and harmony notes, accompany voices or other instruments. It is simple and easy.

Be sure that the piano you select bears the name "Gulbransen." For only the Gulbransen can give you the musical enjoyment you have so often longed for.

A small cash payment will put the Gulbransen Registering Piano in your home. Subsequent payments to suit your convenience. Allowance will be made for your present piano or other musical instrument

TIMELY VIEWS on WORLD TOPICS

BRITISH STRIKE FAILURE THROUGH MISGUIDED POLICY

By J. G. BRADLEY,
President Of West Virginia Coal Association, In An Interview

Through misguided policy, the British coal miners have lost their strike. The union leaders do not work on the theory that co-operation with the operators means higher wages and prosperity for both. Instead, the union leaders have tried to drive a wedge between the operators and the miners.

The miners, or any other laborers, should be protected in their right to strike, but co-operation with the operators should remove the necessity for strikes.

Coal is England's greatest reserve of wealth. One-third of the country's coal can be mined at a profit on the existing basis, one-third can be mined without loss, but the other third can be mined only at a loss.

The cost of production has risen because of poor management, because the operators have not had direct control of their mines. It will continue to rise as long as the trade unions continue to work at variance with capital.

The country has reached the limit of government interference, and the result has been only to cripple the mines and industry. The English are sick of the subsidy and the dole.

I am certain the strike is over, so far as its effectiveness goes. Any kind of a formal settlement now depends on the adroitness of A. J. Cook, secretary of the miners' federation. A great many of the politicians are afraid of him, and the tendency of the miners is, of course, to give their leaders a chance to save their faces.

It seemed to me, too, that the other British workers are tired of pulling the oar for the miners. If the English miners cannot stand the competion with other countries, cannot work as long hours and produce as much, the industry is done for there.

If work does it, Germany will come back. The German miners, naturally, are willing to contribute to the British strikers, for the strike has done a lot to help the industry in Germany.

For the next four or five months, however, this country will continue to serve British markets. Cheap fuel and low rates were responsible for the strength of the British merchant marine before the strike, and it was impossible for the United States to compete with it in export business.

Our exporters during the strike have been selling to British markets, principally in the Argentine, despite the fact that the shipping board has raised the rates.

Once More War Stalks In Seething Balkans

By JACKSON V. JACOBS.
Central Press Correspondent.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—More trouble. And again the Balkans are the root of it.

In some respects the present situation which involves Bulgaria and her immediate neighbors, Yugoslavia, Greece and Rumania resembles the situation of 1914 which brought on the Great War. Then Austria-Hungary sent an ultimatum to Serbia threatening invasion unless the latter dissolved a certain organization and prevented its activities in the Dual Monarchy. Now a Greater Serbia is similarly threatening Bulgaria. So far the public has been kept in ignorance of the real danger by the forces engendering it, each hoping to have the league pronounce in its favor—some working openly, some in secret—until now the league must exercise all its ingenuity and authority if peace is to prevail.

What has been openly done includes the dispatch of repeated petitions to the league by Macedonian organizations asking for an autonomous administration in Macedonia, either under the league or as a political entity in a Balkan federation and the identic note dispatched to Bulgaria by Yugoslavia, Rumania and Greece the other day objecting to the activities of the Macedonian organizations on their frontiers and requesting their supression.

What has been done secretly concerns the dispatch of a note by Yugoslavia to Bulgaria and lodged with the league, warning both Bulgaria and the league that unless

King Boris's Bulgarian government governmeit dissolved the Macedonian Interior Revolutionary organization alleged to be functioning in Bulgaria and prevented the alleged border raids of its Comitadji bands Yugoslavia would be obliged to end the intolerable situation herself.

Also lodged with the league are a Bulgarian petition that he league send a commission to investigate the complaints made in the identic note; a refusal of the signatories of the note to accept such a commission; finally, the offer of Bulgaria to surrender her part of Macedonia if Yugoslavia and Greece will do the same with theirs—all in the interest of the self government Macedonia demanded by her revolutionary organization.

In widely different ways both government and organization hope to achieve the same end; the intervention of the League of Nations—the government by scrupulously observing terms of the treaty and the advice of the league and of the Council of Ambassadors and the organization by harassing those whom it considers usurpers in Macedonia through appeals of the league propaganda abroad and military operations against Serbs and Greeks.

BUILD SCHOOL AUTHORIZED BY BOND ISSUE VOTE

Wilkinsburg School Under Way As Result Of Vote At Recent Election

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Work on the new grade school provided for in the $1,000,000 bond issue approved by Wilkinsburg voters recently, is well under way, and with excavation nearly finished the actual construction work will begin soon. It is on the northeast corner of Wallace avenue and Mill street. The building is expected to be opened in September, 1927.

At present the grade school is housed in the Horner school on the opposite corner but this school, originally planned to accommodate 700 junior high school students, now accommodates 1,000 and is overcrowded. An addition to the high school also is provided for in the bond issue. This will cost $650,000 and work on it will soon be started.

The grade school now being built will cost $350,000. The building will have 16 school rooms and an auditorium to seat 500 persons. Rest rooms for the teachers and pupils also will be provided. It will be of two stories and will be of light fire-proof brick. Miss Mary H. Gibson is the principal. Alden & Harlow are the architects, and the Pittsburgh Construction & Engineering company the contractor.

The evil element in a community is the one that breaks one set of laws while nice people break another.

Maharajah Plans Irish Rice Fields

(International News Service)

DUBLIN, Aug. 28.—Ireland is to have its own rice fields. The damp climate and swampy ground of Connemarra has been selected as the most desirable spot and cultivation is to begin at once.

The Maharajah Jam Sahib of Nawanager, known to cricket fans as "Ranji," is sponsoring the scheme.

The Maharajah bought Ballynahinch Castle a year ago and promised to live on and develop the famous estate for six months every year.

He brought over a retinue of Indian servants and among them was a rice expert who announced that the climate and nature of soil was in every way suitable for rice cultivation.

Without delay the Maharajah set his scheme working and laid out the rice fields. There is more rain than sun in Connemarra, but the Maharajah says it only takes ten days sun to harden the rice pods, and that's just about all they get in Connemarra.

Agricultural experts are watching the experiment. It may be tried in England.

A TRAINLOAD of Maytag Washers for WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

A Solid Trainload Purchase of Maytag Washers

THE largest number of washers of one model and make ever brought into Western Pennsylvania. Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of Maytags contained in this huge trainload. One of the Maytags in this trainload is for you—to lighten your household burdens—to wash for you cleaner and faster, more easily, more thoroughly and with less wear and tear.

Wash cleaner in one-half the time

The Maytag gyrafoam principle has set an entirely new standard of time and cleanliness in washing whole tubfuls in three to seven minutes; anything and everything in ten minutes; a whole washing, fifty pounds of clothes (dry weight) in one short hour. Constant soapier water action in every inch of the tub, all of the time, washes out thoroughly the ground-in dirt of work-clothes or play-clothes.

A gentleness unmatched by human hands

The cast-aluminum tub has no corners, seams, corrugations or crevices to harm sheer silks, fine fabrics or delicate georgettes. While the gyratator principle creates, with ordinary laundry soap, a super-cleansing washing solution which is forced naturally through the meshes of the clothes without scrubbing, rubbing, dragging or pounding.

Wash collar and cuff bands without rubbing

No need with the Maytag to finish your washing on the back-breaking scrub board. All clothes come out thoroughly clean — neck-bands, collar bands, cuff-bands — all as snowy white as you could desire.

Photograph of trainload of Maytag washers

For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

The Lure of Jazz

By Joella Johnson

AND I've a splendid cabinet phonograph—with all the latest records. It would look just wonderful with your mahogany furniture."

The latest young woman to answer Joan Jarvis' advertisement for a roommate was confident that her advent would be all that could be necessary to make a two-girl Eden out of the tiny flat.

Joan herself had thought at first that his applicant, whose pleasant face made up for an almost too peppy manner, might suit. Then came the news of the phonograph.

"I'm sorry," said Joan, firmly. "But I've decided not to share the suite, after all."

As her caller, slightly ruffled, retreated down the stairs, Joan closed the door, crossed the room in three swift strides, and slammed the windows firmly shut. It was warm weather for September, and the apartment was none too airy anyway. The heat, however, was not what was worrying Joan. That attractive young lady had several unpleasant things to think about.

She curled herself on the couch. Through the half shut transom over the door filtered the rasping refrain of some phonographic soprano who was wailing to the world her discomfort over being "All Alone."

Joan rose and closed the transom. Still the persistent, tinny rhythm reached her ears. Through the shut windows came an assortment of other mechanical melodies. Even the plastered ceiling seemed a futile bulwark against the measured beat of a popular "Blues" record.

Phonographs! Joan muffled her head in pillows and thought hateful thoughts of the men who made the noisy things, the folks who played them, and the landlords who permitted them.

She'd had some hopes of a congenial association with the girl who had answered her ad., until that remark about the phonograph. There were "Blues" enough being broadcasted from 49 other apartments in the building without having an extra dose of them first hand.

It had been a long hard day at the office, the boss more exacting than ever, the routine of secretarial duties more depressing.

"Almost 11 o'clock," reflected Joan, after a glance at her wristwatch. "I've dozed all evening. Oh, well, why not. There was nowhere to go, or anybody to go with."

Her head ached worse. Opening the windows, she leaned out for a few deep breaths of fresh air. The stars were bright, the back court view mercifully shadowed, and the silence restful.

Joan felt almost at peace.

"Umm-eee-whirr!" sounded a sudden preliminary from an apartment just below.

Joan jumped. Her fists clenched nervously. Could it be? At this hour?

With all the stridency that an extra-loud needle could furnish, the phonograph downstairs blared into the "Blues" that Joan hated worst.

"Slam!" went her windows shut, but they were inadequate barriers. The canned saxophone still wailed unsquelched.

Indignant, Joan dashed to the wall phone and pushed the janitor's button. She was not a chronic complainant, but this midnight concert business was too much. She jabbed the button with a peevish thumb.

She'd show that person just where he or she got off. She rehearsed the wording of her protest.

Still the janitor didn't answer.

Gossiping no doubt, with his cronies of some neighboring building. She'd have to wait until morning.

She loosened her hair, preparatory to bed. The jazzy temp of the merciless machine downstairs still harrassed her. She could never sleep with that noise.

Fired with a sudden determination, she tidied herself hastily and stormed out to the hallway. She'd have the satisfaction, anyway, of telling the owner of that instrument as much as was lady-like of what she thought of her or him.

Her hand was on the knob of the flat below, when she hesitated. The phonograph was still playing that tune that she most detested. Something in the rendition caught her attention.

Unmistakably it repeated itself. A measured clickety-clack as the record turned. Just the sort of horrid noise that always comes from a disc that has been cracked. But this dissonance was familiar. As familiar and as accursing as the hateful melody itself.

She turned to retreat, but she wasn't quick enough. The door flung open and a tall, bathrobe-draped figure loomed over her. A firm hand grasped her shoulder.

"Who is it?" boomed a command-

"Let me go!" squeaked Joan.

"Wait till I look at you," ordered her captor. None too gently he tilted up her drooping head.

Half an hour later, they were still sitting side by side on the top stair.

"I really never meant to be so mean," Joan was explaining unnecessarily. "I didn't really care a tiny bit if you liked grand opera or not."

"But—"

"Every girl likes to make her hero over, somehow. That's why I scolded you about your fondness for ragtime. I really loved the time the old crowd had at your mother's house, dancing to that same old phonograph."

"You smashed the record the day we quarreled," grinned the downstairs apartment's owner. "But I patched it up and kept it."

"After you'd gone away," confessed Joan, "I used to hate it. It made me feel so lonesome. At last I couldn't stand staying at home, so I got a job here in Boston."

"So you were lonesome?" whispered the voice that had boomed so crossly not long before. "Well, you won't be any more."

Quite a long pause.

"So," said the big voice, after a while, "I'll get the license tomorrow, sell what junk we both have here, and we'll shop together for the furnishings of our brand new bungalow."

"Don't sell everything," pleaded Joan, softly. "We'll want the phonograph and that cracked old record. I always did love those special 'Blues.'"

Felt Safe.

It is generally conceded that it takes a certain amount of "brass" to succeed on stage or screen, in other words, to be free from self-consciousness, and this may account for some of the remarkable success of Valentino.

When Rudy was getting his first start, at Universal, Director Rex Ingram remarked:

"One of these days you'll get your big chance and I hope you'll go over with a bang, because you seem to be free from that professional conceit which promotes jealousy."

"Well," answered Valentino, "to tell you the truth, I haven't seen any actors around here whose work suggested any reason whatever for my being jealous."

Autumn Reflections

By Claire Wesson

PENELOPE CAREY looked like a bit of the Autumn landscape herself, in her scarlet sweater and tam. A keen wind was blowing, sending down showers of gaily colored leaves on her bent head. But she did not mind, for her rapid footsteps were bearing her toward a hot supper, and her sister.

They had been busy this morning, she, hurrying to school to correct some of yesterday's papers, and Pauline, scurrying around the already immaculate little house, getting it ready for her music pupils.

But now they had all the evening before them in which to talk about their wonderful gift.

She was so excited at the thought that she even hurried by Daddy Erwin's fearful lest he or some of the children rush out to greet her. But no one did. The shabby old house, with its many windows, looked strangely sad and still. At the thoughts of the old man who lived there, her brown eyes grew sober, and her mouth looked grim. But, suddenly, with a laugh and a quick backward look, she started to run.

"I thought you might like supper in the living room, Pen. I've got a fire going in there."

"I certainly would. Polly. I can't wait to taste those griddle cakes and syrup. I've just been dreaming here."

"I've been in a daze myself," Pauline confessed. "Ever since that letter from Uncle Charles came. There! Everything is ready. Pour the chocolate, will you, and see if I put the napkins on?"

"You never made such good ones, sis," said Penelope, helping herself to another hot cake.

Pauline's eyes wandered around the room with its pretty furnishings and huge fireplace.

"Pen," she said, "I think a good way to spend the thousand dollars Uncle Charles left us—would be to buy a piano. It would look better than that old antique one."

Penelope leaned her arms on the table and gazed into the fire.

"A thousand dollars," she murmured. "Oh, isn't it like a fairy gift? We have always been so poor, and we never had anything pretty like other girls. And the mortgage on the house—just paid off last month. A piano would be lovely, but mother liked the old one."

"I know. Would you rather take that course in writing, Pen? Uncle said that it was to be spent for what would give us the most pleasure."

"I think it would do you more good to go abroad for six weeks. We could take one of those student cruises. And you could study music."

Both sisters sat silent, smiling at their fancies.

Suddenly Pauline half whispered, "We forgot. They are going to send Daddy Erwin to the poorhouse and take the five children he's helping. They cost him so much, and the store isn't paying. He trusts everybody." She paused and looked away.

"That's what you get for being good?" Penelope asked. "He's been father to this whole town for 55 years. And those children were left orphans. It's the first time they've been happy in their lives."

"He said that if he could only get a thousand dollars somewhere he could keep the children and start again," Pauline faltered.

Their eyes met. Clear, clear, shining eyes they were, filled with a sudden mist and tenderness. They had known that this would be!

"It wouldn't be so hard to give it up. It would take him years to pay it back, but he's doing more than we are. And we have youth—and mother's memory. That's something to live by. We can't ever be really sad or poor when we know that mother would do it, because it's the happiest way."

"Guess I'm getting sentimental in my old age," said Penelope, dashing away a tear and slipping into her sweater. She carried in her sister's coat, ready now to go to "Daddy's."

Pauline stooped over the fire to turn the blazing log, a smile on her thin face. As her sister entered the room the fire suddenly blazed up, filling the place with its warmth and light. And the carved words of their mother's choosing, engraved over the mantel, seemed to stand worth with a glory all their own—

"He who joy would win,
Must share it. Happiness was born a twin."

Firelight or Limelight?

By Clyde Weldon

CAROL DEAN received her college diploma with no thought of following the vocation for which she was fitted. But what her plans were only she knew, for hers was one of those quiet and reserved natures which make few friends and no confidants.

She was not popular with other girls, and the boys, with one exception found her utterly impossible. But Jimmy Macklin persisted in his attentions in spite of all, as might be expected of a man who had earned the sobriquet of "Bulldog" Macklin on the football team.

By adroit questioning Jimmy had learned that Carol was an orphan; that she had lived with an uncle until she came to the university. Shortly afterward the uncle had died leaving all he possessed to her with the understanding that she continue her college course, and what money remained would come into her possession on the day she finished. After that loomed a big question mark.

But East is East and West is—where Jimmy Macklin came from, and to where he was finally obliged to return, though he did so with reluctance and disappointment, for Carol would give him neither encouragement or enlightenment as to her future.

"But I want to write you," Jimmy pleaded.

"Well, write me," Carol replied; then added, "but don't mail it, because I'd never receive it."

So they had parted. But down in a little corner of Carol's heart was a niche that Jimmy Macklin still occupied. She tried to oust him but with bulldog tenacity he still clung. However, in the excitement of carrying out her secret plans she did succeed in forgetting him temporarily.

Her guardian, an old lawyer, shook a doubtful head as he handed her $1,100, all that remained of her father's estate, and gazed sadly over his steel-rimmed glasses at her ill-concealed contempt for his kindly counsel.

"A pretty girl with $1,100 is in grave danger alone in a large city," was his final admonition.

"I think that I am able to take care of myself," she boasted, and was gone.

A few weeks later, on a July day, several young ladies sat in a room outside the office of the casting director of a big motion picture company in Hollywood. All had their eyes on a door marked "private." They were untrained, inexperienced girls waiting for "extra" work. Close scrutiny would have revealed one as Carol Dean, but a decidedly different looking Carol from the campus of the university had known. The plain, simple dress then affected had given way to a gorgeous costume, her hair had been bobbed and the pink of her cheeks was not that created by the winds of Maine.

She had just arrived, yet only $500 remained in her purse. That was the beginning. Week after week went by. Each day the director would open the door and say: "Nothing today, ladies," or "I can place you," indicating one, then, to the others, "Sorry, but you are not the type."

One by one the unfortunates had drifted away and their places taken by others. Carol stuck firmly to her post through many weary weeks. And each day her thoughts centered more and more around Jimmy; she wished she had told him more, wished she knew where he was. He had not told her where he lived as she had not evinced any interest. But he was always talking about little white cottages with big fireplaces; wide shade trees; great flower beds and pebbly walks between green hedges. She thought of these things as the weeks dragged on. Finally, one morning, her landlady stopped her and bluntly told her not to return unless she was prepared to pay her rent.

Pay her rent! She looked in her purse and found 10 cents. It stood between her and starvation! But she went to the studio and remained until late in the afternoon, and when she did leave she started blindly off into the country, going on and on. Darkness overtook her, but she did not pause until the lights of an approaching car nearly blinded her. Then she staggered off the road and fell exhausted.

The car, dust covered, stopped, and the driver, a rough looking youth, went over and examined Carol by the aid of a flashlight. A sharp exclamation escaped his lips and, muttering something under his breath, he picked her up, placed her in the seat and they went roaring down the road. A few miles farther on he turned off the main road into another that wound far up into the hills.

When Carol regained consciousness, she found herself on a couch before a fireplace in which a fire crackled cheerfully. Her eyes moved slowly around until they rested upon a little, grayhaired woman quietly rocking and knitting, the long needles flashing in the firelight. Carol stirred and the old lady was beside her instantly, a glass in her hand.

"Drink this," she urged smiling, "and you'll soon feel better."

"But where am I?" asked Carol, uneasily.

"Where you belong," answered a man, striding around in front of her, "and where you are going to stay, if you ask me."

"Jimmy!" she cried, then fell back and the room grew dark again.

On the following evening the two sat on the wide veranda looking off across the California hills. She had told him of her ambition to be a movie star, her yearning for the limelight, and her failure to secure even extra work, and he had listened without interruption.

"Hearthlight is better than limelight," he said, when she had finished. "And if you are strong enough, tomorrow we will go see the minister."

"Minister?"

"Why, yes; we're going to be married right away, you know."

"And I suppose that I've nothing to say about it?" in the old rebellious tone.

"Not a thing," answered Jimmy, grimly.

She was silent a moment, her head bowed, then: "Very well," she sighed.

And Jimmy did.

Eternal Question.

Senator Wadsworth of New York said at a Washington banquet:

"Russia won't be recognized by the American government till the American people demand its recognition—and the people make no such demand at present.

"A Red was orating one night from a soap box.

"'There's famine in Russia,' he shouted, 'and our Bolshevik brothers are starving. Who will help them? Who will give them their meals?'

"'Who,' yelled a heckler, 'will give them their deserts?'"

Local Color

By Parke Whitney

STIILL gunnin' for local color?" mischievously inquired Whiz Whittaker, storekeeper and postmaster, as the Summer girl came up the steps.

"Did you ever know a hermit?" asked Isabel Treat, solemnly. "Why is a hermit and what is he like?"

She apparently never tired of the stories Whiz produced, or manufactured, from his store of forest lore, hunting experiences and local happenings.

"Curious," said Whiz, "I did know a hermit once. Lived over in the woods a piece, back of that old meetin' house in the roadside clearin'. Remember? Most folks thought he was crazy—and he did have crazy spells. He gave me the most terrifyin' experience of a long and eventful life. 'Twas like this, Miss Treat: I was footin' it out o' the woods 'fore Christmas—a 20-mile tramp. A snowstorm struck, last o' the afternoon, and the goin' was pretty heavy. I'd got as far as Prestonville and there was a three-mile stretch of woodland between me and home. Halfway through the woods, the dark came down so quick I couldn't see my hand before me. I couldn't keep the road, and wandered off, 'til first thing I knew I stumbled over the steps of the old meetin' house. I knew there was a box stove in there and prob'ly some wood, so, I got around to the side door that's never locked, and went in.

"I'd just stepped in when I heard a deep groan. If my mouth had been open my heart woulda jumped out.

"There was a dim white light around the pulpit and while I stood there like a dummy, too scared to move, a terrible voice shrieked, 'Sacrifice! Sacrifice!'

"Now, I'm telling you, Miss Treat, I left there mighty sudden. Snow, nor wind, nor dark made no difference to me. I was gettin' right away from that place. And, would you believe it? when I got home I didn't have no mackinaw on! Went back next mornin' and found it standin' in the road all buttoned up. Honest, I was so scared I'd run plumb out of it."

Miss Treat bit her lip violently, but remained quiet, staring out into the sunshine in valiant emulation of the imperturbable Whiz.

"I did go back next mornin' when it was too late," Whiz resumed, self-accusingly. "It was my old hermit perished with the cold, lyin' there by the preacher's desk, where he'd set his old lantern."

Miss Treat leaned forward breathlessly. The story had taken an unexpected turn.

"Didn't anyone ever know anything about him?" she asked.

"I knew him most," he said. "I used to stay with him, times I was huntin'. Called himself Isaiah. Wasn't so crazy, only once in a while."

The girl questioned still more urgently.

"Did you ever hear the name Isaiah Treat?"

Whiz nodded, his eyes now intent upon her. She tugged at the chain around her neck and drew out an old-fashioned locket which she held open, toward him. He nodded again.

"That's Isaiah," he said, "with his hair and whiskers trimmed."

"Isaiah Treat was my grandfather," began the girl. "When I was five and my sister eight, we lived with him. Grandfather had a bad, ungrateful brother who gave him much trouble. I know this story only as it was told to me. Grandfather suffered with his head at times because of an old hurt. For some unexplained reason he had drawn a large sum of money from the bank and had it in the safe in his room, Wakened by some one at the safe, he fired at the thief—killed him as he believed. The thief was his own brother. It is supposed that, confused by the old head-trouble, grandfather took the money from the safe and went away with his fright and remorse. He was never found. The brother recovered and lived some years."

"My turn now," said Whiz. "How old are you? Twenty-five. That's right. Twenty years ago. Old Isaiah had some sort of trouble. Used to go to the church and mourn about it. Ever see this?"

He produced a soiled leather pocket book which contained a few papers, coins, and the half of a one-cent piece.

"Lend me your car for 15 minutes," said Isabel Treat.

She was back in the allotted time, and opening her closed hand, showed the half of a tarnished penny, strung on a faded ribbon.

"Grandfather and I had them for luck," she explained. "Just a little girl's play."

Whiz matched the halves carefully. They fitted perfectly. Glancing up, he surprised the tears in the girl's eyes.

"It was grandfather!" she said. "How pitiful, I've always thought he might have come here, since I knew he was born in this neighborhood."

"That was why you were so interested in local color," said Whiz, shrewdly. He ruffled his iron gray hair meditatively.

Then he said. "There's a few things of Isaiah's in a safe deposit box at the bank. You ride up with me. He showed me where he kept 'em hid and said his girls would come for 'em some day. I swore not to tell."

Whiz came back to the car with a worn, old, leather handbag.

"It's all there," he said soberly. "I looked out for him afterward and paid expenses. I advertised some but it didn't get me anywhere. Then I figured that where old Isaiah was so set on savin' this or some one, why, some day somethin' would steer 'em down this way. If you live in the woods a lot, you get to know things without knowing how you know."

"You mean this is money?" asked the girl, aghast at the utter simplicity of his outlook. "And you've kept it for me all these years?"

"Sho, now!" said Whiz. "I couldn't break a promise, could I? And we're still kind of honest, down here."

Spicy Path.

The late Frances Hodgson Burnett of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" fame disapproved of psycho-analysis with its erotic horrors, and at a tea at her beautiful estate at Plandome, L. I., she said one day:

"It shocks me to see the multitude of mediocre young writers who get themselves called geniuses by writing psycho-analytical novels. It is so easy nowadays to win fame. You only need to write a feeble novel dealing with nasty sex questions a la Freud."

Mrs. Burnett sighed and shook her head.

"The path of fame used to be steep and difficult," she said, "but now everybody shoots up to the top in a swift and luxurious funicular."

Whispers of Love

By Phil Moore

YOUR Walter was just a kid flyin' kites when I saw him last. you say he is 30 now and not married? Well, perhaps he is not the marryin' kind. So much the better for you, Sarah, you bein' a widow and so nicely fixed here with him, your only child."

Caroline Baxter, neighbor to Sarah Adams in years gone by, having, by means of many questions, caught up with the Adams family history, settled back comfortably in the wing chair and surveyed the cozy living room with its up-to-date rugs, draptries, lamp-shades, piano and radio.

"No, Caroline, I don't feel that way. He's doing well in the insurance business, and I want him to have all the joy of young love and married life with children of his own. I can't be with him always, and I want him to have loved ones near him to the end."

"Ain't he ever been in love?"

"Not that I know of. He seems to like girls well enough. Can't do enough for them when there is a crowd but never singles anyone out for his attentions. Seems perfectly happy at home with his little garden and odd jobs around the house

"There was a mighty nice girl next door for a while that I hoped he would fancy. But when I asked him about her he said, 'Imagine me running around with her! I would feel like an electric fan in a blizzard! So unnecessary, you know,' That girl was some hummer—most of them are these days. 'Well,' I said 'there is that May Raynolds who is visiting in town; she's sweet and quiet and helpless enough, and seems to like you.' Walter said. 'That girl likes anybody—just like the ducks in the park when you feed them.'

"I told him he was too hard to suit, but he said that was not the trouble. He couldn't imagine anyone wanting him around forever."

"Merciful heavens!" screamed Mrs. Baxter—not at the last remark, but at the sight of a cat coming into the room with no hair on its tail and not much on its body.

"What is that critter, Sarah?"

"Oh, just one of Walter's pets. He's always bringing in some injured bird or beast to care for. He rescued this cat from some fire. Found her dragging her kittens from the blaze. In that cage is a hummingbird with a broken wing, and he has a dog with a wooden leg."

After a cup of tea Mrs. Baxter departed.

Walter was late coming home that night. He was unusually preoccupied, and said little until he began helping his mother clear away the dishes—the time when confidences between them took place.

"Mother, can we take care of another pet for a while? You know the Hitchcock house where the fire was the other day. I was there this afternoon settling claims. I found that Mrs. Hitchcock was so badly burned that they had taken her to the hospital, and her niece who had just come to stay with her is alone in the house. She has no home. She was burned, too, in trying to save the old lady. The doctor said her burns were superficial and would soon heal. But her hair and eyebrows are gone and she is afraid the smoke has injured her eyes. She doesn't want anyone to see her. She's frightened at everything and I think she is a nervous wreck. You'd know just what to do for her better than any doctor."

Walter was setting the butter into the oven instead of into the refrigerator. His mother noticed this but said nothing, for she read the sign.

"I'll go over with you this evening, if you like, and see what can be done."

"Another singed cat," thought Mrs. Adams, when she saw the poor frightened girl with her head and most of her face concealed by a cap and bandages, and her eyes covered with great smoked glasses.

When she heard her sweet, appealing voice she understood why Walter had misplaced the butter.

Arrangements were soon made for bringing her to the Adams home.

What manner of girl Virginia really was could not be judged for many weeks. Just what would emerge from the coverings, in which she insisted on concealing her disfigured head at all times, was uncertain.

Under Mr. Adams' understanding and sympathetic care she gradually recovered her normal condition and fitted into the home life and light duties. Walter read to her and took her driving, though she slid into the rear seat out of sight.

One evening Walter asked Virginia to play for him while he helped his mother with the dishes. This time he began by scraping the good butter into the garbage pail, while he confided to his mother:

"I've asked Virginia to marry me, but she says I must wait for an answer till I've seen what she looks like, and if her eyes are all right. As if that made any difference!"

"Then you think you've found someone who won't mind having you around forever?"

"Well, you see, I want her around all the time and perhaps she needs me."

One bright June day Virginia burst from her chrysalis. She came into the garden where Walter was picking roses, and threw aside the cap and glasses which had hidden her so long. Soft new hair in golden ringlets covered her head, great blue eyes looked out merrily from half-grown dark lashes and straight eyebrows gave her an arch look.

Walter, overcome by the sudden transformation and perhaps feeling that he was losing his singed kitten, stepped back a pace.

Virginia held out her arms, "I will still need petting, Walter!"

"And loving," was all he could say, as he drew her to him.

A Big One.

To which she mournfully replied, "The biggest nought I ever saw."

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL.

Peter bit his lip and tried to swallow the lump in his throat. He hadn't at all intended to give the Camel away. And Dromda had just spoken to him as though he were the meanest fellow in the world—a Boy who would betray a friend.

At the sound Dromda the Camel felt ashamed of himself.

"I believe you," muttered he gruffly. "And I really wouldn't have carried you into the ravine, Two-Legs, if I could have shaken you from my back before Mother Elephant hit me. I only said that to scare you, cross-patch that I am. Look at Mrs. Elephant now! Isn't she the finest mother you ever saw?"

Close in under his mother's body stood the little Tusker, and now, after the danger was all over, he was frightened half to death. He shivered and shook and big tears ran down his trunk and splashed on the ground. And Mother Elephant was comforting her baby as best she knew how. She petted him and soothed him and sang to him a squeally lullaby, and by and by the little Tusker stopped trembling and smiled a little crooked smile.

"Well, Mother, where do we go from here?" grunted he, and Mother Elephant was so glad to see her son his own sunny self again that she threw up her trunk and trumpeted just as loud as she could.

"Home!" screamed she. "We are going home, baby, and just as fast as our feet can take us. All's well that ends well! Right about face! Mark time! Ready now, forward march!"

"Home, home, home and something to eat!" little Tusker waved his trunk and shambled his funny fat feet and down the mountain he started.

"Yes, sir, she's the lovingest mother in Four-Foot land," declared Dromda the Camel under his breath, following with his eyes Mrs. Elephant swaying in the wake of her small son—her great body a mighty bulwark for his defense—until the top of her tail disappeared from sight.

Kane Motorist Is Absolved In Death Of Man

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Sept. 3.—Daniel Sullivan an oil well drilling contractor of Wilcox today was absolved of blame at the coroner's inquest into the death of John McMahon, 50, a carpenter who died at Kane Summit hospital after being struck by Sullivan's automobile.

McMahon was crossing the street in front of his house when he was struck by the automobile, suffering a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Seize Two More Cars Of Alcohol

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 3.—Seizure of two additional cars of alcohol on the Lehigh Valley siding at Pittston was reported by local prohibition agents today, bringing the total for the last 24 hours to 20,000 gallons estimated to be worth $100,000.

Charles Hume, deputy administrator, was unable to furnish the name of the consignor or the consignee in the absence of J. D. Moore, chief field officer, who was in charge of the raid.

Like the two cars seized yesterday, the latest haul was sent to the government warehouse at Scranton for storage.

The seizures have suggested the operation of a booze ring locally.

FOUR BASEBALL GAMES HERE ON SATURDAY

New Castle To Play Agathons

Lawrence League Teams To Clash At Energy, Mahoningtown And Energy

TO CELEBRATE DAY AT MAHONINGTOWN

By ED. FRITZ

Major and minor league races are drawing to a close and the fans who love to hear the umpires razzed and the ball clouted, or see the pill go sailing by a bat have only a few more weeks to have their appetites whet.

Locally, the New Castle team of the O. & P. circuit is out of the flag race but despite this obvious fact the fans propose sticking to the team until the last tilt is played in the season is over.

In the Lawrence County loop Ellwood City has apparently cinched the bunting despite the hectic efforts of Neshannocks to fly back to the top of the league and like the O. & P. League, supporters are watching the Lawrence loop tussle.

Saturday afternoon four games will be played and owing to the fame which has surrounded Massillon the banner attraction will be staged at Centennial Field with the Agathons holding the visitors' angle.

Team Perks Up

Since the debut of two hurlers the New Castle team has perked up and has been playing better ball than in the middle of the season. The Massillon aggregation rarely fails to please.

It is probable that Grabfelder, dimunitive shortstop who may receive a tryout with Connie Mack's Athletics will cavort in his regular berth but Manager Bill Steen as yet has not decided what hurler will take the hill.

While this edible setto is transpiring three Lawrence County circuit contests will be under way and on account of their classy sandlot exhibitions all of the games will be featured by large crowds.

Ellwood City hops to Energy for the last time this season. Energy held the Neshannocks to a 3-3 deadlock Wednesday. A year ago they proved Ellwood's nemesis and hold hopes of beating Connie Wardman's aggregation Saturday.

To Honor Huff

While these teams are saying it with balls, strikes, hits and errors, Wampum with its unconquerable Bob Robertson will oppose alert Hub Hart and the Mahoning A. A. at Mahoningtown. This game promises class and a spectacular battle.

Not so very long ago Bessemer commenced playing rejuvenated baseball and since then has become a feared aggregation and at Bessemer they will play the Neshannocks who captured the championship last season.

The feature of the Saturday games in the Lawrence loop will be the staging of Jess Huff day at Mahoningtown. He has seen 30 years of diamond service and no doubt he will be the recipient of some token of appreciation from fans.

TILDEN AND CHAPIN WIN AT BROOKLINE

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 3. — For the first time since 1923 William T. Tilden reached within striking distance of the national doubles championship Thursday.

After falling for two successive years to carry youthful Sandy Wiener of Philadelphia beyond the third round, the national singles titleholder today won his way to the finals of the 1926 tournament with Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., as his partner, paddling through five sets over a wet court to defeat his veteran Far West rival, William M. Johnston, and the intercollegiate champion, Edward G. Chandler, at 6-3, 0-6, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Horse Drops Dead On Home Stretch

NORWALK, O., Sept. 3.—On the home stretch of the second heat of the 2:24 trot, at the Huron County fair, here, Peter Patter, a six-year-old bay gelding, by Czar Peter, with Frank A. Cares of Fremont up, burst a blood vessel and dropped dead within 100 feet of the wire.

The horse was third at that time. Peter Patter won the Michigan futurity event as a two-year-old.

Third U. P. Team Wins Forfeit Game

Epworth M. E. Team Fails To Appear For Regular Scheduled Contest

William Hanna, manager of the Third U. P. church league team, announced this morning that his team won by the forfeit route last night from the Epworth M. E. team,

The gas was regularly scheduled for last night at the Lehigh Portland field and Manager Hanna and his aggregation were on hand ready to do business.

Not a member of the opposing team appeared, according to Mr. Hanna and when it was getting late and it was apparent that the Epworth team would not be on deck, the game was declared forfeited to the Third U. P. team by the score of 9-0.

High Gridders To Entertain Parents

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Tonight is the night of all nights for the young High School hopeful, for the very simple fact that his "ma and pa" will be at Muddy Creek Falls to watch him go through his "this and that." Faculty Manager Ralph Gardner has been working hard all week on the "Parents Night" program and has it just about completed, was the word passed along today.

The celebration tonight providing Jupiter Pluvius minds his own business, will be elaborate in every detail. There will be speeches of all kinds, from all kinds of men, and probably some eats, and probably some fun, in fact the evening promises to be a large one from more than one standpoint.

Someone To Speak

Just who will do the talking tonight is not definitely known, in fact the writer is led to believe that there is some dark secret about the speeches, Gardner informed us of the "Parents Night" on Thursday and just casually announced that there would be speakers, just that and nothing more.

In case it don't rain the parents are asked to get out to the camp early in the afternoon if possible, and watch the boys practice, or play tennis or do anything they want to except take the "falls home," and then best of all the parents are asked to pack a picnic lunch; you know meat loaf, potato salad, sandwiches, and cake or pie just as the palate prefers and hie themselves into the camp and enjoy themselves to the full extent of the law.

Of course while this article is being written the sky has that down-trodden look as if at any minute a healthy deluge of rain-water may descend.

Now getting down to the serious business of talking sense the High School officials will appreciate it if the parents and friends of the boys go to camp tonight or this afternoon. They want the people of New Castle to know what is going on out there and no mistaking that fact for sausage.

Boys Show Effects

The boys have been out in the "open spaces" four days now, and they are beginning to show the effects, just like a "chorus girl putting on the war paint," only the boys are putting on a coat of tan or sunburn, and they are also learning something about football, and if they can't learn anything from Coach Bridenbaugh, Assistant Coaches Thomas and Klee then they will never know how to play football, because these three men know football, they know the game, they can teach it, and further than that they have their heart and soul back of everything that they do, so there you have the entire situation in a nutshell and just try to crack it. Anyway this is "Parents Night" in camp and the boys are expecting to see their parents and friends so don't disappoint them.

Gene Tunney Taking Things Easy In Camp

By FRANK F. O'NEILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 3.—Except for a brisk hike over the hills early this morning, Gene Tunney, challenger for the world's heavyweight championship, spent another day of idleness in his new camp at the Glenbrook Country Club here.

Tunney arose almost with the sun and covered five miles with long swinging strides, returning in time for a brisk rub-down from his trainer, Luie Fink, before breakfast. After that his work for the day was completed and he retired into seclusion with his beloved books as his only companions. He planned to reappear only in time to fulfill a promise made yesterday to pose for the camera men.

If the day proved fair enough the challenger said he might play a few holes of golf, but otherwise would do absolutely nothing but relax. Tunney feels that he already is a little too far advanced in his process of preparation, and with an intensive siege of training ahead of him desires to get a complete rest.

The challenger's retinue of camp mates was expected to be increased today with the arrival of several more sparring partners. Bud Gorman, Billy Vidabeck and Harold Mays, heavyweights, and Bryan Downey, welterweight, were due to arrive sometime during the day.

Osk Till, the fast and shifty boxer from Mount Vernon, arrived last night with Louie Fisk, the trainer, and Pants Lawrence, the Adirondack guide, who was transported from Speculator when Tunney changed his headquarters.

DAZZLER TAKES NASSAU STAKES

Superlette Wins Peconic Handicap; Long Shots Come Through

NEW YORK, Sept. 3. — Showing a liking for the sloppy track at Belmont Park here Thursday the Greentree stable's Dazzler romped away with the Nassau claiming stakes at a mile for 2-year-olds and upward. Laura Dianti of the Belair stud, the odds-on favorite could do no better than second, six lengths behind the winner. Sherman was third and Wampee, the only other starter, fourth. The time was 1:30 1-5.

Superlette took the Peconic handicap for all ages at six furlongs over Taps, with Earl Sande up. Celidon ran third. Storm King was the other starter.

The Lindenhurst purse for 2-year-old maidens was easy for Candy Pig, the favorite. Compensation was second and Montclair third. The five and a half furlongs was covered in 1:06 2-5. Bonnie Khayam won the Bellaire purse for 2-year-old fillies over the same distance.

Long shots had a field day at Lincoln Fields with Try Again paying $32.20, to win the seventh race; St. Charles, $25.50 to take the second and Damara, $15.50 to score in the third. Nabisco won $15.40 for every $2 bet of his admirers in the first race.

Bible Mission To Entertain Needy Mothers At Camp

Beginning on Monday, September 6, the Bible House Mission Band that is conducting tent camp meeting on the Pence farm on the Harlansburg road, will entertain poor widows and children. There will be free lunch and free transportation from their home and returning.

Those who plan to attend are asked to leave their name and address at the Mission, 10 East North street, and they will be called for.

The camp is located in a grove of beautiful trees. There are swings and plenty of water. It is a fine place for tired mothers with their children to have a good time.

Aldridge At His Father's Bedside

CINCINNATI, Sept. 3.—Vic Aldridge, hurler for the Pirates, now in a hectic chase for the National league pennant, is at the bedside of his father, at Terre Haute. He was summoned home from St. Louis by a telegram saying his father is lying at the point of death.

The Gridiron Magician — By Feg Murray

Last season was a rather sad experience for Knute Rockne and his Ramblers (as the much-traveled Notre Dame football team is called), for, after going through 1924 without a defeat in ten games, his 1925 varsity was whitewashed by the Army and Nebraska 27 and 17 to 0 respectively, and played a scoreless tie with Penn State. It was a bitter pill for the wily Rockne to swallow, but he took it like a man, without alibis, and developed the nucleus of a fine team for the coming season.

The developer of the famous "Four Horsemen" is a very remarkable man. In successive stages he has been a star end on the Norte Dame football team, an actor, and a member of the school band; head track coach and instructor in chemistry; assistant and finally head football coach, besides being a speech-maker and author. Thruout all these changes he has lost his hair, but kept his inventive turn of mind, his pleasing personality, and his sense of humor—hence his success. He was bound to come out on top!

Rockne loves to spring something new, yet there is a good sound reasoning behind everything he tries. He and Charles Dorais, a classmate, were the first to see the advantages of the forward pass, and, after a summer of practice, became the sensations of the football world. In 1921 Rockne sprunk his famous "shift" on the Army, and in 1924 and 1925 he upset rival elevens by throwing three and four full teams at them in the course of a single game.

Notre Dame, a school of only 2,300 students, should do much better this year than last. Not because they have any new quartet to take the place of the departed "Four Horsemen", not because the magician, Rockne, will still be with them to wave his wand of psychology, dynamic personality and inventive genius over their destiny.

Feg Murray Says—

Imagine a golfer playing a shot on the railroad tracks and hitting the third rail with his mid-iron.

The result probably wouldn't even bother him. Golfers are shock-proof.

DEMPSEY LOSES FIRST TILT WITH HIS EX-MANAGER

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Supreme Court Justice Walsh yesterday denied the motion of Jack Dempsey's attorney to vacate two warrants of attachment obtained by Jack Kearns against money and property owned by the heavyweight champion.

The attachment was obtained in connection with a suit for $333,333 brought against Dempsey by Kearns his former manager.

In denying the motion to vacate the warrants of attachment, Justice Walsh said:

"I am of opinion that sufficient facts are presented to show the existence of a contract between plaintiff and defendant, performance by plaintiff of the terms thereof, breach of the defendant and consequent damage to plaintiff."

Kearns claims in his suit that he is entitled to recover $333,333.34 from Dempsey for alleged breach of contracts to fight Harry Wills and Gene Tunney, before his term as manager expired early yesterday morning. Justice Walsh also denied a motion by Dempsey's attorney to compel Kearns to increase the amount of bond filed by him in his suit.

FRANKIE FRISCH TO FEEL WRATH OF JOHN McGRAW

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Capt. Frank Frisch of the New York Giants has been fined $500 for leaving his team without permission in St. Louis two weeks ago, team officials announced... Manager John McGraw said that Frisch would return to the team today.

In a statement given out by the officials, it was pointed out that the fine was necessarily imposed as the result of Frisch's deserting the club, but that in view of Frisch's good conduct and satisfactory services previously, no further action would be taken. However, Frisch will lose his salary for the time he has been absent from the Giants.

Make Plans For New Major League

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Tom O'Rourke, veteran boxing promoter declared today that he inended to accept the presidency of the New York club in the reported organization of a third major league, said to be ready to take the field next season. O'Rourke said major league territory would be invaded in New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Cincinnati and that the four remaining franchises would be allotted to International league towns yet to be selected.

He also declared that John Conway Toole president of that organization had been offered a post with the outlaws but had declined.

Frontier League Is Haven For Outlaws

By LOUIS R. CURRAN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—Merrie olde Sherwood Forest, the haven of Robin Hood, Friar Tuck, Little John and other famous outlaws, has a modern counterpart in the Frontier league of the great southwest.

The prescribed gentry of the present day, however aren't fugitives from the sheriff; they are players banned by Organized baseball for real and alleged offenses.

Hall Chase, Jimmy O'Connell, Chick Gandil, Buck Weaver, Lefty Williams, Tom Seaton, Hap Felsch, and Swede Risberg are names almost as familiar to the baseball fan as Babe Ruth, Rogers Hornsby and Dazzy Vance.

Jimmy O'Connell, the Giants' $75,000 beauty, who was banned by Kenesaw Mountain Landis for mistaking Heinie Sand for "one of the boys" is packing the denizens of the alkali wastes into the stands by pasting the ball for a batting average of .500. O'Connell is with the Chino Copper Co. team of Hurley, N. M.

Peerless Ball.

Hal Chase although over 40, rises to difficult plays like the "Peerless Hal" of 20 years ago. Chase is first baseman for Douglas, Ariz.

Chick Gandil and Buck Weaver who figured in the White Sox scandal of several years ago are both hitting around .400 Gandil is manager of the Fort Baird, N. M. team.

Lefty Williams another White Sox player up to the time of the 1919 scandal, had some trouble with his throwing arm early this season but has rounded into shape and has pitched good ball of late.

Tom Seaton who was dropped by San Francisco is now manager for Bisbee. Seaton, the league's leading pitcher went to Bisbee from Juarez.

Hap Felsch and Swede Risberg are recent arrivals in Douglas.

Bill Murphy, pitcher is not an ineligible. He recently joined the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast league after pitching most of the season for the Douglas team of the frontier circuit.

Business Better.

"The attendance in the Frontier league was rather poor" Murphy observed "until the clubs signed up the famous ineligibles. Then it picked up considerably. Jimmy O'Connell is packing the fans into the parks because of his sensational hitting. He gets a base hit on nearly every ball thrown him and cracks the pill so hard even the good infielders are scared.

"The league doesn't have to depend on gate receipts for all its financing The Chino Copper Co. at Hurley puts up $4,000 a month for the games played at Hurley while the Copper Queen Co. at Bisbee helps pay for the contests there.

"The best catcher in the league" Murphy concluded, "is a young Mexican named Arzatti who is handling the Juarez squad."

There are six clubs in the league, Bisbee and Douglas (Arizona); Ft. Baird and Hurley (New Mexico); El Paso (Texas) and Juarez (Old Mexico.) Three games a week are played.

Men who never have been in organized baseball are free to play in the Frontier league and then sign contracts with "regular" clubs.

Here And There In Sports Land

By ED. FRITZ

Fate has played many queer pranks in the boxing game and the "jane" who helps "make and break" may put in an appearance when Tunney and Dempsey clash in the Philadelphia spectacle, or fistic extravanganza.

Boys who hammer typewriters relative to making the fight a success from a dollar and cent angle and who help fighters grow rich and fat apparently have overlooked one angle of the coming embroglio.

For the past ten or twelve years the ring ahs been conspicuous for its absence of gratuity, many champions having "fired" the men who piloted them from bread and coffee to choice foods and much wealth.

Jess Willard hopped away from the men who made him and when he fought Dempsey he had a half score of inexperienced men handling his end of the fight and he was decrowned by Dempsey.

"I'll be a fighting champion" said Dempsey through Jack Kearns his manager, but since then Jack the Fighter has "canned" Jack, the manager and he will enter against Tunney with Jack Normile as his boss-all.

Johnny Kilbane parted from Jimmie Dunn and the first time he defended his toga resulted in his downfall, the French fighter, Eugene Criqui winning the battle in New York city.

Will the same fate that followed Willard, Kilbane and others pull Dempsey down? It is a cinch that no one knows Dempsey like Kearns. No difference what anyone may say about Kearns, he knows Dempsey from D to Y.

Tonight at Erie New Castle has a representative of the fistic game making a how-d-you do to fandom He is Kid Cangle a typical Dime fighter —plenty of "sock" and teeming with action. He is scheduled to fight Frankie Garcia a tough lad. Cangle said yesterday:

"I'm anxious to get in there and when I hear the first bell I start. I'm not afraid of anybody they put up against me. I'm no pink tea fighter and I don't expect to come out unscarred. Anytime I start there'll be a fight."

If rain keeps pouring down the New Castle club will not get a chance to show their Chebula or Hospidore new pitchers. Rain has accomplished much toward putting the team in a financial slump but being resourceful the club is not on the rocks financially. Every time rain stops a tilt the local club is forced to dig in the coffers and pay out a rain guarantee. One official put it thusly: "Everything going out and nothing coming in."

Imperials Down Willow Grove 6-5

The Imperials defeated Willow Grove 6 o 5 in a game played Thursday night on the Willow Grove field. Lewis on the mound for the Imperials pitched a masterful game allowing but four hits and fanning five men.

The Imperials won the game by bunching hits in the first three innings, while the Willow Grove team got to Lewis for enough hits in the second inning to produce five runs.

Jack Dempsey Plans Intensive Training

By GEORGE BARRY.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 3. —The roadway to Jack Dempsey's chin continues to be as wide as the Grand Canyon, all of which caused a rather youthful writer of sportive items to remark to Jack:

"Gosh, you're kind of easy to hit."

The champion fixed him with a quizzical glance and then shot out: "Sure I'm easy to hit—and so's the side of a wall. But it doesn't get anybody anywhere to hit a wall. It isn't geting my sparring partners much and it's going to get Tunney less.

"Of course he'll hit me unless I knock him over with the first few punches. But it won't get him anything in the end except perhaps an extra shellacking."

Dempsey had a rather intensive sesion planned for today and said if he felt really frisky and decided he needed some strenuous exercise he would box ten or a dozen rounds.

Pennsy Shop Old-Time Players Asked To Report

The following players of the famous old Pennsy Shop ball club are requested to be present at the E. and A. Division lot in Mahoningtown, Saturday, September 4, to take part in a preliminary game with the Mahoning A. A. club of the Lawrence County League. Jess Huff, Sr., "Lefty" Park, W. D. Evans, Jack Griffith, Don McElwain, Ray Rhodes, Tommy O'Brien, Ed "Lefty" Woods, Mike Mescal, A. Genger, B. Genger and C. Genger.

If any members of the old team have been overlooked those sponsoring the game urgently request them to report and a place will be found for them in the lineup. The game will be called at 2:45 p. m., D. S. time. The game will precede the regularly scheduled fracas between Wampum and the M. A. A.

Huff and C. Genger are the only two men still playing ball. Huff, who incidentally is the oldest player in the County League, is still putting up a creditable game at third for the M. A. A. while Genger is swatting the apple with a Sharon outfit.

Any player wishing further particulars may secure them by calling S. E. Park at 4819, bell phone.

Gertrude Ederle To Feature Program At Sesqui-Centennial

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA. Sept. 3.—Gertrude Ederle, first of her sex to conquer the English channel, will make her debut before the American public at the sesqui-centennial swimming pool here this afternoon when she will sprint for 50 yards, paced by her sister Helen.

She will wear the togs she used in her famous channel swim and will swim the crawl stroke. There are seven events on the swimming porgram today. Miss Helen Wainright and Miss Aileen Riggin, famous women swimmers, will demonstrate various dives.

More than 10,000 persons greeted "Trudie" when she arrived here at the Broad street station. With her were Dudley Field Malone, who is managing her affairs; her sister, and Misses Wainright and Riggin.

Escorted by police and military aides of Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick, Miss Ederle visited the city hall where she was greeted by the mayor. She was taken to the exposition grounds where she was tendered an official reception.

Miss Ederle will give exhibitions at the sesqui pool every afternoon and night for a week.

Wright May Play For "Bucs" Today

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Glenn Wright shortstop, laid up some time ago with a lame ankle, may get into the game today against the Cubs. The ankle has undergone treatment by Bonesetter Reese. If Wright's ankle is in shape his presence will help the Pirates, now three games behind St. Louis.

Tagging All Bases

(International News Service)

Cheers and boos, moans and groans, jeers and flying fists accompanied the doubleheader played between the Cardinals and the Cubs in the latters' home park. More than 31,000 not particularly orderly fans saw the St. Louis team take both games, 9 to 1, and 2 to 0, while police reserves quelled the excitement. The shut-out victory featured Grover Alexander's first appearance against his former teammates in Chicago.

The Reds and Pirates played three and a half innings of ball, the score 3 to 0, favor of Cincinnati, and after that the deluge. The crucial game brought out one of the largest week day crowds in Cincinnati's history.

Blue and Bassler batted belligerently, aiding the Tigers to beat the Browns, 6 to 3. Each drove in three runs.

Rain prevented the playing of all other scheduled games in both leagues.

Pennant Races In Both Leagues

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Still traveling under a full head of steam, the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday won two games from the Chicago Cubs and this morning were two full games ahead of the Cincinnati Reds and three beyond the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Cards have 22 more games to play, the Reds 26 and the Pirates 30.

The Reds got the tough end of the breaks yesterday when their game with the Pirates was rained out after 3½ innings had been played. The Reds were in front, 3 to 0, at the time. Neither club, therefore, gained or lost ground.

The same was true of the American league contenders, the New York Yankees being halted by rain and the Cleveland Indians being off the schedule for the day. The Yanks, inconsequence, remained six games in front.

Hillsville Calls Off Series Games

The Hillsville team winners of the Twilight League informed Manager T. C. Richards of the Independents that the series scheduled to start last evening would have to be called off, due to the fact that boys were planning on meeting Ellwood City for the county championship.

The Hillsville-Independent series of three games was to have started Thursday night, but the message received here shortly before two o'clock yesterday afternoon "threw cold water on the proposition."

Miner Calls On President And Gets Arrested

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Leonard Clarence, 29, who gave his occupation as a miner and his residence as Scottdale, Pa., was under observation at the Gallinger hospital today following his appearance at the White House with a demand to see President Coolidge.

Clarence told attaches he had a message from Heaven, directing him to see Mr. Coolidge about a new method of settling the war debts.

Informed the President was on his vacation, Clarence seated himself in the executive offices and said he would wait until his return.

He was turned over to the police.

Salvation Army Board To Meet

Number of Important Matters Will Be Considered At This Time

A special meeting of the advisory board of the Salvation Army has been called for Monday evening. The place of meeting will be announced later. It is hoped that every member of the board can be in attendance at this meeting, as matters of importance will be up for consideration.

Senator McKinley Suffers Relapse

(International News Service)

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 3.—The condition of United States Senator William B. McKinley, critically ill at the Home Lawn sanitarium here, took a sudden turn for the worse this morning after the patient showed some improvement during the night.

Physicians announced the senator's temperature began mounting shortly after dawn, his respiration difficulties increased and he again lapsed into unconsciousness.

Hyperdermic injections for heart action were administered shortly before 9 o'clock. It was feared that the crisis had been reached and that death might be very near.

Liquor Violator Gets Two Years

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 3.—Paul Tassone, of Republic, near here, today was under sentence of two years in the Allegheny County Workhouse, and had been assessed a fine of $1,000 and costs, by Judge Thomas A. Hudson, on charges of violating the prohibitory laws.

Tassone, who was known as a leader in Republic political circles, was arrested by state police who raided his home. A second case against him is on file for the September term of court.

World's Largest And Wildest Place Scene Of Gold Rush

SYDNEY, Sept. 3.—Adventurers have found a new El Dorado in the South Seas.

According to authentic reports from Morobe (New Guinea) a rich gold strike has been made in wild mountainous country beyond Salimoa. Four centuries ago Alvaro de Saavedra and his hardy Spanish voyagers sailing from the western coast of Mexico coasted along the northern shores of New Guinea and gave to the country the name Isla del Oro (Island of Gold). It is claimed that for the first time the name is to justify itself.

Already shipments of gold from the new field have arrived at Sydney and outgoing vessels are carrying increased passenger lists. But men experienced in the country say that the story of the Salamona field will be the same as many others where nature has hidden her gold from men—a story of whitening bones and ill-rewarded effort.

The field is situated in a district which has more than 200 inches of rainfall a year. Malaria, dysentry and worst of all, the dreaded blackwater fever; play havoc with travelers who venture into its area. The natives are the fiercest in the whole of New Guinea and have not yet come under the spell of the white man's civilization.

Tools, stores, and even food every ounce of it have to be carried over a range of high mountains from the seaboard. The field lies but 15 miles from the nearest port as the bird flies but those 15 miles are converted into many more by the rough untamed nature of the country. It takes a fully laden native carrier—the only method of transport—seven or eight days to travel those few miles.

Such is the citadel in which the yellow god has fortified himself in this new El Dorado. Despite official warnings of the difficulties ahead, many Australian adventurers have already set out to woo fortune in this new world.

The field is in the Mandated Territory of New Guinea and the known rich auriferous belt in this country is said to be one of the reasons why Germany is so anxious for the return of this former colony.

Harvard Tackle In Red Grange's Job

(International News Service)

MEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 3.—Chicago has its "football" iceman,—Red Grange.

So has this city. He is Carl Lindner, Harvard tackle for the past two years.

Lindner, former Medford High athlete, keeps in condition by carrying ice for the Medford Ice Company. He believes there is no better exercise than "hauling ice up three stories to Mrs. Smith," or "pulling" the cakes onto the teams as they are loaded for delivery.

Young Lindner has no intention of emulating Red Grange, although he admits that he can see where the former University of Illinois star gained much from the hard work he put in while carrying ice to customers.

"I would not give anything in the form of conditioning preference over the work I do each summer to prepare for the opening of Harvard football practice," he declared. "It makes me feel as if I had practiced football all Summer when I join the squad. While others are fighting their hardest to become accustomed to the hard grind I am in the best of condition and so much ahead when it comes to the hardening exercises."

German Air Line To U. S. Soon Open

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A trans-Atlantic passenger-carrying airplane service between Germany and the United States, is a possibility within two years, the department of commerce announced today in a statement telling preparations by a German company to operate the proposed line.

The German concern already has taken steps to lay out an airway for the proposed service, the department stated. A trip of investigation to Reykjavik, Iceland, has been made by two German scientists, it announced, "for the purpose of studying wind currents and sun beams and their effect upon a future airplane route between Europe and the United States." Dr. Danmeyer and a Dr. Georgi, professors at Hamburg university, conducted the experiments.

The proposed air route would start at Hamburg and pass via Scapa Flow, to Faroe Islands, Reykjavik and Cape Farewell, Greenland, and would have New York as its ultimate destination," the department declared. "It is planned to send a large scientific expedition to Iceland next year for the purpose of investigating in detail all conditions which would be likely to affect the operation of airplanes over the contemplated route.

"Persons in Germany, interested in the project, state that under favorable circumstances the projected line may be opened by the beginning of 1928."

Find Rats, Toads In Bootleg Liquor

By SIMON NEIMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—More than 50 varieties of poisons, ranging from wood alcohols to ether, and including arsenic, nitro-benzine and iodine are to be found in bootleg liquor now on the market, according to F. E. Malloy, chief government chemist attached to the Pittsburgh prohibition headquarters.

In addition to the poisons which were more or less invisible to the purchaser, Malloy found rats, mice, lizards, toads and a variegated collection of insects in mash seized by federal agents and brought to him to be analyzed, a report submitted to him by Administrator John D. Pennington shows.

"The greater part of the moonshine produced today is made under unsanitary conditions allowing many poisonous substances to enter the product," Malloy said.

Many medicinal preparations are used by the bootleg fraternity for manufacture of their wares, the report shows. These preparations often contain deadly doses of arsenic, strychnine, tartar emetic, quinine, morphine, cocaine, prussic acid and practically any other poison which may be administered in liquid form.

Bank Of England To Be Remodeled

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street"—London's pet name for the headquarters of the Bank of England—is to have a wash after many years of grime.

The internal part of the bank building is being remodeled, and the outer walls are to be cleaned in order not to clash with the newer part now rising.

Experts are carrying out experiments with various cleaning preparations in order to make the "Old Lady's wash a thorough one.

Hunt Sharks In Southern Seas

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—A company has been formed here to capture sharks in the Southern seas and turn them into commercial products in the form of leather, oil, glue fertilizer and food.

Ships have been built equipped as factories where the sharks can be made ready for export within forty-eight hours after their capture.

One of the chief products are to the fins, which are highly prized as a table delicacy in some parts of the world.

NEW MACHINE WAKES YOU UP

New Contrivance Is Reported To Take Care Of Late Sleepers In London

Have hope, some of you brethren who are hard to wake in the morning.

Some of you disciples of Morpheus who pass out for the night when you go to sleep, and who are about as easily awakened in the morning as a hibernating bear.

Prof. Low, not Sing Hi Low, the eminent Chinese toothpick carver, whose name is in everybody's mouth, but Prof. A. M. Low of "deah ole Lunnon", where the truck drivers wear monocles, and the longshoremen knock off at three o'clock for a bit of tea, has invented a machine which wakes you up in the morning, and while it is waking you up makes your tea.

Ripping, Eh, What?

It's a ripping idea, eh, what, old thing? Fawncy now, having some silly machine making your tea, and when it's done pulling the covers back from your bed. It seems as though the thing is controlled by a clockwork mechanism which is connected to the tea caddy and the bed.

Following along in Prof. Low's wake is another inventor who has a machine which tips up the bed and drops you into a tub. Deucedly clever, old bean.

The alarm clock manufacturers will probably seek to have the inventions declared out of bounds or something, for with a couple of the machines mentioned, a fellow wouldn't need a clock.

Now if somebody would invent a machine for the married men which would wake the wife up in a good humor. But then, even science has its limitations.

Gary's Mansion Will Be Torn Down

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Judge Elbert Gary's palatial Fifth Avenue mansion is going to be torn down, but the head of the United States Steel Corporation will continue to have the same address he has had for many years—856 Fifth Avenue.

Judge Gary's home will be replaced by a 12-story apartment building. The steel head has engaged a suite of rooms in the projected building, which will have the same street number as the present private dwelling.

The transaction represents an investment of $11,800,000.

Business Outlook Brisk In Germany

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A continued current of optimism runs through the German business outlook, according to a cable dispatch to the department of commerce from Acting Commercial Attache Douglas Miller at Berlin.

Although a total of 1,645,000 persons were listed as "unemployed" on August 1, Miller reported that this number represented a decrease of 89,000 over the army of unemployed on July 1.

The expenditure of large sums of money by the government for construction work, it was said, accounted for the relief in unemployment. More public construction has been ordered, Miller added, thus promising additional relief.

Further indication of German industrial activity was seen by the commercial attache in the large increases in imports of raw materials.

While these importations resulted in an unfavorable trade balance against Germany for the month of June, Miller declared they indicated "greater activity in German industries".

The Swedish Riksdag is 500 years old this year, ranking among the oldest of existing parliamentiary institutions.

The right angle for approaching a difficult problem is the "try" angle.

Again—a Pennzoil lubricated car has smashed the transcontinental record—

AGAIN, this 100% pure Pennsylvania oil has proved itself a safe, sure lubricant in the most terrific test your brain can conjure up.

L. B. Miller, driving a Wills Sainte Claire roadster that had already covered well over 20,000 miles, left San Francisco at 9:00 P. M. Monday, August 23rd. 83 hours and 12 minutes later, he checked in at New York, having beaten the best previous record by 3 hours, 8 minutes.

Only 16 quarts of Pennzoil were consumed in the gruelling dash of 3368 miles. And when drained at the end of the run the Pennzoil was found still good—still ready for work.

Just two months ago Ab. Jenkins and Ray Peck, driving a Studebaker, set the old record—86 hours and 20 minutes. They too, trusted to Pennzoil's ability to endure the merciless test without breaking down.

If you want the best oil you can buy, use Pennzoil.

THE MIDDLE OF THE 19TH CENTURY BEGAN AN ERA OF INCREASED PROSPERITY AND THE FOUNDING OF MANY NEW AND IMPORTANT ENTERPRISES IN THE UNITED STATES. IN 1849 THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WAS ESTABLISHED.

AT A MUCH EARLIER DATE, LOCAL TRADE UNIONS HAD BEEN FORMED. IN 1850 THE PRINTERS FORMED THE FIRST NATIONAL LABOR ORGANIZATION.

THE TELEGRAPH, INVENTED BY MORSE AND FIRST SUCCESSFULLY USED IN 1844, WAS COMING INTO GENERAL USE AT THIS PERIOD. IN 1851 THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY WAS ESTABLISHED.

THE MOVEMENT FOR NATIONALLY ORGANIZED LABOR LED TO THE FORMING OF THE BROTHERHOOD OF LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS IN 1863.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Both the industrial and railroad stocks showed traces of unsettlement in the early trading today due to the withdrawal of speculative interest on the eve of the Labor Day holiday, which extends from the closing today until next Tuesday morning.

Selling pressure on the industrials and the most active of the high-priced railroad shares produced a slightly reactionary market in this period, with United States Steel selling close to 448 and General Motors at 207. But strong demand for the better grade of railroad stocks soon turned the tide in that section of the market, and exceptional buoyancy was noted in Chesapeake and Ohio, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Kay and Frisco.

Call money was in supply at 4½ per cent for loans which hold over until next Tuesday.

Horlick Prisoner Of Bolsheviks For Three Years; Escapes

Among radio fans, the A. & P. Gypsies are well known and thousands are acquainted with the name of Harry Horlick. Few know, however, that Horlick is a Russian who was a prisoner of the Bolsheviks in Russia for three years and escaped only after a determined struggle.

Monday evening the A. & P. Gypsies will resume their broadcasting and plan a winter of entertainment over the air.

Council To Make Several Views

Municipal Engineer Frank Miller today requested members of city council to view Liberty street, resurfacing having been completed. He also asked council to visit and view the new sewage disposal plant. He reported the plant is not yet entirely built.

Council also agreed to view the electric light situation Wednesday night.

Ministers To Have Meeting On Monday

First meeting of the fall of the Ministerial Association of New Castle, will be held Monday, September 6, at 10 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A.

A special invitation is extended to all new ministers of the city.

Engaged

Sir Henry Thornton, head of the Canadian national railways, was reported engaged to Miss Martha Watriss, twenty-five, a New York society girl.

PRISONERS ENTER PLEAS

Judge Hildebrand Passes Sentence On Number Of Prisoners Today

September term of court will be considerably shortened as the result of a number of pleas of guilty before Judge Hildebrand this morning, the pleas being presented by District Attorney J. Elder Bryan. Sentences were passed as follows:

Frank Amerson and John Kline, arrested for manufacturing liquor near Mt. Aair, were each fined $300 and costs and given one year to the Allegheny county workhouse.

Andy Konjak, assault and battery, $25 and costs and paroled for two years.

John Mateza, possessing liquor, $300 and costs and 18 months to the Allegheny county workhouse.

Jennie Mezzina, who was charged with larceny, was sent to the Huntingdon reformatory.

Carl Gramaldi, possessing liquor, was paroled for two years upon the payment of $100 and costs.

William Kohanshi, possessing liquor, paroled for three years upon the payment of $200 and costs.

Joe Galich of Bessemer, possessing liquor, $200 fine and costs and one year to the workhouse. Judge Hildebrand stated that if the fine is paid that he would entertain a petition for parole at the end of five months.

Peter Terpelowski, possessing liquor, paroled for two years upon the payment of $200 and costs.

William Taylor, felonious assault and battery, $25 and costs and not less than one year and six months, nor more than three years to the Western penitentiary.

James Steel, driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, $200 fine and costs and three months to the county jail.

J. Stokes, liquor charge, $500 fine and costs and one year to the Allegheny county workhouse.

Ralph Davis, colored of Wampum, entered a plea to possessing liquor, but claimed that while it was found in his place it did not belong to him. He was sent back to jail to await further investigation in his case.

Cases of Clyde Tuter and Frank Recruppio, were continued until a later date.

"Baron" Krupp

This man, claiming to be Baron von Krupp, of the German steel family, was held in Albuquerque, N. M., on a bad check charge. Police said he was an impostor.

Dancing has been prohibited for four weeks in the Oberfranken district of Germany so as to gather the harvest.

Window Washer Files Heart-Balm Suit For $75,000 In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—A broken heart, says Miss Anna Dobski, is a broken heart, whether it beats in the breast of a society butterfly or in that of a window washer.

By the same token, she says further, if Broadway beaux can be made to pay $75,000 or thereabouts, for loving 'em and leaving 'em, then one Albin Niemienski should be forced to pay likewise.

Albin thinks otherwise. In the first place, he points out, he is an oiler at the Pennsylvania railroad yards, where Miss Dobski massages window panes. Oilers, he says, don't carry $75,000 bills around in their overalls.

Anna charges that Albin whispered sweet nothings in her ear—and, more to the point, asked her to marry him. Then, she says, he up and married one Jennie Kaminska. So she now asks $75,000 cold cash to assuage her feelings.

Then too, she charges, there is the matter of a child, born to her, and for whom, she says, Albin pays $3 weekly as support.

The suit was on file in common pleas court here today. The suit is a matter of Pittsburgh court record.

LOCK IN CELL BALKS COPS

Couldn't Get Prisoner Out Of Jail Cell This Morning

Generally the worry of the police is to get and lock up the person wanted for the violation of some law. It's seldom, if ever, that it is a case of wanting to get a man out of jail and unable to do so, as far as the police are concerned.

But the unexpected and unusual does occur every now and then and it did happen at the police station this morning.

In cell No. 8 of the city lockup was Rudolph Nemcovsky, aged 19, brought back here from Youngstown last night to answer the charge of stealing the automobile of H. A. Moore of the Y. M. C. A., from the streets of this city on Wednesday night

When the officers went to get him out this morning, the key went in the lock all right, but the lock refused to release the bolt and the prisoner remained in the cell. The officers tried their luck for half an hour and then called in Jesse E. Pankratz, the well known lock expert of this city.

In a few minutes, he had discovered that some glass, had been placed in the lock and ground up among the tumblers and as a result they refused to drop and release the bolt.

A few minutes work with the proper tools and the cause was removed, the key worked and the prisoner walked forth, not to freedom but to an alderman's office, where he heard the charge made against him.

LARGE PUFF BALL FOUND AT VOLANT

One of the largest puff balls to be discovered in Lawrence county was brought to The News today by J. H. Stunkard, Volant, R. D. 3, where it is attracting considerable interest.

The ball, when measured, was 85 inches the long way and 30½ inches, the short way.

It is as large as the ordinary pumpkin.

According to Mr. Stunkard the puff ball when sliced and prepared is a delicacy to some people.

It is on display at The News.

Pass Two Ordinances

Council today passed finally two ordinances changing and fixing the grades in Fairmont avenue and Elizabeth streets, between Delaware and Audley avenues.

During courtship an ounce of flattery is worth half pound of chocolates.

COUNCIL MAY GRANT REQUEST

May Allow Land Company To Connect With City Sewer System

Council today indicated that the request of the Community Real Estate, owners of land in Neshannock township, to be allowed to connect with the city sewage system will be granted next week, councilmen today deciding that the proposition presented in a petition submitted by Attorney S. L. Clark to be one of the fairest the city has ever received. Action today was postponed on account of the absence of Councilman Louis Genkinger who attended the third class cities convention which closed at Hazelton yesterday.

According to Attorney Clark the Community Real Estate Company owns lands at the extremity of Highland avenue, in Neshannock township, the lots being in Audley, Delaware, Highland, Fairmont and Hazlecroft avenues.

He told council that the company contains provisions in contracts whereby all of the city building, sewage and zoning laws will be carried out and that it is the plan of the company to sell lots on a restricted basis.

He said that inasmuch as the land now vacant, is in the heart of a fine residential district, prospective purchasers desired to have all the conveniences of the city and the company can help build this section providing council allows sewer connections.

It was agreed and stipulated in the petition that the company or purchasers would pay their proportionate share of any enlargement of the city's sewage system.

Councilmen agreed that on the face of the petition, it is one of the fairest presented to the city and final action will be taken Tuesday.

Fights Please Fans

New Castle fans who journeyed to the Youngstown boxing bouts last night today placed their approval on the bouts.

They report the Mitchell-Lewis "go", one of the best ever staged in Youngstown.

Levine had the best of the early rounds and Mitchell wound up the fight, fresh and strong.

The Jimmie Jones-Sailor Friedman battle was not quite as good as the Mitchell-Friedman "go."

Johnny Hill stopped Red Taylor and Johnny Roberts banged George Harris for the award.

To Make Payments

Council today received a recommendation from City Engineer Miller that two firms receive payments for work done for the city. Council concurred in the recommendation and Woods & Golder will receive a second payment of $2,741.95, for paving Maitland street and Thorson company will draw a first payment of $1,849.97, for paving West Falls street.

Reports On Frontage

City engineer Miller today presented a report to council concerning the frontage of the National Radiator company's plan for connecting with the sanitary sewer system. The company has installed a new locker room, containing lavatories and wants to connect with the sewer. Council will take action on the request next week.

Signor mussolini has recently ordered the restoration of the Villa Napolena, which was the home of Napoleon during his exile in Elba. The villa once contained an extensive Napoleonic museum, collected by Prince Demidoff, husband of Mathilde Boneparte.

Cupid Settles Worcester Barber Feud When Rival Beauty Parlor Heads Wed

(International News Service)

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept 3. — Cupid has settled a business rivalry here. Ernest L. Trahan hung out his barber sign on Pleasant street and waited for the girls to come and get their hair bobbed.

Miss Jane A. Roche likewise hung out a sign just across the street telling Worcester that within it was a woman's beauty shop.

Trahan watched the girls enter the rival business place and Miss Roche looked to see other girls go into that Trahan shop.

Some sage once said that great minds think alike. An idea dawned on Trahan and it apparently also dawned on Miss Roche. Though rivals, they bowed pleasantly when they met.

The idea eventually found its way into words and the two shops were combined. Thus was born the Peacock Beauty Shop at No. 2 Foster street, with Trahan president and Miss Roche manager.

But this does not end the story Miss Roche stepped to the altar in St. Peter's church and became Mrs. Ernest L. Trahan.

Chamber Of Commerce Committee Takes Up Matter With Officials

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR NEW CASTLE

Other Matters Considered At Meeting Of C. Of C. Board Of Directors

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the board of directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce held at noon, Thursday, in the Elks' club, and presided over by President Fred L. Rentz, was an interesting one. Many matters of importance and benefit to the committee were taken up for consideration.

L. B. Round, chairman of the committee to work out ways and means of placing a sign at Mahoningtown, reported progress, and this work will be continued to the end that a proper sign be placed there.

Reports on several committee meetings held with officials of outside organizations concerning new industries for New Castle, were submitted. This work will be continued, and it is hoped additional industrial interests may be induced to locate here.

The matter of establishing an extensive credit rating bureau was again taken up, and it was reported that James D. Hays, manager of the Harrisburg Credit Exchange would be in New Castle during the week of September 20th, to discuss the matter with the members of the better business bureau of the New Castle Chamber, and others interested in credit matters.

The matter of congested traffic on the public square was considered and it was decided to have the members of our city council, mayor, and chief of police meet with the directors of the chamber at their next meeting to discuss this and other conditions.

The formation of a traffic club as a branch of the chamber was launched and work will be continued on this.

The chamber extended an invitation to the State Sabbath School Association through the chairman of the convention committee, Robert M. Strickler, to hold their 1927 convention in New Castle.

Vice-President James B. Foster, reported the forming of an automotive club of the chamber, at a meeting held on August 26 when A. C. McCoy was elected chairman. The holding of a meeting of the membership of the chamber during the month of October was authorized by the directors, and the president empowered to make plans for such a meeting, at which time, it is hoped to secure several nationally known speakers.

Advertised For Boy And Got An Army

The J. N. Euwer Company had occasion to use a boy or two for some light work for several days, and knowing that the News Classified Ads. are the greatest little boy-getters in Lawrence county, an advertisement was inserted one time.

Euwer's got the boy they wanted all right. They had their choice from a whole army of boys who responded to the ad. More than 100 were on hand at the time appointed.

Four Applications For Divorce Filed

Cruel Treatment And Desertion Are Grounds Upon Which Separation Is Asked

Mrs. Frances L. Murphy has filed an application for divorce from her husband, Harry O. Murphy, on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. They were married in May, 1922, and lived together until December, 1925.

Desertion is alleged in the application for divorce filed by Mary S. Kersey against Thomas C. Kersey. They were married in February, 1923, and lived together until October of the same year.

Hilda V. O'Rourke has filed an application for divorce from her husband, John E. O'Rourke, on the grounds of cruelty. They were married in May, 1924, and lived together until August, 1926.

Leonard Weir has filed an application for divorce from his wife, Margaret Weir, on the grounds of indignities. They were married in December, 1920, and lived together until September, 1925.

A definite project is under consideration for through railroad service between England and Russia, in which huge steam ferries would be used to carry trains across the North Sea and the Gulf of Finland. Swedish passenger trains already are carried across the Baltic from Sweden to Germany on such ferries.

A romantic chapter in the history of Labrador has been brought to a close by the sale to the Hudson's Bay Company of the trading posts which the Moravian Church has maintained since 1771 at their missionary stations along the bleak Arctic coastline.

Third Loop May Foment Warfare

Identity Of Third "Major League" Sponsors Not Yet Disclosed

TOOLE REFUSES TO JOIN LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Rumors of the organization of new baseball league to compete with the two major leagues, which have been recurring vaguely for several months in the various major league cities, have been renewed in New York.

Heretofore all efforts to ascertain the identity of the promoters and financial backers of the proposed organization were futile, but in the latest rumor the name of Tom O'Rourke, boxing promoter, was mentioned as the prospective president of the New York club and the proposed league.

O'Rourke confirmed the rumor that the league was in the process of formation, but he declined to say who is behind it.

Expects Eight Teams.

"We're going to have eight teams in the league," he said, "and we expect to be going by next year. There will be clubs in New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Cincinnati and in four International league towns. We tried to get John C. Toole, president of the International league, to joint us, but he didn't come, though, and now we expect to break up the International league.

"The New York club will have a stadium in Long Island City near the Plaza, and it will be the largest stadium in the world. The directors of the new league will hold a meeting in New York soon and everything will be announced."

WEALTHY WIDOW MARRIES ON DARE

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Because Mrs. Ruth Lewis Cosgrove, youthful widow of A. K. Cosgrove, millionaire coal operator who died last May, wouldn't take a dare, she is now Mrs. Rubin Weller, wife of the president of the English Town Developing company.

At 4 a. m. August 4 last, the couple were married at Portchester, N. Y., Mrs. Weller today admitted. They met for the first time August 3, she having been a widow three months.

Just before midnight Weller said: "Say, Ruth, I like you an awful lot. I dare you to marry me."

"I never take a dare," she answered. "Say when."

"Right now," replied Weller.

At dawn they located a town where they might procure a license and a judge to perform the ceremony. Mrs. Weller, a Johnstown (Pa.) girl, married Cosgrove nine years ago. About a year before his death they separated. Cosgrove left $1,000,000 and willed nearly half to his wife.

U. S. Navy airship Shenandoah wrecked in a storm while passing over Ava, O., and 14 of her crew killed, including Commander Lansdowne.

Cooperative Buying!

Ford dealers buying in a body purchased 50 car loads of tires from one of Akron's leading tire manufacturers. The order called for but two sizes, 30x3½ cord and 29x4.40 balloon, so naturally the prices were very low.

As the Universal Sales Co., are always trying to help their customers, they offer these guaranteed Firsts at greatly reduced prices.

30x3½ Cord $8.80.
29x4.40 Balloon $10.95.

CONFERENCE DATES FIXED

Shenango Presbyterial Sets Time And Place For Meetings

Time and place for conducting District Conferences of the Shenango Presbyterial was decided Thursday at the meeting of the executive committee of Presbyterial which convened in the Central Presbyterian church of this city.

The conferences will be held October 5-6-7-8 in the First Presbyterian church of Sharon, Princeton Presbyterian, First church of Ellwood City and the Clarksville Presbyterian church.

An invitation was received from the Wampum Presbyterian church to attend the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the church on October 14. An invitation was also received from the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church to attend the fifty second anniversary of the church which is being celebrated today.

At the morning session which opened at ten o'clock a religious program was carried out in charge of the president, Mrs. P. P. Fisher of Sharon, Pa.

A letter was read from the Board of the Presbyterial congratulating the ladies of the Shenango Presbyterial on the efficient work that had been done during the year. In the prize essay contest only Erie and Shenango Presbyterials had given a report.

The resignation of Mrs. McCullough as secretary of overseas hospital work was accepted and Mrs. Cutler was elected to fill the vacancy. Mrs. Travers as temperance secretary resigned also. Her place will be filled later. Mrs. Olive Emery was elected to be in charge of the work of the Westminster Guild made vacant by the resignation of Mrs. Ben Jenkins.

It was decided to support Miss Edith Williams, a missionary at Ganada, Ariz. Mrs. A. A. Young was elected secretary to write letters to missionaries.

PERHAPS HE WAS

In a long glistening Rolls Royce he glided up to the filling station, and called out, "Let's have some gas, please!"

"How much you want?" asked the man in overalls, eyeing the car admiringly. The motorist struck by a sudden thought, put a hand in his pocket. Thirty cents was all he had in his clothes.

"One gallon," said he.

The man in the overalls glanced over the big car again and then fixed the driver with a stare of utter disgust.

"One gallon!" he sneered; "watcher tryin' to do, wean it?"—From Everybody's Magazine.

The mystery about the average "mystery car" is how they keep the decrepit thing running.

A FACE CARD

The bishop, seated in a Pullman car, was absorbed in a book. The porter scrutinized him very carefully, and said:

" 'Scuse me, Senator, anythin' Ah kin do fo' yo', suh?"

The bishop replied in the negative.

The porter soon returned and asked:

"Shall Ah open the window, Govunah?"

"No, thanks."

A third excursion he ventured, "'Scuse me, Kuh-nel, kaint Ah brush you' off?" The bishop looked up.

"Listen, porter, he said. "I'm not a senator, or governor or colonel; nothing but a poor common, episcopal bishop."

"Yassah, Bishop; Ah jes' knowed yo' was one of dem face cawds."—From Everybody's Magazine.
